The angle of repose is a well known term in the science of mechanics, but, besides being used in purely theoretical problems, is taken into account by railroad and other engineers. Suppose that we take a brick and lay it on a board and then gradually raise one end of the board. There will be a certain angle reached in time where the brick will not remain at rest on the board, but will start to slide down.

This is termed the angle of repose of the brick on the board. It is at that point where the component of force due to gravity overcomes the resistance due to friction between the two surfaces. Therefore the angle depends entirely on the friction relation varies with the materials in contact. So the angle of repose of a brick on a pine board would be different than its angle of repose on an iron board, say.

Now for the application of this in ordinary life. When a railroad cut has to be made the sides have to be sufficiently slanting to keep the earth or clay from caving in. The same applies when a ditch is dug or when fortifications are built in time of war. The angle necessary for this is of course the angle of repose of the particular kind of material through which the cut is made as measured by itself on itself, as it contains millions of individual particles in contact. The angle in this instance is determined with utmost ease and simplicity. A pile of earth is shoveled into an open cylinder, packed down slightly, and the cylinder is then removed. Of course the pile immediately slumps down into a mound with slanting sides, the angle of which is the one wanted. This angle is somewhat smaller than the one that would be taken by compact earth and therefore allows a good margin of safety.

There are tables got out for the engineer to refer to, but it is always wiser to make a trial for every particular condition of the soil, for there are hardly two cuts made through exactly the same kinds of material in exactly the same condition.—Chicago Record-Herald.

BAIT FOR SARDINES.

Bretons Coax the Tiny Fish With Salted Eggs of the Cod.

Sardine fishing forms the chief industry of Brittany. In an average season the Brittany sardine fishermen catch 100,000,000 to 150,000,000 pounds of sardines, for which they receive from £500,000 to £600,000, while the shore industries dependent upon this fishery give employment to 20,000 other persons, mostly women and girls. So important is the sardine that in many communities in Brittany every person is directly or indirectly supported by it, and the failure of the fish to come means ruin, starvation and death to many people in the more isolated places.

Sardines are found on the coast of Brittany throughout the year, but flourish in greater abundance in summer and autumn. As many as 100,000 have been taken at one time in one net from one school. One remarkable feature of sardine fishing in Brittany is the enormous amount of bait which is used. The bait in general use is the salted eggs of the codfish, and it is estimated that the Breton fishermen pay £70,000 every year to Norway for cod roe for use as bait.

The casting of the bait, on the proper use of which a great deal of the success of the fishing depends, is always done by the captain of the boat, who stands on a little platform in the stern and while directing the movements of the boat and the manipulation of the net throws the bait to attract the fish to the surface and around the boat. When the fish are on one side of the net or on the other his next move is to cast the bait in such a way as to cause them to rush against the net and thus become gilled.—London Tit-Bits.

Deaf as an Adder.

The expression "deaf as an adder" is from the Psalms of David, where it appears in the following form: "Their poison is like the poison of serpents. They are like the deaf adder that stoppeth her ear, which will not hearken to the voice of charmers, charming ever so wisely." East Indian travelers tell us that there is a widely prevailing superstition in the east to the effect that both the viper and the asp stop their ears when the charmer is uttering his incantations or playing his music by turning one ear to the ground and twisting the point of the tail into the other.

His Favorite.

"Which is your favorite Wagnerian opera?" asked the musician.

"Lemme see," said Mr. Cumrox, appealing to his wife. "There are several that I never heard yet, aren't there?"

"Yes."

"Well, I reckon it's one of them."—Washington Star.

Poor Little Goose!

"Seems as if I can never find a decent quill in the house," growled the eighteenth century author.

"I think it would pay you to keep a goose," sharply retorted his wife.

"You mean that would be of some help to me, don't you?" chortled the brute.—Detroit Free Press.

Vulgar Ostentation.

Little Willie—Say, pa, what is vulgar ostenation? Pa—Vulgar ostenation, my son, is the display made by people who have more money to make it with than we have.—Chicago News.

TRAIN TIME SCHEDULES

Jersey Central and B. and O. Changes Went Into Effect Sunday.

THE RUNNING TIME IS CUT

New York-Phila. Service In Hour and 50 Minutes—Some Changes Affecting Plainfield.

The new time-table which went into effect Sunday on the New Jersey Central announces a number of changes in trains affecting Plainfield patrons of the road. Eastbound the 11:52 morning train will continue as a regular stop, but the 12:19 has been taken off. The 5:18 and 6:18 trains in the afternoon eastbound will not stop hereafter. Before they stopped to let off passengers from the west.

Other changes in the Eastbound trains are as follows.

The 7:46 now leaves at 7:39, the 8:11 now leaves at 8:12, and the 8:09 now leaves at 8:04, the 10:55 at 11:00, the 1:09 at 1:11, 3:09 at 3:11, the 4:43 at 4:40, the 6:45 at 6:40 and the 7:09 at 7:22. The westbound changes are as follows:

The 7:11 morning train to Flemington now leaves at 7:09, the 7:13 at 7:03, the 9:13 at 9:04, the 9:17 at 9:29, the 11:13 at 11:19, the 1:06 at 1:03 and the 1:39 afternoon train does not stop. The 2:14 leaves at 2:17, the 5:23 at 5:21 and the 6:44 now stops regularly Saturday nights while other nights it stops to pick up passengers for the west. The same hour service between Plainfield and Trenton is continued, in fact, it is worse than before. One cannot come to Plainfield in the afternoon between the 3:11 and the 7:22, and going west the service is not much better.

All of the Philadelphia-New York expresses which heretofore covered the distance in two hours, are now advertised to make the trip in one hour and fifty minutes from the foot of Liberty street to Broad street, Philadelphia.

CHIEF DOANE TELLS OF FIRE ESCAPES

Because of the fire in Newark on Saturday morning by which nearly thirty lives were sacrificed the attention of building inspectors all over the State has been called again to the factory law provisions and especially has this been done in this city. Chief Doane who is both building inspector and head of the fire department, says that the law as to providing fire escapes in this city has been fully complied with, but even so the type of escape is not one that he would say was perfect.

"One thing which mitigates against the work of the firemen when upper stories of buildings are ablaze is the enormous amount of bait which is used. The bait in general use is the salted eggs of the codfish, and it is estimated that the Breton fishermen pay £70,000 every year to Norway for cod roe for use as bait.

"The casting of the bait, on the proper use of which a great deal of the success of the fishing depends, is always done by the captain of the boat, who stands on a little platform in the stern and while directing the movements of the boat and the manipulation of the net throws the bait to attract the fish to the surface and around the boat. When the fish are on one side of the net or on the other his next move is to cast the bait in such a way as to cause them to rush against the net and thus become gilled.—London Tit-Bits.

Deaf as an Adder.

The expression "deaf as an adder" is from the Psalms of David, where it appears in the following form: "Their poison is like the poison of serpents. They are like the deaf adder that stoppeth her ear, which will not hearken to the voice of charmers, charming ever so wisely." East Indian travelers tell us that there is a widely prevailing superstition in the east to the effect that both the viper and the asp stop their ears when the charmer is uttering his incantations or playing his music by turning one ear to the ground and twisting the point of the tail into the other.

His Favorite.

"Which is your favorite Wagnerian opera?" asked the musician.

"Lemme see," said Mr. Cumrox, appealing to his wife. "There are several that I never heard yet, aren't there?"

"Yes."

"Well, I reckon it's one of them."—Washington Star.

Poor Little Goose!

"Seems as if I can never find a decent quill in the house," growled the eighteenth century author.

"I think it would pay you to keep a goose," sharply retorted his wife.

"You mean that would be of some help to me, don't you?" chortled the brute.—Detroit Free Press.

Vulgar Ostentation.

Little Willie—Say, pa, what is vulgar ostenation? Pa—Vulgar ostenation, my son, is the display made by people who have more money to make it with than we have.—Chicago News.

SAY FOWLER BOUGHT STRANG CAR PLANT

Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, has purchased a big controlling interest in the Strang Gas-Electric Car Company, in Garwood, according to reports at Westfield which have not been denied. The company is incorporated with a capital of $400,000 and has offices at 15 Wall street, New York.

Mr. Fowler has paid several visits to the works during the past few months. None of the officials at Westfield will talk on the matter.

According to the reports Congressman Fowler has bought nearly all of the outstanding stock and will practically own the concern. It is said that he intends making a complete reorganization.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will hold election of Grand lodge officers, next Friday night. The lodge has a candidate for the office of Grand outer guard and all members are asked to be in attendance.

Life Saving on Conditions.

A trestlee on "how to be kind, but cautious, might be written by a woman who played the part of good Samaritan in the *One Hundred and Third street subway station. Another wo*man had fainted. What she needed to bring her to in a hurry was smelling salts, but nobody had smelling salts.

"I think she has a vinaigrette of her own in that bag," said the Samaritan, "but in the absence of a policeman I am afraid to open it to find out."

Something that looked like a small bottle could be discerned through the meshes of the chain bag, and the crowd, valiantly shifting responsibility, said, "Go ahead and open it."

"On one condition I will," said the Samaritan. "I want three bystanders to watch me and sign a written statement that I have taken nothing from the bag but the vinaigrette. I know this town too well to take any chances on being accused of theft."

The oath was drawn up in a jiffy, three signatures were appended, the Samaritan opened the bag, found the vinaigrette and proceeded with restorative measures.—New York Times.

The Real "Sherlock Holmes."

It was a well known Edinburgh professor of medicine who, all unconsciously, gave Sir Arthur Conan Doyle the idea of "Sherlock Holmes," the most famous detective known in fiction. Sir Arthur studied under him as a medical student.

"Gentlemen," this professor would say to the students, "I am not quite sure whether this man is a cork cutter or a slater. I observe a slight hardening on one side of his forefinger and a little thickening on one side of his thumb, and that is sure sign that he is one or the other." Or to a patient he would say, "You are a soldier, and *you have served in Bermuda as a non*commissioned officer," and then, turning to the students, he would point out that the man came into the room without taking off his hat, as he would enter an orderly room; that his manner showed that he was a noncommissioned officer and that a rash he had on his forehead was known only in Bermuda.

A Fellow Feeling.

A burglar, entering softly by way of the window and looking around him, was rather disconcerted to find a large piece of paper on the table with the words "The Burglar" written on it in large letters. "Meant for me evidently," he said to himself and picked it up. This is what he read: "I know you are coming tonight—never mind how. If you will take away this parcel and lose it effectually you are welcome to what else you can find in this room." Wonderingly he opened the parcel, but at sight his face cleared and he understood. "Pore chap, pore chap!" he murmured feelingly. "I'll take 'em for 'im right enough and let 'im off easy too. I'm a father meself!" For the contents of the parcel were as follows: One toy trumpet, one drum (large), one toy cornet, one mandolin banjo, one musical box, one mouth organ, three tin whistles, one air gun.

First Jewelry Store.

It may interest women to know that the first jewelry store was started in the city of Cluny on about 2,000 years ago. Fine shell imitations of the period knew nothing of the fascination of diamonds, because diamonds were not in vogue at that B. C. period. Pearls and jade and coral and other unpolished mineral substances had to content them, and it is to make good the glitter of revieres and tiaras, the princes of Chang On employed artisans to fashion them the most wonderful gold and silver ornaments, which in themselves were far more costly than diamonds.

Well Answered.

"Do you see much difference between Americans and Englishmen?" a handsome, spoiled English guardsman is said to have asked a sparkling American girl newly arrived in London society.

"Oh, yes," was her quick reply. "Over there the men admire us; here we are expected to admire you."

*They say the astonished soldier al*most fell off his chair at the unexpectedness of it.

The Utilitarian.

"Hello, Johnny!" said the village blacksmith. "I hear your paw has gone into politics."

"Sure."

"How'd that happen?"

"Well, my uncle left him a silk hat and a Prince Albert coat in his will, and paw had to do something with them."—Washington Star.

The Remains.

After many unsuccessful attempts a little girl managed to spell "that" correctly. "Now," said her mother, "what remains after 't' is taken away?"

"The dirty cups and saucers?" was the reply.

Another Shock.

Bore—I've had an awful shock. I went for a long walk on Sunday morning with another man, and he committed suicide on Sunday evening. Bored (surprised)—Not until evening?

She Had Reason.

"Johnny, what is the meaning sought to be conveyed in the assertion, 'Freedom shrieked when Cosciusko fell?'"

"Freedom was prob'ly what he fell on, ma'am."—Houston Post.

A Comforting Map.

There is always the right kind of weather in some parts of the United States, according to the weather map.—Dayton News.

TWO MEMORIAL WINDOWS

Unveiled at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church Yesterday.

GIFTS OF MRS. F. G. MEAD.

The Church Has Received Many Other Beautiful and Costly Memorials Recently.

At the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian churchSunday morning, there were unveiled two windows in memory of Frederick Goodhue Mead, Lawrence Myers and Mrs. Laetitia M. Myers. They are the gifts of Mrs. Frederick G. Mead in memory of her husband and parents. The church has received other beautiful memorials in the great organ, the gift of Mrs. Charles Hyde, in memory of her husband, the communion table, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hartman, in memory of Mrs. Harman's father; the pulpit stalls are the gift of Miss May Cahoone in memory of her parents and the communion chairs, the gift of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Cahoone and at an earlier date the silver used in the communion service the gifts of many.

The windows unveiled yesterday represent the presentation of Jesus in the temple and contain in the upper lights the figures of Mary the figures of Mary, the child Jesus and the aged Simeon in the act of blessing. These windows are in the painted glass. They follow the traditions of Italian Gothic glass of North Italy. Chairs, the cathedral of Florence and churches in Tuscany and Umbria, made familiar through the writings of Ruskin and Symonds, contain the work of William of Marseilles, Alessandro Fiorentino, and Ugolina de Pisa. The bright hues of this part of the world resemble our own and furnish a good reason for our attention to their results in glass as the late John La Farge so well understood. These windows are painted and stained by hand work. The figures are the result of careful studies from the living model. The figure panel of Simeon shows him in an inner court of the temple. The panel has 480 pieces of glass. His robes show a pattern of orb and cross. The Madonna's garments are traditional, blue and red. Symbolic forms are shown in the wheat, pomegranate, ivy, the cross and the lily.

The smaller windows below the gallery contain other incidents connected with the theme of the main windows, namely, events in the childhood and youth of our Lord; the flight into Egypt and Jesus among the doctors in the temple. The windows are the work of Taber Sears, of Boston, and were unveiled yesterday in the presence of a large congregation, among whom were many friends and relatives of those in whose memory they were offered, the pastor reading the events in the life of Jesus and offering a prayer of dedication.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The Mayo, Ireland, News publishes an account of a child in Kilimagh Convent who is marked with the symbols of the Passion. It says:

"A girl, aged 13, so goes the story, has been a boarder in the convent for the past three or four years. She is an orphan, a favorite, affectionate child, and is a great favorite with the nuns.

"About three weeks ago one of the sisters heard the child screaming during the night, and when she questioned the girl she told her she had had a fearful dream, in which she saw Christ on the cross and a soldier driving a lance into his side. The nun comforted the child, who fell asleep.

"In the morning the child complained that her wrist and arms were sore. On examination it was found that her forearm was marked with a cross in red. Underneath the cross were the letters 'I. H. S.'

"A few days later there appeared below the letters a crown of thorns. Two or three days later there appeared above the cross letters surrounded by a scroll.

"A few days subsequently there appeared beneath the crown of thorns a chalice surmounted by a Host, sending forth rays in red; and after the same period there appeared a flower shaped drawing, near which was written the word 'Lily.'

"The marks extend from the wrist to the upper arm and have been examined by Father O'Hara, P. P., Kilimagh; Dr. Madden, Kilimagh, and many others.

"A remarkable feature of the occurrence is that at 3 p. m. on Friday the stigmata bled copiously. A careful inquiry is being instituted by the religious authorities, who while admitting the strikingly wonderful nature of the phenomena, refrain at present from any expression of opinion as to its origin.

"Dr. Madden and others who have seen the marks are quite positive that they are not self-inflicted."—London Cor. N. Y. Sun.

Good Guess.

Teacher—Mary succeeded Edward VI.; how, then, can you tell me who followed Mary?

Willie—Yes, sir; Mary's little lamb.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsoria line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

W. B. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law,
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary
$900
YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent and profitable home. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Mechanics Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL

DIED.

OSBAHR—At South Plainfield, N. J., November 26, 1910, Johnny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Osbahr, aged 7 years.

HYLER—On Monday, November 21, 1910, Sarah A., wife of the late William Hyler, aged 77 years.

WILLIAMS—On Monday, November 21, 1910, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, 904 West Front street, Jane R., wife of the late John Williams, aged 77 years.

DUNHAM—On Tuesday, November 22, 1910, Jacob C., son of Violetta and the late George Dunham, aged 49 years.

COGAN—On Wednesday, November 23, 1910, Thomas Cogan, aged 20 years.

NEAL—At his residence 556 West Front street, on Tuesday, November 29, 1910, Frank S., son of the late William H. and Rachel Neal, aged 57 years.

HILLMAN—On Sunday, November 27, 1910 Evelyn Moyes, daughter of Sarah and the late William H. Hillman, aged 18 years.

STRAPPE—In this city, Sunday, November 27, 1910, Margaret J. Strappe.

VIRGINIANS FOR WILSON FOR PRESIDENT OF U. S.

Enthusiastic Democrats at Norfolk, Va., organized a "Woodrow Wilson Club" Saturday night to boom the Governor-elect of New Jersey for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1912.

R. W. Shuttlee, a prominent lawyer, was elected president of the club. The following telegram was sent Mr. Wilson:

"A number of your admirers have this night organized a club in the city of Norfolk, Va., under the name of The Woodrow Wilson Club, to advocate you as the nominee of the Democratic party for President of the United States in 1912."

German Society Delegate.

Frank Lemke will represent the Gesang and Turn Verein, at the unveiling of the monument of Gen. von Steuben at Washington on December 7. The affair will be attended by thousands of Germans from all parts of the country.

A Fixture.

"I guess thearship is here to stay."

"Why so?"

"I see they have begun to quarrel as regards the advantages of the respective types."—Washington Herald.

CORNER-STONE CEREMONY

Impressive Service at St. Joseph's in Which Bishop Participates.

A STIRRING SERMON HEARD.

3,000 People Hear Father Dittrich's Eloquent Discourse—Bishop McFaul Has a Good Word For Gov.-Elect Wilson.

In the presence of a gathering numbering fully 3,000 people, the corner-stone of the new St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church at Jackson and Watchung avenues was placed in position by Bishop James A. McFaul, of Trenton, Thursday afternoon. The impressive ceremony was participated in by prominent priests of the two state dioceses and organizations and societies from nearby parishes. The ideal weather conditions permitted the program to be carried out in a highly successful manner.

The clergy and laicty interested in the exercises first assembled at the present church and marched to the north-east corner of the superstructure where the exercises took place. The bishop and his assistants marched about the improvised platform to confer the blessing upon the walls, the choir of St. Joseph's in the meantime singing, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," accompanied by a band. The corner-stone was then lifted into the niche prepared for it and as Bishop McFaul tapped it down, the choir and band rendered "Holy Ghost, We Praise Thy Name." At its conclusion, Rev. Father William A. Dittrich, of Bound Brook, stepped forward and delivered the ceremonial address. He was followed by the bishop, who spoke briefly, and terminated the ceremonies by conferring his blessing upon the gathering. The assemblage sang, "My Country 'Tis of Thee" as a finale.

Rev. Father Dittrich made a capital speaker for the occasion and his remarks were frequently interrupted by applause. At the beginning he paid a tribute to the members of St. Joseph's parish for their devotion to the church and declared the new church would stand as a monument to the zeal and energy of Rev. Father Miller, who has been tireless in his efforts to secure a more commodious house of worship for his people. Father Dittrich then launched into his theme, the defense of the American Catholic as a patriot and supporter of the government.

"The assertion has been made by people and organizations who should be classed as 'ignoramuses,'" the speaker said, "that the American Catholics cannot be good citizens because they owe allegiance to a foreign power. These calumnators forget that in this country the church and the state are entirely seperate and allegiance to the one is no wise interferes with the other."

Father Dittrich then traced the early history of America to show that its greatest explorers from Christopher Columbus down, were Catholics and carried the standard from coast to coast, settling with starvation and death to do it. He mentioned Ponce de Leon, Balboa, De Soto, La Salle, Marquette and Cortez as some of the men who had blazed the way for American civilization, to say nothing of the New England patriots. "And as if this is not sufficient proof of the loyalty of the Catholics," said Father Dittrich, "let me recite some facts about the War of the Rebellion. The American Catholic rushed in thousands to the defense of the stars and stripes and none were better fighters. What about such men as Gallant Phil Sheridan and the boys of the 69th regiment? Was it impossible for them to be loyal and give their hearts' blood for their flag because they had sworn allegiance to the Pope of Rome? It was not and neither is it today. The American Catholic glories in the right to worship as he chooses but never for a moment does he lose sight of the fact that he has sworn to stand by his flag and his government and is ready to lay down his life to do it as did the forefathers who rallied around Washington and died to strike a blow at tyranny and oppression."

In conclusion Father Dittrich declared in the history of Catholicity in North Whitehall, beginning with the celebration of the first mass in the Verdon homestead on Somerset street in 1852. From this humble beginning came St. Joseph's parish and the erection of the present church in 1865. Father Miller became pastor in 1893 and Father Dittrich was warm in his praise of his work. He urged the parishioners to remain loyal to him and when the new edifice is completed continue to make it a shining influence for good in the community as had characterized their faith in the past.

Bishop McFaul followed. Father Dittrich and gave an address replete with humor. He began by reciting a couple of anecdotes and unconsciously drifted into a discussion on the recent election of Dr. Woodrow Wilson as governor and expressed admiration of him as a man and an official. "And when the time comes," said the bishop, "everyone of you fellows here will vote for him as president." The remark occasioned a hearty cheer. Continuing Bishop McFaul said there was one thing about the Americas Catholics, comprising the Irish, the French, the Italians, the Slavs, the Poles and the Germans, and that is, they haven't learned race suicide. The Americans of the future are to be the descendants and they are providing a race of good people. In the south part of Trenton, where the Italians live, it is almost impossible to walk along the streets because of the children.

Continuing the bishop spoke of the corner-stone of the church as not alone representing the beginning of God's houses for the celebration of the mass but the devotion of a mother, as the Lad gives a son to the faith. The block was the gift of Mrs. Elizabeth McKeown Miller, of South Amboy, mother of Father Miller, and came from her birthplace, County Armagh, Ireland. He recalled the traditions that surrounded it and declared no better stone could have been secured. In conclusion he conferred his blessing.

At the close of the exercises the visiting clergy and invited guests adjourned to the basement of the present church, where supper as served by the Rosary Society, the arrangements being in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. A. E. Kenney, Mrs. James E. Bailey, Mrs. Alfred Seidel, Mrs. Cormack McDonough and Miss Mary Moran.

The fourth degree of the Knights of Columbus had charge of the visiting delegation and acted as escort from the North avenue station. The John III Sobriski Society, with 250 men and a band, escorted the bishop from the old church to the ceremony corner.

Robert McCormack was grand marshal for the day and James E. Bailey conducted the music.

The visiting priests who assisted in the exercises were: Bishop McFaul, of the diocese at Trenton; Mons. O'Grady, of St. Peter's, New Brunswick; and Rev. Fathers Florian of the Sacred Heart, Elizabeth, Petri of Atlantic City; Huelsebusch, of Newark; Duckgeischen, of Rahway; Smith, of Belleville; Carew, of Newark; Masterson and McEnneny, of Caldwell; Bogan and Hogan, of St. Mary's, Plainfield; Brady of South Amboy; Keuper, of New Brunswick; Corry, of Perth Amboy; O'Connor, of High Bridge; Dunphy, of Dunellen; Dietrich, of Bound Brook; Tyrrenn, of Paterson; Powers, Chncellor, of the Trenton Diocese; Hassett of St. Mary's Cathedral of Trenton; Scheer of Bound Brook; Baldwin, of Mt. Saint Mary's College, and, Miller, of St. Joseph's.

R. C. FINCH CROPPER IN HUNT CLUB CHASE

The riding members of the Watchung Hunt Club enjoyed one of the best hunts of the season, Thursday, meeting the hounds at the Baltusrol Golf Club at 10 o'clock. The scent was found on the Brown farm, and the run continued to the old Brass Kettle Inn, over exceedingly stiff and trappy country, where a check was held.

The scent was again picked up and the run continued through South Plains to Netherwood, where the "worry" was thrown to the bounds. A number of "ins-and-outs" were encountered, which caused some of the riders a little trouble. Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H., riding Tom Tobin, came a nasty cropper, which looked for a moment as if he might be badly injured, but fortunately he was only shaken up. W. H. Wildey, also came to grief, at the stiff four railer, with a broad ditch on the off-side, but his mount rider nor horse was injured. Those who finished were:

Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H.; Edward Finch, William Gilder, Hart S. Farlee, Harry A. Bourne, Paul Dietrich, Paul Harrison, Miss Mabel B. Hooley, Miss Gertrude Noe, Brown Rolston, Fred G. Alpers, W. H. Wildey, C. F. Wildey, Jr., Schuyler Casey, C. E. S. Bellows and Huntsman Henry Watkins.

STONE SQUARE LODGE GIVE RECEPTION AND DANCE.

Under the auspices of Stone Square Lodge, No. 38, F. & A. M., a full dress reception and dance was held in Saengerbund hall, last night. The affair in honor of the first year of the lodge was attended by an unusually large number of guests. The music was a feature, it was furnished by Prof. Vanderveer's full orchestra, of Elizabeth.

The floor committee comprised Chas. H. Thompson, chairman; J. C. Anderson and T. B. D. Dyett. The other committees were as follows: Arrangement, William H. Jones, chairman; James Walker, James C. Connett, Charles C. Irby, Eugene Johnson, W. H. Connett, A. S. Venable; reception—William A. Douglass, A. W. Brown, Charles Shelton; refreshments—S. H. Smith, chairman; Solen Maben, W. Carter, Charles Hurling, Charles White, G. Toomey, Eugene Coles. An invitation was extended to visiting lodges and several were present. At midnight supper was served.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dodwell, of Dunellen, announce the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor, to Charles W. Lake, of Little Falls.

ELK MEMBERS ENJOY A THANKSGIVING SOCIAL

Plainfield Lodge of Elks held an old-fashioned Thanksgiving social in the club rooms, Wednesday night. Over 200 members were in attendance and enjoyed an entertainment and appropriate refreshments.

Informality was the password for the evening but a set program kept everyone busy until midnight.

William E. MacClymont was master of ceremonies and called upon the lodge talent for contributions. Among those responding were Johnny Campbell, songs and piano solos, Marcus Hoyt and Smith and Jack Todd, vocal numbers William Smith, piano duets; the Elks' quartet composed of Harry Blimm, Elmer D. Cutting, William Smih and Jack Todd, vocal numbers and Fred Van Eps, banjo selections accompanied by Mr. MacClymont. In addition the following professionals appeared; Professor Charles Thompson, feats of magic; Seltzer "Waters," songs and stories; Stirlig and Wooods, sidewalk conversationalists and the Musical Forrests, banjo artists. At the close of the entertainment refreshments of creamed oysters, turkery sandwiches, celery and cranberry sauce were served.

The affair was arranged and in charge of a committee composed of William H. MacClymon, F. H. Firstbrook and Joseph Burd.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS ATTEND MEMORIAL MASS

According to its annual custom, Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, attended memorial service in St. Mary's church, Thursday morning. The members assembled in the lodge room and marched in a body, 150 strong.

The ceremony was a solemn high mass with Rev. Father Bogan as celebrant, Rev. Father Hogan, deacon, and Rev. Father Scola, subdeacon.

During the service, Rev. Father Bogan preached an appropriate sermon in which he referred to the Knights who had departed from earth and the obligations that rested upon those left behind. The custom of devoting one day in the year for a service in their memory he said, is one that is inspiring to all and might well be emulated everywhere.

*He also touched upon Thanks*giving Day and besought his hearers not to lose sight of the creator's beneficence and to give thanks for the blessings that are ever to be had.

The arrangements for the services were made by a committee composed of C. W. Fogarty, Bryan Hanrahan and Thomas Carty.

BASKETBALL GAMES ON COURTS OF Y. M. C. A.

Two good basketball games were played at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday, the first one between the Y. M. C. A. and Locust Mens teams. The former won easily by a score of 67 to 28. There was some fine playing throughout the game, especially on the part of the regular association team. The second game was between the second Business Men's team and Locust Grove, the former winning by a score of 12 to 4. The two contests were enjoyed by a large crowd of enthusiasts. The line-up of the teams was as follows;

Y. M. C. A.—Forwards, Aalholm and Collier; centre, Manley; guards, Miner and Taylor.

Business Men—Forwards, Smith, Doane ang Galloway; centre, Haupt; guards, Spicer, Davis and Shaw.

Goals—Aalholm, 12; Collier, 9; Manley, 2; Smith, 2; Naylor, 3; Smith, 5; Haupt, 5; Davis, 2; Shaw, 1. Foul goals—Aalholm, 1; Miner, 1; Naylor 3; Davis, 1; Galloway, 1. Referee—Whittaker. Timer and scorer—Dunning.

Business Men Seconds—Forwards, Doane and Smith; centre, Naylor; guards, Galloway and Shaw.

Locust Grove—Forwards, Goodman and Evans; centre, Brindle; guards, Loiser and Ulrich.

Goals—Doane, 2; Smith, 2; Naylor, 2; Loiser, 1. Foul goals—Loiser, 2.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES AT EPISCOPAL & R. C. CHURCHES.

Services in all the Episcopal churches Thursday were well attended especially that at Grace P. E., where Holy Communion was celebrated at 7:30 and at 10 o'clock morning prayer with an address by the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson. Impressive services were also noticed at the Church of the Holy Cross, St. Stephen's and Church of the Heavenly Rest.

At St. Mary's and St. Joseph's Catholic churches masses were said at several of the early morning hours. In the afternoon nearly all the communicants of both churches gathered in North Plainfield to witness the laying of the corner-stone of the new St. Joseph's church, corner of Watchung and Jackson avenues.

UNITED TO GIVE THANKS

Evangelical Flocks Held Their Customary Annual Service Thursday.

REV. MR. BROEK PREACHER.

Christianity the Prime Cause For America's Progress—Public Education Is An other Cause.

The union Thanksgiving service held at the First Baptist church, Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, was largely attended by the members of the various city churches, including all but the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, which held a service of its own at the same hour. Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, presided at the service and other pastors on the platform were Rev. Dr. J. Hamilton, Rev. J. W. Musson, Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, Rev. Edwin Shaw, Rev. C. S. Kemble, Rev. Ora J. Shoop, Rev. A. C. Nickerson and Rev. John Y. Broek, the last named being assigned to preach the sermon.

The chorus choir, under the direction of Howard M. Case, organist, rendered a special program of anthems in a pleasing manner. The service began wih an organ prelude, followed by the doxology and an invocation by Rev. Edwin Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. The choir then sang an anthem, "O, Come Let Us Worship," after which Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, read the President's thanksgiving proclamation.

Rev. J. W. Musson, of the Temple Baptist church, led in the responsive Scripture reading. The choir then sang another anthem, "Awake, Awake," which was followed with the reading of the Scripture lesson by Rev. A. C. Nickerson, of All Soul's church. This is the first service of this nature that Mr. Nickerson has taken a part. Rev. C. S. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, offered prayer, after which the offertory was sung, the collection being for the work of the Charity Organization Society.

Rev. Ora J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church, received the offering with a short prayer, after which the sermon was delivered by Rev. John Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church. He took his text from Psalms 103, second verse: "Bless the Lord O My Soul, and Forget Not All His Benefits." After impressing upon all the importance of always blessing the Lord and not forgetting even a single benefit, Mr. Broek gave a masterly discourse showing the growth and progress of the nation during the past 300 years, and how this country, being founded on Christianity, was still today a Christian nation. In part, Mr. Broek said:

"Plant an acorn and you get an oak, plant a cedar you get a cedar. If this country had been settled by the Pagans or Mohammedans it would have developed into Paganism and Mohammedanism. If a man goes to China he expects to find a government administered according to the religion of China. If you should go to Turkey, you would expect the Koran to be supreme and control all public action. On the same principle Christianity is firmly established in the foundation of our country.

"The object of our forefathers in coming to this country was to establish a place where a man could worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience. Our constitution and the general laws governing our land are based on Christianity and Christianity in general is the law of the land. Our courts have repeatedly so decided. Take for example the question of the Sabbath. Christianity forbids the transaction of all unnecessary labor or transaction of worldly business on the Sabbath. Throughout our entire land the Sabbath is no day as far as its legal aspect is concerned. No contract is binding, no debt collected, all public offices are closed and all offcial business is suspended.

"When our forefathers came to this country they subdued and possessed the land. They worshipped *God and His Son, Jesus, and ac*knowledged the Scripture to be the only rule of faith and practice. They introduced their religion in their families, their schools and colleges. They devoted themselves to Christianity. They built school houses and colleges, erected churches and their first work was to read the Bible. They acknowledged God in legislative assemblies and prescribed oaths to be taken in His name.

"What was then the real cause of our progress? Undoubtedly religious and political liberty should first be mentioned. Julia Ward Howe's magnificent lines, 'Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord,' gave a new meaning not only to the memorable struggle of the Civil War, but also to those memorable words of the Declaration of Independence.

"'We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by the creator with certain inalienable rights and that among them are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.' The principle is now established and the unfurled American flag stands for the equality of opportunity for every man, equality before the courts, equality before God.

"Education has been another cause of our progress. Education makes mastery and supremacy. Ask Germany what has made her the workshop of Europe, most progressive and powerful of the nations of the continent. She will point with pride to her schools and universities. Ask Japan the secret of her rise to political power, the secret of her unparalleled victories on land and sea. The answer comes back, all Japan has been to school. Education alone does not make a nation. Education alone can never save America. It could not save Greece and Rome and it did not save Spain. It did not save France.

"The idea coming down to us from our forefathers is that side by side the school and church should stand. Education and religion should be united. By the side of the text book of science and history should be the Bible, the Word of God. These two, Bible and school, rise now and forever, one and inseparable.

"Things seems to be changing in our country. In the process of time thousands have come among us who are not Christians. Some Jews, some infidels, some atheists. All are welcomed, all are admitted to equal rights and privileges. All are allowed to acquire property, to vote in every election, allowed to worship unmolested.

"Again this is another problem which our country is facing. About one million immigrants are entering our country each year, 20,000 a week. They are illiterate, unskilled in labor, often the scum of foreign countries. In a few years they will citizenship, they are attracted to our shores by the abundant prosperity and the liberty which they find in this country. In the face of this heritage of our forefathers and the institutions which they have left us, how shall we meet these problems? America's first duty is to herself. We are not afraid of the foreigner who is loyal to the cross of Christianity. We must Christianize them, it is true. But, I believe we will see need in this country for more men who are in the church of Jesus and in whose blood tingle principles laid down by our forefathers, to go into politics. We need Christian men in politics to give savor, zest and tone to our national life. Christian men. In fact in our land some of the best church men are most active in politics.

"The torch in the hand of the Statue of Liberty on Bedloe's Island, welcomes all to this land, but on the other hand she holds the fundamental laws and institutions of our land and proclaims 'Liberty Enlightening the World.'" We possess liberty because we honor the laws and institutions of this land. All foreigners are welcome to this land of ship as they please, but it is preposterous for any person to tell us as American citizens that we must renounce Christianity and reject our right to maintain the Christian school and Christian foundations of our land. We want none such in this country.

"God destined our country to be a Christian nation that she might be a blessing to the world. America is a Christian nation to make the world Christian. As we scan the pages of history we see the stately steppings of God. America has always been a world power from the very beginning.

"The influence of the stars and stripes is world-wide and whenever that flag is planted higher education, better citizenship, peace and prosperity reigns. The Philippines and Cuba are good examples of what can be accomplished by our Government under our flag. The stars and stripes have been successfully carried through the Revolutionary War, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and hosts of conflicts. Therefore, let us keep before us the patriotic spirit and believe that there is no better flag under which to be given teachings of Christian*ity than the flag we unfurl today.*"

The service closed with the singing of "America," and the benediction by Rev. Dr. Charles Hanson, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Cheerfulness and praise contrasted with the monotonous harping on the evils and the sins of the world was the theme of the sermon delivered by Rev. John Sheridan Zelie at the *Thanksgiving ser*vice in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Thursday morning. A large congregation, which included the members of the Congregational church, was present.

"We may think well of all our fellow-men," said Dr. Zelie, "but we do not look to them to write Psalms. Cheerfulness is as much to be desired in human life, and never before in the history of the world have we had such a comprehensive knowledge of the needs of humanity.

"It seems hard for a man to keep talking about something good, but that is what counts and accomplishes something. Some say, 'I could be happy if——,' but David said 'I am happy in the light of Thy countenance.'

"The church can put back into the work of the world that lost flavor of praise. Praising the Lord brings peace, happiness and contentment."

MISS STRYKER BRIDE OF ANDREW VANDERBEEK

Miss Annie E. Stryker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson DeWitt Stryker, of Monmouth Junction, and Anderw Vanderbeek, of North Plainfield, were married at noon, Thursday, *at the home of the bride's pa*rents, by Rev. Mr. Clark, pastor of the Reformed church, of Monmouth Junction. The affair was a quiet one, only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom being present.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Katheryn VanDyke Stryker, as bridesmaid, while William Steinmeyer, of New York city, was the best man. An informal reception followed the ceremony, after which the couple left on a short wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside at No. 3 Verdon street, the borough, the home of the groom.

Mrs. Vanderbeek was formerly a pupil nurse at the Muhlenberg Hospital Training School and during her residence in this city has been following her profession. Her sister, Miss Katheryn Stryker, is a graduate nurse and resides here. Mr. Vanderbeek has been a resident of this city for many years. He holds a responsible position with A. M. Griffen, the hardware merchant, where he has been employed for a number of years.

THEIR TWENTY-FIFTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A quiet celebration of the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Bolce took place Thursday at the home of Mrs. Bolce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey Blair, 306 East Second street. Mr. and Mrs. Bolce were married in this city by Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham on October 19, 1885, but owing to illness in the family last October, the celebration was postponed until yesterday.

Only members of the family were present, and the occasion was a happy one for all who gathered around the festive board.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Blair, of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. James Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bolce, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gorieli, all of Dunellen, and Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Anderson, formerly of Plainfield, now of Port Chester, N. Y.

Mr. and Ms. Bolce received several costly gifts from their relatives.

PRIVATE FUNERAL SERVICE FOR MRS. JANE R. WILLIAMS

The funeral service of Mrs. Jane R. Williams was held at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, 904 West Front street, and was private, only a few intimate friends of the family being present. Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, conducted a short service, reading the Scriptures, making a few remarks and offering an earnest prayer in which he remembered the afflicted members of the household in the sad hour of their bereavement.

There were a number of beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends. Mrs. Williams was a member of the Talmadge Memorial Reformed church, of Roxborough, Pa., for a great many years, and the burial took place in the family plot at the above place, Friday. Owing to the illness of both Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck they were unable to attend the interment.

ENDEAVORERS CELEBRATE THANKSGIVING DAY.

Christian Endeavorers to the number of over a hundred gathered *in the West End Tabernacle yester*day morning to listen to John T. Sproull, president of the State Christian Endeavor Union, who spoke on Thanksgiving Day and its meaning. *The opportunity of the Endeavor*ers to make the season of enjoyment one in which all could be made to participate as useful citizens and what it means to be a courageous and upright citizen.

Preparations are well under way for the big rally to take place on December 1. All the unions in the county will be represented by delegates to the Congress which will convene in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. A noted speaker has been engaged for that occasion.

Just Asking.

Bobby—I say, dad—

Dad—What is it now? Can't you let me have a minute's peace,

Bobby—I only wanted to ask you if a nearsighted man could have a far-away look in his eyes.—London Sketch.

Like a Man.

"Did Hardlucke bear his misfortune like a man?"

"Exactly like one. He blamed it all on his wife."

MARTINE AT MEN'S CLUB

Heavenly Rest Association Enjoys His Speech on Citizenship.

TELLS OF HIS EARLY LIFE.

Compares United States with Russia and Mexico—Good Stories at End of Feast.

James E. Martine was the speaker at the meeting on Wednesday evening of the Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest. Mr. Martine reviewed his long political life and recounted his history from the time of his arrival in Plainfield much to the delight of his large audience. He was introduced by President J. A. Maynard as the "next United States Senator from Union county," which brought forth prolonged applause and cheers.

Mr. Martine told the young men of the many vicissitudes which had beset him in his political life, including the many near-wins he has made in running for office and said *he believed that the time had arri*ved when he would at last reach the goal of his ambition despite the antagonism of his opponents.

Getting down to his subject, "Duties of Citizenship," Mr. Martine said that a citizen was an integral part of the government and as such ought to use his prerogative as a voter to aid in the betterment of all the conditions of the country that need treatment. He declared that Russia as compared with the United States was not progressing as great, but failed in advancing at the rate of other countries because of oppression of the people.

"Citizens of this country," said the farmer-orator," are of the highest type of men owing to our superior educational system. Just look at Mexico, only separated from us by a narrow strip of water and what do you find? Semi-barbarism, illiterates with a penchant for fighting each other such as no country on the face of the earth can duplicate. And they're at it today.

"Today, Spain, Portugal, England and other European powers are feeling the throb of Republican impulses. Portugal has dethroned her king; Spain is trembling in the balance and England is on the point of dissolving her Parliament. These happenings, whether designed or not, are throwing the world into an unsettled state and only France and the United States out of the great powers are enjoying absolute peace.

"We may with all sincerity say that the advancement of the great country of which you are the coming citizens, is due to the feeling of universal brotherhood of man which pervades from coast to coast and which animates us into doing great things."

Mr. Martine congratulated the men's association upon their splendid quarters and refreshments were served after the talk and during the feast Farmer Jim entertained the young men with some good stories. Two new members were added to the club roll.

CROSS-COUNTRY TOURNEY CLOSES P. C. C. SEASON

The active season was concluded at the Plainfield Country Club, Thursday, with a four-ball match, cross-country tournament, for Class A and B players, with prizes for the winning team in each class. As announced on Wednesday, the course comprised nine selected holes, as *follo*ws:

No. 1, first tee to fifth green; No. 2, sixth tee to eleventh green; No. 3, twelfth tee to eighth green; No. 4, ninth tee to fourth green; No. 5, fifth tee to sixth green; No. 6, tenth tee to twelfth green; No. 7, thirteenth tee to fifteenth green; No. 8, sixteenth tee to seventeenth green, must be played by way of sixteenth green; No. 9, eighteenth tee to second green.

In Class A, four teams were tied for first place with a net score of 45, and consequently necessitated a play-off, provided the players decide to determine the winner. In Class B, C. C. Church and C. C. Riggs were the winners with a net score of 45. There was a large field out and the play was greatly enjoyed. These scores were posted:

Class A—R. S. Rowland and M. J. Dumont, 51, 6—45; H. D. Hibbard and C. B. Morgan, 51, 6—45; L. G. Carman and A. M. Collens, 55, 10—45; S. H. Patterson and E. T. Wilson, 54, 9—45; D. H. Rowland and C. W. Burke, 58, 13—45; J. E. Erickson and E. P. Goodwin, 59, 10—49.

Class B—C. M. Church and C. C. Riggs, 61, 16—45; L. H. Gates and H. E. Moore, 68, 20—48; H. F. Fox and E. J. Patterson, 63, 15—48; George R. Clay and W. W. Kinsley, 67, 18—49; J. P. Stevens and N. C. Barnhart, 68, 21—47; C. W. King and G. F. Earl, 74, 17—57.

"Has she a good memory?"

"Splendid. She never has to ask what's trump in a card game."—Detroit Free Press.

A CHANNEL FLIGHT.

Trip From Paris to London in Clement-Bayard Dirigible Balloon Was Made in Record Breaking Time.

London—Another chapter was recently added to the history of aviation when the French dirigible balloon Clement-Bayard made the voyage from Compiegne, France, to London in the remarkable time of six hours, a journey requiring seven hours by the fastest express trains and boats. Compiegne is forty-five miles northeast of Paris.

This is also the first occasion on which a dirigible balloon has crossed the English channel.

The Clement-Bayard left Compiegne at 7:15 o'clock in the morning and reached London without a stop at about 1:15 in the afternoon. The passengers experienced no discomfort and were only troubled by the haze and mist in crossing the channel.

Start of the Clement-Bayard Airship.

A most uneventful voyage it was, with nothing to interrupt the smooth swinging motion of the balloon, which each hour averaged close to thirty-three miles. An altitude varying from 300 to 700 feet was maintained, and all along the flight over the land the aeronauts were cheered by thousands of spectators who had gathered at various points.

The dirigible carried M. Clement of the Clement-Bayard firm, in command; Baudry and Le Prince, steersmen; Sebatier, engineer and designer; two mechanics, and Arthur Philip De Cros, member of the British parliament, representing the British parliamentary aerial defense committee. Only these seven were aboard, although the airship can accommodate thirty-nine passengers in addition to the crew.

Occasional wind gusts caused some slight rocking of the balloon, but otherwise she proved steady. The French government provided three torpedo boat destroyers, which proved of great assistance in crossing the channel.

The whirring of the engines and propeller attracted the attention of crowds in the seaside resorts of Folkestone and other towns, and the balloon arrived over London just as the streets were filled with the usual Sunday crowds leaving the churches. The appearance of the monster over the housetops caused the people to wonder, and hundreds of thousands gathered to watch the aeronauts, who now experienced some trouble with the varying air currents and eddies. In this way they circled St. Paul's and the Tower bridge twice, dipped several times and flew close to the tops of buildings. They passed over the houses of parliament and along to Hyde park, where there was a wild scramble of spectators.

The dirigible landed safely after describing large descending circles, aided by a detachment of soldiers.

RING PROTECTS ALFONSO.

Precious Circlet Believed to Bring Joy Only to Worthy Spanish Monarchs and Disaster to All Others.

Madrid—King Alfonso's friends are asking if his majesty is actually under the protection of a magic ring of gold, diamonds and pearls that has played a sensational part in the life of the royal family for many years.

They recall the failure of the attempt to assassinate him on the day of his wedding and have grown used to stories of his daredevil horsemanship, such as dashing on horseback down the garden steps of the palace at La Granja and automobiling at breakneck speed.

And now, when danger lurks at every turn, with the overthrow of the monarchy threatened, he goes his gay and fun loving way, apparently with reckless disregard of consequences. His friends are beginning to think the king at least bears a charmed life.

The ring is supposed to bring long life and joy to worthy Spanish monarchs and disaster to every one else who comes by it. It was first presented by King Alfonso XII., the father of the present king, to his first consort, Queen Mercedes. She died a month afterward. The king then gave it to his sister Marie, who died a few days later. Next the king gave the ring to the grandmother of Mercedes, and she died within three months. Convinced that the ring was bewitched and fearing to bring further disaster to his family, Alfonso XII. placed it in his own jewel casket—and died before the year closed.

The king's second wife, who survived him, was unwilling to assume ownership of the ring and ordered it placed on the statue of the Virgin of Atocha, which stands in one of the Madrid parks. It has remained there for years unguarded, as safe as behind a fortress wall, for not a thief in Spain would touch it.

All the superstitious people of Spain —and they are numerous—believe that while its touch would mean death to them it possesses magic influence over the life of King Alfonso, its legal owner.

Heating Problems Solved

Sectional view of BOYNTON FURNACE, showing Patented square fire pot and Large ash pit.

HERE is the furnace that heats the house from first floor to the attic—makes no dust—little ash, and less bother. A BOYNTON "square pot" furnace will give summer temperature in zero weather, on a surprisingly small amount of coal. It's the square fire pot that does it. The never smothers out because the fire pot is full of ash and cinder. A turn of the BOYNTON ash cutting grate clears the fire completely. The BOYNTON has a generous square cornered ash pit, that you can shovel out clean. BOYNTON boilers—for house, school, or church heating—have this same economical fire pot. See your dealer about BOYNTON "square pot" furnaces and boilers.

BOYNTON "Square Pot" FURNACE

BOYNTON FURNACE COMPANY
27th St., Near Broadway, New York

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

Take a Look in our Window and you will be convinced that the latest in interior work—Aorochrome Washable Wall Decoration—is very handsome and effective.

Woolston & Buckle
Painters and Decorators
143 NORTH AVENUE.

THE REASON

I have the confidence of the public is because ' never take a contract at a figure too low to enable me to do the work properly and give permanent satisfaction to the customer. It may cost you a little more in the beginning, but a great deal less in the end.

James C. Hansen
Decorator, Paper Hanger & Painter
Dealer in Wall Paper, Paints, Oils, Glass, &c., &c.
141 East Front St. Tel. Call 846

M. WARREN
PAINTER, DECORATOR and PAPERHANGER
85 SOMERSET ST.,
opposite Sangerbund Hall

HOTEL WALDORF
EAST FRONT STREET
HENRY WINDHAM, Prop
Gottfried Kruger's Extra Pale Lager on draught. Imported Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Good accommodations and private Dining-Room.

G. J. WEINMAN
CAFE
213 Park Ave., Tel. 1527

HOTEL KENSINGTON
NORTH EAVENUE
UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT
HOUSE THOROUGHLY RENOVATED
SUNDAY DINNER From 12:30 to 2 P.M. 50c

THE Hotel IROQUOIS
Conducted on the European Plan
Park Ave. and Second St.

PARQUET & HARDWOOD FLOORS
Old Floors Refinished
GEO. E. WATT
150 North Ave. Tel. 333-w

Here Comes L. RICHARDS the old time buyer of all kinds of men's clothing. And will pay the highest prices. Call or write and will call. Phone 175-J.
17 Somerset St. 11 1 mos

EDUCATIONAL.

JOSEPH McINTYRE
[Director McIntyre Concerts]
Teacher of Singing and Piano
In PLAINFIELD MONDAYS and THURSDAYS
317 FRANKLIN PL. TEL. 513-J
New York Studio, Carnegie Hall
Personal Address—45 Convent Ave. (W. 130th St.) New York City

FIFTEENTH SEASON
MR. FREDERICK F. DAWES
Assistant Teacher with Mr. T. George Dudworth, 12 East 43th Street, New York
CLASSES FOR
Dancing and Polite Training
at SEMINARY HALL, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Commencing Tuesday, Oct. 11, 1910.

Advertisements
New York Herald,
World, Times, Sun, Journal, Telegram, American, Brooklyn Eagle
—and—
Newark Evening News
Received at
The Daily Press
AT REGULAR OFFICE RATES.

UNIFORMLY GOOD
Have you tried our Waldorf Canned Goods? We know you will like them—their flavor is so good, quality so high and yet prices so reasonable. Tomatoes, Peas, Beans, Asparagus, etc., all uniformly good Prompt, free deliveries.
W. W. DUNN
THE PARK GROCER
Door St. and Lincoln Pl

PLAINFIELD WINDOW CLEANING CO.
H. MEISTRICH, Prop.
Stores, Offices, Private Residences, New Buildings, Cleaned, Scrubbed and Oiled. Office, 145 East Front Street. Tel. 864-J

Central R. R. News Stands.
You can get it at the C. R. R. News Stands, both depots. Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Journal on sale at both stands. Philadelphia Morning Evening and Sunday Papers. Largest assortment of Magazines and Weekly Papers in the city. Back numbers procured on Weekly Papers. English Publications. Daily and Sunday Papers delivered. Orders left at stand receive prompt attent' Open Sundays

CHAS. KEIDERLING
FURNITURE PACKER.
Furniture, Trunks, Pictures, China, Glass and Bric-a-Brac Packed and Crated for Storage and Shipping. Storage Rooms to Let.
Tel. 559-J. 258 E. Front St.

L. Moraller & Son,
Watchmakers and Jewelers,
Watches, Clocks and Jewelry. Fine Watch and Clock Repairing a Specialty.
219 Park Ave., Plainfield, N.J.

KODAKS
Complete line of Photo Supplies.
Printing and Developing
At Doane's 115 Park Ave.

FRANK NEIDIG'S
LINCOLN MEAT MARKET
Fine Meats, Vegetables, Oysters and Heinz's "57."
94 Somerset St.
Telephone—781.

A. H. ENANDER
Sanitary Plumbing. Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for Sewer Connections.
125 WATCHUNG AVE.

John Lo Presti's
405 Watchung Avenue.
Come and try our Home-made ice Cream, delivered to any part of the city.
Fruit and Confectionery
Cigars and Tobacco
'Phone 440-J.

Kindling and Grate Wood
Cedar Posts and Bean Poles. Prompt deliveries. Orders received at 89 SOMERSET STREET.
JOHN MOBUS
P. O. Box 320. Telphone 19-F-42.

E. B. Maynard's
Tonsorial Parlors. Electrical Massage for face and hair. First-class work. Children's Hair Cutting a Specialty. Tel. No. 756-R.
141 NORTH AEVNUE.

McCULLOUGH'S STEAM MILL,
21 Stoiner Place, North Plainfield, N. J.
R. E. McCULLOUGH, Prop.
Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Turning, Scroll Sawing, Veneering and Mattresses cheerfully furnished.

COAL DEALERS.

JOS. HARRIGAN
OLD COMPANY'S LEHIGH COAL
929 South Avenue
Telephone 186.

TenEyck & Harris,
Dealers in
LEHIGH VALLEY COAL
Office: Baxter's Coal Store, 118 West Front Street Telephone 540-w.

GEORGE O. STEVENS
747 West Front St.

R. L. CLINE
(Successor to C. H. Riggs & Co.)
Best Quality Lehigh Coal
Yard and office 427 West Third St. Tel. 58

TenEyck & Kelley
Successors to Keeley Co.
COAL
741 SOUTH AVE. Tel. 1155

WALTER TEMPLE
SUCCESSOR TO RHEAUME.
COAL and WOOD
Office, 140 E. 4th St. Tel. 80-W
Yard, 674 So. 2d St. Tel. 231

Arrival and Departure of Mails

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.
June 19, 1910.

NEW YORK MAILS.
Arrive—5.30, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 10.40 a. m., 1.30, 2.30, 5.00, 5.30, 8.30 p. m., 12 midnight.
Close—5.30, 6.40, 8.00, 10.30, 11.50 a. m., 2.00, 2.50, 5.00, 7.20, 7.45, 9.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.
Arrive—6.40, 10.00 a. m., 12.30, 3.15 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—8.00 a. m., 12.35, 1.30, 4.30, 5.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA DIRECT.
Arrive—5.30, 6.00, 6.40, 11.45 a. m., 12.30, 2.30, 7.00 p. m.
Close—6.30, 9.00, 11.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 4.00, 5.50, 7.45 p. m.

THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR EAST.
Close—5.30 p. m. Has 1.19 p. m.

DIRECT THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR WEST.
Close—6.30, 11.30 a. m., 1.30, 5.00 and 7.45 p. m.

DIRECT SOUTHERN MAILS.
Close—6.30 a. m., 12.35, 3.50, 6.50, 7.45 and 9.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA, WEST OF EASTON.
Close—6.30 a. m., 12.35, 1.30, 5.50 p. m.

ELIZABETH, DIRECT.
Arrive—6.00, 8.40 a. m., 1.30, 2.30, 5.30 p. m.
Close—6.06, 9.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 4.50, 9.00 p. m.

NEWARK, DIRECT.
Arrive—6.00, 8.40 a. m., 1.30, 2.30, 5.30 p. m.
Close—6.30, 9.00, 9.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 4.50, 9.00 p. m.

DIRECT MAILS TO SEA SHORE RESORTS DURING SUMMER.
Close—8.30 a. m. and 1.30 p. m.

WATCHUNG.
Arrive—1.00, 6.45 p. m.
Close—9.00 a. m., 1.30 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.
Arrive—1.00 p. m.
Close—9.00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.
Office open from 10.00 to 10.30 a. m.
Mail closes at 5.15 p. m.

E. M. BIRD, P. M.

New Jersey Central

Trains Leave Plainfield.

For New York—2.16, 3.41, 5.41, 5.28, 6.00, 6.27, 7.25, 7.45, 8.45, 9.46, 7.46, 7.55, 8.00, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.42, 9.29, 9.59, 10.55, 11.55 a. m., 12.00, 12.10, 12.42, 1.06, 1.27, 2.20, 2.44, 3.09, 3.50, 4.12, 4.43, 5.03, 6.29, 6.45, 7.09, 7.35, 8.27, 8.27, 9.40, 10.15, 10.36, 11.39 p. m. Sunday—2.16, 3.41, 5.41, 6.45, 7.28, 7.58, 8.52, 9.34, 9.45, 10.32, 11.52 a. m., 12.45, 1.06, 2.42, 3.44, 4.29, 5.41, 6.36, 6.45, 8.13, 8.27, 8.36, 9.43, 10.28, 10.36 p. m.

For Somerville—5.36, 6.27, 6.55, 7.07, 7.24, 7.46, 8.11, 8.36, 8.45, 9.29, 9.59, 10.55 a. m., 12.00, 12.10, 12.42, 1.06, 1.27, 2.20, 2.44, 3.09, 3.50, 4.12, 4.43, 5.03, 6.29, 6.52, 7.27, 8.40 p. m. Sunday—7.22, 8.52, 9.34, 10.32 a. m., 12.40, 2.01, 2.41, 3.34, 4.29, 5.41, 6.36, 8.13, 8.27, 8.36 p. m.

For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—4.19, 8.17, 9.42, 11.23 a. m., 2.00, 3.28, 5.46 p. m. (Easton only). Sundays—6.46, 10.29 a. m., 2.58 5.46, 7.06 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—4.19, 9.42 a. m., 2.46 p. m. Sundays—6.46, 10.29 a. m., 5.46 p. m.

For Long Branch and Asbury Park, etc., 2.41, 5.11, 10.53 a. m. (12.42 Saturday only), 4.12, 4.42, 5.53, 8.27 p. m. Sundays—2.41, 8.52 a. m., 8.06, 8.18 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—2.41, 9.29 a. m. (8.53 Saturdays only), 1.27, 2.09, 4.12 p. m. Sundays—7.58 (Lakewood only), 9.45 a. m., 2.09 p. m.

For Philadelphia—7.12, 7.29, 8.45, 9.13, 10.43 a. m., 12.13, 12.47, 1.39, 3.14, 3.46, 5.13, 6.44, 7.42, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 1.20 night. Sundays—8.45, 9.52, 10.39, 10.43, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 1.44, 3.47, 4.50, 5.39, 6.44, 7.42, 8.50, 9.46, 10.54, 11.54 p. m., 1.20 night.

For Baltimore and Washington, Delfe—8.45, 10.43 a. m., 12.42, 2.45, 6.44, 7.42 p. m.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. W. C. HOPE, Gen. Pass. Agt.

Vail JEWELER AND OPTICIAN
103 Park Ave.,
calls your attention to his
Rimless Glasses.
They Look Good and You See Good.

Prominent Business Men whose judgment is reliable, are naming Trust Companies as either Sole Executors of their estates or as Co-Executors with individuals.

The special organization and permanent life enjoyed by the Trust Company makes it the ideal executor.

Come in and Talk it Over

Fidelity Trust Co.,
Newark N. J.,

will act in capacity of Trustee or Executor for YOUR estate.

THE COST DOES NOT EXCEED THAT OF INDIVIDUAL TRUSTEESHIP, AND MORE OFTEN IT IS LESS

THE OLD RELIABLE HOME FURNISHERS
COWPERTHWAIT AND VAN HORN CO.
73-75 MARKET STREET ESTAB. 1860 NEWARK N.J.

Choose the Gifts Early —and you're sure to choose wisely,

Choose the Gifts Here —and you're sure to choose well!

For 50 years, we have been supplying the holiday wants of thousands and thousands of folks—this year you will find us better equipped than ever to meet every requirement for thoroughly sensible, always reliable gifts, at prices not to be duplicated for lowness ! !

Something for EVERY member of the family.

For "HIM"		For "HER"
A Couch	$ 7.75 up	A Sewing Machine	$22.00 up
A Bookcase	13.00 up	A Princess Dresser	14.25 up
A Desk	12.50 up	A Rocker	1.95 up
An Easy Chair	10.25 up	A Carpet Sweeper	2.75 up
A Library Lamp	3.95 up	A Piano Stool	5.75 up
A Clock	3.25 up	A Writing Desk	5.50 up
A Framed Picture	1.95 up	A Brass Bed	9.95 up
A Chiffonier	15.00 up	A Dinner Set	5.75 up
An Office Rug	7.25 up	A Parlor Table	2.50 up
A Library Table	8.50 up	A Portland Range	19.00 up

They're Useful Gifts in EVERY Case— Proving Daily Reminders of the Giver.

CHARGE THEM & SETTLE UP IN A YEAR, OR A YEAR AND A HALF. or pay CASH—and take off 10 per cent.

SAVORY ROASTER

SAVORY PRIZE RECIPE BOOK WITH EVERY ROASTER

DELICIOUS "ECONOMY" DINNERS ARE A FEATURE

BETTER TASTING MEATS FOR LESS MONEY.

Gayle Hardware Co.,
General Hardware and Housefurnishings
Tel. 398 Front St. and Park Ave.

Advertise in The Daily Press

THE SNOW PEOPLE

A blizzard on the plains—I have seen one; I never wish to see another. All day that terrible whirl of snow. If it had ceased occasionally to give the brain a rest, it would not have been so hard to bear, but it never ceased. We saw only ourselves; there was nothing else to see but the boundless plain, and that was shut from our vision by the snow. We were prepared for the storm, having wagons, tents and the wherewithal to make hot coffee, and should have considered ourselves well off. We would have been had it not been for that terrible, never ceasing whirl.

The next morning the storm abated, and we moved on. About noon we came upon a sight to freeze the marrow in our bones—six heaps of snow, a body underneath each, the remains of a campfire in the center. We brushed the snow from the heaps and uncovered five men and a woman. The woman was wrapped in all the blankets that the party had possessed. I put a pocket mirror to the mouth of each person, and the woman alone responded, showing a faint film on the glass. We poured whisky down her throat and chafed her. She opened her eyes and in a short time could speak to us, but we waited till the next day for her story:

"We had horses and a wagon. I don't know where the horses are now. When we saw the storm coming we thought the first thing to do was to get firewood, but since there was none we broke up the wagon.

"I don't remember much of what happened. All I know is that now and again my husband came to me with a blanket. I closed my eyes to shut out the whirling snow that was making my brain sick, but they wouldn't let me keep them closed. They kept shaking me to keep me awake. I saw them putting on the fire the pieces of the wagon, but they used them sparingly.

"Presently I saw a flock of white wolves circling around us, and it seemed that the men were keeping up the fire to prevent their closing in and devouring us. Occasionally one of the men would seize a firebrand and hurl it at a wolf. They were circling, always circling, to fire our brains. I closed my eyes again, and when I opened them the wolves were gone, but something far more terrible had taken their places. Snow people were whirling where the wolves had whirled. Oh, how cold they looked out of their dreadful eyes! They hunted out the wolves were now trying to fire us.

"Every now and again one of the snow people would try to seize one of our men, but he would break up a firebrand, and that was enough. The snow man would withdraw. I saw one of our men stagger away from the fire. A snow woman took him and pressed her lips tight to his. Then she opened her arms, and he fell frozen stiff.

"After that the snow people circled nearer. I saw our men come and stand around me. You may think it was to protect me from the wind and the drift. No; it was to keep off the snow people. I was sitting by the fire, so that the men inclosed both me and the fire. I fancied the snow people wanted me, for they were all looking at me out of their icy eyes and beckoning to me. There were four of our men around me, and each seized a firebrand and advanced a few paces back to back. The snow people could not stand the heat of the brands and fled with a shriek.

"So wild, so weird, so terrible, was the shriek that I closed my eyes and put my hands to my ears. When I looked again the men had lowered the brands, and the snow people were whirling more frantically than ever.

"A horrible old snow hag beckoned to one of the men, leering at him. He went toward her. She seized him, and I saw him whirled off up into the sky. Another man and I and a horrible song—no such heavenly melody have I ever heard—firing her eyes on one of the men who were left. He, too, succumbed and went toward her. She folded him in an embrace, and I saw that he had been frozen. Another of our men went a short distance from the fire to bring some spokes to burn. A snow man seized him, touched his heart with his icy finger, and he fell, like the rest, without finding a joint.

"From this time the snow people seemed changed. They were no longer horrible. They were beautiful. The men's apparel seemed to glisten like icicles in the sun, the women's dresses trailed far behind them, each a myriad of snowflakes. I saw now only one of our men. He came to me and threw a blanket over me. He was my husband. Then he stooped and kissed me. I saw him soon after, standing by the fire, which was now nearly out. The snow people were watching it, and I knew that when the last ember died the end would come. Nearer they came till I could feel their breaths on my face, though it seemed to me that I had been in a fever and they were cooling me. Then I saw them gather around my husband, and he fell into their arms.

"This is all I remember till I felt something warm in my throat and, opening my eyes, I saw you people standing over me."

It was plain that we had snatched the woman from death by freezing. We took her with us and eventually gave her up to her friends. Whether her brain recovered from the effects of her dreadful experience I have never learned.

F. A. MITCHEL.

SUCCESS CORNER-STONES

Republic's Debt to the Bible and the Public School System.

REV. MR. MAGUIRE'S DISCOURSE

The Foundation of Good Character Is Jesus Christ the Corner Stone He Declares to Jr. O. U. A. M.

The Park Avenue Baptist church was crowded to its capacity Sunday night and a hundred people were unable to obtain admittance to hear Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, who preached a special sermon to the members of the Jr. O. U. A. M., who turned out nearly 200 strong, uniformed and with their standards of flags. The topic of Mr. Maguire's sermon was "Character Building" and it was probably the strongest address this minister has delivered in this city.

Preceding the sermon Mr. Maguire said that he did not intend to eulogize the order to which his remarks were to be addressed, but that he would preach a sermon to the men whom he welcomed to his church. He praised the men for the objects and stand taken by them in relation to the Bible and told them that the Bible was the secret of success of this country and credited the Puritans with having brought the great Book to this land of free religious belief and declared it to be the revelation of God.

"Our public schools," said the speaker, "form one of the corner-stones of this great republic. It is there that good Americans are made and any man who accepts the protection of our glorious flag and then refuses to swear allegiance to it should be deported at once. When a young man sees that he is not building a character, which he believes to be the right kind and then seeks advice from one who can give him what he needs is worthy of our profound respect and admiration, for he is hearing the Kingdom of God.'

"Character is the enduring thing —it is eternal. We are building for eternity, either for weal or woe. May God grant that we may build well. The Church of the living God is the only organization that is benefitting the whole world today. Her arms are open to all mankind. She rejects none. The order you represent, in fact all the orders of a similar character, have, like the candle, in the end burned in the socket, flickered and gone out, but the Church of the living God will go on forever. The birth of Jesus is the Greenwich from which all the longitude of the world is dated. The agnostic, atheist and Unitarian has to acknowledge this every time he writes a letter or a check.

"The foundation, therefore, of good character is Jesus Christ, the cornerstone. Next to this must come the church of the living God. It is something and accomplish it in his life. A man without a creed is a purposeless one. I tell you Jr. O. U. A. M. men that you, with your splendid purposes, have, the Church at your back. You are doing a noble work in keeping the Bible in the public schools.

"Exemplification of your belief is the next essential to success in building character and this is obtained by being honest in your creed, consistent in your lives and clean in your speech. If you are inconsistent your creed is worthless. Christ lived the life He preached. The pattern is there for you to follow. You cannot build character on whisky. This stuff has its place, but its place is hell. It has caused more unsuccessful attempts at character building than any other known element and caused more sorrow and misery in the world than can ever be recompensed for.

"The final element in the upbuilding of character is co-operation with God. In Him all these elements are combined and through Him the strength of a purposeful life can be brought to a magnificent fruition. Therefore, it behooves all of us—we are all frail—to tie up to the great God of the universe whose omnipotent hand can uphold and whose mercy can be had and whose power through the Son can save."

Special music was sung by the choir, William Holmes, the choirmaster rendering "Hear My Cry, O Lord," and the chorus singing an anthem at the offertory. Next Sunday evening Mr. Maguire will preach in the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York.

CHILD FALLS 30 FEET, SUSTAINS BROKEN BONE

Falling from a third-story window of her home, Helen Brighton, six years old, of 112 Norfolk street, Newark, Saturday escaped with a broken collar-bone and a few contusions. The little one was removed to the Newark City Hospital.

The girl was leaning out of the window and lost her balance. She fell thirty feet, landing on the sidewalk.

Dr. Winter Locates Here.

Dr. Howard E. Winter, veterinarian, comes from Red Bank to practise his profession here. His offices are at the Plainfield Cab Company's building in East Second street.

HUNT CLUB MEMBERS ENJOY EXCITING CHASE

The Watchung Hunt Club enjoyed a lively and exciting chase after the hounds on Saturday. The cool, brisk air, together with the fast pace set by the hounds, proved a delight to the riders. The hounds were met at the Colonia Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the scent led back of Perth Amboy, over a rolling country to Iselin, where a check was held. Continuing from that point, the run led to Mt. Pleasant, through Oak Tree to Park avenue, where the "worry" was thrown to the anxiously waiting hounds as a reward for the lively chase.

Charles F. Wildey, Jr., came a cropper at a bog and Edward Finch went off at a fence, but neither rider was injured and finished well up among the leaders. The distance covered was about fifteen miles, the longest on any single hunt this season.

Those who finished were as follows:

Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H.; Edward Finch, Harryr A. Bourne, Paul Dietrich, Paul Harrison, Fred G. Alpers, W. H. Wildey, C. F. Wildey, Jr., Schuyler Casey, Hart S. Farlee, George Glider, C. E. S. Bellows and Huntsman Henry Watkins.

FIFTY OFFICES TO BE FILLED BY GOVERNOR

Governor Fort left New Jersey Sunday evening for ten days, but the weekly gathering of politicians at the State House in Trenton tomorrow will not be less interesting than usual. Governor Fort's trip will be the basis for much gossip, as he was accompanied by Dr. Woodrow Wilson, Governor-elect, and while they are away and free from interruption they will discuss many State affairs. One of the things which politicians say they will settle is the matter of appointments of two judges of the lay branch of the Court of Errors and Appeals to fill vacancies.

The Governor and the Governor-elect are going to the annual convention of Governors, which opens this week in Frankfort, Ky. Both will be among the speakers, Dr. Wilson having been selected to make the opening address.

Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, President of the State Senate, will be the acting Governor until one week from Tuesday. He is popular and will receive the politicians from all parts of the State tomorrow in the executive offices. What Governor Fort will say in his last message to the Legislature and the character of the inaugural address of Dr. Wilson are subjects sharing attention with the United States Senator contest. James Smith, Jr., of Newark, has not announced whether or not he will be a candidate to succeed Senator John Kean.

There is said to be trouble in the Hudson county Legislative delegation of thirteen votes. Several of the men announced after election that they would not support Mr. Smith, but would abide by the primary expression of a choice for the office. It has been said that Mr. Smith could count on all the Hudson county votes. This assertion was evidently made without authority and is being resented by the Hudson men.

No one has yet been able to ascertain whether Dr. Wilson will take a hand in the Senatorial contest. He is said to have had conferences with Robert Davis, of Hudson county, and with others, but no one will say on the subject of the meeting. There is as much interest in what Dr. Wilson will do in the matter as in the contest itself.

It is expected that definite arrangements will be made tomorrow for conferences of Democratic and Republican members of the Legislature, to plan organization for the winter session and the distribution of half a hundred or more offices.

HERE AND THERE.

There is displayed in Armstrong's drug store window some trees specimens of apples grown by Henry C. Drake and Walter B. Rittenhouse, formerly of Plainfield, on the western slope of the Rocky Mountains at an altitude of over 6,000 feet above sea level, by irrigation. The Plainfielders have 2,500 peach trees and 1,500 apple trees and are meeting with great success in raising the fruit. The trees are sprayed before the blossoms appear and the peaches are sprayed after the fruit begins to form. They are thinned out to four inches apart. About 9,300 boxes were harvested, the fruit ripening so fast that about 3,000 boxes were lost. The fruit was sent to Denver. Three tents, 60x80 were used for packing and packing. Eight people packed 2,500 boxes in four days. One day a wind storm came up and blew the tents to shreds. The fruit has to be picked green. It ripens over night. The apples are sprayed the same as peaches. They are being harvested now and sent to Chicago. The trees are six years old, and full bearing from ten to twelve years.

DEATH FOLLOWS ESCAPE

Mrs Morris Geary Expires Suddenly After Daughter Emerges From Fire.

YOUNG WOMAN A HEROINE.

Tried to Put Out Flames That Caused Fatal Conflagration—Mother Dies From Heart Failure.

Within a few hours after her daughter had proven herself a heroine in the Newark holocaust, Saturday morning, Mrs. Morris Geary, of South Plainfield, dropped dead in the kitchen of her home. She was in the act of mixing dough for pie crust when she suddenly threw up her hands and fell lifeless to the floor. A physician was summoned but there was nothing for him to do.

One of Mrs. Geary's daughters, Miss Mary Geary, has been living in Newark and was employed by one of the concerns in the factory building at Orange and High streets, where the fire broke out costing twenty-three lives. When the flames first started, Miss Geary and another young woman made a desperate attempt to put them out by throwing sand on them. Failing in this because of the great headway made by the blaze, they rushed to a window and signaled a fireman across the street. Miss Geary then sought safety in flight and was one of the fortunate ones to make an escape to the street. She was slightly burned about the face and hands in her fight against the incipient blaze. The reports in all the papers since have given Miss Geary great praise for her rare presence of mind.

"At that time the stairway was clear," said Miss Geary. "We could hear girls screaming on the floor above, but I guess the smoke in the stairway made them think that the whole building was ablaze. Miss Fraschlin and I reached the street before the firemen arrived and stood watching the girls we had known for years leaping to death. Miss Hang, the forewoman of the Wolff factory, stood at one of the windows with her hair and her dress in flames. We called to her to wait until a ladder could be raised, but she did not heed us and plunged to death. Another girl was in the window and I thought for a moment that she would be rescued, but she, too, lost her courage and jumped. She seemed to have presence of mind enough to drag them away."

Mrs. Geary was unaware of her daughter's peril and escape as the latter was withholding information until after the death of South Plainfield. It was first reported that the mother had been informed and that death resulted from the shock.

Mrs. Geary had resided in South Plainfield for many years and was well known in the city. Her maiden name was Margaret Hughes. Besides her husband she is survived by seven children. They are Mrs. H. P. Grimm, of Newark; Miss Mary Geary who lived with her aunt, and Morris, John, Edward, Margaret and Josephine, all living at South Plainfield.

There are also two brothers, John Hughes, of Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, and Edward Hughes, of Long Branch.

FORMER LOCAL WOMAN VICTIM OF NEWARK FIRE

Included in the twenty-three victims of the factory building fire and panic in Newark, Saturday, was Mrs. Mary Rosen, until three months ago a resident of North Plainfield. She was employed in the undergarment department of the Wolf Company and was one of the women who leaped from the upper floors to escape the flames. She was removed to the Newark city hospital with crushed and broken limbs and died soon after reaching there. The body was identified by a friend, Mrs. Dentz, of Ridgewood avenue, Newark.

Mrs. Rosen was the wife of Moses Rosen, a cigar-maker, who was employed by Fred Becker, of East Front street. The couple then lived on Fritz place. About a year ago Mr. Rosen secured the position as janitor of Saengerbund Hall and they made their home in the building. Mrs. Rosen acting as janitress. They remained until a few months ago, when the husband secured a better place in Newark and they removed to that city. Mrs. Rosen had no children, so went to work for the Wolf Company. She was thirty-five years old. The remains of her position in Saengerbund Hall had a wide local acquaintance.

Plainfield's Loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., of 59 Jackson avenue, go Thursday to Newark, where they will reside for the winter at The Velde, 17 East Park street, in order that Mr. Clark may be nearer his place of business. They will return to Plainfield next April 1. Mr. Clark was for many years a valued member of the borough Council and later one of the hardest workers in the Board of Education.

CRAIG A. MARSH'S WILL

The Bulk of the Estate is Bequeathed to His Widow.

RELATIVES ARE REMEMBERED.

Orville T. Waring Is Named As Executor—The Instrument Was Drawn In 1905, When His Mother Was Living.

The will of the late Corporation Counsel Craig Adams Marsh has been admitted to probate in the office of Surrogate Parrot at Elizabeth. There are no public bequests, all of the property, both real and personal, being left to relatives. Orville T. Waring, of Park avenue, is named as the sole executor of the will, and in case of his death, provision is made for the Plainfield Trust Company to act in his place. The will was made March 28, 1905, and the witnesses to it were Miss Ada VanHorn and Nelson Runyon.

Mrs. Kate Marsh, mother of Mr. Marsh, is left the income of $10,000 for life and the executor of the will is ordered to pay all or such parts of the sum of $10,000 as may be required, in addition to her own means of maintenance. His mother has died since the will was drawn.

Miss Ada Marsh, sister of Mr. Marsh, is given $5,000 absolute, and Mrs. Marion Packard Marsh, sister-in-law of Mr. Marsh, is given $7,500 and in addition thereto any and all indebtedness of the brother to the deceased that was owing at the time of his death. In explanation of this he will states: "This bequest is made to Mrs. Marion Packard Marsh rather than to my brother, not for want of love or respect of him, for there has always been a reason which my brother will understand."

Marion Grace Marsh, the testator's niece, receives $2,500 payable on her twenty-first birthday.

The rest of the estate, both real and personal, is left to the testator's wife. The total amount of the estate is unknown but is supposed to be in the neighborhood of $300,000.

HOW UNION OFFICER'S SWORD WAS RETURNED

Learning that the owner of a sword he had captured during the second day's battle of Bull Run was J. H. Bradt, of Chicago, Major Samuel E. Pendleton, of Elizabeth, who was at the time senior first lieutenant of the Williamsburg (Va.) Light Artillery, recently returned the prize. On the sword was engraved, "Presented by the Syracuse Citizens' Corps to Lieutenant James H. Bradt."

A few months ago, Major Pendleton, while conversing with James H. Moore, of Elizabeth, happened to mention the circumstance of the capture of the sword, when the latter told him he was acquainted with the Bradt family, of Syracuse, N. Y., with which he was sure the owner of the sword was connected. Major Pendleton, who had long sought the owner, at once wrote the former Union officer at Syracuse, and shortly after received an interesting communication.

"It was in the war from White House to Asid Oaks (or Seven Pines), and in the seven days' retreat to Harrison's Landing, on James River," he wrote. "From there to Washington—absence to Plainfield. At the battle of Bull Run, where General Phil Kearny was killed, I was wounded and taken prisoner, and went to Libby Prison. There is where I lost my arms, you or they taking them all.

"I send you, my friend, some papers, so you can see I am all right. You will please return papers, as I wish to keep them. I could send copies of them, but the original is better. Hoping to know you better in the future."

The "papers," satisfying Major Pendleton that his correspondent had been duly volunteered by Governor Morgan as first lieutenant of the 101st New York Volunteers, he promptly forwarded the sword and Bradt wrote to express to his given address in Chicago, with a letter expressing the delight it gave him to do so.

Mr. Bradt then sent Major Pendleton another letter thanking him for the sword.

Plainfielders at Yale.

Among the 109 students from New Jersey at Yale, are Guion Hillman Fountain, special, and Thomas Mills Day, 3d, both of this city. The latter was awarded the entrance prize of $25 given by the Plainfield Yale Club.

Victor Smith's Home Sold.

What was the home of the late Victor Smith, a newspaper man, who wrote the "Tip of the Tongue" in a New York newspaper, was recently sold at Bayonne for $500 over a mortgage of $6,000. When the property went under the hammer, Mrs. Smith, the widow, became hysterical.

TOLSTOY TRUE DISCIPLE

Rev. Dr. Chambliss Says Russia's Great Man Practised What He Professed.

HE LIVED HIS OWN BELIEF.

Czar's Government Feared Him But Dared Not Consign Him to Living Death in Siberia.

"Tolstoy, the Apostle of Brotherhood," was the subject of a discourse by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, at the First Baptist church, Sunday night. The sermon followed the repetition of the Thanksgiving Day music by the choir, which included several anthems and a pleasing duet by Miss Hazel Hatfield, contralto, and George Smith, tenor.

"Count Leo Tolstoy's was one of the most significant lives of the time," said Dr. Chambliss, "one of the vital forces in the world. The death of a president or king could not have received more space in the newspaper. There was not a city or village throughout the world that did not think of him. His was one of the few immortal names not born to die. In his death humanity has lost a great friend; in fact, anyone suffering from poverty has lost a great friend.

"He was the son of a nobleman. He received his early education from a German tutor and at the age of eighteen years inherited his father's vast estate, together with 700 servants. These he liberated at the age of twenty-three years and entered the army. He then wrote war sketches for magazines, which was the beginning of his authorship. His story 'War and Peace,' published in 1860, was a strong presentation of the vices of the wealthy, and the brotherhood of man.

"After leaving the army he lived the life of a peasant ever after, doing everything possible for the relief of the poor. In 1884 he published a story, 'My Religion,' which was based on the Sermon on the Mount. The Count's life was changed and he gave evidence that he understood the doctrine of Jesus, showing that it was simple and practical. The Russian government would have sent him to Siberia, but it feared the people.

"It was said that he died outside of the church, but how little it matters if he was a true disciple of Christ. He lived his belief in simplicity and sincerity and practiced what he professed."

YEARLY MEETING OF SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS

The yearly meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist churches of New Jersey and New York city, which convened with the New York church on Friday and Saturday last, proved to be of great interest and much profit. Quite a number were in attendance from the Plainfield church and the Plainfield church was represented by over fifty members.

The three sermons on the Sabbath were by Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Plainfield church; Mrs. Minnie Churchward, pastor of the church at Marlboro and Rev. James L. Skaggs, pastor of the church at Shiloh. The sessions were in charge of Rev. Edgar D. VanHorn, pastor of the New York city church. An interesting session of the Sabbath school was held which was in charge of Superintendent Holly Maxson. The next meeting next year is to be held with the Marlboro church.

JOHN H. DE MEZA DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

John H. DeMeza, aged 34 years, son of Mrs. Charlotte DeMeza, of 430 West Second street, died Sunday morning after a prostration, following a long illness. Mr. DeMeza was born in Plainfield and always resided here. He attended the public schools during his boyhood days and for twelve years he was employed by Asahel Adler at the jewelry store on Park avenue, which was afterward sold to Charles E. Vail, the present owner. After leaving Mr. Collier, Mr. DeMeza took a clerical position with the New York Telephone Company at the local office, where he remained for five years.

It was shortly after giving up the latter position that he met with an accident, being thrown off a fire apparatus while going to a fire. He received injuries from which he never seemed to recover and which aggravated his nervous condition. He was well-known here and made a host of friends. He was a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., and Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M.

Mr. DeMeza is survived by his mother, a sister, Mrs. Hugh H. MacMurray and three brothers, City Judge-elect William G. DeMeza, Herry DeMeza and Thomas DeMeza.

HOLY CROSS DEFEATS P. H. S. BY SCORE 22-0

The football championship of the city between P. H. S. and Holy Cross was decided at Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, the borough team coming out victorious by a score of 22 to 0. The teams were evenly matched in weight, although P. H. S. was outplayed in every period, except the first. Although Holy Cross did not score, it was a noticeable fact that the ball was kept in high school territory and it was only a matter of time before the boroughites would score.

Bristol and Coyle did the best work for P. H. S., while for Holy Cross Smith, Wilson, Miller and Webster were far superior to the rest. The first touchdown was the result of a punt from the toe of Smith, the stoic, Cross fullback, which was fumbled by a P. H. S. player behind the goal line and which Webster recovered for his team.

The other three were accomplished by rushing the ball down the field the ball being carried alternately by Smith, Webster and Miller for large gains. The final score was Holy Cross, 22; P. H. S., 0, when time was called on account of darkness.

Referee, Hamilton; timer, VanZandt; umpire, Phillips; head linesman, Uhler.

MAY REDUCE POSTAGE TO ONE CENT SOON

A count of every letter, paper, circular and package handled by the Federal Postoffice Department with a view to determining the cost of handling each piece of mail, has strengthened a belief that there is to be a reduction of letter postage to one cent. It is believed the count is for the purposes of a rearrangement of the basis of postal charges on all classes of mail with a view to making each class bear its proportionate cost. The count here was recently completed in the Plainfield postoffice. Friday a count was made of the number of stops made by local carriers and they totaled over 6,000.

Some idea of the stupendousness of Postmaster-General Hitchcock's order, which placed 17,000 railway postal clerks on the extra lists all this week will be realized when it is known that 13,173,340,329 pieces of postal matter of all kinds passed through the United States mails during the 1908 fiscal year.

The annual aggregate number of letters and packages through the post offices of the world is estimated at 30,000,000, and of newspapers, 15,000,000,000.

In 1909 the Postoffice Department faced more than a $17,000,000 deficit in the operation of 60,144 postoffices, with a total pay roll for $26,569,892 salary to 60,144 postmasters and $82,706,049 for the transportation of mails. The expenditure of the department for the year was $221,004,102, while the year's revenue was $203,562,383.

The special count began last Sunday morning and ends at midnight tomorrow. Each railway mail clerk fills out a blank slip on each trip, specifying the number of pieces of mail he has handled on his railway postoffice division.

So far as known, a special count of the individual pieces of mail never was made before, officials at the Federal Building say.

Heretofore, in estimating the mail an average of forty letters to the package and 150 papers to the sack has been accepted. This estimate was made twenty years ago by a chief clerk in the Railway Postoffice. It is said the conclusion was based upon 100 packages of mail. The new estimate is to be based upon every piece of mail handled in the United States this week.

Pleaded to Indictments.

In the Middlesex county court, Saturday, George Becker, of Piscataway township, was arraigned to plead to an indictment for the illegal sale of liquor. On motion of the assistant prosecutor, the indictment was withdrawn. James Benson, of Dunellen, was arraigned on a charge of assaulting James Carney and pleaded not guilty. Bail was fixed at $500, but no date was set for trial.

Schedule of December Hunts.

Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H., has issued the schedule of hunts for December, when the hounds will meet as follows, weather permitting: December 3, Brass Kettle Inn, Scotch Plains, 3; 7, Richmond and Front streets, 3:30; 10, Plainfield Horse Show grounds, 3; 14, Kennels 3:30; 17, Westfield Railroad Station, 2; 21, Kennels, 3:30; 24, South Plainfield Railroad Station, 3; 28, Christmas Day, Raritan Railroad Station, 10; 31, Metuchen Club, Metuchen, 3; January 2, New Year's Day, Oak Tree Schoolhouse, 10.

Rev. P. C. Bascom Resigns.

Rev. Perry C. Bascom, well-known here, has tendered his resignation to the official board of the Methodist church, Bound Brok. He has been pastor of this church five years, and he feels that a change will be beneficial for all concerned.

EVILS OF LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Pauperism, Crime and Lunacy Due to Alcoholic Drink a Disgrace to Country.

UNCOMPROMISING HOSTILITY.

Methodist Church Unalterably Opposed to Manufacture of Liquor, Says Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson.

The evils of the liquor traffic occupied the attention of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, his congregation and the Epworth League Sunday morning and evening, the latter organization being addressed by Samuel S. Swackhamer at 7 o'clock, and the congregation, by the pastor, in the morning.

Dr. Anderson took a line from Habakuk 2:15 for a text, and his topic as "The Relation Between the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Liquor Traffic." The relationship was explained as one of uncompromising hostility to the traffic and the reason for that stand as found in the laws of the church representing that body in the 136 conferences, in which all alcoholic drinks are unqualifiedly condemned.

The preacher declared that pauperism, crime and lunacy in this country was largely attributable to the liquor habit and laid the blame for existing conditions first to the manufacturers, and in this order, the dealers, signers of license petitions, the consumer himself, the neutral man, one who neither protests nor aids; parents, by precept and example; legislators, and finally, the voters who send men connected with the liquor interests to the Legislature.

The figures which Dr. Anderson quoted to drive home his argument against the traffic showed that 80 per cent. of crimes committed are chargeable to liquor; 75 per cent. of all the pauperism is due to the same cause, while liquor accounts for 55 per cent. of the lunacy in institutions and 25 per cent. of all the degradation in the families of the land. "Manufacturers," he said, "are 'particeps criminis' in the above conditions, and the Church should not fail to put herself on record as an implacable enemy to drink. I have never voted for a man whom I knew to stand for liquor interests and I never will."

Dr. Anderson related several anecdotes of his personal experiences in one of which he had assisted in the breaking of the liquor laws with the connivance of the police, but not in Plainfield, and said that signers of petitions for licenses who are members of the Methodist denomination are liable to trial and expulsion from the Church. He cited two such cases in a nearby town, in which one man saved himself by being reconverted and the other being forced to resign from the church. He considered the neutral man to be equally guilty with the advocate of the traffic because he did nto use his voice in protesting against it. Parents were blamed for setting a wrong example by drinking in the presence of their children and more guilty in offering the stuff to them to drink. The legislator becomes responsible for evils resulting from laws for which he votes and the voters must share in the responsibility for sending such men to represent them in legislation.

"Happy is the man who can say, 'no other has suffered on my account,'" said the speaker, "and how many of us are there who can truthfully say it?" Reading police court clippings from the local newspapers, Dr. Anderson said "how much better it would be if instead of a drinker keeping away from 'booze'" we could keep the booze from him."

Being unable to finish the sermon he had prepared because of lack of time, Dr. Anderson prayed for long continued strength for the W. C. T. U. and declared that its founder, the late Francis E. Willard, would live forever in the hearts of Christians everywhere. The other half of the sermon, which deals with the remedy for the liquor traffic evil, will be delivered at a later day.

Fears Epidemic of Rabies.

The authorities of Roselle Park are alarmed over what appears to be an epidemic of rabies among the dogs of the borough. Since the shooting of a dog that had the disease two weeks ago, six other dogs have come down with rabies and veterinary surgeons, who have visited the borough, have declared that efforts must be put forth to stop a wide spread of the rabies. Another dog was shot by the police Friday, making the third within four days.

His Only Hope.

W. O. Hart, of New Orleans, tells this story: An old negro was brought up before the judge charged with chicken stealing, and when the usual question was pronounced, "Guilty or not guilty?" he replied, "I don't know, boss. I jest throw myself on the ignorance of the court."—Case and Comment.

Mike's Mixed Metaphor.

Employer—Where is Patrick? I told him to be here promptly at 9.

Mike—'Tis no use tellin' him anything, sorr. Sure ut just goes in at one ear and out the other loike wather off a duck's back.—Boston Transcript.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XLII | PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY DECEMBER, 8, 1910. | NO. 48.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

WILSON HELPS MARTINE

Governor - Elect Capture's Hudson County Assembly Delegation.

PRIMARY ACT IN DANGER.

Leaders of Both Parties Plan to Repeal Act at the Legislature's Next Session.

While the storm of yesterday conspired to keep most of the politicians of both the Republican and Democratic parties away from the Governor's day confab at the State House, Trenton. It did not prevent the drifting down from Jersey City of the news that Gov.-elect Woodrow Wilson has won over all of the Hudson County Assemblymen from the camp of ex-Senator James Smith, Jr., the Democratic boss, thereby insuring his defeat for the United States Senate.

It was also declared at Trenton yesterday that Dr. Wilson would today or tomorrow issue a statement indorsing James E. Martine for the Senatorship, in conformity with Mr. Martine's indorsement for the place at the September primaries. It is said that Dr. Wilson will first see ex-Senator Smith and ask him to withdraw from the contest, for the sake of Democratic harmony. It is also said that the Martine statement will follow whether Smith gets out of the race or not, and it is likewise said that Smith will not withdraw. If Smith stays in the race and Wilson indorses Martine, it will insure a mighty lively contest in the coming Legislature.

Without some assistance from Hudson county, ex-Senator Smith cannot control the situation for himself, but he may be able, notwithstanding, to dictate the selection of some compromise candidate. Behind Smith is the Smith organization of the Democratic party, and it will take some hard knocks to batter down the opposition to Martine.

One result of the Senatorial contest is likely to be an effort to repeal the Direct Primary act, by which the voters have indorsed Martine. The Democratic and Republican bosses alike are opposed to this act, and always have been. It was forced through the Legislature by Governor Fort, and created much dissatisfaction in organization ranks at the time. Since then the leaders have been awaiting some favorable opportunity of overthrowing it, and it is expected that a strong effort will be made along these lines at the coming session.

One of the significant features of Governor's day was the absence of the entire Essex delegation of Assemblymen. None of them has been at the State House since election. This is taken to be part of the campaign in favor of Smith and against Martine. Few of the other Assemblymen were there yesterday. No one seemed inclined to talk about the Senatorial situation.

The failure to line up sufficient support in favor of the election of either Smith or Martine up to this time has had a rather disquieting effect on the legislators. They do not know what to make of the situation, and the prudent ones seem to be taking the position non-committal until they ascertain which way the wind is blowing.

Among the Republicans, it is expected that the Senatorial caucus will be held on December 20, although Senator Ackerman, last winter's leader, is waiting to hear from some of the Senators before issuing the call. Senator Ackerman will this year succeed Col. Frelinghuysen of Somerset as the presiding officer of the upper branch, and Senator Leavitt, a banking associate of ex-Gov. Stokes, will be the leader of the majority. It is likely that Senator Silzer of Middlesex or Senator Osborne of Essex will be the leader of the Democratic minority.

It is also practically settled that Assemblyman Kenny of Hudson county will be the next Speaker of the House of Assembly, with either Matthews of Hunterdon or Ramsey of Middlesex as the floor leader of the Democratic majority.

Assemblyman Radcliffe of Passaic will probably receive the complimentary nomination for Speaker by the Republican minority, as he is the dean on that side of the House. Assemblyman McCran, also of Passaic, will doubtless be the minority floor leader. Mr. McCran gave a good account of himself last winter in many party debates, and it was even then predicted that he would be the next leader.

The minor officers of the two houses will be selected at the majority caucuses, when the patronage will be apportioned to the different counties.

—Woolworth & Co.'s 5 and 10c store open evenings until Xmas after Thursday. 12 7 2

HUNDRED MILLION MORE RATABLES IN THE STATE

Discussing the problems of taxation and suggestions for remedying inherent defects of the present system, coupled with the information that the ratables of the state have been increased by nearly a hundred million dollars during the past year, are among the striking features of the annual report of the state board for the equalization of taxes, which was submitted to Governor Fort.

Conspicuous among the things urged by the board as of prime importance are economy in municipal expenditures; making the county instead of the present taxing district the unit of assessment; abolition of the system of electing assessors; power to remove assessors for incompetency; compulsory discovery of personal property; limiting the amount of exemptions on bank stocks and placing it on a basis of equality with other personal property; power to require tax maps to be used by local boards, and a re-adjustment of the calendar for assessment work.

Various chapters of the report are devoted to the consideration of these and other subjects, some of which are dealt with exhaustively and in some instances upon the lines quite different from the previous treatment of the subjects in this state.

The portion of the report dealing with returns made to the state board shows that the total of ratables for the year 1910 aggregate $2,045,898,212,85. This is an increase over last year of $96,210,926.56. The ratables consist of real estate amounting to $1,776,408,029.56 and personal property aggregating $271,941,267. Deductions for debt amount to $7,167,285.

The total amount of property exempt from taxation in the state is $172,975,158. This is made up as follows: Public school property, $9,476, 685; public property, $65,006,926; churches and charitable property, $57,281,560; cemeteries and grave yards, $7,747,207.

FREE WILL OFFERING AT TEMPLE BAPTIST SUPPER.

Under the auspices of the Philathea class of the Temple Baptist church a supper was served in the Clarence class room this evening and in spite of the storm and cold it was well patronized. The affair was unique in that no charge was made for the good things which was set before the visitors, but each one was expected to make a free will offering toward the building fund of the church. A neat sum was realized from these contributions.

The supper was prepared and served by the social committee of the class which was composed of Mrs. Chauncey Chilcote, chairman; Mrs. Bouton, Mrs. Jaeger and Mrs. Baker. Those who assisted the committee were Mrs. Joslin, Mrs. Westervelt, Mrs. Peel, Mrs. Winn, Mrs. Griffin, Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Griffin.

DEPUTY JOHN ZULAUF VISITS JERUSALEM LODGE, F. & A. M.

District Deputy John Zulauf, of the Fifth Masonic district, made his annual visitation to Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., last night. There was no work, the communication being given over entirely to an exemplification of the ritualistic work. Owing to the storm the attendance of members was rather small. Following the business of the evening a collation was served.

The annual communication for the election of officers will be held on Tuesday evening, December 20. Dr. George D. Herring is the present worshipful master and Robert Kenny, the secretary. Following the election a banquet will be served.

THANK DR. A.-E. M. PURDY FOR GIFTS TO THE LIBRARY.

At the regular meeting of the board of directors at the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room held in the Library parlor last night, the committee on disinfecting reported the completion of the installation of the plant. The secretary was directed to extend to Dr. A. M. E. Purdy, the thanks of the board ofr his gift to the Library of valuable books and manuscripts, and a bronze tablet copy of the Declaration of Independence.

The request of the board of directors of the Plainfield Chamber of Commerce for the use of the Library parlor was granted. The president was authorized to make such repairs to the building as he in his judgment may deem necessary.

To Decorate Meeker Home.

Albert Buccini, of 347 Fifth avenue, New York, an Italian artist of rare ability, has been engaged by Robert Meeker to decorate his new home on Belvidere avenue. Mr. Buccini recently completed the work of decorating the Great Northern Hotel on 57th street, New York, comprising four hundred rooms, to the entire satisfacion of both the owners and architect.

NO AUTO RECIPROCITY

Worthy Master of New Jersey Range Favors Non-Resident Licenses

PROTECTION TO THE STATE.

The State Has Paid Far More for Its Splendid Highways Than Has Its Neighbors.

Declaring that New Jersey's peculiar conditions forbid reciprocity methods in the matter of state auto licenses, Senator George W. Gaunt, worthy master of the New Jersey State Grange, in his annual address before the granges, at Atlantic City, yesterday went on record as opposed to giving non-resident auto tourists the freedom of the splendid Jersey highways without securing a license.

"In our highway system we have already rendered a service to non-residents which no other state has undertaken to give Jerseymen," declared Senator Gaunt. "If Pennsylvania or New York attempted to duplicate our road system it would cost them approximately $100,000,000, and in Pennsylvania it would be necessary to condemn the toll roads.

"Touring by residents is the rule in most states, but in New Jersey the condition is the reverse. In this state there are more non-resident cars run than resident. Mile for mile, there are from fifteen to twenty times as many automobiles running in New Jersey roads as in any other state. Of this number there are fully twice as many non-resident tourists as autoists who reside within our borders. New York, with its 5,000,000 population is closer for motoring purposes to New Jersey than it is to the highways of its own state; and while the superior condition of our highways is taken into consideration, the dissimilarity between the two states is obvious.

"While the increase in revenue from motor vehicles has jumped about 25 per cent. a year, the added repair charges alone on the macadam rodas have increased at the same rate. Cost of repairs during the past four years has averaged approximately four times the total of money received from automobile taxes. New Jersey rodas are edteriorating so rapidly that it has been impossible to keep pace in repairs, according to the state commissioner of repairs.

"Notwithstanding this, certain auto clubs in the state are advocating the adoption of a law which would permit non-resident tourists to use our highways without obtaining licenses, basing their plea on the fact that Jerseymen are accorded such privilege in other states, and it would be unneighborly for our state not to reciprocate the courtesy. Could any state that affords the same splendid facilities for auto travel be discovered, it would be no more than just to return the favor, but this is practically impossible.

"We have abolished the speed-trap system, but the instant non-residente lose their identity, which now can be readily estbilshed by their license number, it will be necessary to reestablish the speed-trap, to nail those who would take advantage of the freedom of the roads, and the resulting damage to the roads, would call for a big increase to maintian the present high standard.

"The only reason offered by non-residents for insisting upon the proposed legislation is the trouble and annoyance involved in obtaining registration. This matter, however important, may be easily overcome. The secretary of motor vehicles of this state has advised me that he has already worked out an elaborate plan whereby registration can be made automatic; where a car licensed in one state may thereby be automatically registered in all other states in which it may travel, so that an automobilist may, at the state of his residence, secure registration form his own state bureau, giving him the privilege of the other states in which he may travel."

Plainfield Council to Elect.

The annual election of officers of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum will be held tomorrow night and after the business of the evening, H. J. Bierman, alternate supreme representative, of Newark, will address the meeting. Mr. Bierman is well-known in Arcanian circles as an eloquent and entertaining talker.

The Mozart Club to Meet.

The Mozart Club will meet Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in the studio of Miss May Vincent Whitney in the Babcock building. This club is three years old and the members take great pleasure in the study of advanced music.

Hunt Chase Postponed.

Owing to the snow storm the midweek chase of the Watchung Hunt Club, scheduled for this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock will be postponed.

POLICE APPOINTMENTS REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

In the rush of business at the Common Council meeting on Monday night the impression was gained that Fred Bader and Thomas O'Gorman were advanced from specials to regulars on the police force. Charles C. Randolph, the efficient chairman of the police committee, as a matter of fact, had the appointments of Mayor Fisk referred to his committee following the usual custom, inasmuch as the mayor's appointments were not known until brought to the city fathers' meeting.

Both of the nominees will have to undergo the required physical and mental tests before the police committee will take any action. Therefore, it is extremely unlikely, it is said, that the Common Council will be called upon to confirm either appointment until after the first of the year if at all. Had confirmation been made on Monday night both O'Gorman and Bader would be under the tenure of office law on the eve of the new administration.

SMITH REFUSES WILSON'S REQUEST TO WITHDRAW

Governor-elect Wilson had a long talk with former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., last night on the United States senatorial problem. Neither would discuss today what took place at the conference. From a reliable source, however, it is learned that Dr. Wilson pleaded with Smith to take himself out of the race for the sake of the party. He told the Newark editor, it is said, that the party was pledged to abide by the direct primary result and that therefore Martine was the logical candidate.

Senator Smith, according to report, is understood to have informed the Governor-elect that he did not consider the primary verdict binding and that under no circumstances would he withdraw. He claimed, it is asserted, that he had thirty-four votes pledged to him on joint ballot, and was therefore in control of the situation.

Dr. Wilson left Mr. Smith asking him to reconsider his determination for a few days. It is expected that, urged by friends of both that unless Smith does withdraw in the course of a few days, the Governor-elect will make a formal statement to the people of New Jersey demanding that the Legislature heed the voice of the primary and elect Martine.

CHRISTMAS SOCIAL AND TEA TO BE REPEATED MONDAY.

Owing to the storm last night the Christmas social and Japanese tea held under the auspices of the Women's Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, was not very well attended, but those who did brave the storm were well repaid for their heroism. However, the fact that the attendance was not up to the mark has determined the women to repeat the affair and they will have a chance to see and enjoy the good things provided on next Monday evening.

Last evening, Mrs. Juan A. Babcock dispensed tea in the costume of a Japanese woman while the Misses Elizabeth and Alice Foster sold candy. Mrs. A. B. Drake had lots of cocoa, cake and fancy articles to dispose of the majority of which will keep until Monday.

MAJOR MARTIN MAKES PERFECT SCORE IN SHOOT.

Major William B. Martin, who is well known here, having been the captain of Co. K, won the .22 calibre indoor rifle championship of Elizabeth, Saturday night. Major Martin's fame as a rifle expert is almost world-wide, for he tied for the championship of the world at the Olympic games.

Those who witnessed the contest Saturday night, had their first opportunity of seeing how Major Martin "does the trick." He was high both at prone and off-hand shooting, at the former style having a perfect score of fifty. His total score for offshoulder and prone shooting was 97.

Freeholders to Meet.

The Union County Board of Freeholders will meet at the Courthouse, Elizabeth, Friday afternoon, for the purpose of deciding upon a site for the proposed county tuberculosis camp. It is probable that the site at Scotch Plains will be selected, the price being $20,000.

—Patronize broom drill and kitchen shower; Hartridge Auditorium, Saturday afternoon and evening. ***

F. Frank Stone, the photographer, has purchased an Overland car, 1911 model of the torpedo type.

FOR ENLARGEMENT FUND

Congregational Women Hold Successful Musicale and Sale.

FANCY GOODS BRING $187.

Weather Fails to Keep Women Church Workers at Home—Program a Delightful One.

The women of the Congregational church held a musicale and sale of fancy goods, cake and candy yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. F. A. Weeks, 127 West Seventh street, and in spite of the weather the affair was largely attended and $187 realized for the enlargement fund of the church.

The sale was preceded by a delightful program of music and readings. The Misses Martine Weeks and Elizabeth Martin rendered a piano duet with splendid effect, which was followed by a whistling solo by Mrs. C. A. Rice, who played her own accompaniment on the piano.

A feature of the program was the singing of a group of Indian songs by Miss Elsie S.oddard. These selections with their quaint music and peculiarly effective motives completely fascinated the audience and brought to the singer enthusiastic applause. The songs are by C. W. Cadman. Miss Scott was an admirable accompanist.

A delightfully humorous reading, entitled "A Corner in Pickles," was given by Miss Lou Fuller, whose audience was convulsed with laughter over the "old man's" predilection for pickles.

The sale was under the supervision of Mrs. J. W. Beekman, general chairman of the women's association. The booths were in charge of the following: Handkerchiefs, Mrs. Percy Van Alstyne, chairman; Mrs. T. F. Hylan and Mrs. Thad. Doane, Jr.; utility, Miss Jessie McIntosh, chairman; Mrs. J. V. Hubbard, Mrs. Mary Harold, Mrs. C. L. Goodrich, Mrs. F. A. Weeks and Miss Ethel McIntosh.

The cake booth was presided over by Mrs. C. A. Rice, assisted by Mrs. John R. Martin, Mrs. Carl Steiner and the Misses Weseman and Winckler. The candy counter, Mrs. Philip Suffern, chairman; Mrs. G. P. Rhoades and Miss Ethel Miller.

Tea was poured by Mrs. McIntosh and Mrs. Joseph Robinson, and was served by Mrs. Roland Rice and the Misses Weeks and Martin.

The Congregational church has long felt the need of more room particularly for their Sunday school and it is expected that the necessary funds for a projected enlargement of the present edifice will be soon be in hand for the purpose of building an addition. There has already been subscribed an amount of considerable size for this proposition.

FREE ILLUSTRATED TALK ON THE "GRAND CANYON."

The first of the Board of Education course of free public lectures will be given by Mr. Brigham in the Washington school tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. He is a Harvard man of the class of '80, the same class as former President Roosevelt. He was a member of the varsity crew during his year at his course and was soloist of the Glee club. His life has been spent on the plains and mountains of the west, where he was for four years U. S. Marshal for the territory of Utah.

His lecture on the "Grand Canyon of the Colorado" is the result of months experience passed in the canyon, and is splendidly illustrated by numerous stereoptican views. It is a lecture of brilliant description with a natural by-play of humor and of historical interest.

Purchased the Jenkins Property.

Eugene M. Laing and others have purchased the property on the east-side of the Y. W. C. A. property on East Front street, belonging to Mrs. O. L. Jenkins, and they will probably erect a home for the Laing Auto Machine Repair Company at that place. The property is 40x165, and is considered especially desirable for the purpose intended, being on a main thoroughfore and near the business section of the city.

Non-support Charge.

Harry Bennett, of Elm place, was arragined on complaint of Overseer of the Poor A. D. Ayers this morning before Judge William N. Runyon, on a charge of non-support. His case was put over until tomorrow morning.

Got Pair of Pheasants.

Hugo Maul, of the Hotel Washington, while hunting on Saturday bagged a hen and a magnificent cock English pheasants. Mr. Maul is considered one of the best rifle shots in the Watchung district.

MARK SULLIVAN NAMED TO SUCCEED J. B. DILL

Governor Fort yesterday named Assemblyman Mark A. Sullivan, of Hudson County, leader of the minority House, to the Court of Errors and Appeals. He succeeds the late James B. Dill, who died recently.

Mr. Sullivan is the youngest man to be appointed to the highest court of the state. Mr. Sullivan was born in Jersey City on November 23,1878, and is a lawyer by profession. He was educated at St. Peter's Parochial School, Jersey City, and graduated from St. Peter's College, Jersey City, in the class of 1897 with the degree of A. B. and received the degree of A. M. from the same institution in 1899.

He was admitted to the bar of New Jersey in February, 1903, and served as a representative of Hudson County in the Assembly in 1909 and 1910.

The appointment of Mr. Sullivan is an ad interim one made by Governor Fort after consultation with Governor-elect Wilson. Mr. Sullivan will be re-appointed by the incoming executive for a full six-years term. The salary is $20 a day for actual service and will average about $4,000 a year.

Assemblyman Mark A. Sullivan received the news of his appointment as judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals before noon yesterday direct from Trenton. Governor Fort had previously conferred with him on the subject.

When asked yesterday whether he would accept, Mr. Sullivan said:

"I am deeply sensative of the high honor and I believe I shall accept the office. The acceptance of the position means a rearrangement of my private business, for I shall refrain from actual law practise while on the bench. I have not yet arranged all my affairs to meet the new situation, but I expect to have my plans completed shortly."

HEPTASOPHS ELECT OFFICERS FOR THE COMING YEAR.

Numbers of Heptasophs braved the elements last night to attend the meeting at the lodge rooms on Park avenue. Interest in Protective Conclave, No. 505, Imporved Order of Heptasophs has greatly increased since the visit of the Baltimore delegation on November 1st, at which time Dr. H. B. Muse gave his address on the order, the new members initiated on that occasion numbering thirty-five.

Last night's meeting was for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year. The election was followed by a social time. The following men were chosen officers: Sitting Past Archon, A. H. Vanderhoef; archon, Edward McCarthy; provost, N. J. R. Chandler; secretary, F. H. Evans; treasurer, E. M. Laing; financier, William Higgins; prelate, Geo. Hueme; inspector, William Anderson; warder, Jack Hallard; sentinel, John LaPoidivau; trustees, R. H. Barnard, F. R. Lindsley and Frank Day.

PLAINFIELDER WINNING SUCCESS ON THE STAGE.

Apropos of the appearance of a local young man at Plainfield theatre, Monday night, it is worthy of note that another Plainfielder is achieving success on the dramatic stage. He is Edward Springer, who lived with his father on Grove street for many years, and who is conducting a shoe business on West Front street. The young man took up theatrical work several years ago and is now playing important parts.

This week Mr. Springer is appearing at the Bijou theatre, Philadelphia in "The Raven's Nest," assuming a character role. Those who have seen him in the piece say he exhibits marked ability. He is a brother of Alfred Springer, of West Front street.

All Three Fined.

A trio of husky young men from the West End not satisfied with a considerable cargo of intoxicants obtained in the neighborhood of their homes came into the center of town at 6:30 last evening and attempted to buy an addition to their already heavy load. They were unsuccessful and created a disturbance, finally starting a fight among themselves. Patrolman Swords escorted the three to police headquarters where they were arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning. Each was fined $3.

Few Assessment Complaints.

The borough officials have received word that the Somerset county board for the equalization of taxes would probably meet in North Plainfield next week for adjustments. The number of complaints this year are unusually small and it is not likely that more than six appeals for reductions on assessments will be made.

W. R. Causebrook, agent for the P. R. Co., in this city, is in Boston for a few days.

BURGLARS AGAIN ACTIVE

Visit New Market Once More and Loot the Village Post Office.

THEY GET SOME BOOTY.

Value of Cash, Stamps and Cards Taken Placed at $100—Postmaster Charles S. Day Again a Loser.

After a brief period of inactivity, burglars again paid a visit to New Market, last night, and found their presence on the postoffice and general store kept by Charles S. Day, in the heart of the village. They effected an entrance through a side window and played havoc with cash drawers and similar receptacles. They secured in all about $50 in money and a like amount in stamps and post cards.

The invaders passed the safe as a hard proposition but would have secured little for their pains, anyway Postmaster Day makes a practice of taking most of the cash and stamps to his home at the close of each day's business. Most of the money stolen from the drawers was Mr. Day's own change supply and is his personal lose.

After leaving the postoffice, the burglars journeyed up the street to the New Market schoolhouse, where they forced entrence to the basement and evidently wrapped up the stolen cards and stamps in leisurely fashion. A bundle of wrapping paper was taken from the Day store and the remains of it were found at the schoolhouse this morning.

During the past year New Market has been a stamping ground for burglars. The Lehigh Valley station was robbed a short time ago and on one occasion this fall four houses were entered on one night. Postmaster Day suffered a severe loss early in October by someone entering his meat market further up the street from the postoffice, and pouring kerosene about the shop. All the meat in the place was piled in a heap on the floor and the fluid was sprinkled on it and also on the fixtures. A loss of $200 was occasioned.

The police in all the surrounding towns have been notified of last night's affair and a determined effort is being made to apprehend the burglars.

UNION COUNTY TAX BOARD MEETS COMPLAINANTS HERE.

The Union County Board of Taxation held another session this morning in the Common Council rooms to meet with property-owners who have complaints as to their assessments. There were complaints from the Central Land Improvment Company on nine different parcels, and five other individual complaints, most of a trivial matter.

The board listened to the arguments of the complainants and will decide upon them later. If there are a sufficient number of complaints received in the next few days another session will be held in Plainfield. Among the cases presented this morning were several in which the protest was over the ownership of automobiles.

Harris Jury Disagrees.

The jury before which Girard Harris was tried in Elizabeth on a charge of reckless automobile driving was locked up over night and this morning reported to Judge Atwater that they had failed to come to an agreement. The judge discharged the jury. It was not learned how the jury stood, but it was rumored that five men held out for a verdict of guilty while seven were for the acquittal of Mr. Harris, who was defended by Judge William Newcorn.

For the Children's Home.

A piano recital will be given at the Park Club on Monday evening, December 12, for the benefit of the Children's Home. A novel feature of the music will be that all the accompaniments and the piano work will be played on a Hallet and Davis player piano. Tickets will be on sale tomorrow and may be obtained from the steward of the Park Club or at the Hallett and Davis piano warerooms, 170 East Front street.

Goes to County Jail.

Fred Schnell whose bondsman surrendered him on Monday, has been unable to obtain a bondsman to insure the payments demanded by the Overseer of the Poor for the support of Mary Canary's child and has been remanded to the County jail at Elizabeth pending an effort to secure the necessary bonds.

Lecture at Y. W. C. A.

On Friday evening, December 9, Dr. F. C. Ard will lecture on "The Care of The eye," at the Young Women's Christian Association rooms. All young women of the city are invited to attend.

UNITY CIRCLE SUCCESS

King's Daughters' Christmas Sale Well Attended and Patronized.

BACHELOR'S REVERIE GIVEN.

Porto Rican Embroidery and Drawn Work Attracts Attention—Charming Entertainment Enjoyed.

The parish house of Grace church was a scene of great activity Friday afternoon, when, under the auspices of Unity Circle, King's Daughters, a Christmas sale was held and incidentally there was presented "A Bachelor's Reverie," to a crowded house. The rooms were handsomely decorated for this occasion and the affair was eminently successful from every viewpoint, over $100 being realized from the sale of the various fancy articles and good things to eat which were exposed for sale on prettily arranged tables.

A Christmas tree and a grab bag added to the pleasure of those present as they produced the sentiment and the uncertainty of Christmas time without the necessity of one's hanging up one's hose awaiting Santa's visit through a grimy chimney. Everybody enjoyed the good cheer and heartily supported the splendid work of the Circle.

The reverie was splendidly done by the young women of the Circle who took the following characters: Little girl with doll,. Miss Kathryn Herman; school-girl, Miss Monica Sharrott; "Sweet Sixteen," Miss Gertrude Bowlby; tennis girl, Miss Barbara Fleming; coquette, Miss Margaret Henderson; the winter girl, Miss Marguerite Bowlby; huntress, Miss G. Wharton; society girl, Miss Frances Zelie; the suffragette, Miss Elizabeth McGee; chorus girl, Miss Jeane Saunders; the summer girl, Miss Sylvia Curtis; widow, Miss Marion Snyder. The bachelor, who saw all these reminders pass before his mental vision was Ogden Rogers.

On a table in charge of Miss Isabella C. Davis were exhibited some exquisite examples of Porto Rican embroidery and drawn work which attracted wide attention. Those in charge of the different boths were: Ice Cream, Miss Marguerite Ramsey, chairman, Misses Jean Wharton, Vera Jeffry and Sylvia Curtis; Lemonade, Miss Eleanor De Graff and Audrey Gernon. Candy, Miss Barbara Fleming, chairman, Misses Jean Wharton, Alice Smith and Alice Rowland. Entertainment, Miss Gertrude Bowlby, chairman; Misses Margaret Henderson, Sylvia Curtis, Elizabeth McGee and Jean Saunders.

The fancy table was in charge of Miss Marguerite Bowlby, assisted by Misses Marion Marsh and Marion Rocap. Those who sold cake were: Misses Audrey Gernon, Marion Marsh, Frances Zelie and Helen Harrington. The grab bag was in charge of Miss Naomi Markley.

TEA AND SALE HELD FOR VINCENT CHAPEL FUND

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Society of the First M. E. church, a successful tea and sale was held Friderday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry A. McGee, of Orchard place, the borough, from 3 to 6 o'clock the proceeds which amounted to about $150, will be placed in the fund to pay for the recent improvements at Vincent chapel.

The heads of the various tables were as follows: Fancy, Mrs. Joseph Yerkes; apron, Mrs. Nelson A. Miller; candy, Mrs. Harry Geer; cake, Mrs. Nelson Y. Hull; toilet articles, Mrs. Clifford W. McGee. Mrs. A. E. Osmun received the silver offering at the door.

During the afternoon tea was served, those in charge of the dining room, which was decorated in pink, were Mrs. J. H. Howell, Mrs. J. C. Peck, Mrs. G. H. Whitney and Mrs. Samuel Bingaman, and the young women assisting were the Misses Hope Irene Miller, Gladys Peek and Ethel Most.

The house was elaborately decorated with palms and ferns. There was a large attendance and the society is well pleased with the returns form the affair.

Mashed Potatoes a la Mode.

Instead of heaping the mashed potatoes in a covered dish shape into a long oval with a knife, having the upper edges rather sharp, not rounded—sort of fort-shaped. Run a line of chopped parsley down the centre of the potato and bank the sides with cheese. It is the occasional variation in the serving of very common things which makes the common things welcome, no matter how often they appear on the same table.

But the Dog Liked It.

"Brown is the laziest man on record."

"How so?"

"When his wife asks him to water the flower bed in the back garden he throws a bucket of water on his Newfoundland dog and then makes him stand in the middle of the flower bed and shake himself."

FREE LECTURE COURSE FOR ADULT RESIDENTS

The Board of Education, in its desire to serve the public in the broadest possible ways, is about to make a trial method of education for adults, by means of lectures, that has proven so popular in the larger cities. It will test the matter tentatively by offering two lectures in the auditorium of the new Washington school on Darrow avenue.

If it appears that there is a real demand for such lectures, more will be provided by the Board later in the year. The aim of the Board is to furnish something that will be attractive and entertaining an at the same time will have real information-al value. The first two lectures are "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado," Thursday night, December 8, and "Historic Castles of England," by George N. Cross, Thursday night January 5. Both lectures are illustrated by many beautiful reproticon of views and are given by men with whom that work is a profession.

While they are given in the Washington school, because of the attractice auditorium on the ground floor in that school, they are free to any one from any part of the city. Children will not be admitted, in order that full opportunity may be given adults.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD'S JUSTICE NOT GUILTY

The jury which heard Justice of the Peace William E. Smith plead his own case in court Friday at New Brunswick, returned with a verdict that he was not guilty and the country squire left the court room triumphant, and South Plainfield hereafter will have more respect for his legal knowledge.

The justice is well along in years, with iron gray hair and snowy white beard. He had perfect self control during the trial, in spite of the fact that he acted an his own counsel and had difficulty in hearing the witnesses, owing to a deafness. But he had a definite idea in his head, an idea that he was being wronged and he succeeded in carrying that idea to the jury without any unnecessary legal frills. There were no sharp debates between counsel as to the admission of testimony. No legal battles of any kind. Both sides seemed intent in getting at the truth of the charges that Smith had extorted $5 from William Locke, of Plainfield, the jury seemed to appreciate the efforts.

William Locke, the Plainfield mechanical engineer, had been most determined on the witness stand and he showed the jury that he was a fighter from way back.

After having told how his five children had been taken to the justice's office for trespassing the Zeller cabbage patch and how the justice offered to settle the case for $5, he said to the jury:

"The justice told me I was foolish not paying the fine that he would try the children separately and that the costs and fines he would impose would amount to $35 or so. I told him to fine me $35.00 or $40.00, if he wanted to, that I had an appeal and that I wouldn't pay him a cent."

It was on this statement that showed the jury that Locke was a fighter of the old school ready to spend a good many dollars to protect what he believed to be his rights.

In contrast to this spirit appeared the justice, meek and mild, telling how he had counseled Locke, as a father, not as a justice, how he had felt sorry for the plight of the children and had endeavored to show the father how to appease the wrath of the Zellers in the best way.

THE UNITED STATES AS A MILITARY POWER.

As compared with the standing armies and trained reserves of European countries, with smaller coasts and frontiers to defend than we have, the United States is very low in the list.

The maxium force of the regular army, as fixed by law, is 100,000. The report of the War College for last year showed that we had 4,029 officers, of which 219 were militia doctors assigned to the regular army from the Medical Reserve Corps, and 78,782 men.

Last year in the National Guard there were 8,975 officers and 109,951 men.

The regular standing army of Great Britain last year was 255,000 men and the organized reserve 509,000 men.

Germany has a standing army of 820,000 men and an organized reserve of 3,380,000, the reserve due to the compulsory military duty law.

France has a regular army of 550,000 men and an organized reserve of 1,500,000, half of which drill as much as the National Guardsmen in this country.

Russia's standing army is 1,200,000 men and the Russian organized reserve is placed at 3,300,000 men, but this is based on men who have been is service or belong to the provincial organizations.

Taken as a whole, the armies of Japan are recognized as the greatest fighting machines in the world.

QUEEN'S TRAGIC LIFE

Maria Pia's Family Pursued by Misfortune and Death.

As a Final Blow She Was Exiled From Portugal With Her Dethroned Grandson and Is Becoming Insane.

Rome.—Few countries take so much interest as Italy in the recent events in Portugal and the downfall of the Braganza monarchy, which is so closely related with the house of Savoy. As every one knows, the dowager queen Maria Pia, the grandmother of King Manuel, was the daughter of the great King Victor Emmanuel, but few understand, especially persons abroad, by what aureole of romanticism and popularity she is surrounded in her native land.

Victor Emmanuel II. had not yet conceived the idea of being himself one day the ruler of united Italy, and when his daughter was born on Oct. 16 he asked the supreme pontiff to be her godfather. The pope accepted with pleasure, wishing to add a new link to the ties which should unite the kingdom of Sardinia to the papacy, and he insisted that his own name in the feminine form, Pia, should be given to the child. Victor Emmanuel was already King of Italy when, in 1862, when she was not quite fifteen years old, the same princess, fairylike and gay, was married to King Luis of Portugal. After that time she returned to Italy whenever a great event, sad or happy, united her family.

In 1868 she came for the marriage of her elder brother, the late King Humbert, to the then Princess Margherita, the two competing in fairness and beauty. Ten years later, disregarding the papal prohibition of Catholic sovereigns being the guests of the Quirinal, she came again to nurse her father in his dying moments. Her last visit, she imagined, was the saddest event which could happen in her life, as she came after the murder of her brother Humbert at Monza on July 29, 1900.

However, only eight years after she was to see herself deprived of her son and grandson in a still more brutal manner, when the then king of Portugal, Carlos, and his son were killed by an assassin's bomb in the streets of Lisbon, and now she, together with her husband's family, is a fugitive from the land of her adoption.

Pena Castle, Maria Pia's Former Residence.

To add to all this misfortune it will be remembered that Princess Clotilde, her sister, the unfortunate "Flow of Pleu-Pleu," whose almost forgotten flight was similar to that of the Portuguese royalties, had to fly for her life with Empress Eugenie and escaped from Paris under the protection of Dr. Evans, the American dentist. Since then she has lived a monastic life, entirely absorbed in religious practices, her greatest sorrow being that there should be a conflict between the Italian monarchy and the papacy.

She has done all that she could to bridge the gulf between the two powers, but without success. She went so far as to write to Leo XIII. that the daughter of Victor Emmanuel II. approved of all that the pope approved and condemned all that he condemned.

Could one life hold more tragedy? She at least has not been able to endure so much, and she is probably not entirely aware of the catastrophe of today, as her tortured brain has broken under other trials. At present Queen Maria Pia is a mental wreck, but it is the hope that if she should come to reside permanently in Italy the scenes of her childhood, the peace at her sister's establishment at Moncalieri, near Turin, and the affection with which she will be surrounded may restore her to a future lease of at least a tranquil and conscious life.

AN ANCIENT PRAYER.

Found After Ten Centuries in Chinese Turkestan and Is Probably the Property of a Hebrew Merchant.

Among the documents and manuscripts taken by the Pelliot mission of France from a cave in Chinese Turkestan, where they had lain during ten centuries, is a curious manuscript recorded by the French Academy of Sciences. The manuscript is in one of the oldest known Hebrew texts. It is a prayer formed of passages taken from the Psalms and from the Prophets, written in beautiful square Hebrew, with a very rudimentary system of vocalization.

Evidently the manuscript was carried on the person of the man who owned it. Hebrew scholars believe that the document dates from the eighth or ninth century of the Christian era and that it belonged to a pious Jewish merchant of Arabia. No such paper was known in Arabia in either the eighth or the ninth century; therefore it is supposed that the manuscript was transcribed for its owner when he was in China, where such paper was to be found.

OBEDIENT SOLDIERS.

An Illustration of Military Discipline In Germany.

A JOKE TAKEN IN EARNEST.

The Story an Englishman Tells of an Amusing Incident in Which He Participated During a Visit to the Battlefield of Worth.

The docility and blind obedience of the German soldier have long been a object of comment. The Germans themselves recognize that it sometimes goes so far as to be absurd. An Englishman, writing in the London Times, describes an amusing incident which occurred after he had spent a day tramping about the battlefield of Worth. He was dressed, it should be noted, in regular civilian clothes and carried an umbrella:

Emerging from a wood, I came upon a plot of grass where about a dozen German soldiers were resting. The spirit moved me to stop and speak to these non-commissioned by meaning by signs when my scant German vocabulary failed me.

I asked, "Are you Prussians?" The indignant answer, in chorus, was: "No! Saxons!"

"Oh," said I, wishing to conciliate, "I am Anglo-Saxon."

Much to my astonishment, one of them got up and shook me warmly by the hand. Pointing to my dusty boots and dinner jacket, unbuttoned at the neck, I then, in vile German, explained to my friends of five minutes' standing that I had made the grand tour of the battlefield on foot and had been walking since 9 o'clock in the morning, it then being 5 in the afternoon.

Quite casually I remarked that although "not a military, but a naval officer," the study of battlefields interested me.

At the mention of the word "officer" all the men sat up, buttoned their tunics and buckled on their swords or bayonets—I forget which.

"Are you going to Niederbronn?" was my next question.

"Yes," they replied: "we are going to walk to Niederbronn and there take the train to Bitsch."

What evil genius prompted me to make the next remark I cannot tell, but although uttered in joke its consequences were perfectly astounding.

"I, too, am going to Niederbronn, for am my regiment. I am your colonel!"

Up they sprang to their feet, fell in wo deep and kept quite silent as if on parade. "Right turn!" and off we marched, I carrying my umbrella as if it were a sword.

Breasting a grassy slope, we marched up to the top at a swinging pace, still observing perfect silence and in step. A short distance it was a solitary soldier of the same regiment lying at full length on a bench near the entrance to a wood—tunic unbuttoned, sword unbuckled, and so forth.

On catching sight of the approaching squad up he jumped, buttoned his tunic, buckled on his sword, stood rigidly at attention and when the "regiment" came by "tailed on" as if it was the most natural thing in the world to do.

Please note that not a word passed between the main body and the reinforcement. On entering the wood the leading file began to sing a marching song, the others joining in chorus.

By this time we were nearing Niederbronn and I said to myself, as my wife, who were evidently much astonished to see a disciplined body of men marching in strict military fashion under the command of a foreigner armed with an umbrella—not even a stick cut! A disconcerting thought arose. What will happen if we chance across a German officer, and how, in my broken German, can I ever hope to explain this extraordinary assumption of command on my part? "Left wheel!" So without a moment's further delay I said to the men, "I must go to my hotel, which is over there," and bade them goodby.

These docile and amiable Saxons with one accord, taking time by the leading file, saluted, and I, having returned their salute, got out of sight as rapidly as possible. On peeping round the corner of a house there was my late "regiment" still marching with the regularity of clockwork.

Lincoln an Proof.

I suggest to him (Judge Douglas) that it will not avail him at all that A. discovered up, takes on dignity and calls people liars. * * * If you have ever studied geometry you remember that by a course of reasoning Euclid proves that all the angles in a triangle are equal to two right angles. Euclid has a way on how to work it out. Now, if you undertake to disprove that proposition and to show that it is erroneous would you prove it to be false by calling Euclid a liar?

He Understood.

"Now, Johnny, do you understand thoroughly why I am going to whip you?"

"Yes'm. You're in a bad humor this morning, and you've got to lick some one before you feel satisfied."—London Tit-Bits.

It Depended.

Chappy—Would you marry a woman who had sued another man for breach of promise? Sappy—It would depend largely on how much the jury had awarded her.—Club Fellow.

Hope, like the glimmering taper's light, adorns and cheers the way.—Goldsmith.

DEMOCRATIC PEERS.

The House of Peers Not One of Birth or Ar stry—Queen Elizabeth's Grandmother Was a Barmaid.

Strangely enough, the house of lords still remains the most democratic institution in England. It may still claim for itself to be the Witenagemot, or gathering of wise men, and one wonders why it does not defend itself along those lines.

It is not a house of birth or ancestry, for it is composed today to an overwhelming extent of successful men from almost every walk of life. No one cares a fig what a man's ancestry was in this matter of fact land if he succeeds, if he becomes rich and powerful.

The mother of the great Queen Elisabeth was the daughter of a plain English gentleman.

A pot girl of Westminster married the master of the pothouse. After his death she consulted a lawyer named Hyde. Mr. Hyde married her. Mr. Hyde afterward became lord chancellor, with the title of Lord Clarendon, and his wife, the former pot girl, bore him a daughter. This daughter married the Duke of York and became the mother of Mary and Anne Stewart, both afterward queens of England.

It is evident that if queens of England may have a barmaid for grandmother lesser mortals need not fret on the subject of ancestry.

The Englishman would not be what he is' nor would he in the least be transmitting his very valuable Saxon heritage if he gave up his democratic system in an aristocracy of power for the feeble continental custom of an aristocracy of birth. What the one and the other is today answers the question as to the relative merits of the two systems without need of discussion. The English, though nowadays many of them do not know it themselves, are the most democratic of all nations.

William the Conqueror divided England among the commanders of his army and conferred about twenty earldoms. Not one of these exists today, nor do any of the honors conferred by William Rufus, 1087-1100; Henry I., 1100-1135; Stephen, 1135-1154; Henry II., 1154-1189; Richard I., 1189-1199; or John, 1199-1216.

PRISONERS OF WAR.

Friendly Foes That Changed Places as Guests and Hosts.

A cheerful incident of the war between the states is told in "Mission Ridge and Lookout Mountain." The Third Ohio, under Streight's command, was en route for Richmond, prisoners of war.

One night they camped, worn, famished, with hearts heavy and homesick, near the place where a Confederate regiment, the Fifty-fourth Virginia, was stationed. Many of the southerners strolled over to the prison camp to see the sorry show of the poor, supperless Yankees.

They did not stay long. Back to their own camp they hurried and soon returned with kettles of coffee, corn bread, bacon—the best they had and all they had. Presently little fires began to twinkle in the prison camp, and the aroma of coffee rose like a fragrant cloud of thank offering. Union guests and Confederate hosts mingled. The next morning the prisoners departed.

Now comes a happy sequel which well balances the affair. Later, when the prisoners were exchanged, the Third Ohio was encamped near Kelly's ferry, on the banks of the Tennessee. On the day of the stormin of Missionary ridge among the prisoners taken were numbered the Fifty-fourth Virginia.

Some of the Third Ohio were on duty at the ferry when the prisoners detachment arrived.

"What regiment is that?" they asked.

When told they started on the run, shouting as they went:

"The Fifty-fourth Virginia's at the ferry!"

They dashed into their camp with the news. The place was satir instantly. Treasures of coffee, bacon, sugar, beef, preserved peaches—everything was spread out and carried South quick to the ferry. The circumstances were the same, with the difference that guests and hosts had changed places.

Getting a Line on Prospects.

"Sir, I have a very personal business proposition to make to you, but before approaching that would you care to make a statement of your financial condition?"

"Certainly. I have been established in this business for more than twenty-five years, my yearly income is well into the hundreds of thousands and constantly increasing, I have unlimited credit and also have real estate valued at a couple of millions. Go ahead!"

"That is quite satisfactory. Now, may I ask for the hand of your daughter?"—New York Herald.

His Mean Way.

"Henry asked you if you had made that cake, did he? Well, what was there in that to wound your feelings, child?"

"It was the—the way he said it, mamma. He—he didn't ask me—he if I'd made it. He—he said, 'Darling, didd you perpetrate this cake?'"—Chicago Tribune.

And Went.

"When I leave you tonight"— began Mr. Stoplate.

"Goodness!" interrupted Miss Terdeep. "Are you coming again tonight?" He glanced at the clock and apprehended her meaning.—Exchange.

There is always reason in the man for his good or bad fortune.—Emerson

LITERARY

Quite unusual for the Christmas season is the cover for the December National. It represents, with vivid coloring against a background of white, an Indian in his canoe, sounding forth the moose-call on the silent river. The effect is unique. Following the opening pages, is the editor's greeting, "A Merry Christmas to You" is one of those gentle, kindly, fireside reveries in which Editor Joe Chapple, of "Happy Habit" fame, is at his best.

It is doubtful if any magazine has ever offered in a single issue stories by so many of our foremost writers of fiction as appear in The Red Book Magazine for December. The first story in the number is a Dickensian tale of an East Side New York contractor's Christmas, entitled, "Cassidy's Christmas Carol."

Everybody's Magazine has started with the aid of ex-Senator Frank J. Cannon, of Utah, to demonstrate that the Mormons need reforming, both as to their matrimonial and business methods. The blame for the situation is laid on the Mormon prophet, Joseph F. Smith, and the outlook for his peace of mind during the next few months is not encouraging.

That the automobile has come to stay is clearly demonstrated by the phenomenal increase in farmers' machines throughout the West and Southwest during the last two years. Social life in these sections has undergone a great change. People living fifteen or twenty miles apart are now brought into close touch, with each other by the new annihilator of distance and time.

In 1858 Abraham Lincoln said: "A house divided against itself cannot stand. I believe this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free." Events proved that he was right. Now, after the lapse of half a century, another labor crisis is brewing, and the immediate question is not whether our civilization can endure with labor half union and half non-union, but whether union labor will permit it to endure on that basis. The alternative is something very much like war, now in the guerilla stage, that twenty-five years hence will be the usual conclusion of blood and ashes. The choice lies with the leaders of labor. Their greatest obstacles in the exercise of sound judgment will prove to be the cowardice of politicians and the indecision of the officers of the law.—From an editorial in December Century.

Success Magazine for December contains an interesting and varied choice of articles and fiction. Seamas MacManus contributes a delightful Irish sketch called "An Irish Schoolmaster." Miriam Finn Scott writes of "Show Girls of industry," explaining the value of beauty as an asset in the business world. Charles Edward Russell continues his series of articles on Wendell Phillips, and Ernest Thompson Seton tells of the purposes and laws of the Boy Scout movement.

Most of the important magazines set out especially fine Christmas numbers, and Lippincott's is no exception to the rule. The complete novel for December is "There Was Once a Queen," by Edith Robinson, author of "A Mock Caliph and His Wife." It is a brisk and actionful story, with its scenes laid in a small German principality, the hero being in the diplomatic service there. He falls in love shortly after his arrival, and is thereby led into some strange adventures.

In the Metropolitan Magazine for December, Prof. Herschel C. Parker and Belfore Bruce give an interesting and straightforward account of their attempt to climb Mount McKinley last summer. While they failed to reach the summit, their narrative is a valuable contribution to the literature of discovery and a record of pluck and daring decidedly worth reading.

The Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine is rich in beautiful illustrations, some of them in colors, and in fiction by the most contemporary writers. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle contributes "The First Cargo," which is the second of his imaginery historical tableaux, this one dealing with the coming of the Saxons to Britain. John Fox, Jr., in "Christmas for Big Ann," tells a pathetic story of the mountains. Thomas Nelson Page satirizes the spirit of fashionable Christianity in "The Stranger's Pew." Richard Harding Davis has seldom equalled the dignity and emotional power of his story, "The Consul." It has to do with an American official in a far country—a man appointed by Lincoln.

Since the public has awakened to the vital importance of the facts brought out in the series of Pension articles now running in The World's Work, overwhelming evidences of interest in the matter have come from all parts of the country. Not only have newspapers taken the matter up editorially but hundreds of individuals have taken the pains to write to the editors, expressing their approval.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

WHAT BOYS SHOULD READ

Subject of Rev. Mr. Mathiews' Lecture to Mothers Yesterday at Y. M. C. A.

BOYS LIVE WITH THEIR HEROES

Books Give Chance to Parents to Meet Their Sons on Common Level—Good Influence the Result.

The lecture before mothers of boys in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Friday afternoon, took the form of an exhaustive exhibit of books with explanations as to their moral worth in the training for boys and children.

Mr. Mathiews told very clearly in his introduction how the child loves the fairy story and how it grows in taste and desire from this world of fancy to the higher realms of imagination, its cultivated tastes and desires finding satisfaction in books of adventure and exploration.

Through the efforts and kindness of Miss Bowman, the librarian at the Plainfield Public Library, some lists were prepared, the different divisions were discussed separately with relation to the changing and growing tastes of the boy. The speaker said that there was something wrong with the boy who did not love such stories as "Huckleberry Finn," "Story of a Bad Boy," "Kidnapped," nor brought into close touch, with each other by the new annihilator of distance and time.

In the books that deal with out-of-door life the lad is encouraged to act the hunter, the scout, the fighter. His first books of humor work out into play life. After he tires of his books of fiction he reaches out for fact and then he becomes wrapped up in travel, exploration and history. The books on electricity and handicraft start him onward and forward in his manual training. All over the country today lads are, working on wireless outfits.

The boys live with their heroes and they imitate them. It is the parents' opportunity to become acquainted with many of their heroes through the boy's books. The speaker told of a personal experience with a lad of his acquaintance. This boy declared himself one day to be in line for the pugilistic calling and the very next morning he neglected to take his morning wash because the water was cold. The father then told the boy that a fighter was all right but that a fighter must have first of all self-control. He could not forget himself and speak hastily or unkindly to his mother for a fighter must learn to take his medicine and to take many cold baths to get himself into condition.

The suggestion of the father worked like a charm. It would seem out of place for the mother to do the same thing because her sweet and tender nature unfits her to take this approach to the boy. She must keep in mind, however, that she is dealing with the rough material of manhood and that from what she h before her she must refine and work out the good. The good can come too quickly. Ruskin says: "To make a man of a boy too early is to make a small man."

FUNERAL SERVICES OF JOHN DEMEZA HELD.

Private funeral services were held for John DeMeza at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon at the home of his mother, Mrs. Charlotte DeMeza, on West Second street, only the immediate relatives being present. Rev. Dr. Chas. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated. He read appropriate scripture verses, offered prayer and made a few comforting remarks to the bereaved members of the family.

There were many floral tributes, including those from Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., and Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., of which Mr. DeMeza was a member. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers were Edward O. Clark, William MacD. Cortell, Francis J. Blatz, Thomas Quinn and George Graves.

Hit All Over.

Butcher—What's that?

Hunter—A bird t shot.

"Nonsense! I might buy it for old lead."—Chicago Journal.

WHY THE CITY SHOULD COLLECT THE GARBAGE

Consulting Health Officer Makes Timely Address Before Commerce Chamber.

HE GIVES THREE REASONS.

Urges That Municipal System Supplant the Disgraceful Broken-down Wagon Service—For Economy and Health.

An instructive and timely address on the need for a municipal system of collection and disposal of garbage and ashes was delivered by Consulting Health Officer Leon Thurlow at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Thursday. It will be recalled that annually for the last nine years, the Board of Health has urged the Common Council to rid the city of the unsanitary and disgraceful condition and to introduce a public system for the removal and disposal of both ashes and garbage.

Mr. Thurlow's address follows:

"To a person looking for a home, Plainfield can boast of attractions second to none in the State of New Jersey. The schools, streets, police and fire departments, the city government, are all modern and maintained for the best interests and comfort of the residents. In one respect, however, Plainfield is sadly behind the times—in the collection of garbage, ashes and rubbish. The method of collecting this municipal waste today is what we might expect to find in a small country town. While all cities about us have modern methods, we have broken-down wagons, horses and cans, the householder at the mercy of the licensed collector,—who collects or not, as he pleases, and when he chooses—and finally the garbage fed to hogs and brought back to Plainfield in the form of pork.

"I want to give three reasons why conditions should not be allowed to exist, i. e.:

"First, in economy of the expense.

"Second, on account of the inconvenience and discomfort to the residents.

"Third, because of the possibilities of the spread of disease.

"(1) Expense: I have placed this first as it is considered by many to be of far more importance than the others.

"There are in Plainfield, at the present time, twenty-one garbage collectors, licensed by the Board of Health, and twenty-eight ash collectors, licensed by the Common Council. These men have the entire city as a field for business and they have no uniform charge. The average householder probably pays from $12 to $15 per year for the removal of the garbage and ashes from his premises. I think that it may be conservatively estimated that $220,000 to $35,000 is spent annually in Plainfield for the removal of garbage and ashes from about one-third of the houses.

"In Montclair this work is done by five one-horse wagons and one two-horse wagon at a cost of $5,500. Besides the cost of disposal by burying in trenches—a cost of ninety-seven cents per capita. In other cities, this work is done at a cost per capita varying from seven to sixty cents; therefore I can see no reason why this work should not be done in Plainfield as cheaply as in other cities, which would certainly be a saving over what is now spent. The entire city could then be taken care of by six neat, modern, sanitary wagons, instead of the twenty or more now in use, which are for the most part, broken-down, unsanitary affairs.

"(2) From the standpoint of convenience and comfort: A municipal system of collection and disposal would certainly be a great advantage over the present method. As I said before, the householder is at the mercy of the collector, who takes the garbage away if it suits his convenience, but if it does not, then the householder must hunt for someone else. During the summer months, a continual stream of complaints is received by the health department, of the failure of collectors to remove the garbage of their regular customers.

"In addition, many complaints of the bad odors from the garbage wagons are received. The Board of Health has tried to improve these conditions by requiring garbage to be collected in water-tight metal cans with tightly fitting metal covers, and having all collections in the business portion of the city made before 9 o'clock in the morning. While this has relieved conditions to a certain extent, it did not relieve the residential section.

"This past summer, more complaints of the accumulation of garbage were received by the health department than from any other source. Our house-to-house inspection revealed the fact that many of the rear yards were in bad condition, due to accumulations of ashes and garbage. This was particularly true of the poorer sections, where the people were unable to pay for the removal of their garbage, and as a consequence, were obliged to burn it, bury it or throw it over the back fence.

"Compare these conditions with a modern systematic collection, where the garbage is removed at certain stated intervals, from every house in the city.

"(3) The possibilities of the spread of disease by garbage: The relation between the health of a community and accumulations of garbage is chiefly through the medium of flies. A pile of garbage, stewing in the sun, not only exhales nauseating odors, but the warmth of the decaying matter creates a most favorable breeding place for flies. And flies are recognized carriers of most of the contagious disease, so that everything possible should be done to reduce the number of their breeding places.

"You have seen flies feeding on sputum in the streets: It might easily have been the sputum of a person suffering from tuberculosis. From the sputum, with its legs and body covered with the germs, the fly goes to the food on the table, to the baby's bottle, the children's toys and many like places. By abolishing the breeding places of flies, the spread of communicable disease is limited accordingly.

* * * * *

"As a remedy for these conditions, let us first consider the collection of the garbage and ashes. There are two ways in which this may be done by the private contract and by municipal collection.

"In either case, the garbage can be taken from a proper can in the rear of each house, at least three times a week in summer and once or twice a week in winter; it could be conveyed to the place of disposal in a few water-tight, steel garbage wagons, and the work done in such a manner as not to be a nuisance.

"The collection is comparatively simple, it being merely a question of dividing the city into proper districts, having a sufficient number of wagons and men to do the work, and the proper ordinances and rules. If collection was all that was necessary, Plainfield could speedily have had its municipal system long before this, but after the garbage is collected, it must be disposed of, and to do this in an economical, satisfactory and sanitary manner, is a somewhat serious problem for a city of the size of Plainfield.

"There are five methods of disposal in use today:

"1. Burying.

"2. Dumping on land or at sea.

"3. Feeding to swine.

"4. Cremation.

"5. Utilizing by reduction.

"Of the first three, little can be said in their favor. Montclair has recently had trouble with the State authorities on account of the nuisance arising from the burying of garbage.

"Cremation, or destruction by fire, requires a special "destructor or furnace." Cremation is now practiced by a great many cities with very good results. There are so many kinds of furnaces that it would be impossible to go into the details of each. While the initial cost of a destructor would be high, it would dispose of the garbage of Plainfield in a sanitary manner, and the cost of maintenance would be reasonable.

"Utilizing by reduction: This is briefly the extraction of the grease from the garbage. The plant for this is quite elaborate and expensive, and I have seen only one that is operated without much odor—the one at New Bedford, Mass. There is, however, a plant in one of the suburbs of Philadelphia, which, I believe, successfully generating sufficient steam to operate generators to light the city.

"The initial cost of these plants was naturally a stumbling block for municipalities a few years ago, a plan was thought of whereby the garbage could be collected and sent to a place where such a crematory or utilization plant was already in operation. The matter was thoroughly studied and the contractor who at that time had the contract for Newark and who was building a utilization plant, was consulted, and satisfactory arrangements could have been made with him to dispose of Plainfield's garbage. The one obstacle was transportation. Trucking was too expensive, the Central Railroad of New Jersey would not carry it, and the Public Service Railway could not, under the laws of the State.

"This latter obstacle has since been removed, for under the laws of the State of New Jersey for 1910, a municipality has the right to erect sheds for the storage and loading of garbage cars, and this same law gives the trolley company the right to transport garbage over its lines.

"I recently asked the counsel of the Public Service Corporation if the company would consider the transportation of the garbage from Plainfield to Newark or some other place, and approximately what the cost would be. I had hoped to have his answer in time for this meeting, but unfortunately he was unable to do so. An arrangement of this kind, if it was properly worked out, would solve the problem of the disposal of the garbage.

"The disposal of the ashes is so simple that I need only to mention it. All about Plainfield there are low lands that require filling in. The ashes could be used for this purpose.

"In my annual report to the Board of Health, I am going to recommend that a joint committee from the Common Council and Board of Health be appointed to investigate this matter. There is no question but that the time has come when we should have municipal collection of the garbage, ashes and rubbish, and an organization like the Chamber of Commerce, could do much toward obtaining it."

"COUNTRY ROMANCE" GIVEN AS A BENEFIT

The entertainment, "A Country Romance," given for the benefit of the Baptist Boys' Battalion, was largely patronized Thursday at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium and everyone in the cast received much deserved applause. The young men and women presented this pastoral play with all the aplomb of old time actors, the incidental singing and other musical numbers being rendered with ease and grace.

The scene of the play is the sitting room of a country farmhouse and the play delightfully brings out the quaint old time love scenes characteristic of the times in which farming was the greatest industry in the country. The play will be repeated tonight and it is expected that a large audience will again gather to hear the young people.

The cast of characters follows: Silas Simpson, Ernest Conover; Miranda Simpson, Violet S. Van Winkle; Grace Simpson, Beulah M. Van Winkle; Jack Fairfax, Harold Leadbetter; Chauncey Lippincott, Horace N. Adams; a lawyer, Howard Parry. Mr. Parry also took the part of Judd Goodman. Miss Lillian Mundy was an accomplished pianist and Harold Leadbetter the soloist. The musical numbers consisted of "Home Sweet Home," "Down at the Huskin' Be," "Without You," and "Put on Your Old Grey Bonnet."

OBSERVE TWENTY-THIRD ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace, of 916 West Third street, were tendered a surprise party on Wednesday night, the affair marking the twenty-third anniversary of their wedding. Relatives and friends to the number of about twenty-five matched into the house and took the couple completely by surprise.

Robert Baillie who was in charge of the affair, made a few remarks congratulating the couple on the completion of twenty-three years of married life and expressed the hope that they would have many happy returns of the day.

The evening was then spent in enjoying a program of vocal and instrumental music, dancing and playing games, after which refreshments were served. It was about 2 o'clock in the morning when the guests left for their homes. Among those present were the following:

Mr. and Mrs. John Donaldson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cross, Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baillie, Mrs. Dolg, Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Ross, Miss Ford, Miss Burke, Miss Ross, Mr. Douglas, Mr. McPherson, Mr. Burke, Mr. Hallock and Mr. McNell. The surprise was arranged by the Misses Burke and Ford.

RAINFALL FOR YEAR FAR BELOW NORMAL

The statistical weather report shows that the total precipitation from January 1 to December 1, last, was 38.18 inches. The normal amount for the same period is 45.52 inches, the deficiency being 7.25 inches. The prevailing direction of wind for November was west. The mean temperature was 1.6 degrees below the normal and the total precipitation 0.34 above the normal. The following figures for November are given:

Highest temperature, 68 degrees, 2d; lowest temperature, 20 degrees, 21st; mean temperature, 40.4 degrees; mean maximum temperature, 48.9 degrees; mean minimum temperature, 32.0 degrees; greatest daily range, 31 degrees; mean daily range, 16.9 degrees; monthly range, 48 degrees; total precipitation, 3.83 inches; normal precipitation, 3.59 inches; greatest precipitation in 24 hours, 1.85 inches; date 3d; rainy days, 10; days clear, 7; partly cloudy, 11, cloudy, 12.

Needed Glasses.

"Pardon me, madam, but the way that man across the aisle is staring at you must be very offensive. Do you wish me to interfere?"

"Oh, no, thank you. That's my husband."

"Your husband?"

"Yes. He's very nearsighted and thinks I'm somebody else."

"What's the trouble?" asked the clerk. "Isn't your room satisfactory?"

"Yes," answered the guest at the big sykscraper hotel, "but I want those clouds pushed away from my windows."—Hotel World.

KING'S DAUGHTERS WORK

Encouraging Annual Reports Read at the Meeting of the City Union.

NEED A LARGE NURSERY.

City Nurse and Nursery Matron Tell of Their Work—Balance in Treasury—Mrs. Dodge's Address.

The great and constantly urging need of day nurseries was the topic of a talk given by Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, at the semi-annual meeting of the City Union, of The King's Daughters, held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Dodge, president of the Federation of Day Nursery work, has just returned from a trip around the world in the interest of that work. She has been absent about a year and during that time 248 day nurseries have been established in various parts of the country.

Mrs. Dodge spoke of the need of this work, especially in factory towns where, she said, it had been proven that the lives of thousand of children had been saved. She read statistics to show that many children die under the age of two years for lack of care and proper nourishment, and the exception to the rule was in Lowell, Mass., where the day nursery work is far advanced and great efforts are made to provide not only instruction for mothers in the care of children, but to give the children the proper care and feeding. Mrs. Dodge also gave an interesting account of the day nursery work as she found it in Japan.

The speaker brought words of encouragement from the field, showing the great progress that has been made all over the world in the work she represents.

During the meeting twelve of the fourteen local circles of King's Daughters presented reports, showing that each one is in a flourishing condition with many new members added to the roll. It was reported that since last May, with August omitted when the Day Nursery was closed, there had been 2,121 cared for at the nursery during the year, the number being made up by the days' attendance, the total number, of course, being much less. At present there are twenty-eight babies at the nursery and only four cribs.

The need of larger nursery and more help is apparent, it was reported, if this work is to be carried on successfully. The city nurses, Miss Olive DeLany and Mrs. Bird, matron of the day nursery, are often called upon to teach mothers how to prepare food for children and otherwise care for their offspring.

Miss DeLany made 793 visits from May 14 to November 26, attending several operations and assisting in the care of several cases of incurable disease. There were two deaths and sixty new cases were reported during the above period. A report was presented by Miss Lillian A. Force, who is chairman of the nurse committee.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Anna Most showed that the total expenses since May for camp and Day Nursery work was $2,459.22, and there is a balance of $384.36 now in the treasury. This work cannot be carried on for less than $250 a month.

Mrs. Frank W. Jones, as president of the City Union of The King's Daughters, presided at the session yesterday. At the conclusion of the talk by Mrs. Dodge and the business tea was served by the members of the Loyal Daughters' Circle, of which Mrs. Peterkin is the president.

TALK ABOUT THE CHURCH AT DINNER OF THE FLOCK.

"Our Church," was the general topic discussed at the Park Avenue Baptist church last night, following a dinner which was enjoyed by about 170 members. The feast was prepared and served by the women of the church. The Sunday school room, where it was held, was artistically decorated for the occasion.

After the dinner Rev. Gabriel R. Maguire, pastor, who presided, called for suggestions and criticisms regarding future work of the church. Every department of work in the church was treated and views to strengthen the weak places. Among those who entered into the discussion were George E. Hall, superintendent of the Sunday school; Miss Florence G. Hawkins, George W. Wyoy and David M. Runyon and others. The remarks by Pastor Maguire were very helpful and encouraging.

In discussing the church for coming year, it was suggested that special meetings might be advantageous, but no formal action was taken. It was decided to place a tablet in the church in memory of the late Dr. Robert Lowry, who was a beloved pastor of the church. He served the church as pastor without any salary.

W. C. T. U. Parlor Meeting.

The W. C. T. U. will hold a parlor meeting Thursday afternoon, December 15, at the home of Miss Anna Boice, on Park avenue, when Mrs. T. C. Bodine, who attended the national convention held in Baltimore, will present a report.

SUIT AGAINST CENTRAL FOR BIG DAMAGES FAILS

A verdict of no cause for action was rendered in the United States district court in New York, Thursday, against Henry Alexander, of Lilberty street, this city in his suit to recover $15,000 damages from the New Jersey Central Railroad. The case had previously been heard twice, once at White Plains and once in New Yorrk, being dismissed each time on technical gounds. It was finally heard yesterday and the jury reached its decision in a short time.

Alexander, who is colored, was riding on one of the company's coal trains about 6 o'clock in the morning one day two years ago, when his injuries were received. He claimed that an employe pushed him off the car, causing him to fall beneath the wheels. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where both legs were amputated. The suit for damages was based on the alleged action of the employe while the railroad simply contended that Alexander was trespassing on its property and fell from a train as he was in the act of stealing coal. The plaintiff was represented by a New York law firm.

In speaking of the case today, one of the railroad officials said that as a result of this case steps would probably be taken to indict some of the witnesses for perjury.

WOMEN'S BIBLE CLASS HOLDS ENTERTAINMENT

The Women's Bible class of Hope chapel conducted a social in the Sunnday-school rooms Friday night, that served a two-fold purpose. It was originally arranged as one of the series being held to make old and new members better acquainted and it developed later that the teacher, G. Stuart Simons, has just completed his tenth year in that capacity. It was accordingly made an anniversary affair and the attendance numbered seventy-five in all.

During the evening the gathering enjoyed social games and a program with the following members: Piano selections, Miss Bertha Jones; vocal duets, the Misses Edna and Eunice Eckert; readings, George Simons; Scotch ballads, Thomas Hendry; addresses by F. H. Andrews and Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelle. At the close, G. Herbert Condict, in behalf of the class, presented Mr. Simons with a handsome wicker rocker for himself and a jardiniere and vase for Mrs. Simons, the latter not being present. Mr. Simons responded with a few apt remarks. In conclusion refreshments of coffee, cake and ice cream were served.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Mrs. William S. Terry, Mrs. Aaron Snyder, Mrs. Ferdinand Dunckian and Mrs. Geo. Leighs.

"CORPSE" BACK TO LIFE DURING AN ARGUMENT.

Returning, apparently from death, to take part in an argument as to which coroner should take charge of his body, a Burlington township farmer named Busby gave a crowd in the Metropolitan hotel a thrill it will not soon forget. Busby had been found lying face downward and apparently lifeless at the rear of a public room. Dr. J. B. Cassady and other physicians were summoned. For five minutes they worked over Busby, but with no visible signs of success. A relative who was present gave him up for dead and telephoned for a local undertaker. Some one suggested that owing to the strange nature of his demise a coroner should be summoned.

A discussion broke out as to whether Coroner Bisbing was yet in office or Coroner-elect Leconey had succeeded him. The argument was at its height when the supposed corpse suddenly sat up on the stretcher, rubbed his eyes and to one of the startled onlookers exclaimed:

"Why, hello, Bill! What am I doing here?"

Then Busby collapsed from the exertion, but, encouraged, physicians worked over the farmer until he had once more regained consciousness and was apparently out of danger.

The doctors say his case is one of the most remarkable on record. They declare there was total cessation of respiration and pulse for at least five minutes and that the extremities of his body had begun to chill when the seemingly hopeless remedies dragged him back from death.

The farmer was later removed to his home and his recovery is expected.

Union County Incorporations.

Articles of incorporation were filed at the county clerk's office yesterday by the Metropolitan Lumber Company, with a capital is $10,000. The incorporators are Albert Marsh, of Newark; Lena Sherman, Jersey City, and Michael Kurta, of Elizabeth. Articles of incorporation were also filed by the Union Steel Tool Company, of Plainfield. The capital is $100,000. The incorporators are T. F. Budlong, of Plainfield; George W. Astle, of Annandale, and E. P. Baylor, of Hampton, N. J.

CIVIC BODY'S DIRECTORS

Chamber of Commerce's First Regular Meeting is Largely Attended.

ELECT THE EXECUTIVE BOARD.

Leon R. Thurlow and Mayor Fisk Talk of Municipal Improvements—Annual Banquet.

The first meeting of the newly organized Chamber of Commerce was held in the Board of Trade rooms, Thursday, and permanent arrangements were made for the incorporation of the Chamber. The meeting was called to order by President Babcock and A. S. Herr, secretary pro-tem, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Upon motion of Mr. Jeffery, the rules were suspended and the election of a Board of Directors held, the board to hold office until the annual meeting of the Chamber, which will be held on the fifth of January, 1911. President Babcock appointed A. E. Force, H. B. Sweeney and C. J. MacNabb as tellers. The result of the balloting was announced as follows: D. J. Carney, B. Frank Cortiell, F. A. Duttenhofer, D. W. Littell, P. J. McDonough, H. Schuldenfrel, T. J. Shirley, M. C. VanArsdale, J. V. E. Vanderhoef, L. B. Woolston and John Ulrich.

While the tellers were at work former Health Inspector Leon R. Thurlow delivered a most interesting talk on the matter of garbage collection and disposal. The remarks of the speaker were followed closely by the members of the Chamber and a general and very favorable discussion following the adjournment of the meeting. Mr. Thurlow's address will be found in another column.

Mayor Fisk was then recognized by the President of the Chamber and was called upon for a few remarks. The Mayor discussed briefly the matter spoken on by Mr. Thurlow and also referred to the lighting of the city with particular reference to the business section. The Mayor was of the opinion that this matter had been up to the board for a sufficient length of time and he expressed the hope that Plainfield's business section would receive the illumination it deserved before any great length of time has elapsed. The Mayor also spoke of the efforts to have a factory located in the town and gave an outline of his talk with the persons involved in the transaction of moving their manufacturing plant from a suburb of Chicago into Plainfield. The Mayor's remarks in favor of the advantages of Plainfield as he outlined them to the prospective locater of a factory showed his familiarty with every phase of the city's life. Both the Mayor and Mr. Thurlow received a hearty vote of thanks from the Chamber for their remarks.

The question of a Chamber of Commerce dinner was then brought up by Mr. Jeffery and it was moved that the president appoint a committee to get busy on this affair. Judge Ulrich spoke of the general sentiment of civic bodies in regard to holding this affair on Lincoln's birthday, inasmuch as there would be absolutely no partisanship involved and it was voted by the chamber that February 12 be the date.

The enrollment in the chamber showed sixty names and there is not the slightest doubt, considering the splendid feeling of enthusiasm which was manifested at the meeting, that the co-operation of all the good men of Plainfield who are willing to sacrifice a little of their time and money for the advancement of the city's interests, will result in a civic body whose name and fame shall be known throughout the State. The meeting of the board of directors will be held in the immediate future and an earnest effort will be put forth to present the work of the chamber to the attention of every citizen of Plainfield whose character and standing are such as to make him desirable as a member of the organization.

POSTMASTER BIRD ISSUES AN ORDER ABOUT POSTAL CARDS.

Postmaster E. H. Bird has found it necessary to issue an announcement regarding the mailing of picture postal cards, especially at this time of the year, when the mail is so heavy in this respect. Mr. Bird's announcement is as follows:

"Cards bearing particles of glass, metal, mica, sand, tinsel or other similar substances are unmailable, except when enclosed in sealed envelopes. A two-cent stamp must be affixed to each piece, not to the card, to insure delivery. All cards which do not conform with the above rule will be sent to the Dead Letter Office at Washington.

Howard A. Colby in Maine.

The current issue of the American Golfer," edited by Walter J. Travis, contains an excellent picture of Howard A. Colby, of this city, "shooting" a deer in the Maine woods. The head of the deer is just discernible to the left in the middle pine tree. Mr. Colby writing to "The American Golfer," says that the deer have become so tame that he was able to pitch a golf ball over one and get a photograph at the same time.

WEST END TABERNACLE WINS ENDEAVOR BANNER

The Christian Endeavor Society of the West End Tabernacle, recently organized, carried off the honors at the Endeavor mass meeting of the Plainfield Union, held at the Second-Day Baptist church, when the attendance banner was awarded to it for having the largest percentage of members present. The society had its full membership, eighteen, at the meeting, giving it one hundred per cent. This is the first instance of the kind in the history of the union.

The Hope chapel was second and the Temple Baptist church society, which held the banner last year, was third. After the roll call of societies by Alexander Gallowit, secretary, the banner was awarded by Frank Stewart, the president of the local union.

The service was in charge of Jesse Burdick and the singing was led by the Rev. H. N. Jordan, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. A Christian Endeavor male quartet comprised of E. D. Young, Dr. O. B. Whitford, Roy Titsworth and William Smith rendered several selections and Miss Jessie Utter presided at the piano. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Edwin Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of this city and Rev. J. W. Musson, of the Temple Baptist church, pronounced the benediction.

Rev. Dr. J. F. Morgan, of Jersey City, was the speaker of the evening, taking for his subject: "Bible Study; Its Place and Importance in the Christian Endeavor Life." He said in part:

"The Bible is the most widely circulated book in the world, being translated into over two hundred languages. If its principles were adopted in every day life there would be a complete revolution in social conditions. Factional quarrels would be unknown and there would be no necessity for prisons or asylums or alms houses.

"Christian Endeavorers should study the Bible and become familiar with its precepts in order to meet the criticisms of the day and to find the message of salvation through Jesus Christ which runs like a golden thread through the entire book from Genesis to Revelations."

The local Endeavorers are planning to have William Shaw, general secretary of the United Society of Boston, address the mass meeting to be held in January.

CAPTAIN HUMPHREY CAPTURES OUTLAWS

According to a cable despatch received from Zamboanga in the Philippines, there is reported the capture of four of the outlaws who a month ago massacred some American planters at Davao Gulf in Mindanao. Three outlaws were killed in the fight in which the capture was made and according to the cable, the capture was made by Captain Chauncey B. Humphrey, of the Twenty-second Infantry, who is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, and who is well known here.

Captain Humphrey is a graduate of West Point and was captain of the football team in 1896 and 1897 and has distinguished himself by his fighting qualities on several occasions. One of these was in December, 1906, when he was on a train in Colorado. With the assistance of a negro he knocked out four prize fighters, a trainer and a rubber and held at bay fifty other men.

The party had just come from a prize fight and made some remarks about some women in the car. As a result of the fight Captain Humphrey was badly disfigured and both of his hands were broken. He was in the hospital for several weeks.

Lecture on "The Passion Play."

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelle, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will deliver a lecture at the church, Tuesday evening, December 13, at 8 o'clock on "The Passion Play," which he saw at Oberammergau during his recent trip abroad. The lecture, which will be given under the auspices of the Men's Club, will be illustrated by colored slides, and as the subject is one of general interest the Men's Club extends a cordial invitation to the women of the church to attend.

'Twas a Lion All Right.

"Gee whiz I just run over a lion," exclaimed a motorman on the Hudson River trolley line as he stopped his car at Hackensack, near that city, Thursday night. There was much excitement, and Inspector Harry Haddon was the first to speak.

"How did you know it was a lion?" he asked.

"My heavens, man, the searchlight shone right on his head, and there were big eyes wide open, and the mouth wid open, showing his teeth," was the motorman's response.

Inspector Haddon never hunted in the jungle, but he bravely walked back along the track. There was the lion's head all right, but the balance of it was a monster laprobe. The trolley wheel had ripped the skin in the middle.

The Constitutionalist

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., December 8, 1910

THE CITY'S DISGRACE.

It strikes us that Consulting Health Officer Leon Thurlow in giving his views on the long agitated system of municipal collection and disposal of garbage and ashes was rather severe on village administration. We hold no brief for the hamlets but we protest against his assertion contained in his assertion that "The method of collecting this municipal waste today is what we might expect to find in a small country town." His statement that "In one respect, meaning the matter of garbage and ashes, Plainfield is sadly behind the times" is absolutely true. And it is a shameful disgrace to the community. It seems that it is an easy matter to appropriate hundreds and even thousands of dollars for investigations to find out what some man or set of men think of municipal ownership or consolidation, or to collect evidence of New York department stores selling liquors here, or to obtain such luxuries as brick pavements. But when it comes to doing something both practical and necessary as to protect public health and at the same time rid the city of such a spectacle as broken-down wagons hauling away refuse at private expense it appears to be another matter. Why, our councilmen are even giving their time to a serious discussion of the plan to install arc lights in the central part of the community at public expense, and only last year, the Board of Health appeals in vain for something to be done on a really important matter.

"While all the cities about us have modern methods," said Mr. Thurlow, who is admittedly qualified to give an opinion, "we have broken-down wagons, horses and cans, the householder at the mercy of the licensed collector—who collects or not, when he pleases, and as he chooses—and finally the garbage fed to hogs and brought back to Plainfield in the form of pork." There he has, most mildly, stated the case. There are abundant reasons why this condition should not be tolerated in this or any other community making a pretense to being progressive. Mr. Thurlow gives three of them. First, he says, on account of the expense; secondly, on account of the inconvenience and discomfort to the residents, and thirdly and most important of all because of the possibilities of the spread of disease.

Mr. Thurlow estimates, and we think his figuring is correct, that the people who pay taxes and rightly expect that such things should be done by the municipality in return for such taxes spend $25,000 or $35,000 annually for this work to be done by the licensed garbage collectors and ash carters. According to his estimate, this means that the average householder must pay out of his pocket, in addition to his taxes, $12 or $15 a year for having something done himself that the city should do for him. "In Montclair this work," Mr. Thurlow says, "is done by five one-horse wagons and one truck and the cost is at the cost of $21,500; this includes the cost of disposal by burying in trenches—a cost of ninety-seven cents per capita. In other cities, this work is done at a cost per capita varying from seven cents to a dollar, therefore I can see no reason why this work should not be done in Plainfield as cheaply as in other cities, at a saving of over $10,000 at the present time spent. The entire city could then be taken care of by six neat, modern, sanitary wagons, instead of the twenty or more now in use, which are for the most part, broken-down, unsanitary affairs."

We are glad to see that the newly organized Chamber of Commerce, which will be a power for good in the community, has considered the subject important enough to have it discussed at its next regular meeting. We hope that the matter will not be allowed to rest until the much desired improvement is brought about.

EDUCATION FOR ADULTS.

The broader functions in the direction of educational work are to be undertaken by the local Board, which amply shows that it fully realizes its responsibilities and its duties. It is with much satisfaction that we note in announcement regarding plans for the education of adults. The system in force at higher seats of learning is adopted, a course of lectures on topics that tend to broaden the mind and develop the intellect having been arranged. Science, art, and literature are all embraced in the tentative curriculum and it depends entirely upon the public response as to the success of the undertaking. If the attendance warrants it, the board, we believe, will provide a program which will represent on a proportionate scale that now found in New York, Boston and other centres. As a beginning, an illustrated lecture on "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado" will be given. This will be followed by an illustrated lecture on "The Historic Castles of England." This course of instruction is not intended for any particular class or body of people; it is intended for all—for he who has had the advantage of a college education and has travelled as much so as his less fortunate brother who through some cause has been deprived of such opportunities. As we say, it all depends now on the reception accorded by the public and we do hope that it will be a flattering one.

N. Y AMUSEMENTS.

"Alma, Where do You Live?" is still staying at Joe Weber's Theatre, 29th Street and Broadway, with Kitty Gordon, the English beauty, and best dressed woman on the New York stage, and promises to draw capacity houses until the end of the season. One of the hits in the play is being made by Miss Georgia Harvey, as Antoinette, Theobold's shrewish wife, who wears "not only the trousers, but the shirt and vest" and looks like 'lemonade before they add the sugar" to use her husband's description. Miss Harvey is new to Broadway audiences but her clever and painstaking portrayal of the "boss" in the Martin household has won the favor of critics and public, largely because true characterizations in farce are so seldom realized. Miss Harvey is a Canadian, and was born in Newport, Nova Scotia. She comes from a family of Baptist ministers, no member of which has ever been the inside of a theatre. She develops her character types from the people with whom she comes in contact.

metropolitan appearance under the metropolitan appearance under the management of Lew Fields at Wallack's Comedy Theatre last Monday evening, playing the stellar role in a new farce entitled "I'll Be Hanked It I Do." William Collier's Comedy Theatre is the cozy little playhouse in Forty-first street, just east of Broadway, which has formerly been known simply as the Comedy Theatre, but which the Messrs. Shubert have now re-named in honor of Mr. Collier, who will hereafter play all his New York City engagements in this theatre. The company supporting Mr Collier include, among others, Paula Marr, Helena Collier Garrick, Clara Smith, Sallie Tompkins, Stanley Murphy, James B. Sherrah, Willard R. Feeley, Fred Esmelton, Maude Gilbert, M. L. Hechert, Stephen Kelly, Albert West, John H. Adams, William Collier, Jr., Richard Malchien, Thomas Beauregard, Thomas Findlay and Thomas Stuart. Matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Best seats Wednesday matinees $1.50.

The old saying that "good things improve with age," must have been written with "Baby Mine," Margaret Mayo's uproariously funny farce in view. "Baby Mine" is now in its second century at Daly's, New York, but there are no evidences of waning interest, and the audiences continue nightly to bubble over with merriment in following its excruciatingly funny episodes. "Baby Mine" has been called "the funniest farce ever written," and it deserves its reputation. A night at Daly's with "Baby Mine" is presented by Marguerite Clark, Ivy Troutman, John Glendinning, Walter Jones and the other clever players in the cast, is a tonic.

An interesting theatrical offering of the coming week is Cohan and Harris' production of the new farcial comedy, "The Aviator," scheduled for its initial Broadway bow at the Astor Theatre on Tuesday evening next. James Montgomery is the author of the play. He is credited with having written a vigorous American farce constructed with brisk dialogue and incidental situations that are productive of many amusing complications. The story of the play is woven around a susceptible author who has written a book called "The Aviator," wherein he describes a thrilling flight of a racing aeroplane. All worn out with his literary exertions, he seeks the quiet of a summer hotel in the Berkshire hills accompanied by a gabby college friend who starts the rumor that the story of the air journey so brilliantly described in the novel is the author's own terrifying experience, though he never saw an air wagon.

MORE APPROPRIATIONS FOR WATER INVESTIGATION

The Common Council at its December meeting Monday, ordered 250 additional copies of the special water report prepared by James Fuertes, the expert engineer, at an expense not to exceed $162.50. This action was taken in accordance with a resolution offered by Councilman Mygatt, chairman of the special water committee. In this connection, another resolution introduced by Mr. Mygatt and adopted, provided for an appropriation of $300 to conduct a further investigation into the water problem.

It is the desire of the committee to obtain some additional data and information to complete the already full report of Mr. Fuertes and this will be required for the purpose. Copies of the water report, which have just been printed, were distributed among the members of the council last night.

Richard Tyler, of Paulsboro, picked a pimple on his chin, and as a result is suffering with blood poison.

WOMEN ROBBED OF VOTE

Equal Suffragist Tells Democrats Fair Sex Was Deprived of Ballot.

FAVOR EQUAL PRIVILEGE.

Mrs. Riley and Miss Bateman Address Political Club, the Occasion Being First of Its Kind in State.

That the women of New Jersey have been punished for one hundred and three years for an offense they never committed was one of the interesting facts brought home to the Plainfield Democratic Club Monday night at a meeting addressed by Mrs. Champlin L. Riley, president of the Equal Suffrage League, and Miss Zoe Russell Bateman, of the same organization.

It was an unusual and interesting meeting in many ways. For one thing it was the first occasion in this State, and probably in the United States, in which a community organization of one of the great voting parties formally invited representatives from the great non-voting party to state their reasons for demanding the ballot.

When the women had finished their addresses Leroy J. Ellis, president of the Democratic Club, said that he was "almost converted." Then he admitted that he seemed to be the only member who was not entirely converted as no man present ventured to answer Mrs. Riley or Miss Bateman. It is further admitted that if the women really wanted the ballot they should have it, but suggested that they should right the wrongs complained of without waiting for the suffrage. He did not explain how.

In response to a suggestion from Champlain L. Riley, husband of the Suffrage League's president, that the Democratic Club and all similar organizations throughout the State should take a vote on the suffrage question and declare itself squarely, one way or the other on the issue, Mr. Ellis replied that the Democratic party was too busy with its old unsettled questions to take up new ones.

To go back to the unjust punishment of New Jersey women for more than a century, Miss Bateman recalled the fact that the Continental Congress of 1776 dodged the woman suffrage question by leaving it to each State to decide for itself.

"And to the lasting glory of New Jersey," continued Miss Bateman, "this State gave the ballot to her women. They had it until 1807. In that year there was a great election fraud scandal incidental to the vote in the location of State buildings. Many persons voted early and often. Minors and foreigners, who had no rights of the polls at all, voted without hindrance. There was nothing to show that the women were guilty of these frauds. At least they alone were not guilty. But in November of that year the Legislature, without sanction of the people, was required by law amended the constitution so as to deprive the women of the suffrage."

Miss Bateman also enumerated many of the other handicaps placed upon women in this and other States because of laws that deprive them of an equal voice in the affairs of their own property and their own children.

She named the women who had fought for the cause for many years and paid a tribute to the memory of Julia Ward Howe, whose daughter, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, sat on the platform with President Ellis and the speakers.

Miss Bateman closed with an appeal to the members of the Democratic Club, to be real Democrats by working for a government of, for and by all the people in place of a government of, for and by a part of the people.

After congratulating the Democratic Club on the success of its party at the recent election, Mrs. Riley said in part:

"Last spring, in Washington, a petition was presented to Congress to enfranchise the women of the United States. It was signed by over 400,000 men and women. The numbers seem to me less significant than the character of the signers.

"Among those who signed were sixteen governors of States, a number of mayors of cities, many State, county and city officials. Among the signatures were many of the best known instructors and writers upon political economy and many signatures of presidents of colleges and universities. It included names of many judges of supreme courts. There was a special writer's petition led by the name of Wm. Dean Howells, and (promising well for the prosperity of our cause) there were many publishers and editors who signed.

"We come now to the question, why do women want the ballot? Broadly speaking, there are two classes of women; those in the home and those in industry. Women in the home want the ballot to protect the home. Women in industry want protection for their industries.

"Women in the home realize that under the modern economic conditions they cannot continue to do for their homes what they have done in the past without greater power. In the early days, a family was sufficient unto itself as in the case of John Gilly, of whom Pres. Elliot writes so charmingly. A family was independent of the rest of the community except for the matter of defense from violence. A family could raise its food, control its water, weave its cloth and make its clothes. Today there is only one way to control the food supply, the water supply and the clothing supply. That way is legislation.

"And, again, it we would protect the education and morals of the family, we cannot do so without legislation. The government in deciding the most intimate relations of private life as we all know. We suffragists claim that the mothers should have a voice in deciding some of these intimate questions, according to the inter-parliamentary Union, Colorado is the 'sanest, most humane, most progressive, most scientific laws relating to the child to be found on any statute book in the world." The mothers vote in Colorado.

"But some of us mothers in New Jersey don't want to vote. We are content to believe that 'the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world.' Anna Shaw in her speech of a few weeks past, pointed out that the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world only so long as the hand is in the cradle. Almost as soon as the baby creeps out of the cradle, the modern mother needs the vote to adequately control its food and clothing, and more important still, the moral and educational conditions in which it is to be placed.

"Our next question is: Why does the woman in industry want the ballot? To protect herself. No power can be stronger than the oft repeated resolutions of the American Federation of Labor in favor of Equal Suffrage. I shall read the resolution of 1908: 'Resolved, That this, the twenty-eighth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor does now reaffirm this platform and expresses its belief in the need of full political equality for all women. That this political equality is as necessary to their economic independence as it is for their brothers in all branches of labor and we pledge the affiliated unions of the land to earnestly work for this political freedom.'

"Just here the question of taxation comes in since both home-keepers and industrial workers may be taxpayers. It is a proverb that women pay more taxes than do men on the same value of property, and to further point a moral and adorn a tale, I would like to quote Gov. Shafrath, of Colorado:

"'Have we forgotten the cry of our forefathers, which stirred the hearts of every patriotic American, that "taxation without representation is tyranny?" Why is it tryranny to men, but not to women? Should women be denied the right to protect, by vote, their property from excessive tax incumbrances when the right is given to all male persons even to men some of whom cannot read or write our language? Is is sufficient to say that "they are not the only persons taxed as property holders from whom the ballot is withheld," when the only persons from whom it is permanently withheld are lunatics, idiots, illiterates and criminals? How would men like such reasoning applied to themselves?'

"The franchise was never extended at any time to any class as well fitted for it at the time it was granted as are the women of Colorado today.

"We suffragists, believe that many women are already well fitted for the ballot and that many more would soon fit themselves for it. We believe that the entance of women into politics would benefit the whole land and not only or even chiefly, the women themselves. We believe that it would put new life into democratic government and be for the real good of every man, woman and child in our great republic; and so in closing I do not hesitate to appeal to the Democrats of New Jersey to put a woman suffrage plank into their party platform. In five years such a plank will prove itself so strong that no platform can afford to be without it, and this will happen because equal suffrage is right, and being right, is inevitable."

CIRCLE OF THE K. D. TO HOLD ENTERTAINMENT.

The In His Name Circle of The King's Daughters has arranged to give a kitchen shower and broom drill at the Hartridge School auditorium, Saturday afternoon and evening. There will be everything in the kitchen line for sale, and the broom drill promises to be something fine. The affair will begin at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and continue through the afternoon and evening. Mrs. F. W. Butler is president of the circle and the following members will take part:

The Misses' Edith and Marguerite Arnold, Elizabeth Brown, Katharine Browne, Gertrude Butler, Katharine Drayton, Pauline Gates, Helen Harrington, Eleanor Hatch, Leila Hedges, Ellen Hovel, Eleanor Iredell, Arline Lane, Dorothy Leal, Dorothy Lyon, Edith Ogden, Dorothy Parvin, Monaca Shaffrets, Caroline Slauson, Gwendolen Stanton, Helen Strong, Ruth Timpson, Dorothy Tuttle, Marion Weam and Martine Weeks. A silver offering will be received at the door.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

FALL RESULTS IN DEATH

Frank Hale Succumbs to Heart Failure After Slight Mishap in Street.

FELL INTO AN OPENING.

Was Unconscious When Discovered by Fellow-boarder—Leaves Relatives in New England.

Frank Hale, the well-known contracting carpenter, died suddenly at his boarding place on Grove street, Monday night, following an attack of heart failure, brought on it is believed, by falling into an opening near the curb near the north-west end of the Grove street bridge over Greenbrook. He was discovered in this place in an unconscious condition by John McCready, a fellow boarder, shortly before 11 o'clock. He was carried to his room in the apartments of Mrs. Emma Johnson, at No. 5 Grove street, and Dr. Gessler was summoned. The man was dead when the physician arrived. He declared heart failure to have been the direct cause.

Hale had been about as usual Monday, to all appearances being in the best of health. He spent the evening at Proctor's theatre and started for home around 10 o'clock. It is presumed that he fell into the opening at the end of the bridge as he was taking a short cut across the street. It is possible that he slipped on the snow-covered ground and received a severe jar in the fall. He was in a recumbent position when found, his head upright near the walk.

Hale was forty-six years old and came to Plainfield from Connecticut about twenty years ago. He was employed at different times by local builders and more recently took contracts himself. He was at work Monday on two houses which he has been erecting for Mrs. Johnson, with whom he boarded, on Netherwood avenue.

Hale had no relatives here but leaves a number in New England. A son is a student at Yale and a daughter lives with a brother who is a physician in Providence, R. I. He is also survived by his father who is a physician at New Bedford, Mass.

SAVED WOMAN'S LIFE; HERO TRULY MODEST

A gallant deed which may escape record as far as a knowledge of its hero is concerned in this world, but which will undoubtedly go on record where such things are carefully noted by the Keeper of the Books occurred on Saturday evening at the North avenue station and lest it be totally ignored that the act escape at least the appreciation of one who witnessed a thrilling rescue George M. Holstein, of Watchung avenue, has this to say of the heroic deed.

"I had alighted from the 5:13 train from New York and as the train pulled out bound west, I noticed a woman at the iron fence which divides the tracks. She was on the opposite, or east bound side and called out asking how to open the gate saying she wanted to come across. On looking up I saw the headlight of an approaching express train from the west on her side of the fence and I at once shouted to her to go back. To my horror she ignored my warning and renewed her efforts to open the gate.

Realizing then that the oncoming train was a New York-bound Philadelphia flier and that the woman was doomed to certain death unless she instantly ran back, I again shouted with all the power of my lungs, but doubtless even while doing so I knew it would be time. At that instant out of the dusk on my side of the station dashed the form of a young man. Reaching across the fence and firmly grasping the woman he drew her close to the gate and she, with a strength not her own, was held in safety while the train with a flash, a shriek and a roar rushed by.

"It was a gallant act performed by the young man possessed of red blood cool judgment and a genius for instant action. After it was over and while I was congratulating him, a uniformed railroad man approached asking the rescuer his name. For reply he simply said 'To h—— with it,' and fled."

And there are not many who would have done likewise.

NATION'S POPULATION TO BE KNOWN DEC. 10

The result of the thirteenth census will go down the columns of history Saturday, December 10, when Director Durand will announce the total population of the United States.

The director announces that the final figures are near completion and that the announcement will be made upon the verification of the results. A statement also will be made regarding the announcement.

Engagement Announced.

Mrs. G. Elston Lowrie, of Dunellen, announces the engagement of her daughter, Susan Louise, to Charles H. Bishop, Jr., of Brooklyn.

NUMBERS FOR HOUSES

Ordinance Passed Monday on Third Reading May be Amended.

MANY PETITIONS RECEIVED.

Objections Made at Common Council Hearing on Kensington Avenue Extension Plans and Action is Deferred.

During a period of suspension of regular business at the December meeting of the Common Council, last Monday, public hearing was granted on the proposed ordinance to extend Kensington avenue, the necessary affadavits having been filed. E. B. Sovereign, who owns considerable property on Kensington avenue and Randolph road, objected to the improvement as proposed, claiming that it would be detrimental to his property interests. He said that he did not want to stop "the wheels of progress," but would like to see some changes made in the plans to improve this thoroughfare. It was decided to lay the matter over to December 19.

In connection with the ordinance providing for the numbering of residences throughout the city, which was adopted on third reading, a communication was received from A. E. Hoagland, in which he suggested that the council compel residents to place their house numbers on the top riser of the porch where they can be seen plainly. It was a question, however, as to the plans to improve this thoroughfare. It was decided to lay the matter over to December 19.

In connection with the ordinance providing for the numbering of residences throughout the city, which was adopted on third reading, a communication was received from A. E. Hoagland, in which he suggested that the council compel residents to place their house numbers on the top riser of the porch where they can be seen plainly. It was a question, however, as to the plans to improve this thoroughfare. It was decided to lay the matter over to December 19.

In connection with the ordinance providing for the numbering of residences throughout the city, which was adopted on third reading, a communication was received from A. E. Hoagland, in which he suggested that the council compel residents to number their houses where they could specify a point where the numbers are to be placed. It was finally decided to let the matter of placing the numbers go over to the first of the year and amend the ordinance, if desired.

Residents of Monroe avenue petitioned for lights on that thoroughfare, claiming that that section is particularly dark, and now that a colony of Italians is located in the neighborhood, more light is needed. The matter was referred, and later the motion that the petition be granted was withdrawn for the reason that Monroe avenue is not an accepted street and it was thought unwise to place lights there until it has been accepted.

A petition from F. E. Mygatt for lights on Spooner avenue, between Seventh and Eighth streets, was referred, as was a communication from the Union County Board of Taxation, referreing a number of petitions. The Public Service Corporation informed the council that it has erected several new lights as ordered.

Extension of time to May 15, 1911, was granted to John McNab, and an extension of time to May 30, 1911, was granted to Mobus & Burke, to complete some macadamizing work now under contract. A letter was received from the secretary of state, instructing the city clerk to send him the voting machines in this city.

Permission was granted to Jacob Sachar to remove a small dwelling from Fourth and Church streets to 240 East Fourth street, a distance of 200 feet, Mr. Sachar agreeing to protect the city from all damages. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported the granting of sixteen permits during the past month.

Overseer of the Poor A. D. Ayers reported outdoor expenses of $192.21 and the house expenses of $183.61 for the past month. Horace Adams, clerk of the District court, reported receipts of $189.08 for the past month, the expenditures being $17.10. These reports were filed.

Mr. Buxton offered two resolutions, which were adopted. One providing for meeting a $5,000 street improvement bond, which is done as the taxes are received. Another provided for the division of several amounts aggregating $22,441.13 to be same to be charged to the contingent fund. Still another resolution provided for the payment of $120,572.22 to the county collector to cover Plainfield's share of the State, county and school tax. Another resolution called for an appropriation of $381.43 to be credited to the fire fund and charged to the congingent fund, the rate fixed for the coming year being not quite sufficient to meet the full quota allowed the fire department.

Mr. Holt reported back a petition referring to the keeping of chickens in the city excepting that it was a matter for the consideration of the Board of Health. Another petition asking for the appointment of a sealer of weights and measures was also reported back. Mr. Holt stating that he understood the Legislature would enact a law this winter which will probably cover the point in question.

Gave a Surprise Party.

The Misses Edith and Ida Wheeler were tendered a surprise party at their home on Stone street, the borough, Friday night. The evening was spent in playing progressive games, the honors being awarded to the Misses Maude McAffee and Ida Wheeler and to Henry Kinney and Harold Humbert. There were fifteen young people present, several being from out of the city. Refreshments were served.

CORPORATION'S COUNSEL

Effort to Amend Ordinance Has Met a Decided Set-back.

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE.

Mix-up Over Measure Which Conflicts with State Law, Takes Up Common Council's Time.

The question of repealing the ordinance which provides for the appointment of a corporation counsel, which came up at a previous meeting of the Common Council, the amendment to the ordinance being passed on the first reading, was again brought up Monday at the December meeting of that body, by Councilman F. L. Holt, chairman of the laws and ordinances committee.

After a lengthy discussion, during which a further amendment was made to the original ordinance, it was voted to refer the whole matter to the laws and ordinances committee with instructions that a report be made at the adjourned meeting to be held Monday night, December 19.

When the matter was introduced by Mr. Holt, he explained that in addition to the ordinance providing for the appointment of a corporation counsel, the present ordinance, which, contains among other provisions that the term shall be three years, while the ordinance provides for one year appointment. Beginning with January 1, 1905, the term was made three years. It is now a question whether the State act applies to Plainfield, and he suggested that the ordinance be put back on second reading and defeated for the purpose of allowing further investigation.

Mr. Holt said the Mayor Fisk was of the opinion that the State act applies to Plainfield, although no one could recall that Mr. Marsh had ever given an opinion on the matter. His view is not shared by local lawyers. It seems that according to the city charter that the mayor has no appointive power, while under the State act the Common Council would have sole power.

At the request of Mr. Montgomery, the city clerk read the State act referred to for the general information. Mr. Mygatt desired to amend the title of the ordinance as proposed so that it would read "counsel to the corporation," instead of "city attorney," and still further that the appointee be a resident of the city at the time of his appointment. Later on, after the ordinance had been killed, Mr. Mygatt offered an amendment, drawn in the meantime, eliminating the provision that a man must have practiced law in the city one year to be entitled to appointment, substituting that he be a resident of the city." After all the discussion on the subject, it was decided to refer the whole matter to the laws and ordinances committee with a view to having the members ascertain just what procedure would be legal.

LOST OR STRAYED: A GARBAGE REPORT

The question of providing a municipal system for the collection of garbage and ashes, which is being agitated to a considerable extent at present, was introduced at the December meeting of the Common Council Monday by George Clay. He rose to a point of information, inquiring what had become of the report which was forthcoming from the committee on streets. The query naturally brought a smile to the faces of the members, but William L. Holt replied, rather seriously, by replying that "it is still under consideration and the committee reports progress."

This bit of ancient history recalled to Mr. Montgomery's mind that several months ago it was proposed to introduce a safe and sane fireworks ordinance, and he was led to inquire what had become of it. Mr. Holt stated in reply that he thought the matter had been left open with the understanding that Mr. Montgomery was to draw an ordinance that would prove satisfactory to himself. This ended the little "jolly" which proved a happy diversion for some of the members.

TWO MORE REGULARS ADDED TO THE FORCE

Thomas O'Gorman, who has been patrol wagon driver at police headquarters for several years, acting as a special, and Fred Bader, who six months ago, was named a special policeman, were appointed as regular policemen by Mayor Charles J. Fisk, at the December meeting of the Common Council, Monday, and the appointments were confirmed.

Mr. O'Gorman has been a member of the police department for the past fifteen years, but has always been a special. His appointment and confirmation as a regular policeman places him under the protection of the tenure of office act. The other appointee formerly was a trolley conductor. Before coming to Plainfield he resided in New Brunswick.

TAFT'S MESSAGE UP TO CONGRESS

President Breaks Record For Length of Document.

DEFENDS PAYNE TARIFF ACT.

Deals With Panama Canal, Postal Savings Bank, Parcels Post and Conservation—Asks For Raise of Judicial Salaries—Recommendation For Fitting Honor For Peary.

Washington, Dec. 6.—The president sent the following message to congress today:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

During the past year the foreign relations of the United States have continued upon a basis of friendship and good understanding.

The year has been notable as witnessing the pacific settlement of two important international controversies before the permanent court of The Hague.

The arbitration of the fisheries dispute between the United States and Great Britain, which has been the source of nearly continuous diplomatic correspondence since the fisheries convention of 1818, has given an award which is satisfactory to both parties.

Peace Commission.

Appreciating these enlightened tendencies of modern times, the congress at its last session passed a law providing for the appointment of a commission of inquiry "to be appointed by the president of the United States to consider the expediency of utilizing existing international agencies for the purpose of limiting the armaments of the nations of the world by international agreement and of constituting the combined navies of the world an international force for the preservation of universal peace and to consider and report upon any other means to diminish the expenditures of government for military purposes and to lessen the probabilities of war."

The work of the international fisheries commission appointed in 1908 under the treaty of April 11, 1908, between Great Britain and the United States, has resulted in the formulation and recommendation of uniform regulations governing the fisheries of the boundary waters of Canada and the United States for the purpose of protecting and increasing the supply of food fish in such waters.

The Far East.

The center of interest in far eastern affairs during the past year has again been China.

It is gratifying to note that the negotiations for a loan to the Chinese government for the construction of the trunk railway lines from Hankow southward to Canton and westward through the Yangtse valley, known as the Hukuang loan, were concluded by the representatives of the various financial groups in May last and the results approved by their respective governments.

Tariff Negotiations.

The new tariff law in section 2 respecting the maximum and minimum tariffs of the United States, which provisions came into force on April 1, 1910, imposed upon the president the responsibility of determining prior to that date whether or not any undue discrimination existed against the United States and its products in any country which dealt with which we sustained commercial relations.

The policy of broader and closer trade relations with the Dominion of Canada which was initiated in the adjustment of the maximum and minimum provisions of the tariff act of August, 1909, has proved mutually beneficial. It justifies further efforts for the readjustment of the commercial relations of the two countries so that their commerce may follow the channels natural to contiguous countries and be commensurate with the steady expansion of trade and industry on both sides of the boundary line.

The Department of State.

All tariff negotiations, so vital to our commerce and industry, and the duty of jealously guarding the equitable and just treatment of our products, capital and industry abroad devolve upon the department of state.

The efforts of that department to secure for citizens of the United States equal opportunities in the markets of the world and to expand American commerce have been most successful. The volume of business obtained in new fields of competition and upon new lines is already very great, and congress is urged to continue to support the department of state in its endeavors for further trade expansion.

An instrumentality indispensable to the unhampered and natural development of American commerce is merchant marine. All maritime and commercial nations recognize the importance of this factor. The greatest commercial nations, under all conditions, jealously foster their merchant marine.

I alluded to this most important subject in my last annual message. It has often been before you, and I need not recapitulate the reasons for its recommendation. Unless prompt action be taken the completion of the Panama canal will find this the only great commercial nation unable to avail in international maritime business of this great contribution to the means of the world's commercial intercourse.

For many reasons I cannot too strongly urge upon the congress the passage of a measure by mail subsidy or other intervention adequate to guarantee the establishment and rapid development of an American merchant marine, the restoration of the American flag to its ancient place upon the seas.

Estimates For Next Year's Expenses.

The final estimates for the year ending June 30, 1912, as they have been sent to the treasury on Nov. 29 of this year for the ordinary expenses of the government, including those for public buildings, rivers and harbors and the navy building program, amount to $659,494,013.12. This is $52,904,887.39 less than the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911. It is $16,883,123.44 less than the total estimates, including supplemental estimates submitted to congress by the treasury for the year 1911, and is $5,574,659.39 less than the original estimates submitted by the treasury for 1911.

These figures do not include the appropriations for the Panama canal, the policy in respect to which ought to be and is to spend as much each year as can be economically and effectively expended in order to complete the canal as promptly as possible, and therefore the amount of the motive for cutting down the expense of the government does not apply to appropriations for this purpose. It will be noted that the estimates for the Panama canal for the ensuing year are more than $55,000,000, an increase of $20,000,000 over the amount appropriated for this year, a difference due to the fact that the estimates for 1912 include something over $19,000,000 for the fortification of the canal.

Against the estimates of expenditures, $659,494,013.12, we have estimated receipts for next year $680,000,000, making a probable surplus of ordinary receipts over ordinary expenditures of about $50,000,000, or, taking into account the estimates for the Panama canal, which are $55,020,847.69 and which will ultimately be paid in bonds, it will leave a deficit for the next year of about $7,000,000 if congress shall conclude to fortify the canal. The cost of the fortifications is about $19,000,000, and if there are no appropriations this year for fortifications then there would be, even including the Panama canal appropriation, a surplus of about $12,000,000.

It is not essential to the preventing of smuggling that customs districts should be increased in number. The violation of the customs laws can be quite as easily prevented and much more economically by the revenue cutter service and by the use of the special agent traveling force of the treasury department.

Very great improvements have been made in respect to the mints and assay offices. Diminished appropriations have been asked for, because this continuance is unnecessary, and this year's estimate of expenses is $326,000 less than two years ago.

In the bureau of engraving and printing great economies have been effected, useless plates having been abolished, with the result of saving $440,000 this year in the total expenses of the bureau despite increased business.

Revenues.

As the treasury department is the one through which the income of the government is collected and its expenditures are disbursed this seems a proper place to consider the operation of the existing tariff bill, which became a law Aug. 6, 1909. As an income producing measure the existing tariff bill has never been exceeded by any customs bill in the history of the country.

The corporation excise tax, proportioned to the net income of every business corporation in the country, has worked well. The tax has been easily collected. Its prompt payment indicates that the incidence of the tax has not been heavy. It offers, moreover an opportunity for knowledge by the government of the general condition and business of all corporations, and that means by far the most important part of the business of the country. In the original act provision was made for the publication of returns. This provision was subsequently amended by congress and the matter left to the regulation of the president. I have directed the bureau of internal revenue to frame regulations and have made it possible for the public generally to know from an examination of the record the returns of all corporations the stock of which is listed on any public stock exchange or whose stock is sold to the general public by advertisement or otherwise. The returns of those corporations whose stock is not so listed or offered for sale are directed to be open to the inspection and examination of creditors and stockholders of the corporations and to be opened by the court. The returns of all corporations are subject to the inspection of any government officer or to the examination of any court, in which the return made by the corporation is relevant and competent evidence.

The Payne Tariff Act.

The schedules of the rates of duty in the Payne tariff act have been subjected to a great deal of criticism, some of it just, more of it unfounded, and not a little misrepresentation. The act was adopted in pursuance of a declaration by the party which is responsible for it that a customs bill should be a tariff for the protection of home industries, the measure of the protection to be the difference between the cost of producing the imported article abroad and the cost of producing it at home, together with such addition to that difference as might give a reasonable profit to the home producer.

The basis for the criticism of this tariff is that in respect to a number of the schedules the declared measure was not followed, but a higher difference retained or inserted by way of undue discrimination in favor of certain industries and manufactures.

Little, if any, of the criticism of the tariff has been directed against the protective principle above stated, but the main body of the criticism has been based on the charge that the attempt to conform to the measure of protection was not honestly and sincerely adhered to.

Tariff Board.

The time in which the tariff was prepared undoubtedly was so short as to make it impossible for the congress and its experts to acquire the information necessary strictly to conform to the declared measure. In order to avoid criticism of this kind in the future and for the purposes of more nearly conforming to the party promise congress at its last session made provision at my request for the continuance of a board created under the authority of the maximum and minimum clause of the tariff bill and authorized this board to expend the money appropriated under a joint resolution for the ascertainment of the cost of production at home and abroad of the various articles included in the schedules of the tariff. The tariff board thus appointed and authorized has been diligently preparing itself for the necessary investigations. The hope of those who have advocated the use of this board for tariff purposes is that the question of the rate of a duty imposed shall become more of a business question and less of a political question, to be ascertained by experts of long training and accurate knowledge. The halt in business and the shock to business due to the announcement that a new tariff bill is to be prepared and put in operation will be avoided by treating the schedules one by one as occasion shall arise for a change in the rates of each and only after a report upon the schedule by the tariff board competent to make such report.

It is to be hoped that the board will be able to make a report during the present session of congress on any of the schedules, because a proper examination involves an enormous amount of detail and a great deal of care, but I hope to be ready at the opening of the new congress, or at least during the session of that congress, to bring to its attention the facts in regard to those schedules in the present tariff that may prove to need amendment.

The progress of this plan, of course, involves the full co-operation of congress in limiting the consideration in tariff matters to one schedule at a time, because if a proposed amendment to a tariff bill is to involve a complete examination of all the schedules and another revision then we shall only repeat the evil from which the business of this country has in times past suffered most grievously by stagnation and uncertainty, pending a revision of the tariff by which all business directly or indirectly, and the effect of which no wise business man would ignore in new projects and new investments.

The time in which the members of the tariff board made during the last summer into the methods pursued by other governments with reference to the fixing of tariffs and the determination of their effect upon trade show that each government maintains an office or bureau of experts and clerical employees of which have made their life work the study of tariff matters, of foreign and home prices and cost of articles imported and the effect of the tariff upon trade, so that whenever a change is thought to be necessary in the tariff law this office is possessed of the most reliable information as to the propriety of the change and its effect.

I am strongly convinced that we need in this government just such an office or bureau. The tariff board, by making the tariff board already appointed a permanent tariff commission, with such duties, powers and emoluments as it may seem wise to congress to give. It has been proposed to enlarge the board from three to five. The present number is convenient, but I do not know that an increase of two members would be objectionable.

I recommend that congress establish a commission to determine as early as practicable a comprehensive policy for the organization, mobilization and administration of the regular army, the organized militia and the volunteer forces in the event of war.

Need For Additional Officers.

One of the great difficulties in the prompt organization and mobilization of militia and volunteer forces is the absence of competent officers of the rank of captain to teach the new army, by the unit of the company, the business of being soldiers and of taking charge of companies so as to render effective service. This need of army officers can only be supplied by provisions of law authorizing the appointment of a greater number of army officers than are needed to supply the commands of army troops now enlisted in the service.

In order that the militia of each state should be properly drilled and made more like the regular army, regular army officers should be detailed to assist the adjutant general of each state in the supervision of the state militia. But this is impossible unless provision is made by congress for a more considerable increase in the number of company and field officers of the army.

Fortifications.

I have directed that the estimates for appropriation for the improvement of coast defenses in the United States should be reduced to a minimum, while those for the completion of the needed fortifications at Corregidor, in the Philippine Islands, and at Pearl Harbor, in the Hawaiian Islands, should be expedited as much as possible.

Philippine Islands.

During the last summer at my request the secretary of war visited the Philippine Islands and has described his trip in his report. He found the islands in a state of tranquility and growing prosperity, due largely to the change in the tariff laws which has opened the markets of America to the products of the Philippines and has opened the Philippine markets to American manufactures.

Panama Canal.

At the instance of Colonel Goethals, the army engineer officer in charge of the work on the Panama canal, I have just made a visit to the isthmus to inspect the work done and to consult with him on the ground as to certain problems which are likely to arise in the near future. The progress of the work is most satisfactory. If no unexpected obstacle presents itself the canal will be completed well within the time fixed by Colonel Goethals—to wit, Jan. 1, 1915—and within the estimate of cost, $375,000,000.

Among questions arising for present solution is the decision whether the canal shall be fortified. I have already stated to the congress that I strongly favor fortifications, and I now reiterate this opinion and ask your consideration of the subject in the light of the report already before you made by a competent board.

If in our discretion we believe modern fortifications to be necessary to the adequate protection and policing of the canal, then it is our duty to construct them. We have built the canal. It is our property. By convention we have indicated our desire for and indeed undertaken its universal and equal use. It is also well known that one of the chief objects in the construction of the canal has been to increase the military effectiveness of our navy.

Failure to fortify the canal would leave the attainment of both these objects in serious doubt. Rules and obligations which we should be powerless to enforce and which could never in any other way be absolutely safeguarded against a desperate and irresponsible enemy.

In determining what the tolls in the canal should be we certainly ought not to insist that for a good many years to come they should amount to enough to pay the interest on the investment of $400,000,000 which the United States has made in the construction of the canal. We ought not to do this, first, because the benefits to be derived by the United States from this expenditure are not to be measured solely by a return upon the investment.

The proper provision for the tolls ought not to exceed $1 per net ton. On Jan. 1, 1911, the tolls in the Suez canal are to be 7 francs and 28 centimes for one net ton—by Suez canal measurement, which is a modification of Danube measurement. One dollar a ton will secure under the figures above a gross annual income from the Panama canal of nearly $7,000,000. The cost of maintenance and operation is estimated at $2,000,000.

The next question that arises is as to the maintenance, management and general control of the canal after its completion. It should be premised that it is an essential part of our navy establishment in the canal, oil and other ship supplies, a drydock and repair shops conveniently located with reference to naval vessels passing through the canal. Now, if the government for naval purposes is to undertake to furnish these conveniences to the navy, and they are conveniences equally required by commercial vessels, there would seem to be strong reasons why the government should take over and include in its management the furnishing not only to the navy, but to the public, drydock and repair shop facilities and the sale of coal, oil and other ship supplies.

The maintenance of a lock canal of this enormous size in a sparsely populated country and in a climate where the disease from disease is always present, requires a large and complete and well trained organization with full police powers, exercising the utmost care.

I cannot close this reference to the canal without suggesting as a wise amendment to the interstate commerce law a provision prohibiting interstate commerce railroads from owning or controlling ships engaged in the trade through the Panama canal. I believe such a provision may be needed to save to the people of the United States the benefits of the competition in trade between the eastern and western seaboards which this canal was constructed to secure.

Department of Justice.

I am glad to say that under the appropriations made for the department of justice the attorney general has so improved its organization that a vast amount of litigation of a civil and criminal character has been disposed of during the current year. This will explain the necessity for slightly increasing the estimate for the expenses of the department. His report shows the recoveries made on behalf of the government, of duties fraudulently withheld, public lands improperly patented, fines and penalties for trespass, prosecutions and convictions under the anti-trust law and prosecutions under interstate commerce law.

I invite especial attention to the prosecutions under the federal law of the so called "bucket shops" and of those schemes to defraud in which the use of the mail is an essential part of the fraudulent conspiracy, prosecutions which have saved ignorant and weak members of the public and are saving them millions of dollars.

The violations of the anti-trust law present perhaps the most important litigation before the department, and the number of cases filed shows the activity of the government in enforcing that statute.

Judicial Procedure.

One great crying need in the United States is cheapening the cost of litigation by simplifying judicial procedure and expediting final judgment. Under present conditions the poor man is at a woeful disadvantage in a legal contest with a corporation or a rich opponent. The necessity for the reform exists both in United States courts and in all state courts. In order to bring it about, however, it naturally falls to the general government by its example to furnish a model to all states. A legislative commission appointed by joint resolution of congress to revise the procedure in the United States courts has as yet made no report.

I am strongly convinced that the best method of improving judicial procedure at law is by empower the supreme court to do it through the medium of the rules of the court, as in equity. This is the way in which it has been done in England.

Relief of Supreme Court From Unnecessary Appeals.

No man ought to have as a matter of right a review of his case by the supreme court. He should be satisfied by one hearing before a court of first instance and one review by a court of appeals. The proper and chief usefulness of the supreme court, and especially the supreme court of the United States, is in the cases which come before it so to expound the law and especially the fundamental law—the constitution—as to furnish precedents for the inferior courts in future litigation and for the executive officers in the construction of statutes and the performance of their legal duties. Therefore any provisions for review of cases by the supreme court that cast upon that court the duty of passing on questions of evidence and the construction of particular instruments, like indictments or wills or contracts, decisions not of general application or importance, merely clog and burden the court and render more difficult its higher function, which makes it so important a part of the framework of our government. The supreme court is now carrying an unnecessary burden of appeals of this kind, and I earnestly urge that it be removed.

Judicial Salaries.

I further recommend to congress the passage of a law providing for the increase in the salaries of the federal judges, by which the chief justice of the supreme court shall receive $17,500 and the associate justices $17,000, the circuit judges constituting the circuit court of appeals receive $12,000 and the district judges $9,000. The positions they occupy ought to be filled by men who have shown the greatest ability in their professional work at the bar, and it is the poorest economy possible for the government to pay such salaries so low for judicial service as not to be able to command the best talent of the legal profession in every part of the country.

Wiping Out of Postal Deficit.

For many years there has been a deficit in the operations of the post-office department which has been met by appropriation from the treasury. The appropriation estimated for last year from the treasury over and above the postal receipts of the department was $17,500,000. I am glad to record the fact that of that $17,500,000 estimated for $11,500,000 were saved and returned to the treasury. It is gratifying to report that the reduction in the deficit has been accomplished without any curtailment of postal facilities.

Upon the recommendation of the postmaster general I have included in the classified service all assistant postmasters, and I believe that this giving a secure tenure to those who are the most important executive officers in postmasters will add much to the efficiency of their offices and an economical administration.

The Franking Privilege.

The unrestricted manner in which the franking privilege is now being used by the several federal services and by congress has laid it open to serious abuses.

Parcels Post.

With respect to the parcels post, I respectfully recommend its adoption on all rural delivery routes and that eleven pounds be the parcels post limit, as made the limit of carriage in such post. The postoffice department has a great plant and a great organization, reaching into the most remote hamlet of the United States, and with this machinery it can do a great many things economically that if a new organization were necessary it would be impossible to do without extravagant expenditure. That is the reason why the postal savings bank can be conducted at a small additional cost and why it is possible to incorporate at a very inconsiderable expense a parcels post in the rural delivery system.

Peary.

I unite with the secretary in the recommendation that an appropriation be made to construct a suitable crypt at Annapolis for the custody of the remains of John Paul Jones.

The unparalleled achievement of Peary in reaching the north pole, April 6, 1909, approved by critical examination of the most expert scientists, has added to the distinction of our navy, to which he belongs, and reflects credit upon his country. Congress should give fitting and generous acknowledgment from scientific bodies and institutions of learning in Europe and America. I recommend fitting recognition by congress of the great achievement of Robert Edwin Peary.

For Eight Hour Day.

It seems to me from the past history that the government has been committed to a policy of encouraging the limitation of the day's work to eight hours in all works of construction initiated by itself, and it seems to me illogical to maintain a difference between government work done on government soil and government work done in a private establishment.

Workmen's Compensation.

In view of the keen, widespread interest now felt in the United States in a system of compensation for industrial accidents to supplant our present thoroughly unsatisfactory system of employers' liability (a subject the importance of which congress has already recognized by the appointment of a commission), I recommend that the international congress on industrial insurance be invited to hold its meeting in 1913 in Washington and that an appropriation of $10,000 be made to cover the necessary expenses of organizing and carrying on the meeting.

Safety Appliances and Provisions.

The protection of railroad employees from personal injury is a subject of the highest importance and demands continuing attention.

Negro Exposition.

I also renew my recommendation that steps be taken looking to the holding of a negro exposition in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the issuance by Lincoln of the emancipation proclamation.

Conservation.

Nothing can be more important in the matter of conservation than the treatment of our forest lands. Speaking generally, the government has reserved of the existing forests about 70 per cent of all the forest lands of the government. Within these forests (including 26,000,000 acres in two forests in Alaska) are 192,000,000 acres, of which 166,000,000 acres are in the United States proper and include within their boundaries something like 22,000,000 acres of agricultural land, now or to private individuals. We have, then, excluding Alaska forests, a total of about 144,000,000 acres of forests belonging to the government which are being treated in accord with the principles of scientific forestry.

The law now prohibits the reservation of any more forest lands in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Colorado and Wyoming except by act of congress. I am informed by the department of agriculture that the government owns other tracts of timberland in these states which should be included in the forest reserves. I recommend to congress that the limitation herein imposed be repealed. In the present forest reserves there are many tracts which are temporarily forest land and which ought to be subject to homestead entry.

Coal Lands.

The next subject, and one most important for your consideration, is the disposition of the coal lands in the United States and in Alaska. At the beginning of the present administration there were classified coal lands in the United States amounting to 5,476,000 acres, and there were withdrawn from entry for purposes of classification 17,807,000 acres. Since that time there have been withdrawn by my order from entry for classification 78,977,745 acres, making a total withdrawal of 96,844,745 acres. Meantime of the acres thus withdrawn 10,061,880 have been classified and found not to contain coal and have been restored to agricultural entry, and 4,726,091 acres have been classified as coal lands, while 79,903,239 acres remain withdrawn from entry and await classification. In addition 337,000 acres have been classified as coal lands without prior withdrawal, making the present classified coal lands to 10,429,372 acres.

The question as to how great an area ought to be included in a lease to one individual or corporation is not free from difficulty, but in view of the fact that the government retains control as owner I think there might be some liberality in the amount leased and that 2,500 acres would not be too great a maximum. The leases should only be granted after advertisement and public competition.

The secretary of the interior thinks there are difficulties in the way of leasing public coal lands. I entirely approved his stating at length in his report the objections in order that the whole subject may be presented to congress, but after a full consideration I favor a leasing system and recommend it.

The needed oil and gas law is essentially a leasing law, in their natural occurrence oil and gas cannot be measured in terms of acres, like coal, and it follows that exclusive title to these products can normally be secured only after they reach the surface. Oil should be disposed of as a commodity by the barrel or barrels of transportable product rather than in acres of real estate.

Water Power Rates.

The water power sites subject is one that calls for new legislation. It has been thought that there was danger of combination to obtain possession of all the water power sites in a state then under one control. Whatever the evidence of this or lack of it, at present we have had enough experience to know that combination would be profitable, and the control of a great number of power sites would enable the holders or owners to raise the price of power at will within certain sections, and the temptation would promptly attract investors, and the danger of monopoly and extortion would not be a remote one.

However this may be, it is the plain duty of the government to see to it that in the utilization and development of all this immense amount of water power conditions shall be imposed that will prevent extortionate charges, which are the usual accompaniment of monopoly.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

a now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the toncorla

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

W. K. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law.

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses; rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for ambitious man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position. Write for terms and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Mechanics Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL

DIED.

SUTTERLIN—At the residence of his daughter Mrs. Edward Mundy, 19 Harmony street, North Plainfield, on Wednesday, November 30, 1910, Gustave Sutterlin, aged 69 years.

DEMEZA—On Sunday, November 27, 1910, John, son of Charlotte and the late George H. DeMeza, of West Second street.

YOUNG—On Friday December 2, 1910, Mary Bohl, wife of Leonard Young, in her fortieth year.

TOWNSEND—December 1, 1910, Adaline Manning, wife of David Townsend, in the seventy-sixth year of her age.

HOFFMAN—On Sunday December 4, 1910, Alice B., wife of Peter F. Hoffman, aged 22 years.

BROKAW—At his late residence, 122 Hill Point avenue, Weehawken Heights, N. J., on Saturday, December 3, 1910, Edgar Stelle Brokaw aged sixty-four years.

On Christmas Shop Committee.

Mrs. Pierre Mali, of New York, whose summer home is on East Front street, is a member of the committee in charge of the Christmas shop for the benefit of the Stony Wold Sanitarium in the Adirondacks, which will be held on Tuesday, December 13, from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m., in the Hotel Manhattan, New York.

Daughters of the Cross Will Give Tea

Invitations have been sent out by the Daughters of the Cross for a tea and sale to be given Friday, December 9, from three until six o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Samuel St. John McCutchen, 84 Myrtle avenue. There will be a sale of useful and fancy articles, cake and candy with 25 cents received at the door.

Engagement Announced.

Mrs. Mary McLaughlin, of New Brunswick, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Jennie McLaughlin, to Harvey J. Moynihan, of Bound Brook. The wedding will take place in the Spring. Both young people are well known in this city.

Following argument on the application for a writ of certiorari reviewing the action of the Council of Sea Isle City in adopting a resolution vacating the seat of Thomas E. Ludlam as a member, Supreme Court Justice Trenchard in Camden Monday reserved decision. Because he missed fifteen out of seventeen meetings of the Council, Ludlam's seat was declared vacant, and John Dallas was chosen his successor.

AN INFERNAL MACHINE.

Its Explosion in Bremerhaven Brought Death and Destruction, Killing One Hundred and Twenty-eight People.

The greatest fatality ever caused by an infernal machine is known as the Bremerhaven explosion, and it occurred near the end of 1875, when a fellow who called himself Thomas and who was said to be an American took up his residence with his family in Bremen. His finances were at a low ebb, and to replenish them he conceived the idea of sending to America some worthless but highly insured packages of goods. By the same vessel he intended to ship an infernal machine, which was to have exploded a few days after the vessel had left port. The explosion occurred, however, just before the package was put on board, causing terrible loss of life.

Thomas, whose real name was said to be Alexander, charged his machine with nitroglycerin, which he had procured in America and purchased the clockwork and the case containing the machine in Germany. The hammer of the clockwork, which was to act in six days after leaving port, was to strike a blow of thirty pounds weight. In his confession later Thomas said that when testing the clockwork the hammer smashed a mahogany table.

He sent the contrivance to Bremerhaven to be shipped on the Mosel for New York via Southampton. He himself took passage to the latter port, where he had arranged to ship his cases of rubbish for New York. The Mosel was to leave Bremerhaven on Saturday, Dec. 11, and on that day the infernal machine was sent to the dock, which was crowded with porters, passengers and their friends. For some reason that has never been explained the heavy case slipped from the crane on to the wharf as it was being lifted up the ship's side, and the charge was instantly exploded. Death and destruction were dealt around, 128 men, women and children being instantly killed, while fifty-six others were terribly wounded.

Thomas was waiting on board the ship to receive his case and see it stowed away in the hold, but right after the explosion he went to his cabin, locked the door and shot himself in the head with a revolver.

He lingered for several days in the hospital and made a full confession before he died.—Exchange.

A CRATER TOWN.

Where the Inhabitants Build Ships Inside Extinct Volcanoes.

Saba, in the West Indies, is one of the most extraordinary places in the world. By courtesy it is called an island, but it is really nothing more than the summit of an extinct volcano sticking up out of the sea.

Inside the crater live the only inhabitants of Saba. They live there because there is nowhere else for them to live, the outside slopes being nearly as steep as the sides of a house.

The place belongs to Holland, and the people are all Dutch. Nevertheless they speak English in their native tongue. They call their crater town Bottom because it is situated on the top of a mountain.

Although surrounded on all sides by the sea, they often spend weeks without seeing it, for that involves a long climb up to the rim of the crater. Still less frequently do they touch salt water, because to do so they must, in addition, climb downward for a distance of 1,500 feet by a precipitous rock hewn path known as "the ladder."

It is, however, in regard to their staple industry that these Dutch people who speak English and who live aloft in a volcano in a summit city called Bottom reach the extreme of topsy-turveydom. One might imagine them making balloons or kites or, in fact, anything but what they do make, which is ships—not ocean going liners, but good, serviceable schooners and luggers, whose repute is great all over the Windward islands. The ships when finished have to be hauled up to the rim of the crater and then lowered over a precipice into the sea.—Exchange.

African Pygmies.

The pygmies of Africa, says Captain Guy Burrows in his "Land of the Pygmies," are masters in the art of hunting. They can kill even elephants with their little bows and arrows, blinding the animal first by shooting at its eyes. Once he is blinded they never leave him till he falls. A pygmy, I have no hesitation in saying, eats, as a rule, twice as much as will suffice a full grown man. He will take a stalk containing about sixty bananas, seat himself and eat them all at a meal, besides other food. Then he will lie and groan throughout the night until morning comes, when he is ready to repeat the operation.

Error of Judgment.

"I thought, count, you were a dead shot?"

"I am."

"And yet, though you said you would shoot your adversary through the heart, you hit him in the foot?"

"It was an error of judgment. I thought his heart was in his boots. It turned out to be in its right place."

Wouldn't Be Convinced.

"Robson thinks he plays a good game of bridge."

"Yes, he does. I spent $27 the other night trying to disabuse him of the idea—and failed."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Plenty of It.

"Judging from the amount of it killed in this settlement," remarked a visitor in Plunkville, "I persoom there must be a bounty on time."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

THE OLD-RELIABLE HOME FURNISHERS

COWPERTHWAIT AND VAN HORN CO.

73-75 MARKET STREET ESTAB. 1860 NEWARK N.J.

One of Many Gifts

You'll Find At Old Reliable "No. 73."

This Store has any number of practical Gifts for every member of the family!

2.25 Buys This Rocker

Reg. $4.50 value—Early English Oak, Excellent Construction, Upholstered in Imitation Leather, Big Value for 2.25!

Add one to your account—NO DEPOSIT—or Open an Account with us To-Day; If you prefer to Pay CASH, Take 10% Off—this applies all thru' the store!

For "HIM"	Office Rug . . . . 7.25 up.	Writing Desk . . . 5.50 up.
Couch. . . . . $7.75 up.	Library Table . . 5.50 up.	Brass Bed . . . . 5.95 up.
Bookcase . . . . 7.75 up.		Dinner Set. . . . 5.75 up.
Office Desks . . 13.50 up.	For "HER"	Parlor Table . . . 2.50 up.
Magazine Stand . 1.45 up.	Sewing Machine $22.00 up.	Portland Range. . 13.00 up.
Library Lamp . . . 1.95 up.	Rocker . . . . . 1.95 up.
Chest . . . . . 3.95 up.	Carpet Sweeper . . 2.75 up.	For the Child
Framed Picture . . 1.50 up.	Piano Stool . . . . 5.75 up.	High Chair . . . . 1.95 up.
		Desk and Chair . . 4.50 up.

Plainfield Bottling Works

M. LATZKO, Prop.

U. S. Revenue Taxed Wholesale Liquor Dealer.

27 Somerset St., N. Plainfield. 5th District N.J.

Distributors for

Feigenspan Brew & Anhauser-Busch

By order of the court we will close at 8 p. m. weekdays and 9 p. m. on Saturdays.

BREWERY BOTTLING

EXPORT BEER ! SAAZER BEER

WUERZBURGER BEER

All orders received will have prompt attention.

Goods forwarded through the entire State of New Jersey. Express charges prepaid by us.

Make Your Bathroom More Attractive.

You can make it as attractive as any other room in the house at very little cost. We have the largest and most artistic collection of bathroom and plumbing fixtures in town at prices that are exceptionally reasonable. You should see them to fully appreciate their worth.

Look over this partial list: Bathroom Mirrors, Tooth Brush Holders, Towel Racks, Bath Tubs, Stationary Wash Tubs, Shower Baths, Bath Seats and Kitchen Sinks.

These are made in brass, nickel plate, white enamel, plain or opal glass, soapstone and earthenware. Guaranteed in every respect

Our Plumbing Department is our special pride. Our prices are very reasonable and we do the work a little better than seems necessary. Let us give you an estimate.

A. M. GRIFFEN

119-123 E. Front St., Plainfield, N. J. Two 'Phones, 6—214.

Advertise in The Daily Press

Christmas Goods

Now On Exhibition at the

Lenox Stationery Store

102 Madison Avenue. BABCOCK BLDG.

YOUR DULL Headaches

Probably come from overstrained eye sight. Nine-tenths of the headaches are the direct result of eye trouble. Bring those troubles to us and let us prescribe for you.

All work guaranteed.

FREE EXAMINATION BY

Stiles & Co.

PHILADELPHIA EYE SPECIALISTS

at 107 East Front Street, Every Thursday

Hours 11:15 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Howard W. Cobbs'

tailoring establishment, 146 East Fifth street, has undergone a thorough renovation, thus insuring to Mr. Cobbs' patrons the tailoring, cleaning and pressing of clothes in a modern tailor shop.

Four suits and one overcoat are cleaned and pressed at a monthly rate of $1.50.

Suits are made to order from $20 and up. Repairing and altering are well and neatly done.

Howard W. Cobbs

TAILOR TO MEN AND WOMEN

146 EAST FIFTH STREET.

Telephone 461-L.

Notice to Owners and Paperhangers

I have bought out a large dealer in wallpaper who had to have money and will sell the stock at from four cents per roll up, or I will paper your rooms for $4.00, furnish everything. You will have one-half million papers to select from. Come any time from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. Saturdays 12 m.

J. NATHANSON,

Painter and Paperhanger

107 Watchung Avenue, Near Front Street

JOS. F. BURKE

718 Monroe Ave. Tel. 146-R

Successor to Mrs. John Brown

General Contractor and Grader

Cesspools and Vaults Cleaned

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Positively the only odorless Excavator in the City.

Estimates cheerfully given.

Leave orders at J. T. Vail's, North avenue. 'Phone 394.

Postoffice Box 715.

For prices address

FRANK BURKE, Manager.

926 W Third St. Tel. 1906-W

JOHN WIRTH

(Successor to Henry Liefke.)

BAKERY AND CONFECTIONERY

201-203 West Front. Tel. 728

Orders delivered at short notice.

CHAS. KEIDERLING

FURNITURE PACKER.

Furniture, Trunks, Pictures, China, Glass and Bric-a-Brac Packed and Crated for Storage and Shipping. Storage Rooms to Let.

Tel. 559-J. 258 E. Front St.

A. H. ENANDER

Sanitary Plumbing, Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating. Contractor for Sewer Connections.

125 WATCHUNG AVE.

Hoagland's Express

Careful Furniture Moving

Experienced and Competent Men.

Office 205 Park Av. Tel. 833-w

Home Tel. 648-L.

HOTELS.

HOTEL WALDORF

EAST FRONT STREET.

HENRY WINDHAM, Prop.

Gottfried Kruger's Extra Beer on draught. Imported Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Hotel accommodations and private Dining-Room.

G. J. WEINMAN

CAFE

213 Park Ave., Tel. 1527

HOTEL KENSINGTON

NORTH AVENUE

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

HOUSE THOROUGHFY RENOVATED

SUNDAY From 12:30 DINNER to 2 P.M. 50c

THE Hotel IROQUOIS

Conducted on the European Plan

Park Ave. and Second St.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

June 15, 1910.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—6.30, 8.00, 8.40, 11.45 a. m., 1.30, 2.30, 5.00, 6.30, 8.30 p. m., 12 midnight.
Close—4.30, 8.00, 9.00, 10.30, 11.50 a. m., 2.00, 3.55, 6.50, 7.35, 7.45, 9.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—8.40, 10.00 a. m., 12.30, 3.15 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—8.00 a. m., 12.35, 1.30, 4.30, 5.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA DIRECT.

Arrive—6.30, 8.00, 8.40, 11.45 a. m., 12.30, 2.30, 7.00 p. m.
Close—6.30, 8.00, 11.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 3.55, 7.45, 9.00 p. m.

THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR EAST.

Close—11.50 a. m., 2.50, 7.10 p. m.

DIRECT THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR WEST.

Close—6.30, 11.30 a. m., 1.30, 5.00 and 7.45 p. m.

DIRECT SOUTHERN MAILS.

Close—6.30 a. m., 12.35, 3.55, 5.50, 7.45 and 9.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA, WEST OF EASTON.

Close—6.30 a. m., 12.35, 1.30, 5.50 p. m.

ELIZABETH, DIRECT.

Arrive—8.00, 8.40 a. m., 1.30, 2.30, 5.30 p. m.
Close—8.00, 9.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 5.50, 9.00 p. m.

NEWARK, DIRECT.

Arrive—8.00, 8.40 a. m., 1.30, 2.30, 5.30 p. m.
Close—6.30, 8.00, 9.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 3.55, 5.50 p. m.

DIRECT MAILS TO SEA SHORE RESORTS DURING SUMMER.

Close—6.30 a. m., 1.00 and 5.50 p. m.

WATCHUNG.

Arrive—1.00, 6.45 p. m.
Close—9.00 a. m., 1.30 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—1.00 p. m.
Close—9.00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

H. BIRD, P. M.

Vail JEWELER AND OPTICIAN

103 Park Ave.,

calls your attention to his

Rimless Glasses.

They Look Good and Are Good.

Advertisements

—FOR—

New York Herald, World, Times, Sun, Journal, Telegram, American, Brooklyn Eagle

—and—

Newark Evening News

Received at

The Daily Press

AT REGULAR OFFICE RATES.

Health Is Wealth

Various boards of health, government inspectors and sanitariums everywhere urge the use of manufactured ICE.

Why? BECAUSE it is pure. We manufacture the purest Ice that can be produced and sell no other. PRICES REASONABLE.

CRYSTAL ICE Co.

MacDONALD & IVAMY.

Exclusive Handlers.

307 Arlington Ave. 'Phone 1023

TIMBO'S

Stock for Smokers

Romeo and Juliets, La Carolines, Bocky's, Manuel Garcias, Acker Merrails & Condit's La Elegancias, and a fine line of New York and Tampa snakes. Panck Smoker's Articles.

133-135 North Avenue.

COAL DEALERS.

JOS. HARRIGAN

OLD COMPANY'S LEHIGH COAL

929 South Avenue

Telephone 488.

TenEyck & Harris,

Dealers in

LEHIGH VALLEY COAL

Office: Rowley's Drug Store, 312 West Front Street. Telephone 543-W.

GEORGE O. STEVENS

747 West Front St.

R. L. CLINE

(Successor to C. H. Ruggs & Co.)

Best Quality Lehigh Coal

Yard and office 436 West Third St. Tel 92

TenEyck & Kelley

Successors to Kenley Co.

COAL

741 SOUTH AVE. Tel. 1155

WALTER TEMPLE

SUCCESSOR TO RHEAUME.

COAL and WOOD

Office, 149 E. 4th St. Tel. 80-W

Yard, 644 to, 248 St. Tel. 231

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

Take a Look in our Window and you will be convinced that the latest in interior work—Aorochrome Washable Wall Decoration—is very handsome and effective.

Woolston & Buckle

Painters and Decorators

143 NORTH AVENUE.

THE REASON

I have the confidence of the public is because I never take a contract at a figure too low to enable me to do the work properly and give permanent satisfaction to the customer. It may cost you a little more in the beginning, but a great deal less in the end.

James C. Hansen

Decorator, Paper Hanger & Painter

Dealer in Wall Paper, Paints, Oils, Glass &c., &c.

141 East Front St. Tel. Call 346

M. WARREN

PAINTER, DECORATOR and PAPERHANGER

85 SOMERSET ST.,

opposite Sangerbund Hall

SMALLEY BROS.

147 North Avenue.

BUTCHERS

CHOICE MEATS.

GAME IN SEASON.

ROASTING AND BROILING CHICKENS A SPECIALTY.

Berkshire Pork and Sausage None better sold

Orders called for and delivered. Telephone 88-A.

WALKS

We Construct Them

Trap Rock, Cement

Experience

R. G. BUSH

Tel. Con. 743-5 South Ave

E. B. Maynard's

Tonsorial Parlors. Electrical Massage for face and hair. First-class work. Children's Hair Cutting a Specialty. Tel. No. 754-R.

141 NORTH AEVNUE.

PARQUET & HARDWOOD FLOORS

Old Floors Refinished

GEO. E. WATT

150 North Ave. Tel. 333-w

Kindling and Grate Wood

Cedar Posts and Bean Poles. Prompt deliveries. Orders received at 80 SOMERSET STREET.

JOHN MOBUS

P. O. Box 320. Telphone 19-F-42.

SERVICEABLE LINEN BAGS.

Red, Blue and Yellow Are Favorite Colors For Designs on These Most Useful Articles.

An old fashioned garden bouquet in gayest colors on a simple linen bag and done in cross stitch marks the revival of an ancient idea in design and of a stitch that for many years has been considered more or less of the past.

The cream color of the linen background lends an old time softened effect to work which might otherwise be too gay in color. Reds, blues and yellows, although rather crude, melt into the creamy tone as they would not upon white and seem to ask you to consider the perfection of such needlework revivals.

Cross stitch appears again on a knitting bag so shaped that it may be carried over the arm. Revival is here too. The keynote of the idea for an old, old development of the knitters' favorite bag was on these lines. As to its design, it, too, is old, as are all cross stitch patterns, but in this piece of work a coarse basket surface supplies the size for the stitches without the basting on of canvas through which to work.

A heavy crash bag embroidered with flame colored linen floss of surprising coarseness shows several new touches for the lover of the bag serviceable.

The cord in itself is fascinating in its durability, being hand twisted and knotted from many strands of coarse raveling pulled from the material like the bag. Then the eyelets through which it is drawn are the interesting work of one who understood the combination of the durable with the ornamental.

These eyelets have been made round, large holes pierced with a stiletto and surrounded, before being worked, with a brass ring. This, buttonholed over with linen thread to match the crash, resulted in the strongest possible eyelets.

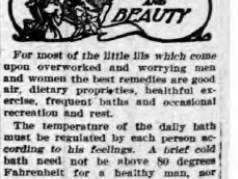
Of the making of bags there is indeed no end. The time has not yet come when the fancy working, the sewing bag or any one of the long list of useful pretty bags fails to interest those who make them as gifts or those fortunate enough to accept them, and with gratitude.

Bordered Bows.

This is what one milliner calls the big bows on many of the new hats, usually of white outlined with black. The bows themselves are frequently of lace or net and are edged with narrow pipings of satin. Sometimes the satin forms a lining which projects like a border all around the lace. Occasionally white edging black is seen also.



For most of the little ills which come upon overworked and worrying men and women the best remedies are good air, dietary proprieties, healthful exercise, frequent baths and occasional recreation and rest.

The temperature of the daily bath must be regulated by each person according to his feelings. A brief cold bath need not be above 80 degrees Fahrenheit for a healthy man, nor should it run below 65 degrees.

Physical exercise to be valuable as a health builder should involve a sufficiently violent exertion of the body, as a whole, to increase the ordinary strength and frequency of the heart beats and deepen the breathing.

HOME MISSIONS' NEEDS

Work Among the Unchurched in the Rocky Mountain District.

REV. MR. GRAY'S EXPERIENCES.

Cowboys, Ranchmen and Herders Hungry for the Gospel—Preaching Backed by a "Gun."

Those members of the Congregational church who stayed away from the meeting Wednesday missed one of the most interesting addresses on Home missions ever given in that church. Rev. W. C. Gray, who had been a missionary among the cowboys, ranchmen and sheep men of the Northwest for the past twenty-five years, was the speaker and his vivid accounts of the existing conditions in that farther border of our great country carried the conviction that there is a vast territory within our borders where the Christian religion has hardly reached.

The speaker graphically described the fight that he personally and in company with his devoted wife, has waged among the class of people in the mining towns where they did not want nor would they give a hearing to a "gospel slinger."

"A Connecticut divine," said Mr. Gray, "has said that there was no frontier to this country, that it was all filling up so rapidly that what we knew as frontier when Chicago was a village had all disappeared. But I tell you that we are in a more critical situation from an Anglo-Saxon and orthodox church viewpoint cut in the Northwest than ever before.

"I have heard through a letter that it is purposed by a syndicate of capitalists to bring to our shores within a certain period 250,000 Russian Jews and these propose to settle within twenty miles of New York city.

These foreigners are soon going to work their way to the new and fabulously rich country in the Rocky Mountains and that without being instructed in Christian living.

From figures at hand Mr. Gray said that 92 per cent. of the people in the west territory where he labors are outside the church. "But," he said " that is not because they do not want the gospel, but because they cannot get it. They are hungry for the story of the Cross ,but there are not enough to live on while working among these souls. Wyoming, practically undeveloped yet, is rich beyond the dreams of mortals. Rich in fertile lands, coal, iron, gold silver and asbestos, and when it is opened up there will be a rush to this promised land. Are you going to allow the millions of immigrants which come to this land of ours every year to obtain the ballot and assume the duties of citizenship without preparing them for such life? There is the very few Christian schools there. There are only about fifteen churches to each State. Half of the churches are pastorless. It will shock you to know that one-third of the area of the United States is in the same condition."

One story will suffice to show the need for Christian workers in the Rocky mountains. Mr. and Mrs. Gray went into a tent town where other missionaries had been driven out and one who had been murdered. Mr. Gray proposed to plant Christianity in that town and there was but one way to do it. With his wife he prepared to hold a meeting in the main street. They erected a tent and when the time for the meeting arrived they opened up their services armed with Colt revolvers. Mr. Gray keeping his trained gun upon the greatest bully of the town through his coat pocket. The bully saw he was absolutely at the mercy of the preacher and failed to create the disturbance which had been on the cards fearing the minister's gun. The meeting proceeded without a hitch and at the end the bully showed he was beaten by coming forward and shaking the Gray's hand. The Gospel became firmly imbedded in the hearts of some of the people in that town and today there is a flourishing church built of brick a large share of the expense of which was borne by the bully who threatened to do up the "Gospel sharp."

Several other touching incidents were related including instances of the chivalry of the cowboy and every body present left the meeting convinced that the United States is still a fertile field for the missionary right at home. The only thing needed to take the Gospel to those who are actually hungering for it is money.

Mr. Gray declared that the giving of the vote to the women had been a wise move in Wyoming as it is one almost entirely to them that gambling and other voices have been practically eliminated from their towns and high license prevails in the incorporated cities.

Owing to the increased demand for their ginger ale product, the Watchung Spring Water Company is building a large addition to its plant on Mountain avenue. The addition is fifty feet wide and 100 feet deep, one story high, and will be used for storing ginger ale consignments ready for shipment.

SCHUMAN-HEINK RECITAL

Society Crowds the Plainfield Theatre to Hear Great Contralto.

FINE BUT SHORT PROGRAM.

Criticism for Hurry of Singer—May Be Applause Was Not Sustained Long Enough to Suit Her.

Seldom has the Plainfield theatre held such an audience as that which completely filled the house Friday Society was there which was a guarantee that something out of the ordinary was to happen or was happening. Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, one of the most noted contralto singers of the times and the biggest public favorite who has ever sung a lullaby in German was there to further impress her great personality upon us.

Nothing can be said further than has already been said of this wonderful woman and her magnificent art. It has all been written. But the fact that it was a singer's first appearance in Plainfield must go on record and the impression created on some of those who had never heard her must be told.

At the conclusion of the first number, an aria from Sapho, Madame Schumann-Heink got an ovation. The deep notes of her lower register gave one the impression that it was not a woman who was singing, but a robust tenor and caused one woman in the balcony to exclaim audibly "hasn't she a remarkable voice!" If the woman had not been utterly sincere the remark would have created the people in the immediate vicinity to laugh. Another woman of mature years was moved to tears during the rendition of Salter's "Cry of Rachel," and reasonably, too. This was probably the most impressive selection of the evening.

A repetition of the lullaby by Herr- man was demanded and given. The translation into this funny little composition robs it of its real German savor, but what was not understood by the German text was supplied in the singer's expression and brought a storm of applause. The concluding number on the program, Harold's "A Child's Prayer," was sung as only Madame Schumann-Heink can sing it. Intimitably, she captured her audience and graciously responded to an encore. Mrs. Katherine Hoffman was her accompanist and performed admirably.

Much adverse comment was caused by the apparent hurry in the contributions of the singer. It appeared to some that notwithstanding the promises held out that there would be no curtailment of the numbers there was a speed developed that was unnecessary and contrary to the rightful expectations of the audience. It seemed, though, that the applause at times was rather perfunctory than enthusiastic and might account in some measure for Madame's brevity.

The Musical Club is to be congratulated upon having made a success of their venture and thanked for having given Plainfielders the opportunity of hearing the great artist.

ARISTOCRACY OF MINDS

THE VERY LATEST FAD

Mrs. Vance Cheney, founder of the School of Living and Health, with headquarters at the Hotel Collingwood, New York, delivered a lecture on the subject of "The New Aristocracy," Wednesday afternoon at the studio of Mrs. McNeill Hopcraft in the Babock building. There were about fifty women present, who listened with interest to the exposition of the doctrine of "The New Aristocracy." The doctrine is an application of new thoughts and new ideas to the old order of things without a disarrangement of the present mode of life, being an aristocracy of minds and kindred spirits, not of wealth, antecedents or blue blood.

It is supposed to suggest a new plane of living, where culture, appliances and women and women can meet together on a mutual basis. It is primarily an aristocracy of the mind, to develop self-command of one's faculties, self-control, self-knowledge and the spirit of service.

Mrs. Cheney talked about an hour, at the conclusion of which she was asked questions relative to the formation of a League of Right Living and Thinking in this city. Miss Bertha Vandiveer Willis sang a solo to the evident pleasure of the women present. She was obliged to respond to an encore. Miss Bertha Whitney was at the piano.

An "Informal Card Evening."

The members of the Park Club enjoyed an "informal card evening" at the club, Saturday night. There was a large attendance and a great many engaged in playing cards. During the evening light refreshments were served.

—Street Commissioner Gavett's men have been busy the past week cleaning up West Front street and several other thoroughfares in the West End; also the gutters and catch-basins.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 11, 1910.

Topic.—How must a Christian be different from others?—II Cor. vi, 14-18. Led by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

There is no need scarcely to argue the question that there should be a difference between a Christian and others who are not Christians. One is ruled supremely by the will of God and possesses the mind and spirit of Christ. The other does not possess these characteristics, and hence there is a wide separation between them. The very essence of Christianity is separation and consequently difference from the other people of the world. One becomes a Christian by being called of God to separate himself from the "world, the flesh and the devil," which are for the most part the associations of non-Christians. Being called of God to separation, the Christian has implanted within him a new principle of life, which widely separates him from others. Therefore in his thoughts, his beliefs, his words and deeds the Christian must be different from others.

The difference is not one of form. It does not consist in wearing different costumes or dress. The Puritan never made a Christian. The most wicked and sinful of men could have easily possessed and worn one of them. The Christian has no reason to dress differently from any other people. In fact, such methods of manifesting their difference from others often smacks too much of a possible insincerity. The Christian needs no outward garb or badge to convince others that he is different from them. If his words and life do not do this no weight will be given to his claim by that with which he may clothe himself. This principle should also apply to the Christian ministers. Why should they by clerical dress be distinguished from others, except upon occasions when they are performing purely ministerial duties? Do judges wear their robes upon the street and in public places that they may say, "I am a judge?" In so doing they would only be laughingstock of themselves. Imagine a refined and cultured man in these days of buttons and badges wearing a badge with the inscription "I am a gentleman" upon it. It would at once stamp him as a snob. Culture and refinement do not need to be advertised. They manifest themselves in action. So should the Christianity of the Christian minister. If it does not, no tinseled gown or white tie, years behind the style, can convince others. Such actions speak aloud that garbs and dress cannot drown them.

The tendency today is to lessen the manifestation of the real difference between Christians and others. In ordinary conversation can any one tell which is the Christian? In places of dubious amusement is the separation complete? It should be by the absence of all Christians. In business circles can the Christian always be told from the outside? It is very doubtful in the majority of cases. There are those who claim that they can tell a Christian by the glory shining from his face. What folly! The whole world is full of people who are not different from the children of God. Is there strictness in drawing the line in matrimony? Do believers only marry believers? Do they even think of this question when considering the matter? It is not proved by marriage itself. Many Christians marry unbelievers.

The line of separation and of difference should be more sharply drawn. There is no *fellowship between right*eousness and unrighteousness, between Christ and Belial, the temple of God (the Holy Spirit within our hearts) and idols. "Wherefore (let us) come out from among them and be separate," as the Lord Himself hath said.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xx. 1-7, 8-11, 12-17; Prov. x. 1-7, 22, 25; Ps. i; Matt. v, 33-37; Rom. xii, 1, 2, 17-20; Eph. iv, 1-3; vi. 5-9; Phil. ii, 1-8; Eph. iv, 20-32; I Pet. i, 15; Rev. ii, 10.

Loyalty Its Keynote.

The Christian endeavor society stands for loyalty to the church and its services as no other organization in the church does. So strenuously does it believe in this that it has put this matter of church attendance into the heart of its pledge. It insists on the idea as one of its cardinal principles and issues booklets and articles on the subject and in every way strives to promote it.

But it cannot be expected that one organization of the church will do what the whole church is bound to do or that one organization will counteract all the other influences of the church and community that make against churchgoing.

I have noticed that pastors who blame their young people for not going to church often say very little about the delinquencies of the older church members in this respect. Why do they not blame the older church members who do not go, or the members of the Sunday school who stay at home in the evening, or the members of the ladies' missionary society, or the brotherhood?

But I must also said, "These organizations do not require their members to be faithful to the church services."

Then so much the worse for them, for no organization has any right in a church that does not promote loyalty to the church and its services. In any event, the purpose and methods of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor in the future, as in the past, will always be to promote thoroughgoing loyalty to the church and all its services.—Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D.

Inspiration of a Junior Society.

Some one said, "Boys will be boys." He forgot to add, "Boys will be men."

JUNIOR BOYS' BANQUET

Hope Chapel Organization Enjoys Supper and Helpful Addresses.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS HEARD.

Dr. W. T. S. Lumbar and Rev. G. A. Warner Tell the Youthful members about the Right Way of Living.

The importance of boys' work and the special care needed in the development of the youthful members of the community, were subjects brought out and dwelt upon by men prominent in this field of effort at a public initiation and banquet of the Junior Boys' department of Hope chapel, Wednesday. The principal addresses were made by Rev. Dr. W. T. S. Lumbar, pastor of the Mount Pleasant Baptist church of Newark; Rev. George A. Warner, of Holy Cross church; C. W. Bingeman, secretary of boys' work at the local Y. M. C. A., and A. M. Harris, superintendent of the First Baptist church junior department. Their remarks were of brief duration, but those kind that leave an impression upon the minds of those for whom they are intended.

Sixty members of the junior department enjoyed the banquet, thirty of whom were initiated during the evening. Promptly at 6 o'clock Mitchell's orchestra of six pieces struck up a lively air and the thirty regular members of the organization marched into the room, taking alternate seats on each side of the main table. After an opening prayer by Rev. Dr. Lumbar, the new members were ushered into place at the speakers' table. In addition to those already mentioned were Charles F. August, leader of the junior department; G. Herbert Condict, superintendent of Hope chapel Sunday school; B. F. Tallamy and other invited guests. Arthur Walls, president of the junior organization, presided as toastmaster in a very capable manner.

Dr. Lumbar was the first speaker and gave the boys a plain, everyday talk on the right way of living. He pointed out that it is the manly, upright fellow who commands respect and admiration and makes the best citizen. *The boy who tells false*hoods, he said, and prefers to be a sneak is always found out and never amounts to anything. He urged his hearers to make the most of themselves while they are young, living the right sort of lives, being manly at all times and above all avoid deceit and evil associations.

Dr. Lumbar was followed by Rev. George A. Warner whose remarks were in a similar strain with added thoughts. He declared that in order to live right, it is not necessary for a boy to lose his manliness or his boyish enthusiasm. Good, healthy sport is always conducive to proper morals and the body for the tasks that come later in life. It is impossible to drive a boy or fool him into doing the right thing, Mr. Warner said. He must realize it himself and determine to shape his own course, keeping it with the help of the influences that are always to be had for the asking. In conclusion the speaker told his young auditors that mistakes were always made but the proper thing to do is to make an honest confession to parents or pastor and to resolve not to make the same one twice.

Brief addresses by Messrs. Harris, Bingeman, Condict and August followed and letters of regret were read from Congressman Eugene F. Kinkead, of Jersey City; Mayor Charles A. Fisk and Mayor-elect Moy, who had been invited but were unable to be present. Several excellent solos were rendered by Bertram F. Tallamy, accompanied by Joseph Denny.

The supper was an elaborate affair and was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. It was served by a committee of women composed of Mrs. Charles G. August, Mrs. Thomas Hendry, Mrs. Gertrude Rittenhouse, Mrs. Donald McInnis, Mrs. Aaron H. Snyder and Mrs. Walter Bradford. The Sunday school room where the banquet was held, was festooned with bunting and a large American flag graced the platform.

The affair was arranged by Mr. August and credit is due him for its complete success. He was assisted by President Arthur Walls and Secretary Harry Shirley, of the Junior department.

"Little Miss" Fincke Celebrates

Dorothy Fincke, of 1122 South avenue, celebrated the sixth anniversary of her birthday on Thursday. She received many handsome presents and a jolly good time was in*dulged in by the following who were* present: Aaria Galbraith, Polly and Lottie Stewart, Madge and Katherine Wilmerding, Betty James, Harry Wernig, Charlotte and Emma Verschnur, Edward Fincke, Dorothy Fincke, of this city, and Elizabeth Curley, of New York.

Easy to Get Along With.

"Is she easy to get along with?"

"Yes, indeed. She believes everything you tell her."

Constitutionallbet ads. pay.

HANS WAGNER LOSES TITLE OF CHAMPION BATTER

Although Crandall, of New York, and Goode, of Boston, rank ahead of Sherwood Magee, the Philadelphia star, in the National League averages *just made public by Presi*dent Tom Lynch, the Quaker City outfielder is easily the star wicker in the senior major organization.

Magee played in 154 battles. He stung the ball at a .321 clip. Fourteen players who participated in more than fifteen games last season have their names down in the National League's exclusive class of batters.

Hans Wagner who held the title of best swatter for four seasons, is seventh on the list. Three members of the Giants are in this class, Snodgrass and Devore, being the players to get in the limelight with Crandall.

The Giants outhit all the other clubs in team batting, the Brooklyns being the weakest batting club. Magee, besides leading the National Leaguers at the bat, scored more runs than any other player, going from plate to plate 110 times. Other players who scored 100 or more runs were Byrne, of Pittsburg, and Higgins, of St. Louis. Wagner made the greatest number of hits—178; Beaker excelled in steals, pilfering seventy bags, and Snabe was the most expert sacrificer, doing the martydom act thirty-seven times. Other leaders were: In two-baggers, Byrne, 43; in three-baggers, Mitchell, 18; in home runs, Beck and Schurg, each 10. Athletics who played in every game in which their teams participated were Mitchell and Wheat.

The records follow:

Crandall, New York..	43	25	.342
Goode, Boston	29	29	.332
Magee, Philadelphia..	154	172	.321
Campbell, Pittsburg..	74	92	.326
Hofman, Chicago	135	155	.325
Snodgrass, New York..	112	127	.321
Wagner, Pittsburg ...	150	178	.320
Wilhelm, Brooklyn ...	15	6	.316
Lobert, Cincinnati ..	97	109
Bates, Philadelphia...	131	152	.305
Devore, New York...	130	149	.304
Konetchy, St. Louis..	144	157	.302
Schulte, Chicago	150	168	.401
Paskert, Cincinnati ..	141	152	.300

ASSEMBLY ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

The Central New Jersey Assembly of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew held a meeting Thursday night at the Grace Episcopal church on East Fourth street. Officers for the coming year. They were: President, J. Wesley Hegeman, of North Plainfield; secretary, C. P. Yoeman, of New Brunswick; treasurer, Frederick L. Dibo, of Elizabeth; chapiain, the Rev. Robert MacKellir, of Red Bank; vice-presidents, Robert Noble, of South Amboy; E. L. Coyte, of Asbury Park; P. S. Dixon, of New Brunswick, and Walter P. Wilson, of Trenton.

Resolutions were adopted in memory of James L. Houghtelling, founder of the Assembly. After the meeting a supper was given by the women of Grace church. The Rev. H. P. Lyman Wheaton, D. D., of the Church Temperance Society, delivered a lecture upon the "Rule of Service" in the Central New Jersey Assembly. Services were held in the chapel and the sermon preached by the Rev. Dr. Fenton, of St. Luke's church, Metuchen.

LOCAL REALTY TRANSFERS RECORDED WITH CO. REGISTER

The following transfers of local property have been recorded in the office of County Register F. H. Smith at Somerville:

Morris Rabinowitz et ux. to Benjamin Esralsky, westerly corner West Third street and Pond place, Plainfield, $1; same to Jacob Pashin, lots 64, 66, 67, 68, block 122, "Park Map," Plainfield, $11; Enoch Berry et al. to Highland Park Realty Co., northeasterly side Leland avenue, 51 feet of George street, Plainfield, $1; Robert J. Kirkland, sheriff, to Charles W. McCutchen, corner Leland avenue and Washington street, Plainfield, $1,655; Potter Printing Press Co. to Patrick McDonough, southeasterly side South Second street, 431 feet northeasterly of Grant avenue, Plainfield, $1; same to Cormick McDonough, southeasterly side South Second street, 502 feet northeasterly of Grant avenue, Plainfield, $1; same to John P. McDonough, southeasterly side South Second street, 574 feet northeasterly of Grant avenue, Plainfield, $1.

New Opera Bags.

The newest opera bags are made of materials woven in the Louis XIV. period. Gray is the favorite color, as this shade accommodates itself readily to any gown. Within each bag are found a pair of opera glasses, a bonbon box, card case, memorandum book, mirror and scent bottle.

Prometheus had just stolen the fire from heaven.

"That's nothing; can you light a last match?" we cried.

Thus he realized his feat was little.—New York Sun.

MERCHANTS CLERKS' HOP

Association's Guests at Dance and Supper Numbered Five Hundred.

ALL HAD A JOLLY GOOD TIME.

Theodore J. Shirley Chairman of Committee for Successful Event at Sebring's Hall Last Night.

The supper and dance tendered to their employes by the Merchants' Hall was the most successful affair Association Wednesday in Sebring's of the kind ever held by that organization. Upward of four hundred invitations had been issued by the committee and nearly five hundred young people were present. Dancing began at 8 o'clock and ended at 2 this morning. An intermission was taken at 11 o'clock to permit the guests of the association to enjoy a collation served by one of them.

—Photo by Stone.

A. E. FORCE,
President of the Merchants' Association.

During the evening many of the prominent merchants of the city dropped in to watch the dancers and enjoyed one of the liveliest spectacles they had seen in many a day. The arrangements for the affair were in charge of a committee of which Theodore J. Shirley was chairman, with the following members as assistants: A. E. Force, H. P. Greenwood, M. C. Van Arsdale, J. S. Johnston, H. Schuldenfrei, A. C. Lohrman and Herman Schwed. Charles Suhr's Imperial orchestra furnished the music.

The supper and dance was given to the employes by the merchants and all the expenses were defrayed by them. The young people showed their appreciation of their employers' generosity by a round of cheers before the dancing finally broke up.

In speaking of the affair during the evening Chairman Shirley said that it was probable that another dance would be given before the end of the season and in any event the merchants proposed to make the dance and supper an annual affair for the benefit of their clerks. The Merchants' Association having been merged with the Board of Trade into the new organization, the Chamber of Commerce, will make no difference in the social enjoyment which it is proposed to maintain indefinitely.

The supper was served by Erwin Y. Nenighbor, of Thomas Timbo's, in the rear of the hall, a part of which was partitioned off for the purpose. Eighty dinners were served at a time and it took a half dozen relays to complete the service. A good menu was partaken of by all present.

The officers of the organization: President, A. E. Force; first vice-president, H. Schuldenfrei; second vice-president, P. H. Duttenhoffer; secretary, H. P. Greenwood, and treasurer, J. S. Johnston.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MISS EVELYN HILLMAN

The funeral service of Miss Evelyn Hillman, daughter of Mrs. Sarah K. Hillman, was held at the late home Wednesday afternoon and was largely attended by relatives and friends, including many young friends and schoolmates of the departed; also the Sunday-school class of which she was a member.

There were many beautiful floral tributes from the Sunday-school and Young Women's Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, of which Miss Hillman was a member.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Cnambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, conducted the services, reading appropriate Scripture selections and making a few remarks in which he spoke of the fact that Miss Hillman was one of the Sunday-school class of nine young women provided by herself, and Miss Hillman was the first one to break the circle. During the service Mrs. Charles K. Shreve sang, "We Will Never Say Good-Bye in Heaven," "Bringing in the Sheaves," and "Safe In the Arms of Jesus."

The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers were Egbert Fountain, Heber Cubberly, Stanley Jacobs, Leslie Leland, Clifford Hillman and Leslie Slocum.

MR. HOOLEY CHAIRMAN

Selected to Head Committee to Investigate Borough Wire Conditions.

FOR UNDERGROUND CONDUITS.

State Trust Co. Made Depository for Funds, Building Permits—Employees to Be Paid in Advance.

The communication recently written by Edwin E. Hooley in reference to a system of public conduits and possible cheaper electric light charges for North Plainfield, as published in The Daily Press two weeks ago, was received by the Borough Council and read at the regular monthly meeting, Friday night. It was referred to the Public affairs committee and later chairman W. L. Smalley offered a resolution that a committee of five be appointed to investigate existing and possible conditions, to see what might be done and that Mr. Hooley be made chairman. It was carried unanimously and later Mayor Smalley named Edwin A. Boyer, Charles W. McCutchen, Meredith Dryden and William F. Williams as the other members.

In his communication, Mr. Hooley called the Council's attention to the fact that the borough streets are soon to be torn up for the installation of sewers and that the present is the time to put a plan in for public conduits. He stated that he considered the present rates of the P. S. C. for electric lighting exhorbitant and regretted that there is no competition. The light voltage carried by the overhead wires, he said, was such that could be overcome by placing them underground. He realized, he continues, that the cost of such an undertaking would not repay any one company unless it secured an exclusive franchise, which virtually would put the people at the mercy of the favored company. Mr. Hooley expressed the belief that the borough would soon get back the first cost of public conduits and besides would release the poles from paying the present exorbitant rates of the Public Service Corporation. At the present time it is practically free from competition as the Council would hesitate to authorize the erection of a double line of lights for fear of killing the sidewalk line. In conclusion Mr. Hooley offered to foot all bills incurred in carrying out the suggestions he set forth.

With Mr. Hooley as chairman, it is probable that no time will be lost in studying every phase of the matter and presenting a complete report to the borough fathers.

The remainder of the business transacted at the meeting was almost entirely of a routine nature. Charles Nichols was appointed a member of the sewage commision and the Council was authorized to secure the approval of the State Board of Health in its plan to discharge the effluent from the proposed sewer beds into Green brook. On resolutions offered by Mr. Rogers the December pay warrants were ordered drawn before Christmas for the convenience of employes and that an auditor be secured to inspect the books of the borough collector and treasurer. On motion of Mr. Smalley the State Trust Company was designated as the depository of the borough funds.

The following building applications were granted: Thomas E. Currin, chicken house, Mountain avenue; Edgar C. Schenck, dwelling house on Westervelt avenue, 26.6 by 34 feet; G. H. Dalley, Somerset street, dwelling house, 24 by 32; George Hummer, alterations to house on Grandview avenue, known as the Weiss property.

The report of Recorder Dolliver showed that during November there had been fifteen arrests and $10 in fines collected. The tax collector reported a balance on hand of $23,- 195.63.

Chairman Stahl, of the Street Committee, reported that the expenses of the month had been $246 and that the year would probably be closed within the appropriation. The Plainfield Trust Company presented a communication asking that it be named a depository for a part of the borough funds. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

On motion, the Council adjourned to meet on Friday evening, December 20, to close up the year's business. At the close of the session the members met in executive session with W. J. Buttfild, chairman of the sewage commission.

He Got the Slipper.

Bob was telling about his visit to the country. While there he had acquired some rustic idioms, and his mother was correcting these as he proceeded.

"Well, we goes up—"

"Went up."

"Went up on the farm—"

"To the farm."

"To the farm and there we see—"

"We saw."

"We saw a little kid—"

"Little child. Now begin again and tell it properly."

"Well, we went up to the farm, and there we saw a goat's little child."

(Further narration suspended.)—Exchange.

LID DOWN AT DUNELLEN

Only One Violation of the Sunday Closing Law on its First Enforcement.

PETER RATTI KEEPS OPEN.

Sold a Dozen Oranges and Is Fined $10 By Mayor Sandford—Will Make It a Test Case.

The Sunday closing ordinance or "blue law," as it is popularly termed, went into effect in Dunellen Monday, and as a result one arrest was made. Peter Ratti, a fruit dealer, sold a dozen oranges to a customer and was haled before Mayor William S. Sanford. His Honor imposed a fine of $10 and when Ratti refused to pay he was thrust into a cell. He declared he would not there before he handed over the money but his wife became nervous and produced the amount. There were no other violations of the ordinance so far as known, although one fruit dealer kept open house for the ostensible sale of coffe and sandwiches.

The closed Sunday ordinance was passed by the Dunellen Council at the November meeting and it is said to have been introduced as the result of a quarrel between Mayor Sanford and Ratti over the payment of street sprinkling assessments. The executive told the fruit dealer he would have to pay a certain amount and the latter demurred. It is alleged that His Honor was considerably nettled and declared that something might happen. At any rate, the ordinance was passed, shutting up the barber shops and prohibiting the sale of fruits, candies, ice cream and even cigars on the Sabbath.

Ratti closed his store at sundown Friday night and did not open until sundown Saturday. The curtains were lowered on the front windows Sunday morning as a further precaution. The place, however, seemed to be the only one picked out for special surveillance and Marshal James Benson was detailed to watch it. The proprietor ordered him out. After the oranges had been sold, the marshal came back and told Ratti the mayor wanted to see him at the borough hall. There was no warrant exhibited or any statement made as to what he was wanted. He complied with the request and was then told he had violated the law, the fine being imposed immediately. After his release following the payment by his wife he sent for William G. DeMeza, this city, to act as his counsel. On the advice of the latter he did not sell anything else during the day.

In conversation with a Daily Press reporter today, Mr. DeMeza said that the case would be carried to the last resort to prove that Ratti had acted within his rights. The fact that his place was closed from Friday to Saturday night complies with a Sabbath observance irrespective of his religious belief. Beyond this, he said, Mayor Sanford had set aside all legal restraint in acting as complainant, prosecutor and judge. No official has a right to have anything to do with a case in which he is interested. Before Marshal Benson invited Ratti out, the lawyer continued, Dunellen required Constable Robert L. Peirce to make the arrest, but the latter refused to unless provided with a warrant. The counselor declared that Ratti would open for business next Sunday and that if he were able to repeat trouble with the officials would strike an unexpected snag.

LOCAL REALTY TRANSFERS RECORDED WITH CO. REGISTER.

The following transfers of local realty have been recorded in the office of County Registrar F. H. Smith at Elizabeth:

Enoch Berry et ux. to International Distributors Corporation, southwesterly side Emerson avenue, corner Midway avenue, Plainfield, $1; same to same, lots 13-14, block C, map of Highland Park, Plainfield, $1; Shiloh Baptist Church to Jacob Parfitt, southwesterly side Cowperthwaite street, Plainfield, $1; Mary J. Titus et al. to Samuel Taub, New street, corner Central Railroad Co., Plainfield, $1.

Farrell—Mulligan.

A belated marriage notice came to hand this morning, but it is none the less interesting for that. William Farrell, of New Town, was married on November 22 to Margaret Mulligan, of this city, by Rev. R. M. Bacon, pastor of St. Mary's church, at the rectory. The bridal couple was accompanied by Edward J. Connelly and Miss Ann Whalen who were witnesses of the ceremony. After a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Farrell left for New Haven, Conn., where the groom has prepared a home. They are living at 22 Dickerman street, New Haven.

Fence Catches Fire.

The board fence in the rear of the Friends' burying ground on Watchung avenue caught fire, Saturday afternoon. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and No. 2 hose was sent out. Two extinguishers were used in killing the blaze.

TEACHES THEM ENGLISH

Miss Zoe Bateman Instructs Foreigners at Lincoln School.

HAS GRATIFYING RESULTS.

Class Outgrows Room at Y. M. C. A.—Education Board Furnishes One—Many Pupils Attend.

When the Board of Education gave its official sanction Monday to the use of a room in the Lincoln school by the Young Men's Christian Association there was revealed a phase of the movement for better education which has not been publicly announced and which has been going on for over a year with a large measure of success.

Under the tutelage of Miss Zoe Bateman of this city, classes in English for Italians, Poles, Hungarians, Danes, Germans and Greeks have been conducted and with gratifying results all along the line. Miss Bateman has given three evenings each week during the school season to the work began a year or more ago in the Y. M. C. A. building, but as the teaching these foreigners. As the work grew the room became overcrowded and it was necessary to seek other quarters. Herbert E. Parker, general secretary of the association sought and obtained permission for the use of the school room and for more than a month the room in the Lincoln school has been in use for the purpose.

Miss Bateman has the assistance of Pastor Baretty, of the Italian Mission as well as Albert Coletta, who is something of an English scholar, and whose work is of great value to Miss Bateman. Just at present Mr. Coletta is unable to be with the class, but will return to the work just as soon as his business permits.

The average attendance at these classes has been about twenty and as high as seventy have been enrolled at one time. The scheme had but a small beginning, but when the foreigners came to learn the opportunity placed at their disposal to learn the language many took advantage of it and today are so far advanced that they can speak readily.

Miss Bateman said this morning that is was a revelation to her to see with what ease the foreigners remember what they are taught. Instances of where students would attend one or two meetings and then remain away for a time, were mentioned as proving the assertion that their memories are good, for when they would return after a week or two they were able to repeat understandingly what they had learned and appeared eagar to learn more.

PAUL DIETRICH INJURED IN HUNT CLUB CHASE

Four of the riders with the Watchung Hunt Club on its weekly chase, Saturday, received bad falls, and one of them, Paul Dietrich, of New York, upon "LaPoloma," the seasoned hunter, went off and broke a bone in his hand, which required the services of a physician. Mr. Dietrich was not able to finish. The hounds were met at the old Brass Kettle Inn, Scotch Plains, the scent being found on the Jarvis farm. From that point the chase led over the hills back of Westfield, through Mountainside, over the mountains to the "Deserted Village," where a check was held.

Just before the check was made, four horses tried to negotiate a stiff four rail fence up a hill and went down. Those who went off were Paul Dietrich, Peter Hauck, Jr., W. H. Wildey and Huntsman Henry Watkins, and all were badly shaken up. Mr. Wildey was upon "Sunshine;" Mr. Hauck rode "Virginia," while Huntsman Watkins rode "Jersey Lily".

The scent was again picked up on the Ackerman estate and the going to the finish on the Fullerton farm was extremely trappy, requiring good judgment on the part of horses and riders from one hill to the other. Those who finished were Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H.; Edward Finch, E. P. Newall, C. F. Wildey, Jr., Fred Algers, W. H. Wildey, C. W. Fisk, C. E. S. Bellows and Huntsman Henry Watkins.

Picked for All-State Team.

The Denver Republican of Friday last, in picking an all-Colorado football team, has selected William Crawford Douglas, of this city, who is a student at the Colorado School of Mines, as one of the ends. Douglas is a veteran of the gridiron and the School of Mines team this season. He was formerly a member of the Plainfield High School eleven, graduating class '07. He stands very high in his studies at college.

His $500 Bond Forfeited.

The bond for $500 given by Fred Schnell, of Elizabeth, for his appearance in court this morning, was declared forfeited by Judge Runyon, when neither Schnell nor his counsel appeared in court. John Reuter, of Elizabeth, was the bondsman.

NEW LIABILITY LAW BEING PREPARED

To discuss the proposed employers' liability and workmen's compensation act, about 150 labor men from all sections of the State met at Michel's Hall, at 66 South Orange avenue, Newark, Sunday. The draft of the measure as prepared by a special committee of the State Federation of Labor was submitted to them and after about three hours' consideration it was decided to engage the services of a lawyer, who will whip the bill into shape for presentation to the Legislature.

In a general way, the bill as submitted to the labor men met with their approval, and only as a matter of precaution it was decided to have it returned to the committee with instructions to hire a lawyer so that the constitutionality of the bill could not be questioned. Section 4 of the proposed bill which had to do with the liability of the employer were satisfactory and provoked applause for the committee's handling of this part of the subject.

The law provides that employers, their agents or servants, shall not, in case of accident or injury, be permitted to defend themselves with the contention that such death or injury resulted from negligence of a fellow-servant or that the employe had assumed the risk of such injury or death. It is further provided that employers be prevented from setting up as a defense any rule or contract as exempting them from liability.

The meeting of the labor men was followed by a special session of the *committee having the proposed le*gislature in hand. The members of the committee are Cornelius Ford, John H. McLean, James Matthews, Samuel McGuire, Roswell Aimes, William Barbour, Joseph C. Oswald and Leonard Stalk.

The interest manifested by the various unionists as the bill was taken up section by section led to many discussions over technicalities in the bill. In voting that the draft should first have the approval of the best legal talent obtainable, the delegates agreed that the committee continue its efforts. It was also decided to send out an appeal to the various labor organizations in the State asking for financial aid in the matter.

MRS. EDDY, SCIENCE CULT FOUNDER, DEAD

Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, who always insisted upon being called the "discoverer and founder' of Christian Science, died at her splendid mansion on Beacon street, in the Chestnut Hill section of the city of Netwon Mass., at 10:45 o'clock Saturday night, aged 89 years. Death was due to an attack of pneumonia, from which the aged woman suffered about a week or ten days, in the opinion of Dr. Stanhope Georgeson L. West, of Newton Centre, who was called Sunday afternoon and viewed the body.

Alfred Farlow, chief press agent for the church of which Mrs. Eddy was the head, said Yesterday afternoon that it was simply a case of old age but last night after being hectored by the reporters, he gave out what the medical examiner had put upon the death certificate. These words were "natural causes, contributory cause probably being pneumonia."

For more than a week Mrs. Eddy had been ailing, or, as a Christian Scientist put it, "had been in error."

BASEBALL STARS WANT TO BE MADE UMPIRES.

When the National Baseball League meets in New York December 13 the question of adding new umpires to the organization's staff will be given keen attention, according to President Murphy, of the Chicago Cubs, when he returned to his office for duty Saturday. There has been much complaint within the last few years of several of President Lynch's officials, and efforts are to *be made by the different club own*ers to have a change if possible. The change is feasible if President Lynch wants to give several new men a trial for the position. There are five applications in now for a tryout on the National League staff, and they have been made by former ball players who, if given the opportunity, are more than likely to earn a regular berth. Those men are Henie Peitz, Carl Lundgren, Bill Gleason, Jack Doyle and Fred Tenney.

The applicants for positions on President Lynch's staff have been connected with baseball for many years, and if their experience is any criterion they should have no difficulty in "making good" if given the chance. Since Lundgren joined the major league ranks he has umpired numerous games, and Fred Tenney once made the statement that the former southpaw twirler would make a good official. Gleason has a "scrappy" temperament and probably would assume the same aggressive attitude as "Hank" O'Day. Fred Tenney, Doyle and Peitz are known to the baseball fans, and although they might not have had any experience in calling balls or strikes, are fit to be given a chance.

ELKS LODGE OF SORROW

Former U. S. Senator Towne Delivers Address on Immortality.

JUDGE WM. RUNYON EULOGIST.

Rev. G. A. Warner Delivers Invocation and Benediction—Superb Music Heard by Great Crowd at the Theatre.

More than fifteen hundred people gathered in the Plainfield theatre, last Sunday to attend the memorial services of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., and many others who could not gain entrance were turned away. The theatre was literally packed when the services began. Owing to a mishap to the train which brought former Senator Charles A. Towne here he was late in arriving, necessitating a re-arrangement of the program. Judge Runyon delivered the eulogy before the oration, but otherwise the program was completed as originally intended.

Exalted Ruler, Joseph Noonan presided and opened the ceremonies by declaring the objects of the organization and calling upon the officers to rehearse their obligations. A finely rendered chorus, "Friend After Friend Departs," followed. An orchestral selection was followed by the opening ode, "For Auld Lang Syne," and Rev. George A. Warner delivered the invocation. Miss Millie Potter and Frank Croxton, soloists, of New York city, sang, the former rendering with splendid feeling and effect "Abide With Me" and Mr. Croxton sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" which was followed by "Onward" Miss Potter and Mr. Croxton sang a duet, "The Lord is My Light."

Judge Runyon's eulogy was a magnificent effort. Each one of the seven departed members was remembered in words of feeling and respect and an impressive tribute he paid to that many were moved to tears and emotion was visible on the faces of hundreds in the audience. The members memorialized were: Daniel Detweiler, Herbert S. Taylor, Robert L. Thomae, Colin Fleming, Herbert Brooks, Charles C. Burnet and Maze Edwards, all of whom passed away previous to 1910. There were no deaths of members in 1910.

Mr. Towne's address was an erudite exposition of reasons for human faith in immortality. No such speech has even been heard here before and hundreds departed from the meeting profoundly impressed with the belief that there is another life beyond this which has been prepared by an all-wise Creator. He will reveal to us the hidden mysteries of it all in His own good time.

Mr. Towne took a text "In My Father's House Are Many Mansions" and declared that the existence of these mansions was a fact than a hope. "The words of the Master predicates," he said, "a sincere belief in a future life or a continuity of life. I come, not as one to immortalize the departed Brothers, but to strengthen the faith of you in the faith in a future life.

"My acceptance of the fact of immortality is not based merely on what my parents installed into me as a boy nor yet is it alone the innate hope which every human has, but it is what I have gained by a profound study of the philosophy of what I would term a scientific demonstration. There are three attitudes taken by the question presented to us, each of which must have its own separate interpretation. First, there is the sufficiency of phenomena. This is found to begin in the anthropological period which produced the 'exaggerated man' and in which polytheism prevailed. When there was worshiped a god for every different emotion of the mind. Second, materialism, in which science predominated and where men tried to find a mechanical equivalent for conscience and lastly a period in which Science and Religion began to be involved in a war of words. Of course, it is impossible to make a scientific demonstration of immortality, but the cause of the growing flower, the color of its petals, the magnificent feats of nature point to a supreme power.

*"The conscience needs no demon*stration. It is immediate and as it changes and grows you have knowledge. We can know nothing of the universe except what comes to us through our senses, therefore, there must be a Power that directs and sensitizes the vibrations which impress themselves upon our brains. Evolution as championed by Darwin is marvellously charged by Science. While the immensity of God's universe staggers the mind, it brings the majesty of the infinitude of creation and premises the mansion of which I have spoken."

Mr. Towne followed the evolution of man from the "Cave man" of thousands of years ago to the man of today with his cultivated mind and said that this was a part of the Creator's great plan which leads gradually to perfection. Perfection to be sought after by souls which he to follow. "Development began with man's mind," declared Mr. Towne, "and it has proceeded along that line until the senses have been brought to such condition of infinitesimal conception that today we are not in ignorance of some of the purposes of God and we can read in the heavens the immensity of his greatness. Millions of worlds there are which are infinitely greater than ours. Is it impossible that God intends these other worlds for our habitation? No, it is the course of evolution after His own plan. Our great republic, greatest among nations, shows that the whole trend of evolution is away from the scientific and toward the spiritual. It is not the plain advancement of physical perfection, but the growth of the human soul. Science in its abstract sense is in consonance with Religion and we are warranted by every analogy of Science in believing that nothing is or can be destroyed and it is inconceivable to believe that life is destructible.

"Let us hope that some of you take this thought home with you and study the subject with the light you have had and I am sure that the result will not only gratify you but it will cause you to take the broad view that God has prepared the mansions for you in the eternity which is to follow."

Following Mr. Towne's oration the Elks' chorus sang Sullivan's "Lost Chord," Mr. Croxton singing the obligato. The audience joined in singing "Lead Kindly Light" followed by "Thee" and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. George A. Warner followed by the singing of "Peace, Perfect Peace," by the Elks' chorus.

The music was under the direction of William E. MacClymont, who has trained the chorus of twenty male voices. Every number of the music was sung with magnificent expression and caused much favorable comment. Elks all over the country held similar ceremonies yesterday.

OSTERGALAND ROMANCE CULMINATES IN WEDDING

In the presence of a gathering of friends numbering fifty in all, Miss Anna Samuelson and Bernhardt Gelberg, both of this city, were married Saturday night at the home of Fred Van Epa., of Netherwood avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Estlund, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church.

Miss Samuelson was attired in white satin and carried bride roses. She was attended by Miss Augusta Gelberg, sister of the groom. Victor Thuren acted as best man. The bride was given away by John Gjetelsen, an intimate friend. While the bridal party was assembling, the wedding march was rendered by George Peer.

Following the ceremony a reception was held during which refreshments were served. At its conclusion Mr. and Mrs. Gerberg left for their new home at 404 East Fourth street. The groom is employed as a foreman at the Diamond factory. Both he and his bride are natives of Ostergaland, Sweden, and their wedding is the result of a romance commenced in that place. They received a large number of presents from friends.

PLAINFIELDERS ATTEND BAPTISMAL SERVICES.

John Console, of this city, and Mrs. Antonio Cerchiaro, of New York city, took part in the baptism of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jannuzzi's infant daughter at St. Joseph's church, Bound Brook, Sunday afternoon. The ceremonies were performed by Rev. W. F. Dilch, pastor of the church. A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jannuzzi, where an elaborate supper was served. Among those present were Raffaele Pizzo and son, Joseph Pizzo, of this city.

During the afternoon music was rendered by an orchestra. Those who attended the parents and their infant were Antonio Cerchiaro, Frank Jannuzi, Pasquale Capano, Joseph Capano and John Console. John Buono sang several selections. Others assisting were Orazia Maggioso, Jerry Russo, Antonio Console, Dominick Pandolfi and James Cajsolujro.

SALAVATION ARMY PLANS FOR CHRISTMAS CHEER.

Preparations are well under way at the Local Corps of the Salvation Army for their Christmas distribution of dinners, toys and clothing for the local poor. For many years past hundreds have been cared for who otherwise would have had very little. This year the need being as great as ever, every effort will be put forth to make it equally as large.

Contributions of money, toys, and warm underclothing for children and provisions are asked for. The officers and members of the Army from years of experience know who is needy and who is lazy and it is hoped that the necessary help will be sent for this worthy cause to insure its success. Applications for dinners, etc., will now be received at the local headquarters on East Second street.

Sang 'The Vision of St. John.'

The choir of the First M. E. church rendered the cantata, "The Vision of St. John," at the evening service, yesterday, under the direction of J. Edmund Hall, choirmaster and organist. In addition to the cantata there was an anthem and a quartet selection in which Miss Bertha vanNuis Willis sang solo parts. In the cantata most of the solo work is for the tenor, which part was taken by Mr. Hall, and S. Frederick Smith organist of Grace church, presided at the organ. The music was well rendered and enjoyed by a large congregation.

DEMOCRACY AND WOMEN

Miss Jordan, of Smith's Faculty, Says Ballot Would Lessen Women's Power.

OPPOSES EQUAL SUFFRAGE.

"Relation of Women to Economics" Subject of Instructive Address Heard by Monday Afternoon Club.

Inspite of Monday's storm, a large audience gathered in the Hartridge School auditorium to listen to the lecture before the Monday Afternoon Club on "Democracy and Women," by Miss Mary A. Jordan, professor of English literature, Smith College. The lecture was the last in the course selected for club study on "The Relation of Women to Economics" and was against woman suffrage.

Miss Jordan said democracy at its worst was chaos come again; democracy at its best was the Kingdom of God come on the earth. In real democracy, she said, there was very high spiritual aristocracy that believed in the liberty, equality and fraternity of souls. Some people, she added, wish to be spiritual slums though their lives in high places. She considered democracy in five aspects, social, political, industrial, intellectual and religious. One practical misconception, she said, was the confounding of government with legislation. Government, she affirmed, was both better and worse than legislation.

She paid a very high tribute to the pioneers in the cause of Woman Suffrage, Anna Dickinson, Miss Mitchell, Julia Ward Howe and Susan B. Anthony, who worked so valiantly for education and intellectual progress and who gained their points without woman suffrage. Miss Jordan did not believe that the problems of democracy would be solved by giving the ballot to women. In practice, it would be the multiplication by two of time, expense and social energy. Economical problems, she said, are beyond legislation. The ballot to woman, she believed, would give her less influence than she now wields, when, without belonging to any organization or party, she can use her influence independently for any good end she may wish to promote.

An interesting discussion followed the lecture when Miss Jordan replied to the questions propounded by the audience.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PUPILS' TEETH IMPROVING

The Board of Education met last Monday in the usual place and transacted the usual routine business, all of the members being present except Dr. Hedges. The Tax Collector reported having received during the month of November school funds to the amount of $4,513.72 and the custodian of school funds reported a balance on hand to November 30 of $21,534.54.

Reports were received from both medical and dental inspectors which showed that during the month 1,012 pupils had been examined by the doctors and 1,741 by the dental inspectors. The latter reported that conditions among the pupils had improved greatly since last spring when the first examinations were made. The pupils are giving more attention to their teeth and are improving in health and cleanliness. The board gave its sanction to the use of a class room in the Lincoln school which is being used three evenings a week as place of instruction in English for foreign residents, the story of which will be found in another column.

MRS. ALICE B. HOFFMAN; LONG ILL, PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Alice B. Hoffman, wife of Peter F. Hoffman, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Madison D. Overlack, died at 10:40 o'clock Monday night at her home, 22 Duer street, following an illness of over a year with tubercular trouble. Everything possible was done to restore the young woman to health and strength, but to no purpose. She fought bravely against the ravages of the disease.

Mrs. Hoffman was born in Cambridgeport, Mass., twenty-two years ago and had been a resident of Plainfield about four years. Two years ago she was married. She is survived by her parents, a tenmonths' old daughter, Doris; three brothers, Max, Bernhard and Arthur Overlack; also two sisters, Mrs. Bernardine Getchius and Mrs. Helen King. The brothers and sisters reside in Newark.

"Art in Education."

The Plainfield Mothers' Association will meet with Mrs. W. M. Sandford, Jr., of 127 Crescent avenue, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be an address by Miss Beatrice Weller on "Art in Education." It will be a chalk talk.

PRIVATE LETTER BOXES

All Persons Recieving Mail by Delivery Must Obey Order.

POSTMASTER BIRD NOTIFIED.

To Save Time of Carrier and to Obtain Prompt Service, the Rule Is Adopted at Washington.

The postoffice department at Washington desires that private mail receptacles shall be provided by all patrons of the city delivery service in Plainfield. Postmaster Bird has been asked to request all persons receiving mail from the carriers to put up conveniently accessible letter boxes on their residences or make a proper opening in the front door so that mail can be dropped inside. Such action will enable the postmaster to give a more prompt and better delivery service with the means at his disposal, since carriers can cover more territory in less time if not compelled to wait for an answer to their ring.

Postmasters throughout the country have received the same instructions.

Private receptacles for mail are also of great convenience to the householder, obviating the necessity of responding to the carrier's call at inconvenient moments and permitting the safe delivery of mail in the absence of members of the household. They also obviate the occasional necessity of a carrier procuring on his route without delivering mail because of failure to answer his ring within a reasonable time and enable him to make deliveries to patrons' homes at the other end of the route at an earlier hour.

It has been shown by actual experience that the benefits derived by the patrons of city delivery from the use of such receptacles far outweigh the small expense involved.

An ordinary letter box can be purchased for about one dollar, and Postmaster Bird is very anxious that the patrons provide themselves with these letter boxes as soon as possible.

As an example of the time they may be saved, take for instance a carrier who has 200 stops to make on one delivery. He is required to lose an average of thirty seconds at each stop while waiting for the response to his ring at the door, he will have wasted on that trip one hour and forty minutes in time.

By this example it can readily be seen what tremendous saving in time can be accomplished should every one provide themselves with letter boxes and the man at the end of the route can rest assured he would receive his mail at least one hour earlier on each delivery.

The expense involved upon each patron of the office is small and it is earnestly hoped that all householders will take up this matter at once and provide themselves with letter boxes.

The postal department estimates that $6,000,000 a year could be saved, in time, if this request of the government was generally obeyed.

BAD MAN AMMON GOES GUNNING FOR RELATIVES

Thomas Ammon, a borough resident, went on a little spree Saturday night. He got well intoxicated and the more he drank the madder he got because his wife had dared to go to the home of her folks on upper Duer street to spend the evening. Finally he sallied up to the house with a shot gun and carried on awful heroics. He said if his wife didn't come out he'd either plug the front door full of lead or plug himself, he wasn't sure which, and the family thought he meant what he said and telephoned the police. Marshal Kiernan responded, immediately putting a quietus on the bad man by taking away his weapon. The family said they could handle him after that and if the officer would please go away everything would turn out all right. The marshal complied, but had hardly reached headquarters when he was called back. He was prepared to arrest the disturber, but again the family demurrred and he left after giving Ammon a good scolding.

There was no further call after that and it is inferred that the family asserted itself.

Funeral of Mrs. David Townsend.

The funeral servies of Mrs. David Townsend was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. B. R. Mason, at Bound Brook, yesterday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Villiers, pastor of the Peddie Memorial Baptist church, officiated, of which Mrs. Townsend was a member, conducted the service. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, and the floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The pall bearers relatives of Mrs. Townsend, were J. C. Manning, Clifford D. Manning, Charles Rocap, Walter Manning, Howard Manning and Howard Randolph, all of Plainfield.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XLII — PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY DECEMBER, 15, 1910. — NO. 49.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

STATE MARRIAGE LAWS

Discussed by Rev. Elizabeth Padgham, of Rutherford.

AT EQUAL SUFFRAGE LEAGUE.

Early History's Apparent Laxity Explained—Why Women Insist on Equal Rights.

"Marriage Laws in New Jersey" was the subject of a lecture before the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Champlain L. Riley, in the borough. The speaker Rev. Elizabeth Padgham, gave an interesting discourse. At the business meeting the enrollment committee reported the addition of four names to the membership roll and Mrs. E. F. Feickert was appointed a member of the Society for Moral and Social Prophylaxis. This appointment entitles the local league to receive the literature of that society.

Mrs. Padgham has for several years been a minister of the Unitarian church in Rutherford. Before getting down to her subject she said it was a pleasure to speak to a group of Suffrage women, for in her own town there are not enough women interested in the subject to form an organization. The last time she had spoken on Suffrage was at the regular meeting of the Ministers' club, where her hearers were all men who all applauded her sentiments and favored equal suffrage.

Miss Padgham gave a comprehensive history of New Jersey's attitude toward the marriage contract as disclosed in the laws from the earliest colonial times to date. "In our early history," she said, "conditions revealed what at first glance would seem a lax state of affairs, but that is explained thus; the natural relaxation from the extreme ecclesiastical authority in the countries whence the new settlers had come and the predominating influence of the Society of Friends whose adherents were here in large numbers and whose peculiar faith was respected by the law of the land."

Following an outline of the various laws passed by the State Legislature from 1852 until 1910, when the license law went into effect, Miss Padgham carried her audience through the various enactments calculated to give greater protection to women's property rights. But she declared that none of special laws the State discriminates against all women citizens and it is for this reason that New Jersey women, married and single, are insistent upon their rights of citizenship being restored.

Miss Padgham received a vote of thanks for her address.

PHILATHEA BIBLE CLASS OF BAPTIST CHURCH ELECTS.

The Baracca and Philathea Bible classes of the Temple Baptist church, held regular business meetings at the church, last night, in their respective rooms. The reports of the committees of both classes were presented and discussed . A social hour followed the transaction of business. The Philathea class elected the following officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. Edward Baker, Sr.; vice-president, Mrs. Charles Gullberg; secretary, Mrs. R. Joslin; assistant secretary, Mrs. Westerfield; treasurer, Mrs. H. Bouton; financial secretary, Mrs. Alex Campbell; press reporter, Mrs. Charles Brewin; teacher, U. B. Crane; assistant teacher, Mrs. Metler.

Hospital News.

Only routine business was transacted at the December meeting of the board of governors of Muhlenberg hospital, held in the Frost building on Monday evening. This was the medical report for November as submitted: Patients remaining November 1, 27; admitted during the month, 70; total ward patients treated, 97; cured, 40; improved 11; died 4; operations, 60; dispensary patients treated, 59; dispensary daily visits, 183; total hospital days, 1048; in the tuberculosis pavilion, one patient was discharged and seven remain. The charity ball committee reported the arrangements as already told in these columns, for the annual ball.

Playing at So. Norwalk, Conn.

Miss Gloria Gallup and Farrall Mc Knight, who will be remembered as two clever members of the Plainfield Stock Company, are now members of a stock company at South Norwalk, Conn., and are making a hit. Last week they appeared in "Brewster's Millions."

—McIntyre Concert Thursday evening, High School auditorium. Mme. De Moss, soprano, and Horace Britt, 'cellist, soloists. Seats $1.50 at Armstrong's. 12 13 3

REV. DR. ZELIE TELLS OF THE PASSION PLAY

Under the auspices of the Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue church, the Rev. Dr. John S. Zelie gave a lecture in the church chapel last night, on the Passion Play of Oberammergau. The women of the congregation had been given a cordial invitation to attend and as a result there was a large audience.

Dr. Zelie took occasion to witness the presentation of the play while abroad last summer, and his address was based on the personal impression gained from viewing the wonderful spectacle. He presented numerous phases new to his hearers while entering into details of the preparation and presentation of the play.

The lectue was illustrated with about 100 splendid stereopticon views secured by Dr. Zelie while in Oberammergau.

CHRISTMAS SOCIAL HELD BY TRINITY'S C. E. SOCIETY

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinty Reformed church held a Christmas social at the church, last night, the affair being largely attended by members of the society and friends. There were many enjoyable features which helped to pass an enjoyable evening, among them a large Christmas tree, elaborately decorated. There were placed on the tree a large number of presents, numbered and others at random were numbered with tags and then the duplicates distributed among those present.

In this way everyone received a gift and the distribution caused no end of fun, as some of the gifts were exceedingly funny. The distribution was made by "Santa Claus," in the person of Alfred W. Dunavan, who made an excellent Santa.

Another amusing feature was a "postoffice game." The boys deposited their addressed envelopes at the postoffice, and duplicate tags were distributed among the young women. They called at the office received their mail and in this way secured their partners for refreshments. When the "postoffice" was opened, it looked just like the "5:30 mail" at the postoffice, so great was the demand for letters. During an intermission refreshments were served, consisting of cake and pineapple sundaes. Afterwards the young people enjoyed playing other games. A pleasing feature was a fine program by Guest's orchestra, which enlivened the occasion The rooms were decorated in green and white.

The committee in charge of the affair comprised Elmer Gayle, chairman; the Miss May Randolph Elsie Dunavan, Myra Dunavan. Marie Hahn, Mrs. Alfred W. Dunavan, Roy Layton, Arthur Geakill, Alfred W. Dunavan and Russell Doeringer.

WINFIELD SCOTT POST ELECTS.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., at its regular meeting, last night, elected these officers: Commander, William C. Smith; senior vice-commander, Stephen R. Struthers; junior vice-commander, Ernest H. B. Green; quartermaster, John R .Naylor, surgeon, Josiah Unangst; chaplain, Nathan C. Pennington; offrec of the day, I. L. McVoy; officer of the guard, Edward Vanderwey; trustees, William Smith, William Hand, I. L. McVoy; delegates to department encampment, John R. Naylor, Isaac E. Houston, Stephen R. Struthers; alternates, Job Coddington, John Wagner, Edward Vanderwey. The installation will take place the first meeting in January.

"Three Twins" Pleases Big Audience

The performance of the "Three Twins," with Clifton Crawford as "Tom Stanhope," and the original company, delighted a capacity audience at The Plainfield theatre, last night. Although the musical comedy had been seen here three times before, it proved a strong attraction. Clifton Crawford was the big hit, while the various musical numbers, together with the dancing and singing of the principals and the chorus, were well received. Marie Fanchonette was just as clever as ever in the "Yama-Yama" and other dances, while Daisy Leon won favor with her singing.

Will Inspect New Clubhouse.

The new clubhouse of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, located on West Front street, will be inspected by the members and their friends, tomorrow night. The clubhouse is now about completed, being furnished throughout in an attractive way. The date for the formal opening will be announced soon, when elaborate arrangements will be made to entertain the mebers and their friends.

GOLFERS OF THE FUTURE

Leighton Calkins Wants Some Incentive for the Youthful Golfer.

ADDRESS THE "MET." ASS'N.

Resolution Offered by President of the P. C. C. is Adopted at Annual Meeting at Sherry's.

Officers were elected and various matters discussed at the annual meeting of the Metropolitan Golf Association held at Sherry's, New York, last night, when President Leighton Calkins and Julius E. Erickson were present to represent the Plainfield Country Club. These officers were elected: President, Frederick S. Wheeler; vice-president, Jas, L. Taylor; secretary, Wynant D. Vanderpool; treasurer, Mortimer N. Buckner; for executive committee, the above officers and Findlay S. Douglas, Harry V. Keep, John Reid, Jr., Joseph P. Knapp and John M. Ward.

Five clubs made bids for the annual amateur championship of the association, but no action was taken. No offer for the open championship was received, whereupon the committee was asked to think it over for a while. Leighton Calkins, assistant secretary of the association, made a strong plea for a rising generation of golfers in a resolution in which he urged the organization to conduct an annual junior tournament, this resolution which was well received, was referred to the executive committee with power to act, the Fox Hill Golf Club offering its course, in case a tournament is rarranged.

Mr. Calkins said:

"In government, in able officials, in ancestry and general loyalty to the best traditions of the game in this country, we are in no sense wanting. In one respect, however, we are behind the times. We are not producing a younger generation of tip-top players capable of holding their own with the young men in the game from other sections of the country. Without any desire to reflect on the last Lesley cup team, it is only right to point out that the Metropolitan Golf Association has still to rely on the "old guard"—all honors to it for holding its own for so many years against the encroachments of youth —as its mainstay in these yearly matches. When the "old guard" will last, after five successive victories, and the time has come when we must help out our grand old guard. They are overworked, becoming a bit winded. We need younger men to help carry the load. The old guard will soon be septuagenarians and later octogenarians. Time will show its revenge, and the ranks must be recruited .

"Take also our national amateur championships of recent years. The East still relies on the men who brought honors to us a decade ago. As against this we have to do battle against a veritable arm of young and enthusiastic warriors who sweep Western plains, and all but wrest our laurels from us .

"Seriously, gentlemen, the situation is acute. They are giving birth to golfers in the West ,while we content ourselves in these parts with the same old names. The "grand old man" himself can hardly last forever. We must be up and doing.

"I suggest, therefore ,the great desirability of doing something to stimulate interest in golf on the part of our boys. We ought to look into the future. We must make up warriors to carry on the fight and maintain the prestige of our district when our honor champions of the past shall have earned their retirement from active competition.

"I offer this resolution: Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that a junior tournament—in addition to the amateur and open tournaments—be held during the coming season, open to the young men and boys connected with the clubs belonging to this association; all questions to date, conditions of tournament, age of competitors, prizes to be offered, and other details, to be referred to the executive committee of the association with power."

Proctor's Fine Show.

Proctor's show this week is a fine one. "The Minister's Wife," a rural sketch presented by Frances Stevens & Co., is a delightful comedy; The Drapers in "That Girl from Mobile," are clever; Pauline Moran, singing comedienne, is especially good; Ted and Kate Gibson, in "The Mysterious Mr. Raffles," tells an unusually good story .

Making Americans.

"Making Americans" will be the title of a talk at the First Presbyterian church tonight at the regular meeting of the Home Missionary Society. Stereopticon views showing the mode of arrival and examination at various incidents connected with the missionary work will be shown.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR M'INTYRE CONCERT

Plainfield music devotees will have another opportunity tomorrow evening to listen to the offerings of the McIntyre trio assisted by Mme. Hissem de Moss, a New York soprano of note as it goes without saying that a treat is in store for those who attend the event at the High School auditorium.

Mme. Hissem de Moss.

The program offers two trios by noted masters, Arensky's in D minor, four movements, allegro moderato, scherzo, elegia and finale; and Haydn's No. 1, adagio and rondo. As usual, Mr. McIntyre will be at the piano, William Grafton King, violin and Horace Britt, whose splendid playing received recognition on November 10, will be the 'cellist. Mr. Britt will be heard in two solos, Meditation, from suite and Gavotte, by Pepper.

Mme. de Moss will sing a group of classics which includes ,(a), the aria from Mignon, "I am Titinia;" (b), "Four by the Clock," Mallinson-Langford; (c), "My April Lady," Converse-VanDyck; (d), "Love's Philosophy," Hahn-Shelley.

$400 FIRE CAUSED BY HENSEY'S THAWING OUT

An unoccupied house on Laramie road, belonging to Mrs. Bridget McCullough, was badly damaged by fire at about noon today. Flames had spread from the first floor to the attic when the firemen arrived and they had about an hour's fight. The loss is placed at $400, covered by insurance.

John Hensey, a painter has been at work on the house and this morning started a fire in the kitchen sink to get warm. He became so absorbed in imbibing heat that he failed to notice the blaze working its way into the wall. He was still enjoying the warmth when somebody noticed the flames on the outside and telephoned fire headquarters.

Chief Doane started for the scene in his auto but it's speed kept getting less and less as he went out Park avenue, so that finally a small boy running along the sidewalk kept pace with the machine. Fortunately Alexander ,Milne appeared with a regular automobile and the chief got to the fire. He saw at once that it was a dangerous blaze and turned to box 76 at Park avenue and Arlington place to turn in an alarm. Even then he reached the fire before the apparatus that had answered the telephone call.

It is not reported officially, but rumor has Hensey secured enough heat before leaving the place to last him the rest of the winter.

Funeral of Mrs. Mary Cooney.

The funeral service of Mrs. Mary Cooney, who died yesterday after a short illness, will be held at the late residence, 664 West Fourth street, Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock and from St. Mary's church, at 9 o'clock, where a solemn requiem mass will be offered for the repose of her soul. The burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

W. C. T. U. Parlor Meeting.

The W. C .T.U. will hold a parlor meeting at the home of Miss Anna Bolce, of Park avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. T. C. Bodine will tell of the national convention held in Baltimore and there will be a social hour.

Will Meet Hounds at Westfield.

The Watchung Hunt Club will hold its weekly chase Saturday afternoon, meeting the hounds at the Westfield station of the New Jersey Central at 3 o'clock. It is expected that a number of New York riders will take part in the hunt.

Sesame Club Meeting.

The Sesame Club will meet tomorrow morning at the residence of Mrs. F. Glenny, 331 East Sixth street.

ONLY A TEN CENT TOY

What an Inexpensive Gift Will Mean to Some Poor Little Tot.

THE GOOD FELLOWS ENLIST.

Here's a Chance for the Red Blooded Ones to do Some Real Good —Read the Letter Today.

In telling what toys mean to the little ones, in this and in all ages, the Trenton True American said yesterday:

"In every teeming city of this Republic, in the deep forests of the far north ,among the orange groves of the south, in the farm homes of the middle west, out on the bleak plains of the prairie states, beyond the peaks of the Rockies, where rolls the Oregon, in California's 'clime of perpetual roses,' there are toys, treasured up against The Children's Days of Days.

"And, thanks to the spread of the gospel of Him who said, 'Suffer the little children to come unto me,' the merriment of this season is not confined to this Republic. In all the Americas, in all the continents beyond the seas and in all the islands of the seas, wherever there is home and wherever the Story of the Child in the Manger at Bethlehem has been told, the children now are singing by day and dreaming by night of the coming of Christmas—and their toys."

The sublime happiness of the child when it finds a toy in its stocking over the fireplace on Christmas morning "is more nearly angelic than anything to be seen this side of heaven itself."

But indescribable must be the pain suffered by the poor little one that has climbed upon a chair and put its chubby little hand into the stocking only to find that it is empty. To it Christmas is a sad, sad day. There are hundreds of just such little ones in Plainfield. That is why the Good Fellow is appealing to those of his kind. Last year he found more than 500 little boys and girls who would not have known the joys of the Christ Child's day had it not been for the Good Fellow.

Good Fellow's letter reprinted on another page again today, has already resulted in many recruits, but several hundred are needed to accomplish the purpose—bringing real joy to all the poor little tots in Plainfield.

Here is a sample letter received by mail:

"I am a little boy of ten years My papa says I am big enough to be a Good Fellow, and please Mister Good Fellow, I have a nice toy that Santa Claus brought me last Christmas. I will send it to you to give to a little boy of my age."

Bless his little heart, this little man has overlooked the real spirit of the idea. No toys, nor money, is to be sent to Good Fellow—the gifts must be made directly by the Good Fellows themselves to the poor little ones—therein lies the beauty of the scheme.

JAMES M. SMITH, OF THIS CITY, DEAD AT MONTCLAIR.

James M. Smith, a resident of this city for a great many years, died yesterday at Montclair where he had been living for several months. No particulars concerning Mr. Smith's illness have been received as yet. His home in this city was on Elmwood place, where he resided with his son, William Montgomery Smith. He was a painter by trade and followed it up to a few years ago.

About two years ago Mr. Smith underwent an operation for the removal of a growth on his head and at that time his condition was critical. He appeared to recover from the effect of that trouble and enjoyed very good health. Mr. Smith was a member of the First Baptist church. He is survived by two sons, William Montgomery Smith and Ferdinand O. Smith, the latter of New York, and two daughters, one of whom resides in Orange. Announcement of the funeral will be made tomorrow.

CLERGYMAN TELLS OF EDINBURGH CONFERENCE.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church held the annual meeting yesterday afternoon. The customary address was made by Rev. Dr. J. H. Odell, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Scranton, Pa. and related to the Edinburgh conference in June, which he attended and participated in. The address was of absorbing interest.

The usual thank offering for missions was received at the close of Dr. Odell's talk and a social hour followed, during which tea was served.

—Advertise in The Daily Press.

MISS SAUNDERS WEDDING AT HOLY CROSS DEC. 31.

Invitations have been issued by William L. Saunders, of Rockview avenue, to the marriage of his daughter, Miss Louise Saunders and Maxwell Evarts Perkins, of Windsor, Vermont. The wedding will take place on Saturday, December 31, at 12 o'clock, at the Church of the Holy Cross. A large number of invitations have been issued and the ceremony will be witnessed by many prominent society people of the city and the borough, as well as from distant points.

Rev. Prescott Evarts, of Boston, a relative of Mr. Perkins, will perform the ceremony, assisted by Rev. George A. Warner rector of the Church of the Holy Cross.

Mr. Perkins is the son of Mrs. E. C. Perkins, of Boston, and a grandson of the late Senator William M. Evarts. He now holds a position with Charles Scribner's Sons, of New York.

ADROIT THIEF NABBED BY BOROUGH POLICE

Frank Brown, a young colored man living on West Fourth street, is locked up at borough police headquarters, charged by the police with stealing a gold watch and chain worth $40 from the home of James McKenna on Linden avenue. The prisoner denies the charge and swears by the sacred possum that he is the victim of a magician or some sleight-of-hand artist who slipped the jewelry into his clothing. He will be arraigned before Justice Snape tonight.

McKenna has just moved from Somerset street to his new address and this morning engaged John Smalley to move over a last load of trunks. The latter hired Brown to help him do the lugging. After the men had been at the house Mrs. McKenna discovered that her watch and chain had disappeared from a sideboard in the sitting room. The police were notified and Chief Weiss went looking for Brown.

The officer was standing in front of fire headquarters on Somerset street, shortly before noon, when Smalley's wagon came along. Brown was on the front seat and he was invited in the building. He stoutly denied taking the watch while a search of his clothes failed to reveal it. He was then taken to the police station where the chief started in to disrobe him. He had gotten pretty well along when a bulge in the lining of the man's overcoat attracted his attention. The watch came to light soon after having been dropped down through a slit to the bottom of the garment.

It is said that the expression on Brown's face was a study to behold.

"H-h-how did that get in there," he stammered. "Somebody did it when I wasn't lookin'. Yes, sir, some guy put it there to get me in wrong."

"Sure," assented Chief Weiss; and the guy's name was Brown. Back to cell No. 3 for yours" and the victim of the magician was led away.

HERE'S WHERE "FARMER" DONS EVENING CLOTHES.

James E. Martine, the primary choice of the Democrats for United States Senator, has been invited by Governor J. Franklin Fort to attend a reception to be held at his home in East Orange, on Wednesday, Jan. 4, to meet Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson .

Proposed National Holiday .

Representative Hamill, of this State, is the author of a bill now before the committee on judiciary which provides for the naming of April 25 as a national holiday to be called "America" in which America Vespucci is to be honored for his part in naming the continent. Plans for extensive celebrations are tentatively outlined in the bill. Mr. Hamill declares that the entire continent would join in celebrating the day.

Taxes Due and Payable Dec. 20.

Local taxes are due and payable at the office of Collector W. R. Townsend on Tuesday, December 20. All taxes not settled on or before that day will be charged up as delinquent and interest will be added, as usual in all such cases. Mr. Townsend is very busy these days receiving tax money ,property-owners being unusually prompt in making a settlement.

—Use Daily Press want ads. They bring results.

—Pillsbury's Best. Superlative and Gold Medal are three special brands of flour as Norman Bros. They make the best pastry and give general satisfaction always. Special prices by the barrel. 'Phone 760.

HE IS LUCKY GUESSER

J. H. Greene Jr. Came Within 63 of Guessing Soro's Exact Population.

MISS ELSIE HORN SECOND.

One predicted That North Plainfield's Population was 963, While Another Guessed 30,160.

If J. H. Green, Jr., of 609 West Seventh street will call at this office he will receive the five-dollar gold piece, offered for the person who came nearest to predicting the actual population of North Plainfield. Mr. Greene's guess was 6,180, and, as published yesterday the actual population according to the 1910 census is 6,117. Mr. Greene was therefore only 63 out of the way. Several others guessed in the 6,000 class, but none came as near the correct total as Mr. Greene. Miss Elsie Horn, of 317 Park avenue, was close up having put her guess at 6,050, or within four of the winner's approximation. Next to Miss Horn was Mrs. M. C. Sutphen with a guess of 6,019.

One guess of 6,100, within seventeen of the actual number, was submitted by a reporter for The Daily Press, but as the rules of the paper was eligible to the contest his guess was thrown out. The limits of the guesses were far apart. The lowest was 963 and the highest 30,160. Following is a list of the guessers and their figures:

J. H. Greene, Jr. West 7th St., 6,180
Elsie Horn, Park ave., 6,050.
Mrs. M. C. Sutphen, Fairview ave., 6,019.
Marian Greene, West 7th st., 6,018.
L. M. Sydenham Westervelt ave., 6,200.
C. M. Huff, North ave., 6,215.
Susan Stewart, Clinton ave., 9,000.
C. L. Murphy, North ave., 6,456.
J. F. Bamberger, W. Front st., 6,731.
Harry J. Swaim, New st., 6,278.
Helen Owens, East 2d st., 5,100.
May Bourne, E Front st., 9,837.
Elsie Murray, E Front st., 10,513.
Robt. Murray, E. Front st., 8,990.
Geo. Francisco, West 2d st., 8,050.
Mrs. Geo. Francisco, W. 2d st., 8,500.
Harold Williams, W Front st., 31,429
M. W. McAtchen, Rockview ave., 7,108.
Rev. J. W. Musson, E. 2d st., 5,624.
Mary S. Kelly, Crescent ave., 7,625.
Mrs. R. E. Kelly, Crescent ave., 8,000
R. E. Kelly, Crescent ave., 10,525.
Rev. Edwin Shaw, Central av., 6,282.
G. Mehl, Jr., Madison ave., 5,798.
Mrs. W. Lunger, Fairview av., 6,339.
M. C. Sutphen, Fairview ave., 6,650.
Robt. Van Horn. W. Front st., 5,707.
A. A. Lance, Grove st., 5,960.
Jacob Kuhn, E. 7th st., 7,200.
Mrs. W. A. Cochran, Watchung ave., 5,920.
A. E. Crone, College pl., 5,978.
W. C. Hubbard, W. Fifth st., 6,512.
H. N. Adams, Johnson ave., 8,350.
Harold Glick, East 2d st., 5,299.
H. H. Coward, Union st., 5,460.
P. LaBoyteaux, Fairview ave., 6,365.
E. A. Crone, College pl., 5,821.
C. A. Adams, Johnston ave., 25,000.
Elsie L. Debele, Somerset st., 8,900.
Michael Hodis, Belvidere av., 17,000.
Mrs. F. Wyne, East 7th st., 8,173.
H. Crocker, 7,432.
Margaret Hogan Doer st., 10,000.
Mrs. A. Cochran, Watchung ave., 5,950.
Lena Brugger Duer st., 6 000.
Harold Williams, W. Front st., 9,856
Guy G. Peck, 7,863.
Mrs. H. H. Coward, Union st., 6,742.
H. H. Coward Union st., 6 830.
H. L. Black, Webster pl., 6,807.
Mrs. M. G. Black, Webster pl. 7,131.
Mrs. Milton Miller, Everett pl., 9,503.
Milton Miller Everett pl., 8,962.
Laura Miller, Everett pl., 8,661.
Harry Thain, Everett pl., 11,012.
G. M. Sykes, E. Fifth st., 8,122.
Mrs. J. Greene, Jr., W. 7th st., 7,017
Harold Lounsberry, Fairfield ave., 7,250.
Mrs. E. F. DeForest, W. 2d st. 7,100.
I. M. Godown, W. 2d st., 9,000.
Roscoe VanCamp, Westervelt ave., 7,589.
Chas. H. Green, West 7th st., 6,540.
Bertha VanCamp West 7th st., 8,075
Capt. S. A. Hewitt. S. A., 9,765.
A. F. Hoagland, Park ave., 5,280.

Wagons Stored in Streets.

Chief Kiely is notifying delivery wagon owners of the city that they must not store their vehicles in the street. Numerous complaints of this practice have come to headquarters within the past few days and unless those who have the habit cease to properly care for the wagons they will be haled before Judge Hunyon.

League to Boom Martine.

Responding to invitations sent out by Julian A. Gregory, of East Orange, twenty-three persons, several of them Republicans, met at the Continental Hotel, Newark, Monday night, to organize a league to help bring about the election of James E. Martine to the United States Senate.

EQUAL FRANCHISE CLAIMS

Arrangement of Facts in Criticism on Miss Elizabeth Jordan's Lecture.

MRS. F. H. HALL'S ARGUMENT.

Suffrage Not a "Mess of Pottage," Declares Honorary President, "But Highest Degree of Freedom."

The lecture give by Miss. Elizabeth Joradn, at the Hartridge auditorium Friday night has stirred some, if not all of the suffragists of the city to take exception to the arguments set forth by the eminent Professor of Smith College and the following from Mrs. Florence Howe Hall reflects the opinions of at least one woman member of the Equal Suffrage League. Editor, Daily Press:

"It is a saying among suffragists that the anti-suffragists help our cause wherever they speak. I think many converts must have been made by the address of Miss Elizabeth Jordan, Professor at Smith College, at the Hartridge auditorium on Monday. Professor Jordan is a clever woman, but the academic shades in which she has long lived have affected her thoughts to such a degree that she does not express herself in the clear, straightforward manner in which we are accustomed to hear practical, concrete problems dealt with at the present day. This ambiguous and veiled style of utterance is characteristic of the anti-suffragists, who are extremely averse to arguments, for obvious reasons. Professor Jordan did, however, permit herself to make two clear statements, one being that if women had the suffrage it would only double the vote; the other, that if we had the ballot we should be obliged to give up freedom of discussion, and that therefore the ballot would be to us a mess of pottage.

"This claim, that giving the franchise to women would merely increase the number of votes appears to be founded on the idea that we are all asleep and would simply follow the lead of our husbands and brothers. The argument has often been refuted, but never more neatly than by Everett Colby. In a recent speech he told of his experience with a real estate broker to whom he had put the question, 'Do you believe in Woman Suffrage?' 'Oh, no! Not at all. It would not make any difference, they would vote as their husbands did. They have privileges enough already.' 'Yes,' replied Colby, 'believe the troubles we have in getting them to sign away their rights of dower in their husband's property!' This was asserted in one breath, that woman would vote just as their husbands wanted if they had the franchise, and in the next he complained of the constant opposition of these very women to the husband's wish to deprive them of their property. Possibly those who have more independence of character, without the rights of citizenship, might retain it after acquiring those rights.

"Our friends, the anti-suffragists seem to imagine party lines are of cast iron and that Republicans and Democrats are divided off like the sheep and the goats. According to Professor Jordan, those who have the suffrage become party slaves, silent and uncommunicative, save in the presence of their fellow Republicans and Democrats. Evidently the echoes of the recent election have failed to reach Smith College. The existence of the Independent voters was pretty clearly demonstrated last month and the independent voters certainly can both discuss, debate and listen to arguments. Were the regular line party theory to be the ordinary observer, to discuss politics, 'even with vehemence at times.

"As for the ballot being a mess of pottage, that depends on one's point of view. Mr. Chauncey Depew and some others, doubtless think it so just now. Professor Jordan spoke of this instrument of popular sovereignty as the successor to the sword and the thumbscrew. In a word, she depreciated it as much as possible, but did not say what she would like to substitute for it. When asked by one of her audience whether she believed in philosophical anarchy, she made no reply.

"That popular government is without faults, none of us believe. But we do believe it to be the best form of government yet devised, and as intelligent, patriotic citizens, we women desire to have our share in the burdens and the privileges entailed by the possession of the ballot. We do not imagine that the ballot is a cure-all to all evils, but we do believe it is a forceful weapon. Doubtless it would lay more burdens and responsibilities upon us, doubtless we should in some way be bound by it. When we become members of a church; when we take the vows of matrimony, we also bind ourselves. No human being can hope to be perfectly free; even the gentlemen of leisure, the tramps, are liable to be taken up by the constable.

"But the highest degree of political freedom as yet known to mankind is that enjoyed by the citizen of a democracy who choose their own rulers. We ask to share this freedom and the sophistries of our opponents melt like mists before the morning sun, as the earnest and patriotic women of our land come forward and in ever increasing numbers, ask for the rights and privileges of American citizenship.

"FLORENCE HOWE HALL,
"Honorary President, New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association."

BOOKS SUGGESTED FOR THE BOYS TO READ

At the lecture given by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium on Friday afternoon the following books were on exhibition, selected by Mr. Mathiews, assisted by Miss Bowman, the librarian. These books have the approval of students of boys' training and are especially recommended:

Types of the Fiction Books Boys Read.

Aldrich, Thomas B., Story of a bad boy; Camp, Walter, Substitute; Clemens, Samuel L., Adventures of Huckleberry Finn; Clemens, Samuel L., Adventures of Tom Sawyer; Cooper, J. Fenimore, Spy; Defoe, Daniel, Robinson Crusoe; Dickens, William, Young consul; Dudley, Albertus T., Yale cup; Dumas, Alexandre, Count of Monte Cristo; Kipling, Rudyard, "Captains courageous;" Scott, Sir Walter, Ivanhoe; Stevenson, Robert L., Kidnapped; Stevenson, Robert L., Treasure Island; Verne, Jules, Twenty thousand leagues under the sea.

Types of the Non-Fiction Books Boys Read.

Biography, History and Legends.

Baldwin, James, Fifty famous stories retold; Baldwin, James, Story of Roland; Bolton, Sarah K., Famous American statesmen; Bolton, Sarah K., Famous leaders among men; Brooks, E. S., Historic boys; Jenks, Tudor, Books of famous nieges; Jenks, Tudor, Boys book of exploration; Jenks, Tudor, Captain John Smith; Knox, Thomas W., General Grant; Peple, Howard, Story of Sir Launcelot.

Games and Sports.

Camp, Walter, Book of college sports; Neil, C. Lang, Modern conjurer; Nugent, Meredith, New games and amusements.

Nature Books and Adventure.

Bostock, Frank C., Training of wild animals; Eggeling, Otto, Freshwater aquarium and its inhabitants; Helley, Jay G., Story of mineral collectors; Seton, Ernest T., Animal heroes; Seton, Ernest T., Wild animals I have known; Smith, Fred, Boyhood of a naturalist; White, Stewart E., The Mountains.

Mechanics; How to Make Things, etc.

Hasluck, Joseph H., Harper's electricity book for boys; Adams, Joseph H., Harper's indoor book for boys; Adams, Joseph H., Harper's machinery book for boys; Baker, Ray S., Boys' book of inventions; Beard, Dan. C., Boys' second book of inventions; Beard, D. C., Field and forest handy book; Jenks, Tudor, Photography for young people.

MRS. ELIZABETH A. VARS AGED SEVENTY-SIX, DEAD

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Vars, aged 76 years, wife of the late Nathan Vars died Friday at the home of her son, Alexander W. Vars, 814 Webster place, where she had been making her home for the past seven years. Her death, which was sudden, was due to valvular heart trouble. She was taken ill at breakfast time and passed away soon afterward.

Mrs. Vars was born at Scotch Plains, her maiden name being Elizabeth Smith Collier. She was married to Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Wilson, of that place. After her marriage she removed to Dunellen, where she resided since 1869, coming to Plainfield seven years ago to make her home with her son. Mrs. Vars was a devout Christian woman and admired for her many excellent qualities. She was a member of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, New Market, where she attended regularly for many years. Beside a son, she leaves three sisters, Mrs. W. W. Thompson, of Westchester, Pa.; Miss Charlotte M. Wilson, of Newark, and Miss Matilda Wilson, of Middletown, N. J.

A Simple Program.

Nothin' to do but listen,
Nothin' to do but wait,
And patiently hear with attractive ear
What the statesmen have to state.
Nothin' to do but watch 'em
As they gather in strength once more,
To lead the way and to have their say
As they've done so often before.

Nothin' to do but cheer 'em,
Nothin' to do but smile,
As they set the sail to each passin' gale
And steer the ship in style—
Nothin' to do but shake 'em
When Fortune's not so fair,
For gratitude never was the mood
Of republics anywhere.
—Washington Evening Star.

Prefered Summer.

Dedd—You say you like the summer time?
Greene—Oh, yes.
Redd—Why?
Greene—Because there's no football dope in the newspapers.—Exchange.

Bessie—How did Maude look in her new gown?
Jessie—She looked as if she thought everybody was looking.

HISTORY OF RED CROSS SEALS SINCE 1862

Judging from present indications the sale of the Red Cross seals which were put in the stores on Thursday last will eclipse in quantity the number of stamps sold last year at this time. Many people have become interested in the movement of the fight against tuberculosis because they have in their possession obtained by careful treatment in this city. Hundreds of the little seals will be used on Christmas packages an on letters containing happy tidings of the season. It must be remembered, however, that when the seals are used on packages or letters to be sent by mail that the seals must be placed on the back of the letters or package and that they are not to be used in place of Uncle Sem's postage stamps.

Red Cross Christmas seals date back in their origin to "charity stamps," first used for the soldiers' relief fund in Boston in 1862, during the Civil War. After the war, this method of raising money was discontinued in this country for a generation, although it found vogue in Portugal, Switzerland, Australia, France, Spain, Denmark, Norway, Russia, Sweden and other European countries. There are now several hundred different types of charity stamps used in all parts of the world.

Stamps or seals were first used to get money for the anti-tuberculosis crusade in Norway and Sweden in 1904. After being used in these countries for three years, as a direct result of the interest of Jacob Riis in this movement, the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Association, headed by Miss Emily P. Bissell, and the Red Cross Society of Delaware combined in issuing a Tuberculosis Stamp. So successful was this campaign that nearly $3,000 was realized, and the next year, in 1908, the American Red Cross was induced to issue a National Red Cross Tuberculosis Stamp. From this sale, $135,000 was realized, that amount being almost doubled in 1909. This year, for the first time, the sale is organized on a comprehensive basis, taking in all parts of the United States. A million dollar tuberculosis work is confidently expected.

DR. EARL BARNES TALKS TO SCHOOL TEACHERS

School teachers from the borough and Dunellen joined the local corps at the Plainfield High school Wednesday afternoon to hear Dr. Earl Barnes, of Philadelphia, a noted educational lecturer, who addressed the large gathering on "Impeding Changes in Our Educational Ideals and Practices."

In considering the subject, Mr. Barnes said in part, "the mind is dependent upon the nervous system which in turn depends upon a strong and healthy body. Hence physical education takes precedence over every thing else and it is shameful if a child breaks down from over study or starves himself to get an education. Playgrounds are much more important than class rooms; good air is better than a good roof and a sickly student is an educational sin.

"All life is generic in its processes hence we must follow the natural stages of development in our educating. We can hasten development by directing efforts and preventing waste, but anticipating stages of power by jumping over them or thwarting them gives bad results. Therefore, we must grade not only our reading lessons but also music, discipline, morals, religion and other things used in education. Some of our history and geography in some of the lower grades are far above the comprehension of the student and statuary, pictures and other art are often interpreted by the pupils of these grades."

Mr. Barnes declared that the general atmosphere should be such that the pupil would like his surroundings and instead of dreading school hours would look forward to them with pleasurable anticipation. He spoke for more than an hour and was given serious attention.

GINGER CAKES.

Half pound flour, three ounces butter, two ounces sugar, quarter pound treacle, half ounce ground ginger, quarter teacupful milk, two eggs, half teaspoonful carbonate of soda.

Mix together dry ingredients in bowl.

Cream butter and sugar, beat eggs. Add these to bowl.

Still beating, add syrup and milk.

Half fill deep-fluted patty pans, bake in a quick oven fifteen minutes.

LEMON CHEESECAKES.

Short slightly sweetened pastry, one lemon, half pound loaf sugar, two eggs, two ounces butter.

Line patty tins with paste.

Rub sugar upon well-cleaned lemon rind to get essence, put into a saucepan with butter, eggs and strained juice of lemon.

Stir gently over stove until thick as honey.

Fill patty pans, bake fifteen minutes.

SCHOOL DAYS AT TRINITY

"Blueberry Corners" Knowledge Dispensary Displays Much Fine Talent.

THE TEACHERS' EXAMINATION.

Mirth Provoking Replies to Questions—Pupils Play Horse—Sale Follows Entertainment.

"School Days at Blueberry Corners," was the title of an amusing entertainment given at Trinity Reformed church, Friday, under the auspices of the Young Women's Mission Band for the benefit of the treasury of the band. The affair proved to be a great success, the lecture room being crowded to overflowing with members and friends of the church, who thoroughly enjoyed themselves for a couple hours.

Both young and old returned to the pleasures of school days and not only enjoyed themselves, but kept everyone in continual laughter by their pranks so familiar to all. The first part of the entertainment was devoted to an examination by the school board, Messrs. Cutter, Rittenhouse and Trenbath, the applicants for the position of school teacher. There were four applicants, "Miss Dashaway," Mrs. Corra Ryno; "Miss Belinda Sharp," Mrs. F. S. Cutter; "Miss Simple," Mrs. Charles M. Dolliver, and "Hezekiah Pendergrass," Chauncey L. Lewis. The questions and answers in the examination were extremely funny.

"Hezekiah Pendergrass" was finally chosen for the position, his qualifications meeting with the approval of the board. The next scene showed a school room with the children in session and the school master in charge.

There was much amusement when the teacher took down the names and ages of the pupils, the answers provoking much laughter. There were recitations in arithmetic, geography, history and language and all the pupils displayed a great lack of training as was shown by the ridiculous answers given. Miss Helen Woolley, as "Mehitable Jones," was the teacher's pet, and she gained much favor from him, as well as displeasure from her classmates by her actions.

A feature was the appearance of "Sally Brown," Miss Raybert, accompanied by her little brother, "Luther Brown," Lawrence French and the two afforded a good deal for the spectators. Then there was more fun during recess when all the pupils enjoyed their lunch and "played horse," about the school room.

Then came the closing day of the school when the pupils recited and sang to the delight of the teacher, the school board and the visitors to the school. Everyone in the class had to do something from singing a song to reciting a piece and all received applause for their efforts.

The whole affair reflected not only credit on all the pupils, but especially on Miss Etta Raybert and Charles L. Lewis, who planned and arranged the entertainment. Mr. Lewis was just as funny as ever in the part, while Miss Raybert dressed as a school girl kept everybody laughing by her actions. Those who took the various parts were as follows:

"Hezekiah Pendergrass," the school master, Charles L. Lewis; school board, "Smith" F. S. Cutter; "Perkins," Clarence Rittenhouse; "Billiker," William Trenbath. Visitors to the school on closing day, "Mrs. Dipsy," Mrs. Harry Cooke; "Miss Miranda Dipsy," Miss Edna Burd. Applicants for the position of school teacher, "Miss Dashaway," Mrs. Corra Ryno; "Miss Belinda Sharp," Mrs. F. S. Cutter; "Miss Simple," Mrs. Charles M. Dolliver; "Hezekiah Pendergrass," Charles L. Lewis.

Pupils—"Jeremiah Jenkins," Russel Doeringer; "Samuel Snobbs," Chauncey L. Coffhar; "Martha Billings," Miss Edith Richard's; "Stephen Tucker," E. D. Young; "Bobby O'Lee;" Lester Renninger; "Ruth Ketchum," Mrs. A. B. Cole; "David Snobbs," Elmer Gayle; "Glorinda Geyser," Miss Madaline Strader; "Faithful Snobbs," Miss Helen Smith; "Dorcas Doolittle," Miss Edna Cole; "Sim Dipsy," Edward Honeyman; "Mehitable Jones," Miss Helen Woolley; "Obadiah Buzzard," Herbert Renninger; "Sally Brown," Miss Etta Raybert; "Susan Crowfoot," Mrs. William Trembath; "Jerusha Dickson," Miss Gertrude Schleif; "Samantha Piper," Miss Edna Dilts; "Billy Crowfoot," A. B. Cole; "Luther Brown," Lawrence French.

After the entertainment there was a sale of fancy articles aprons, etc., in charge of Mrs. F. S. Cutter, Miss Lillian A. Forpe, and Mrs. George Mantz, and a sale of cakes by Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh and Mrs. Will F. Williams, while ice cream and cake were sold. Mrs. Leonard Smith, as president of the band, had general supervision of the affair. Those who assisted in the kitchen and in serving were as follows:

Miss Mabel Wilson, Mrs. David Krywanis, Mrs. A. B. Cole, Mrs. Corra Ryno, Mrs. Arthur Stevens, Mrs. Aupy T. Runyan, Mrs. Cornelius W. Higgins, Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, Miss Helen Woodruff Miss Margaret VanDeventer, Mrs. Arthur B. Davis, Miss Idabelle Conover, Miss Edna Burd, Mrs. Stephen Stover, Mrs. Harry Cooke and Harry Seader. Mrs. Charles M. Dolliver acted as cashier, and Will F. Williams received tickets at the door.

ST. JOSEPH'S SODALITY HOLD XMAS SALE

The Sodality of St. Joseph's church conducted a successful bazaar and sale in the chapel that opened Thursday afternoon and closed Friday. The results were even beyond the expectations of the young workers and a neat sum will be added to the church fund. The afternoons were set aside for children while the older folks visited at night. The attendance last night was very large.

Booths various tables and booths were arranged about the room and were presided over as follows: Fancy table, Miss Stella Maag, assisted by Miss Charlotte Sutton and Helen McDonough; ice cream booth, Miss Justina Smith and Miss Mary Jacot; ice cream cone booth, Miss Elizabeth Kellegher; refreshment table, Miss Virginia LaPorte, Miss Catherine Hanlon, Miss Bessie Smith and Miss Catherine Kellegher.

The young people were assisted in the arrangements by the Misses Mary Jacot, Justina Smith, Kate Egany, Elizabeth Rieley and Stella Maag and Mrs. P. Kellegher.

MISS MILLER IS HEARD IN CHARACTER SKETCHES

The auditorium at the High School was not crowded Friday night when Miss Juanita Miller and Mm. Kitty Berger made their initial bow to a Plainfield audience, but there were enough people there to encourage them to give a good performance. However, they did not warm up to the offerings of Miss Miller who had been heralded as a wonderfully clever young woman. The program included four character sketches in costume by Miss Miller and several zither selections by Mme. Berger, and the latter seemed to please the audience more.

Miss Miller was best in her recitation of one of her father's poems "Columbus," which she recited with considerable dramatic ability, and in her song "Koon Kinks," written by herself, betrayed some ability as an impersonator.

The zither solos were warmly received and on two occasions Mm. Berger received encores for her careful and sympathetic playing, especially in her interpretation of moods in her own compositions. Her best number was the aria, "La Belle Helene," by Offenbach.

KING'S DAUGHTERS NET $130 AT TEA AND SALE

The Daughters of the Cross Circle of The King's Daughters held a successful tea and sale Friday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock at the home of Mrs. St. John McCutchen, 84 Myrtle avenue. About $130 was realized from the affair, which will be used by the circle to carry on its *charity work in the city and bor*ough.

Miss Minnie Marsh had charge of the tea room, and she was assisted by Mrs. Walter McGee and Miss Helen Phillips in pouring. The young women assisting in serving tea were the Misses May Faber, Irene Miller and Mildred Brown.

In addition to the tea there was a sale of cake, candy and fancy articles. Mrs. George T. Rogers was in charge of the cake table, Mrs. Frank Clark the candy table, and Mrs. Charles Lyman the fancy goods table, and they were assisted by all the members of the circle. Mrs. Frank H. Berry, president of the circle, and Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen received the guests. Everything offered for sale was disposed of at good prices.

MAIL TRAVELS MILE A MONTH.

The mail service between Jersey City and Montclair is rather slow, if a recent experience of Dr. James McDonough, a veterinary surgeon of Fourth place, Montclair, is a sample. Dr. McDonough recently had a number of dogs to dispose of for a Montclair resident, who didn't like the town's ordinance regulating canines.

The fact that this man wished to give away a large kennel of highbred dogs through Dr. McDonough was published all over the country, and he soon got rid of the animals.

Picking up his mail Saturday, the doctor found a letter bearing a Jersey City postmark, in which the writer asked for one of the animals.

Looking the missive over carefully, the veterinary found that it bore a date December, 1909, and was therefore about a year in transit.

In answer, Dr. McDonough told his correspondent that he had no more dogs.

"But," he added, "if the mail service between Montclair and Jersey City does not improve I probably will have when this letter reaches you."

EVENING CLOAKS.

Fur and Satin Take Conspicuous Place In Their Makeup.

Designs For This Winter, With Caps to Match, Are of Surpassing Grace and Luxuriousness.

Surely the top notch of elegance and extravagance in evening cloaks has been reached this year. Novelties may still come, but anything more becoming, more lovely than some of the wraps of this season would be difficult to imagine.

The fur wraps are of course in a class by themselves. Some of the new models in ermine—the loose, flowing capes, for example—are marvels of grace and luxury, but even with these the less costly fur trimmed confections of satin, velvet, etc., compare favorably, and they are certain to delight any woman who judges of the beauty of color and sheen and flowing lines rather than of the value alone.

At first it seems as though these garments might have been cut at random —as though the loose, flowing lines had just happened without any design on the part of their creators. Study them more closely, however, and you will find the art that lies beneath these careless lines, these great revers and collars, these enormous sleeves. The unskilled could never approach such effects as are obtained by these free and easy lines.

Black satin is the material par excellence in the season's evening wrap.

As a relief from this, however, other silks are generally used in the huge revers which give distinction to the coats. For instance, the coat in our drawing shows a wrap of black satin having enormous revers of brocade threaded with gold. The wrap is trimmed with bands of fur. At the side the garment is fastened with a large jeweled button.

Trimmings of white are also used on some stunning models shown in the shops. They must be used sparingly, however, *and the best effects are ob*tained by a mere suggestion of contrast in tiny ornaments or by touches on collar or revers.

Among the furs used in the trimming of these coats skunk is exceptionally good. Its shaggy pelt is effective where a finer skin, its luster outshone by the satin, would fail to give the proper contrast. This fur forms the collar and the cuffs and is often banded around the bottom of the coat. An effective use of this fur is shown in the dull red satin coat of the large drawing, in a model from a famous French maker. This has all its edges bordered with bands of skunk. The coat fastens across the front with a large gold button. Just below the waist there is a broad belt which is embroidered in soutache of the same tone.

Here, as in other garments, a fetish has been made of the button, and some of the buttons on the evening coats attain the dignity of cabochons. Gold buttons are extensively used, and a gold braiding, or an interweaving of gold thread through Persian silks, which makes very effective trimming for coats of black or some other of the somber toned satins.

Braid also supplements buttons and fur in the ornamentation of the evening wrap. It forms entire panels down the side; it is extended to the giant fastenings; it is twisted into more and more elaborate designs, and to bring out its beauty often the design is picked with touches of gold.

A novelty in the way of a cap is designed to go with these picturesque evening coats and is a fitting associate. In beauty of design, in gay trimmings and in quaint effects nothing for Fortune's Place, Montclair, is a sample. Dr. McDonough recently had a number of dogs to dispose of for a Montclair resident, who didn't like the town's ordinance regulating canines.

The fact that this man wished to give away a large kennel of highbred dogs through Dr. McDonough was published all over the country, and he soon got rid of the animals.

Picking up his mail Saturday, the doctor found a letter bearing a Jersey City postmark, in which the writer asked for one of the animals.

Looking the missive over carefully, the veterinary found that it bore a date December, 1909, and was therefore about a year in transit.

In answer, Dr. McDonough told his correspondent that he had no more dogs.

"But," he added, "if the mail service between Montclair and Jersey City does not improve I probably will have when this letter reaches you."

MAKE SABBATH A DELIGHT

Mothers of Boys Learn the Secret From Rev. F. K. Mathiews.

SUBSTITUTE "DO" FOR "DON'T"

Comparisons of Hours Shows Lack of Religious Instruction—Child the Same On Saturday As Sunday.

"How to Make the Sabbath a Delight for Children" was the subject of the last lecture in the series that have been given by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association in the association auditorium for the last few weeks.

These lectures have been very well received by the mothers of Plainfield who have availed themselves of the opportunity of attending. They are looked upon by the association authorities as the finest piece of religious work that the association has ever undertaken. Much regret was expressed by the many mothers because this was the last lecture. After January first it is intended to present another series of talks and exhibits that will be especially interesting and helpful to adults and mothers who are dealing with the training of the young.

The speaker made a startling comparison in the number of hours that are given to the child's secular education and its religious education. Five hours a day for five days each week made up the secular part of the child's work while only one hour a week is given to religious instruction. Parents insist on the child studying his day school lessons but the work of the Sabbath school is a hit or miss proposition.

The home is the natural place for religious education and the work of the church and the Sabbath school is to be supplemented by the parent in directing and encouraging the reading of the child along proper lines. Moulton's "Old and New Testament Stories," "Bible Stories For Children," by William D. Murray; "Ethics for Children," by Jean Cabot, are three of the books that were especially recommended for mothers.

The child on the Sabbath is the same child that romped and played on Saturday. He needs that extended school five days out of the week. The play instinct is as strong on the Sabbath day as it was on a week day. Froebel recognized this and revolutionized the education of the child. Free play is given in many games, card games, guessing games, pictures, puzzles, etc., that are exceedingly attractive and encourage the child to go to the Bible to solve and learn the catch points of the games.

The parent's objection would be that it takes too much time. Answering this, Mr. Mathiews said, we took time to prepare for other things on Sunday, for instance, the Sunday dinner. The child is the one who is of more importance than anything else and we should give him the chief place by preparing a program that will deliver him from constantly hearing "don't."

In conclusion, Mr. Mathiews appealed to the mothers to accept this as their opportunity to influence the child. A little later the "gang" spirit develops and the child seeks other companions than the parent. "If we lead the child in these childish ways now, our children will learn to live for us, and that will be our reward," said the lecturer in closing.

To Remove Mildew.

If kid gloves have become spotted with mildew they should be placed in a bottle with a lump of ammonia about the size of a walnut, cork the bottle tightly and leave them for a short time, when the mildew spots will quite disappear. If left too long, however, the ammonia will rot *the stitches; so they must be watch*ed. An air-tight box will do equally as well as a bottle.

A Washing Hint.

It is not generally known that a slice of lemon put into the copper when boiling clothes will make them beautifully white, and take all the stains out of pocket handerchiefs and children's dresses. Cut the lemon with the rind into slices, and let it remain in the boiler till the clothes are ready to come out.

Jersey-Topped Skirts.

The petticoats made with Jersey tops are more generally known this season than last. They not only have unusual wearing qualities, but fit so admirably over the hips that they are a positive aid to the fit of the gown itself. These skirts of course, have silk flounces. The economical person will have several silk flounces for the single top; a flounce that is a little heading being the means of attaching the ruffles into place.

News to Him.

"When I was in Europe this summer," said Gayman, trying to entertain the minister, "I got quite interested in some of them old churches."

"Indeed?" replied the Rev. Mr. Gassaway. "I suppose you know St. Paul's in London?"

"No. You don't tell me? What hotel's he stopping at?"—Exchange.

Mary Dean

CUPID TURNS THE TABLES

By Martha Cobb Sanford

(Copyrighted, 1908, by E. C. Parcells.)

It began on the Greenwich local. The man sitting beside Henrietta on the cross seat was reading a typewritten manuscript.

"Either an author or an editor," mused Henrietta and soon allowed her curiosity to get the better of her to the extent of looking over her neighbor's shoulder and reading the story with him.

It proved to be a love story, and as it progressed Henrietta stole a surreptitious glance at the man every now and then. But his expression gave no clew to the impression the story might be making.

Once, as he turned a page, he looked up suddenly and became aware that Henrietta was following the story.

She blushed and started to apologize, but he put her at her ease in quite an unexpected manner.

"I'm glad you've been reading the story," he said, with a friendly smile. "A woman wrote it, and I hope you'll give me your opinion when we've finished it."

So they read on together.

When they had reached the end they sat for a moment silent, each evidently absorbed in thought.

"Well," said the man at length, "that is perhaps what would happen in real life, but the ending isn't satisfactory from my viewpoint."

"And what is your viewpoint?" ventured Henrietta, her interest in the situation overpowering momentarily her natural shyness. "Are you judging it as just a plain man or as an editor?"

Her query seemed both to please and amuse him, and Henrietta was surprised to find herself answering his smile quite as if they were old acquaintances.

"I am judging it," he said, "as an editor who tries to imagine himself just a plain man. But what do you think about it?"

"I'm afraid I agree with the author," answered Henrietta, somewhat timidly, "but really my opinion doesn't count in the least, because"—

"On the other hand," interrupted the man, "it counts supremely. It is the opinions of just such casual readers as yourself that I have to study and learn to understand almost intuitively, as it were.

"But to get back to the point in question. You mean that love at first sight isn't worth writing about—that the type of woman who would consent to marry a man on short acquaintance isn't the stuff that heroines are made of?"

"Not exactly that perhaps. But any one could make the story end happily—have them marry, I mean. That would have been the ordinary way. It must have taken some courage to end it the other way, and it seems to me the story's stronger for it."

"But you see," persisted the editor, "everything in the story goes to show that this man and woman, though they met just once casually, as you and I are meeting, were most remarkably en rapport. Why, then, does the author never have them meet again after making her reader feel that they ought, by all that is happy and harmonious, to belong to each other?"

Henrietta smiled at the man's earnestness.

"Well," she began defensively, "perhaps the author was trying to show that, although a man and a woman may meet by accident, like that, and even feel and admit each to himself or herself that they really do belong to each other, yet neither one quite dares— Oh, I'm afraid I don't just know how to express it," she broke off, blushing consciously at having spoken so freely to an utter stranger.

"Thank you," said the man, and his manner was both sympathetic and thoughtful. "I begin to understand. But I'm still unconvinced as to its being the popular or natural viewpoint. If I could talk to the author herself, I feel quite sure that I could."

"Goodness!" said Henrietta, starting suddenly. "This is my station. Good night."

The more Henrietta let her thoughts dwell upon this unusual little discussion the more she found herself yielding to the editor's point of view. There was no real reason, after all, why the man and woman in the story shouldn't have married and continued to "live happily ever after."

Still that would be a most commonplace ending, after all, and she accused herself of being influenced, as was the editor, not by the artistic but by the commercial value of the story.

So she tried to think of new arguments to defend the author's denouement. The heroine, she imagined, was very much the same type of girl as herself and, like herself, therefore preferred to keep those few moments of chance acquaintanceship an idealized memory upon which she could look back forever and a day with joyful satisfaction.

An ordinary person might yield to the temptation of following up the clue, but the heroine of that story was not ordinary. Upon that the author and Henrietta agreed perfectly.

She herself, for instance, in her own comparatively insignificant experience would probably never meet the editor again, and what would it matter? She had the memory of their pleasant interchange of thought, and he of course would never think of her again. But here the defense weakened and hid her blushing face in her hands.

A few days later when Henrietta received a very courteous note from the editor of the New Fiction Magazine asking her to call at his office for the purpose of talking over her story she smiled archly, dressed herself most becomingly and made her way promptly, but more or less tremulously, to his august sanctum. It was a novel situation.

What if he had reversed his original opinion too? Would she or wouldn't she be pleased?

The editor's surprise proved intensely amusing to Henrietta at least.

"You—the author herself?" was all he was able to gasp. Then he broke out into a hearty laugh, in which Henrietta joined merrily.

"You still hold to your first opinion, I suppose?" Henrietta asked tentatively.

"More firmly than ever," was the editor's emphatic reply.

"Then the story is rejected?" queried Henrietta wistfully.

"Not if I can convince the author into my way of thinking," he answered brightly. "I have great confidence in my own powers of persuasion."

Henrietta looked skeptical. Since he chose to be so confident, she would never let him know that she was half persuaded already. She would defend her original ending of the story, just to keep him guessing.

And the arguments upon arguments that followed! Was ever the fate of a story held so long in the balance? And all the time that Henrietta was defending the story as it stood, in her own heart she was recasting it as the man willed and wanted.

A suspicion of the true state of affairs gradually convinced the editor that his best play was to confess himself vanquished.

Henrietta was radiant.

"There!" she cried triumphantly. "I've made you take it just as it is. You didn't win me over, after all."

"Didn't I?" was all the editor said, but looked straight into her eyes.

Henrietta lowered hers, but made no reply.

And then the editor did a very cruel thing.

"I suppose you are going to put your theories into practice, then, and never let me see you again? Of course you'd rather keep our acquaintance a memory and not let it be spoiled by any such commonplace thing as love and marriage."

"Please don't," begged Henrietta, struggling to keep back the tears. "I told you the very first time we met that it took courage to end the story that way. It may be that the woman isn't as strong as the author"—

The editor smiled very tenderly.

"I accept them both," he said lovingly, folding her to him, "just as they are."

But Henrietta would not have it so.

"No," she whispered. "I'm going to rewrite the ending. I know now what it ought to be."

THE OLD-RELIABLE HOME-FURNISHERS

COWPERTHWAIT AND VAN HORN CO.

73-75 MARKET STREET ESTAB. 1860 NEWARK N.J.

One of Many Gifts

You'll Find At Old Reliable "No. 73."

This Store has any number of practical Gifts for every member of the family!

2.25 Buys This Rocker

Reg. $4.50 value—Early English Oak, Excellent Construction, Upholstered in Imitation Leather, Big Value for 2.25!

Add one to your account—NO DEPOSIT—or Open an Account with us To-Day; If you prefer to Pay CASH, Take 10% Off—this applies all thru' the store!

For "HIM"		Office Rug . . . 7.25 up. Library Table . . . 5.50 up.		Writing Desk . . . 5.50 up. Brass Bed . . . . 9.95 up. Dinner Set . . . . 5.75 up. Parlor Table . . . 2.50 up. Parlor Rug . . . 25.00 up.
Couch	$7.75 up.
Bookcase	7.75 up.
Office Desk . . .	12.50 up.	For "HER"
Reading Stand . .	1.49 up.	Sewing Machine $22.00 up.
Library Lamp . . .	1.95 up.	Rocker	1.95 up.
Clock	2.95 up.	Carpet Sweeper . .	2.75 up.
Framed Picture . .	1.95 up.	Piano Stool	5.75 up.

For the Child
High Chair	1.95 up.
Desk and Chair . . .	4.50 up.

Plainfield Bottling Works

M. LATZKO, Prop.

U. S. Revenue Taxed Wholesale Liquor Dealer.

27 Somerset St., N. Plainfield. 5th District N.J.

Distributors for

Feigenspan Brew & Anhauser-Busch

By order of the court we will close at 8 p. m. weekdays and 9 p. m. on Saturdays.

BREWERY BOTTLING

EXPORT BEER SAAZER BEER

WUERZBURGER BEER

All orders received will have prompt attention.

Goods forwarded through the entire State of New Jersey. Express charges prepaid by us.

SURE EDGE CUTLERY

We are showing a fine line of

Table Knives and Forks, 63c per set and Upwards.

Carving Knives and Forks, Keen Cutter Goods, $1.50 up.

Pocket Knives, Robeson's make, from 50c. up.

Scissors and Shears

All fully guaranteed.

Nut Picks and Cracks, Savory Roasters, Double for Single Roasting Pans, Keen Kutter Food Choppers, Ice Cream Freezers, Nickel Tea and Coffee Pots, Enameled Ware, Pots and Kettles. YOUR INSPECTION IS ASKED.

Gayle Hardware Co.,

General Hardware and Housefurnishings

Tel. 398 Front St. and Park Ave.

LOWEST PRICES IN NEWARK

on practical Xmas Gifts. Needful things, useful in every-day life, make the most sensible and most appreciated gifts one can possibly bestow on those we wish to remember at Christmastide. You'll have the largest, most gorgeous and most varied stock of Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, Stoves and Clothing ever displayed by any similar store in Newark at a holiday season to select from. Our Easy-Terms Plan makes holiday shopping easy for you.

YOUR CREDIT IS ALWAYS GOOD AT GREENE'S

YOU WILL ADMIRE OUR IMMENSE STOCK OF Library Tables

A Library Table is a practical and inexpensive Chrisimas gift, that will be appreciated by every member of the family. In our superb line of Library Tables we not only offer goods of the highest type in workmanship, finish and material, but distinctive, refined, elegant and original designs, at prices that you, as an economical buyer, must in justice to us agree are very low indeed. A comprehensive stock, up from 7.75

50c. Weekly

This Gas Dome

Th is Is Only One of Many Bargains In This Sale

Regular 10.00 Value

Just like picture; has heavy frame of wrought iron, black finish, panels of green or amber art glass and heavy beaded fringe, fitted for inverted lighting, inside and outside burner, reg. $10 value.

5.75

At Greene's you'll find the useful and beautiful in great abundance. Gift pieces that will at once appeal both to your taste and pocketbook. An immense variety from which to choose, including a large range of selection for every member of the family. Let us help you select your Christmas presents now; when you can do it leisurely, comfortably, and have best choice. Don't put it off until the rush days before Christmas.

Your Credit's Always Good Here

Luxurious Upholstered Easy Chairs, Rockers, Fireside Chairs, Turkish Rockers and Davenports

—The finest showing in the city.

In furnishing the living room, library or den a representation of upholstered furniture becomes almost a necessity if one is to achieve greatest luxury and comfort in the appointments. As a special offering from our line of Upholstered Furniture we are featuring this beautiful Rocker, upholstered in Boston leather and built of solid selected oak. This is a chair in every essential suggestive of exceptional comfort and luxury, and it's only one of the vast collection of sensible and acceptable Xmas gifts. Big variety to choose from. Wide range of prices —from 9.75 UP

50c A Week

ALL GOODS MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES.

GREENE'S

31-37 MARKET ST. OPP COURT HOUSE NEWARK

"Now, I'm ready to rewrite it," he said, "as an editor who tries to imagine himself just a plain man. But what do you think about it?"

"I'm afraid I agree with the author," answered Henrietta, somewhat timidly, "but really my opinion doesn't count in the least, because"—

"On the other hand," interrupted the man, "it counts supremely. It is the opinions of just such casual readers as yourself that I have to study and learn to understand almost intuitively, as it were.

"But to get back to the point in question. You mean that love at first sight isn't worth writing about—that the type of woman who would consent to marry a man on short acquaintance isn't the stuff that heroines are made of?"

"Not exactly that perhaps. But any one could make the story end happily—have them marry, I mean. That would have been the ordinary way. It must have taken some courage to end it the other way, and it seems to me the story's stronger for it."

"But you see," persisted the editor, "everything in the story goes to show that this man and woman, though they met just once casually, as you and I are meeting, were most remarkably en rapport. Why, then, does the author never have them meet again after making her reader feel that they ought, by all that is happy and harmonious, to belong to each other?"

Henrietta smiled at the man's earnestness.

"Well," she began defensively, "perhaps the author was trying to show that, although a man and a woman may meet by accident, like that, and even feel and admit each to himself or herself that they really do belong to each other, yet neither one quite dares— Oh, I'm afraid I don't just know how to express it," she broke off, blushing consciously at having spoken so freely to an utter stranger.

"Thank you," said the man, and his manner was both sympathetic and thoughtful. "I begin to understand. But I'm still unconvinced as to its being the popular or natural viewpoint. If I could talk to the author herself, I feel quite sure that I could."

"Goodness!" said Henrietta, starting suddenly. "This is my station. Good night."

The more Henrietta let her thoughts dwell upon this unusual little discussion the more she found herself yielding to the editor's point of view. There was no real reason, after all, why the man and woman in the story shouldn't have married and continued to "live happily ever after."

Still that would be a most commonplace ending, after all, and she accused herself of being influenced, as was the editor, not by the artistic but by the commercial value of the story.

So she tried to think of new arguments to defend the author's denouement. The heroine, she imagined, was very much the same type of girl as herself and, like herself, therefore preferred to keep those few moments of chance acquaintanceship an idealized memory upon which she could look back forever and a day with joyful satisfaction.

An ordinary person might yield to the temptation of following up the clue, but the heroine of that story was not ordinary. Upon that the author and Henrietta agreed perfectly.

She herself, for instance, in her own comparatively insignificant experience would probably never meet the editor again, and what would it matter? She had the memory of their pleasant interchange of thought, and he of course would never think of her again. But here the defense weakened and hid her blushing face in her hands.

A few days later when Henrietta received a very courteous note from the editor of the New Fiction Magazine asking her to call at his office for the purpose of talking over her story she smiled archly, dressed herself most becomingly and made her way promptly, but more or less tremulously, to his august sanctum. It was a novel situation.

What if he had reversed his original opinion too? Would she or wouldn't she be pleased?

The editor's surprise proved intensely amusing to Henrietta at least.

"You—the author herself?" was all he was able to gasp. Then he broke out into a hearty laugh, in which Henrietta joined merrily.

"You still hold to your first opinion, I suppose?" Henrietta asked tentatively.

"More firmly than ever," was the editor's emphatic reply.

"Then the story is rejected?" queried Henrietta wistfully.

"Not if I can convince the author into my way of thinking," he answered brightly. "I have great confidence in my own powers of persuasion."

Henrietta looked skeptical. Since he chose to be so confident, she would never let him know that she was half persuaded already. She would defend her original ending of the story, just to keep him guessing.

And the arguments upon arguments that followed! Was ever the fate of a story held so long in the balance? And all the time that Henrietta was defending the story as it stood, in her own heart she was recasting it as the man willed and wanted.

A suspicion of the true state of affairs gradually convinced the editor that his best play was to confess himself vanquished.

Henrietta was radiant.

"There!" she cried triumphantly. "I've made you take it just as it is. You didn't win me over, after all."

"Didn't I?" was all the editor said, but looked straight into her eyes.

Henrietta lowered hers, but made no reply.

And then the editor did a very cruel thing.

"I suppose you are going to put your theories into practice, then, and never let me see you again? Of course you'd rather keep our acquaintance a memory and not let it be spoiled by any such commonplace thing as love and marriage."

"Please don't," begged Henrietta, struggling to keep back the tears. "I told you the very first time we met that it took courage to end the story that way. It may be that the woman isn't as strong as the author"—

The editor smiled very tenderly.

"I accept them both," he said lovingly, folding her to him, "just as they are."

But Henrietta would not have it so.

"No," she whispered. "I'm going to rewrite the ending. I know now what it ought to be."

Everybody Suited.

He prided himself on having the largest general store in the county.

"If Man Wishes It and It Is Made I Have It," was the sign over his store and the motto which capped all his advertisements in the newspapers.

"William," said he one morning as he was giving instructions to a green clerk, "no one must ever leave this store without making a purchase. If a person doesn't know what he wants, suggest something. And, remember, we have everything, from carpet tacks to mausoleums."

William's first customer was a leisurely chap who gazed about curiously, but had no definite object in view.

"Just looking around," he explained.

"Wouldn't you like to take a look at our new line of post cards?" suggested the eager clerk.

"No, not this time," answered the stranger. "I'm just a little short this morning."

"Ah," urged the new clerk, who was not familiar with the wonderful slang terms of the language, "then perhaps you'd like to look at our line of new and handsome stretchers." — Sketchy Bits.

[illegible] Skyscraper.

Through the chance perfect adjustment in the way of balance of a row of large photographs that hang on the wall of an office on the twenty-second floor of an office building downtown the clerks in the place have a good deal of quiet amusement with persons who visit the place for the first time. Owing to this balance the pictures are easily swayed by the wind that blows through the open windows, and since the office force goes in for fresh air the year round the pictures are never still. The joke lies in catching the horrified expression on the faces of the callers when they get a sight of the swinging frames. Then it is always explained with due solemnity if the boss is not around that the swaying of the frames is due to the oscillation of the structure. It usually takes some time for the object of the joke to see the point. Meanwhile he has suffered a considerable shock.—New York Press.

Rifle and Smooth Bore.

The main difference between a rifle and a smooth bore gun is that the inner surface of the rifle barrel has one or more spiral grooves cut into it. The object of this is to permit a portion of the material of the bullet or projectile to sink into the grooves. As the projectile is forced out of the barrel these projectiles into the grooves cause it to remain there, thus giving rise to a spinning motion. In fact, it is not only going forward, but is rotating rapidly as it goes. The axis will tend—in accordance with the gyroscopic principle—to maintain without change its direction. But that is really saying that the projectile will tend to remain in its true course. So this is why a rifled gun shoots straighter than a smooth bore.—St. Nicholas.

EDUCATIONAL.

JOSEPH McINYRE

[Director McIntyre Concerts]

Teacher of Singing and Piano

In PLAINFIELD MONDAYS and THURSDAYS

317 FRANKLIN PL. TEL. 513-J

Studio, Carnegie Hall

Personal address—6 Convent Ave. (W. 130th St.) New York City 9 19 3mos

FIFTEENTH SEASON

MR. FREDERICK F. DAWES

Assistant Teacher with Mr. T. George Dodworth, 12 East 48th Street, New York

CLASSES FOR

Dancing and Polite Training

at SEMINARY HALL, PLAINFIELD, N. J., Commencing Tuesday, Oct. 11, 1910. 9 30 2m

WALKS

We Construct Them

Trap Rock, Cement

Experience

R. G. BUSH

Tel. Con 743-5 South Ave

—Use Daily Press want ads. They bring results.

Advertise in The Daily Press

New Jersey Central

TRAINS LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

For New York—2.10, 3.41, 5.41, 5.56, 6.07, 6.27, 6.55, 7.25, 7.38, 7.50, 7.55, 7.59, 8.12, 8.30, 8.36, 8.43, 9.29, 9.59, 10.11, 11.00, 11.12, 11.42, 12.40, 1.45, 2.09, 2.11, 2.27, 2.40, 2.41, 3.11, 3.30, 4.32, 4.40, 5.45, 6.29, 6.40, 7.40, 9.12, 9.27, 9.40, 10.10, 10.36, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.10, 3.41, 5.41, 7.22, 7.55, 8.12, 9.34, 10.37, 11.25 p. m.

For Newark—6.56, 6.27, 7.05, 7.39, 8.26, 9.29, 10.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.27, 2.32, 3.11, 4.12, 4.40, 5.45, 6.29, 7.32, 9.27, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.23, 8.52, 9.34, 10.37 a. m., 12.00, 2.01, 2.47, 3.24, 4.29, 5.41, 6.45, 8.13, 9.42, 10.36 p. m.

For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.18, 8.17, 9.42, 11.19 a. m., 2.09, 5.21, 5.46, 6.37 p. m. Easton only). Sunday—6.46, 10.26 a. m., 1.58, 5.46, 7.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5.18, 9.42 a. m., 5.46 p. m. Sunday—6.46, 10.26 a. m., 5.46 p. m.

For Long Branch and Asbury Park, etc.—3.41, 8.12, 11.00 a. m. (12.37 Saturdays only), 2.11, 4.40, 5.45, 6.27, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.41, 8.52 a. m., 2.24, 8.12, 9.42 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—3.41, 9.29 a. m. (12.37 Saturdays only), 1.27, 2.11, 4.40 p. m. Sunday—7.58 a. m., 2.24, 9.42 a. m., 2.01 p. m.

For Philadelphia—2.03, 7.39, 8.45, 9.04, 10.42 a. m., 12.03, 2.42, 2.17, 2.46, 5.13, 6.44, 7.42, 8.50, 9.46, 10.48 p. m., 1.20 night. Sunday—2.45, 9.56, 10.39, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 1.44, 2.45, 3.42, 4.50, 6.44, 7.45, 8.50, 9.46, 10.54, 11.54 p. m., 1.20 night.

For Baltimore and Washington, Daily —8.45, 10.43 a. m. —8.45, 6.44, 7.42 p. m.

W. G. BESLER, Vice-Pres & Gen Iner. W. C. HOPE, G. P. A.

YOUR DULL Headaches

Probably come from overstrained eye sight. Nine-tenths of the headaches are the direct result of eye trouble. Bring those troubles to us and let us prescribe for you.

All work guaranteed

FREE EXAMINATION BY

Stiles & Co.

PHILADELPHIA EYE SPECIALISTS at 107 East Front Street, Every Thursday.

Hours 11:15 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Here Comes L. RICHARDS the old time buyer of all kinds of men's clothing, and will pay the highest prices. Call or write and will call. Phone 625-J 17 Somerset St. 11 1 2mo

The Constitutionalist

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., December 8, 1910

CONSOLIDATION.

More than usual interest may be attached to the correspondence between former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, of the city, and Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of the borough, on the subject of consolidation. The authors of the letters, which are reproduced in this paper today are both known for their fighting proclivities and their devotion to the cause of good government. They have taken up a matter vital to the welfare of both municipalities and one which is more popular today than ever during the long period it has been either quietly or aggressively agitated.

It was indeed most unfortunate, as Mayor Smalley says, that when the consolidation and annexation campaign was waged in the borough less than ten years ago that many were blinded to the real issue by the petty personal and political animosities. Nasty things were said and done during the battle and the result was that the fight was made between men among political enemies. Both the consolidationists and the antis indulged in personal abuse and ridicule. Consequently, the verdict, as the mayor rightly says, in no sense reflected the sentiment of the borough taxpayers on the issue.

If Mayor Smalley can prevail upon Mr. Randolph to obtain the cooperation of the Bi-partisan Municipal League to advocate emerger he will be doing a public service. If Mr. Randolph stirs the League to action he will deserve public gratitude. If the League is instrumental in arousing public sentiment and bringing about a consolidation, it will win a place in local history of which its members may well be proud.

N. Y AMUSEMENTS

What New York thinks of Douglas Fairbanks, in "The Cub," Thompson Buchanan's laugh-creating satire on the Kentucky feudists, is indicated by these extracts from the Metropolitan press:

"The Cub' is amusing and also novel."—Allan Dale in the American.

"Success. * * * Witty and brilliant."—Arthur Warren, Tribune.

"An uproarious piece of foolery."—World.

"One of the wittiest of plays."—Adolph Klauber, Times.

"Out of the ordinary."—Press.

"A mirth provoker."—Herald.

"It is a masterpiece."—Sun.

"Entirely new and always interesting."—Journal of Commerce.

"Lots of fun and go—a breezy evening's entertainment." — Acton Davies, Evening Sun.

"The laughs surely spelled Success."—Evening Journal.

"A triple triumph for play, playwright and star."—Evening Telegram.

"Wildly hilarious." — Evening Mail.

"The Cub' gives Fairbanks his fling."—Carles Darnton, Evening World.

The great dramatic event of the entire season thus far, is "The Concert," which David Belasco produces in all its brilliant perfection at the Belasco Theatre Belasco first-night audiences are always fashionable and distinguished, and the one which assembled to receive Mr. Belasco's first new offering of the season was particularly so, inasmuch as it numbered almost every notable pianist in America, each on the quiver to discover possible what particular one of their fascinating and temperamental fraternity had been used as the model for Gabor Arany, the hero of the comedy, a world-famous virtuoso, and one of the most erratic and captivating geniuses that ever tore a piano to tatters. The tumultuous ovation at the end of the second act and the demonstrations which greeted David Belasco's appearance after a score of curtain calls, has established "The Concert" as one of the greatest of the many artistic triumphs that may be credited to the genius of this distinguished dramatist-manager.

Light On a Dark Subject.

Caller—There's one question I should like to have answered. When a thought flashes across the intellect does it effect any molecular changes in the cellular or muscular tissues composing the material substance of the cerebral mass, or does it operate merely in the realm of the spiritual ego, thereby leaving no trace subject to detection or classification in the domain of substantiality?

Information Editor (turning again to his desk)—There is no premium on the coin.—Chicago Tribune.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, who has been detained at home by illness, is much improved and hopes to be at the services on Sunday.

NORTH PLAINFIELD IMP. SOCIETY MEETING

W. DeLa Anderson, president of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society in a speech before the members Monday night advocated the direct primaries and said that now that the people had accepted the fact he believed it only right that the society should go on record as favoring it and also that they are opposed to having the result of the last election set aside. Mr. Anderson said that the Improvement Society Company had been formed and first payment on the Texler's Mill property made.

He urged the cutting of extravagance in the county and State management and the building up of the woodland acreage, saying that he for one would gladly furnish land and cottages to desirable people on terms that would enable many desirable people to take advantage of them. He also asked for contributions for a Christmas tree for the children of Wilson Memorial chapel.

Sheriff Mobus reported that it was possible that a large number of deputies appointed to act as policemen. George Schmidt reported that the request of the society for publication of tax duplicates had been granted and steps had been taken for the establishment of the new line. Charles Sebring asked for two lights near his mill where an automobile accident had occurred. A resolution relating to Mr. Anderson's suggestion regarding primaries was ordered drawn up for transmission to the Governor, Senators and Assemblymen. The question of taxation will be taken up at the next meeting.

THE ORIGINATION OF THE RED CROSS IDEA

In connection with the sale of Red Cross stamps, it is not amiss to tell something of the origin of the idea of the Red Cross idea. The founder of the Red Cross was Henri Dunant, who acted as a volunteer nurse at the battle of Solferino in 1859, and his description of the awful sufferings of the wounded on that occasion published under the title of "Un Souvenir de Solferino," caused a profound stir throughout Europe. The Geneva Society for Public Utility invited M. Dunant to propose a scheme for the relief of the miseries of the fallen in war time.

M. Dunant responded by proposing that corps of trained nurses should be established in every country, and that a system of neutrality between warring nations should be instituted whereby those engazed in tending the sick and wounded should be protected by wearing a distinctive badge.

By Consular Assistants.

Another opportunity for college graduates to enter the consular service will be afforded on January 30 and February 1 when an examination will be held at the stStSate department of candidates for appointment as consular assistants or student interpreters.

The consular assistants receive a salary of $1,000 per annum for the first three years, and thereafter $200 a year more until a maximum of $1,800 is reached. The student interpreters assigned to duty in China, Japan and Turkey receive a salary of $1,000 per annum, with an allowance of $125 for tuition.

The Rash Footballer.

There once was a fullback who hunted
For trouble, and got all he wanted.
For he started to fool
With a government mule—
His tombstone reads simply: "Outguessed."
—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Secret Of It.

"Why do you always put a pitcher of water and a glass on the table before an orator?"

"That," said the chairman of many reception committees, "is to give him something to do in case he forgets his piece and has to stop and think."

The various Sunday-schools of the city are planning to hold their annual Christmas entertainments between Christmas and New Years. The several dates will be announced within the next few days. The fact that Christmas falls on Sunday this year affords the churches an opportunity to arrange for elaborate programs.

Distinguished clergymen and laymen of the Episcopal church will attend and speak at a missionary banquet to be held at the Grace church parish house, Friday night at 6:45, the affair being an aftermath of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. Among the speakers of the evening will be the Rt. Rev. Dr. Lucien Kinsolving, Bishop of Brazil; John W. Wood, of New York, general corresponding secretary of the Board of Missions of the Episcopal church, and William P. Cochran, of Baltimore, a brother of Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, of this city. Invitations have been extended to all the local Episcopal parishes of the city to be represented at the banquet.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

OFFICIAL MINUTES OF THE BOARD OF FREEHOLDERS.

The adjourned meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders was held November 18, 1910, at 2:30 o'clock.

Roll call showed the following members present: Director Cady, Freeholders Adams, Crane, Darby, Deane, Garrison, Gruener, Hall, Haviland, Jones, Krouse, Meisel, Perry, Randolph, Smith, Thompson and Wilbur—17.

Absent—Jensen, Martin and Swain —3.

On motion of Freeholder Wilbur the reading of the minutes of the meeting of November 2 was dispensed with.

COMMUNICATIONS.

John N. Cady, Director of the Board of Freeholders, Summit, New Jersey.

My Dear Sir—Confirming our verbal acceptance of the Washington Avenue road, Edgar Township, Union County, on October 13, 1910, I hereby notify you, and, through you, the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, that the said road has been completed to our entire satisfaction, and is therefore accepted upon the part of the State.

Very truly yours,
FREDERICK GILKYSON,
Commissioner.

On motion of Freeholder Smith received and placed on file.

Hon. Benjamin King, clerk of the Board of Freeholders, Union County, N. J.

Dear Mr. King—We are in receipt of your communication of November 4, and desire to thank you and the Board of Freeholders for their prompt and just action in the matter brought before them, concerning St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Our doors are always open to the worthy poor of Union county and any recommendation for admission to the Governor Senators and Assemblymen. The question of taxation will be taken up at the next meeting.

Our doors are always open to the worthy poor of Union county and any recommendation for admission to the Governor, Senators and Assemblymen. The question of taxation will be taken up at the next meeting.

As long as a patient is a pauper in his opinion; the hospital up to this time, never entered into the case at all; then when it came to the part of the hospital's bill, a letter at first, and then made arangements accordingly. a method which certainly would have been just and agreeable to us.

Thanking you, we remain
Gratefully yours,
BOARD OF MANAGERS.
ST. ELIZABETH HOSPITAL.

On motion of Freeholder Wilbur received and placed on file.

COMMITTEE REPORT.

Gentlemen—Subject to confirmation of this board, we have closed negotiations with P. J. Ryan for the purchase of 25 Rahway avenue, the last of the three buildings in Rahway avenue between the railroad, and which this board at its last meeting instructed the County Attorney to bring condemnation proceedings to acquire for the sum of $5,500.

Very truly yours,
N. R. LEAVITT,
County Collector.

On motion of Freeholder Jones received and placed on file.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freholder Krouse:

Resolved, That the County Collector be and he hereby is authorized to pay to the owner of the premises, 25 Rahway avenue, in the City of Elizabeth, the sum of five thousand five hundred dollars, upon delivery to him a deed from the said owner to the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, for said premises; said payment to be purchase price by the county for said price, subject to the taxes for the year 1910; further

Resolved, That the County Attorney proceed with the perfection of the title to said premises at once. Further

Resolved, That the matter of the disposal of the buildings on the premises in Rahway avenue be referred to the Committee on Public Grounds and Buildings with power to sell them.

Freeholder Smith moved the adoption of the resolution which on roll call was unanimously adopted.

The following bills were read and on motion ordered paid.

ELECTION BILLS.

Clark Township—Charles Brewer, $20; William Smith, $20; Henry Bender, $20; George Holland, $20; August Ritter, $20; Thomas Thompson, $20.

Cranford—Charles Beadle, $20; Herman Kuhlenschmidt, $30; Walter Packer, $30; Jesse Wheeler $30; L. A. Jussell, $30; B. A. Doyle, $20; W. T. Nash, $30; Elmer Miller, $30; A. R. Denman, $102.25; Township of Cranford, $30; James Bryant, $15; Ferguson & Van Name, $15.

Fanwood—Burton Hall, $20; W. H. Carter, $20; Peter Ritter, $20; William Ledgate $20; S. W. McAneny, $63.

Garwood—Township—Robert Macauly, $30; James Johnston, $30; James Guerrin, $30; John Radin, $30; Edward Hesd, $70.50.

Linden—Township McGrath, $25; Charles Schoenwianer, $25; John Widner, $25; Albert Ashfield, $25; William Darroch, $26; Borough of Garwood, $30.

Linden—John Conrad, $30; William H. Roll, $30; George Pickel, $30; A. G. Hancock, $30; Linden Township, $30; Frank Anderson, $45.05.

Linden Borough—Milton Soudon, $25; Alexander Forbet, $25; Henry Blancke, $25; William Donaldson, $25, $30; Clarence Smith, $39.25.

Mountainside—Joseph Edwards, $30; James Schoverer, $20; Joseph Edwards, $20; Edward Latton, $30; Robert Laing, $56.20; Christian Fritz, $8.

New Providence Township—John English, $20; Frank Sahl, $20; George Herber, $20; Louis Burgmiller, $20; Robert Rogers, $68.50.

New Providence Borough—Eugene Badgley, $25; John Dickerson, $25; Edward Nelson, $25; Samuel Howorth, $25; Crane Bros., $30.

Kenilworth—Chris Kruh, $20; A. J. Halladay, $20; Joseph Seale, $20; A. H. Pettit, $20; Charles Knudson, $68.

Plainfield—Unal Crane, $30; Frank Wagner, $30; Richard O'Neil, $30; A. Littell, $20; Thomas Keegan, $20; Walter Sharkey, $30; Richard Curran $20; Horace Adams, $30; F.L. Cregan, $30; John Van Dyke, $30; J. M. Drayton, $20; D. A. Ballentyne, $30; George Ord, $30; Peter McDonough, $30; E. F. Dorman, $30; Perry Banghart, $30; Charles Case, $30. Robert Guttridge, $30; Patrick Dunn, $30; Andrew Krog, $30; James McCarty, $30; John Neagle, $30; Theodore Larew, $30; James McCann $30; Charles Haggart, $30; John McCarthy, $30; Fred Dixon, $30, John Moran, $30; John Caulfield, $30; William Young, $30; David McNamara, $30; M. D. Moledsky, $30; Ross Phillips, $30; Thomas McGrath, $30; Clarence Walden, $30; James Huntington, $30; Aaron Newman, $30; Edwin Brown, $30; John McCarthy, $30; Garret Dunham, $30; D. S. Dunavan, $120.50; J S. Dahl, $62.80; James MacMurray, $312.50; Antonio Schwenzer, $30; Fred Phillips, $30; $75; William Harper, $30; Tapscott Bros., $30; R. H. Keenan, $30; Charles Hand, $30; A. F. Newman, $30.

Rahway—John Jeffries, $30; Conrad Hoffman, $30; Patrick Sheinmire, $31; Edward Clark, $31; Frank Dudley, $30; Fred Green, $30; Charles Schaefer, $30; George Stacy, $10; Fred Acken, $30; G. J. Lanzer, $30; Frank Pierce, $31; Robert Hoffman, $30; Edward Clark, $30; Edward Leonard, $30; J. H. Flake, $31; William Udbrich,, $31; J. L. Cook, $30; John Harriman, $30; Thomas Reidy, $30; Charles Lambert, $325.95.

Roselle Park—Thomas Capron, $30; Alex. Cummings, $31.50; Edward Stevens, $30; Arthur Churchill, $30; A. M. Wyckoff, $60.

Roselle Borough—Lewis Mulford, $30; J. Ostrander, $30; J. W. Goodliffe, $30; John Christ, $30; George Wooley, $30; John Callahan, $30.

Springfield—Patrick Gunn, $30; S. S. Woodruff, $30; Abram Kolster, $30; W. J. Sickley, $30; Edward Townley, $73.92.

Summit—Lawrence Kenny, $30; Albert Brewster, $30; Richard Phair, $30; Charles Downey, $30; Elmer Day, $15; Harry Duval, $15; J. M. La Rue, $30; James Funcheon, $30; J. H. Senior, $30; D. C. Day, $30; Thomas O'Neill, $30; Benjamin Holmes, $30; Charles Cushing, $30; William McMane, $30; ohn Pheasant, $30; F. C. Kelley, $30; C. W. Baldwin, $30; D. M. Gilchrist, $36.16; Jilson & Folkenburg, $36.60; J. E. Rowe, $24.8.

Union—Louis Brummer, $30; John Lesser, $30; Jacob Wind, $30; T. C. Faitoute, $30; George Compton, $63.50; R. B. Headley, $30; L. Townley, $30; H. C. Chanler, $30; Mary McAllister, $30; George Compton, $61.

Westfield—Louis Bushhaus, $30; J. H. Townley $30; Harold Thompson, $30; C. E. Bell, $30; E. J. Wilcox, $25; J. S. Miller, $25; Howard Manning, $25; J. W. Wall, $25; William Bachman, $30; Henry Ferla, $30; Conrad Stutz, $30; John Golbra, $30; John Campbell, $30; George Cox $30; Homer Butler, $30; Lloyd Thompson, $288.54.

Elizabeth—John Hollihan, $30; Fred Kern, $30; John McDonnell, $30; Thomas Earl, $30.50; Thomas Sevens, $30; William McCfrey, $31; James Lynch, $31; Fred Voelker, $30; Oscar Brueckner, $30; William Leonard, $30; Joseph Lee, $30; Geo. Kinsey, $30; John Kelly, $30; Robert Fox, $30; John Higgins, $30; Charles Wolfe, $30; Thomas Coolidge, $30; Thomas Sullivan, $30; Daniel McCarthy, $30; William Moore, $30; John Devind, $30; Jas. Randolph, $30; Fred Cuningham, $31; Frank Donnelly, $30; John Creamer, $30; John Bauman, $30; Frank Murphy, $20; Estate of Thos. Sinnott, $30; Estate of Thos. Shaw, $31; Theodore Crowell, $30; John Kelleher, $30; Peter Gallagher, $30; Geo. Hartmann, $31; Oscar Grafe, $30; Jacob Wolf, $30; Thomas McCormack, $30; John Duncan, $10; William Neubauer, $20; John Jennings, $30; George Hancock, $30; Morris Koenig, $30; John Tuite, $30; William Martin, $20; John Sharkey, $30; Arthur Dixon, $31; John Shugard, $31; William Walsh, $30; Louis Hellegel, $30; Alfred Darling, $30; Edward Martin, $30; Jeremiah Carty, $30; Henry Walk, $31; James Donnell, $30; Frank Hoeglin, $30; William Badger, $30; Frank Schmidt, $30; Robert Day, $31; Patrick Kennedy, $30; Julius Johnson, $30; Bernard Cook, $30; M. J. Cumming, $30; John Nagle, $30; Fred Carroll, $30.50; Henry Roll, $30.50; Joseph Schatz, $30; Gottfried Schmidt, $31; Edward Bacco, $30; Herman Bolle, $30; August Concord, $30; Alex. Grote, $30; Fred Messinger, $30; Ewald Wilputs, $31; J. J. Kane, $30; William D. Smith, $30; Archer Lewis, $30; Daniel Mehegan, $30; Micheal Reilly, $30; H. A. Sendel, $30; Frank Lamerding, $30; Charles Kennig, $31; Dewitt Reilly, $30; Thomas Bovine, $30; John Couryer, $30; Jas. Kirk, $30; William Allen, $30; William Leavey, $30; Henry Wolfskell, $30; Frank Wiedenbach, $30; George Schenck, $30; T. K. Wheeler, $31; Benjamin Lawrence, $30; Frank Bresar, $30; Philip Dunghterty, $31; George Maule, $30; Charles Miller, $30; M. M. Callman, $30; T. J. Cronin, $31; William Lane, $30; J. R. Quinn, $30; Eugene Lytle, $30; William Rath, $30; John Coakley, $30; Isaac Hanck, $30; Walter Colvell, $31; Micheal Haggerty, $30; John Hoffman, $30; Alexander Dick, $30; William McCord, $30; Ernest Cobberly, $7; William MacQueen, $23.

Elections.

Elizabeth Daily Times, $45; Rahway News Herald, $31.98; Henry Wolfskell, $15; Elizabeth Daily Journal, $6.40; Advocate Pub. Co., $25; Journal-Review, $961.40; Ralph Morrow, $400; Robert Mc Adams, $400; Fred Zior, $400; Geo. Stewart, $400; Peter Tillman, $400; John Kenah, $400.14. $174.40; Oliver Conlin, $80.50.

Freeholder Jones moved to adjourn which was carried. The director declared the board adjourned till December 1, 1910, at 2:30 p. m.

BENJAMIN KING,
Clerk.

CHARITY ORGANIZATION SOCIETY TO MOVE

The Charity Organization Society which has grown to proportions of work necessitating better facilities for its handling, has engaged an office in the Babcock building, from December 15 and will in the future conduct its affairs from that office. The officers will not move into the new office until after Christmas as the holidays are an especially busy time and moving would interfere with projected plans. The old office and building on West Front street which has been the home of the society for so long has been sold to B. F. Tallamy, who will take possession later.

"It has been decided," said Miss Holly this morning, "that a woodyard is not a necessity now and that if it should become necessary in an emergency one could be provided by arrangement with one of the local dealers. It is not generally known, perhaps, that the society is now doing the largest and larger cities is conducted by the Children's Aid and S. P. C. C. societies. The enforcement of the attendance law in the schools and the periodical medical examination of pupils, the application of the probation system and the development in the playground movement hae increased the opportunities for usefulness of the society, society.

"The Society appears to have established itself in the confidence of the people as an agency which is competent and ready to assist them and the work has developed along lines which demand a centrally located office which will enable us to keep in closer touch with the city officials. Co-operation with the Associated charities and the health department makes the work more thorough and comprehensive. Over 5,000 visits were made last year by the executive secretaries and friendly visitors, double the number of the preceding year. But the usefulness of the society must be measured by its resources."

JOHN Y. MOWREY DEAD AFTER 2 YEARS ILLNESS

John Y. Mowrey, aged sixty-nine years, died Tuesday at the home of his son, William G. Mowrey, on Jefferson avenue, following an illness of two years with pulomonary trouble. He was born in Hunterdon county, and had lived here twenty-eight years. He was a carpenter by trade.

Mr. Mowrey's wife died on October 3, as the result of burns received form the ignition of gasolene fumes, while cleaning a bed at her home on West Front street. He is survived by a mother, Mrs. Mary Mowrey, of Glen Gardner; five brothers; also three sons, John, Frank and William Mowrey and one daughter, Mrs. Christopher Bock, of this city.

The funeral service will be held at the residence of William G. Mowrey, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the burial will be in the family plot at Bound Brook.

"THE DEVIL ON MARCH" SUBJECT OF SERMON

His satanic majesty, Beelzebub, alias several other names, was exposed in his various guises Sunday night by Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire a the Park Avenue Baptist church, but owing to lack of space today we are unable to print the discourse at length. Rev. Mr. Maguire showed plainly how the devil goes on his way through the world destroying souls and his methods of operation.

The text was found in Job 1:7, and his march was traced through the domestic circle, the factories, the mercantile establishments and the churches, showing the insidious way in which the work is accomplished and how easily destruction may be wrought in the least expected places. A more comprehensive report of this sermon will be printed in The Daily Press tomorrow.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Porter, of West Front street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marion Porter, to George L. Bartour of New York. The wedding ceremony will take place at the Hotel Astor, New York, on Wednesday evening, December 28, and will be witnessed only by members of the two families. Mr. Barbour is a silk importer. Miss Porter has many acquaintances throughout the city but for several years past has been living in New York.

"What happened to Babylon?" asked the Sunday-school teacher.

"It fell!" cried the pupil.

"And what became of Nineveh?"

"It was destroyed."

"And what of Tyre?"

"Punctured!"—Cleveland Leader.

THE PONY EXPRESS.

Fearless Riders and the Dangers and Hardships They Faced.

Perhaps the most picturesque figure on the old trail was the pony express rider. The overland stage proved too slow for mail and express in its flight from the Missouri and the Pacific Truo, it had cut down the months of the old ox team to twenty-five days, and still there was a clamor that the east and west be brought closer together, and it was done. The pony cut the time to ten days.

Those who were personally acquainted with the famous pony express of that day could never forget the intrepid rider who braved all peril, forgetful of self, intent only on the speedy delivery of his precious mochila to the next hardy horseman. Hard and fast he rode over mountain and plain across scorching desert and icy snow, through sunshine and rain, past friend, away from foe, to the final achievement—the safe delivery of his charge.

Forty fearless horsemen in saddle riding west, as many more riding east —and this one bold but useful enterprise was in motion. For two years the pony express carried messages of business and love across 2,000 miles of western mountains and plains, over a country peopled with a hostile race, through the privations of new development, through a region wild, desolate and little known.

It was in 1850 that the pony express was established. The route, briefly stated, was due west from St. Joseph to Fort Kearney, up the Platte to Julesburg, across by Fort Laramie and Fort Bridger, to Salt Lake City, thence to Camp Floyd, Ruby valley, the Humboldt, Carson City, Placerville and Folsom, to Sacramento and San Francisco by boat.

The chief duty of the pony express was to carry letters only and not more than ten pounds at a trip. It was decided that the safest and easiest mode of carrying the mail was to make four pockets, one in each corner of the mochila, a square made of heavy leather for the saddles and generally used by the expert Mexican and Spanish riders. The mochila was transferred from pony to pony and went through from St. Joseph to San Francisco, the pockets containing the mail being locked and opened only at military posts en route and at the end. These precious letters were wrapped in oiled silk to protect them, but even this precaution sometimes failed. Rivers had to be crossed; horse and rider swam together.—W. C. Jenkins in National Magazine.

Grew Too Tall.

"I recall a case of genuine bonedeadedness, mixed with enthusiasm, that cost a great many people a bunch of money," said an oil operator. "It was at the time when a big strike meant a drop in the price of oil. The foreman of a drill crew had been instructed by the employers to use a code in the event of oil being found. If it was a big one he was to wire, 'Pine crew grow tall.' If, on the other hand, the flow was small, 'Pine trees grow small,' was to be the code message. The drill struck a gusher, and the following message was sent by the ivory topped individual: 'Pine trees grow tall as hell, and she is dowing all over the derrick.' Of course there were a number of men about the exchange who could understand telegraphy, and the consequence was that the price of oil dropped about $2 a barrel in a few minutes."—Louisville Times.

Intoxicated by Tobacco.

Giving evidence against a man on a charge of disorderly conduct at Bow street police court, a constable said that the accused behaved in a very violent and disorderly manner in Leicester square on Tuesday evening. He quarreled with a cabman, and eventually the witness took him into custody, believing him to be drunk. At the police station the prisoner denied that he had been drinking, and the doctor who examined him reported that he had chewed tobacco to such an extent that it had had the same effect upon him as alcohol.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Real Laziness.

The Little Russians—those of the south—are said to be cleverer than the Russians of the north, but they are lazy—just how lazy may be gathered from this quotation from Mr. Maurice Baring's book, "Russian Essays and Stories:"

"The Little Russian," said a Little Russian gentleman to me, "is so lazy that he will say to his wife, 'Little wife, say whoa to my horse. I have a pain in my tongue.'"

Progressive.

"When did you commit your first fatal extravagance?"

"When my boss referred to my wages as my 'salary.'"

"And when did you perpetrate this latest folly?"

"The day my wife called my salary my 'income.'"—Cleveland Leader.

Not Worth While.

"I notice that you usually tell the truth."

"Yes; I found that telling lies gets you into almost as much trouble."—Kansas City Journal.

The Feminine Pessimist.

The feminine pessimist worries because she is not as young as she once was; the optimist of the same sex rejoices that she is not so old as she will be.—Life.

Would you be happy? Be the thing you seem.—Horace.

CHARITY BALL FEATURES

Entertainment in Addition to the Dance for Hospital's Benefit.

THE COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN.

Thos. Austin's Orchestra Engaged—Simon Davis the Caterer—Mrs. Denton to Decorate the Auditorium.

An entertainment will be a feature of the annual charity ball to be held at the Hartridge auditorium, Thursday night, December 29, for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital. The program to be given in the parlors will include vocal and instrumental numbers, planologues and cabinet legerdemals. This feature will be provided by a quartet from New York.

Thomas Austin's orchestra of twenty pieces, of Brooklyn, will furnish the music in the auditorium, while the supper will be served by Simon Davis, of Newark. The decorations are in charge of Mrs. Denton, of this city. The auditorium will present a most effective scene, quite different from the designs of past years.

Tickets for the ball have been placed on sale at Armstrong's drug store and it is hoped that the public will be generous enough to support the undertaking. The ticket committee consists of Henry L. Hall, chairman; J. E. Erickson, H. W. Beebee and S. D. Lounsbery. The general committee's chairman is Mayor Charles J. Fisk and the treasurer is Mr. Lounsbery. The ball committee chairman is Lewis G. Timpson and Harry W. Marshall heads the supper committee. Chester B. Lawrence is chairman of the reception committee.

NEW JERSEY IS FIFTH IN POPULATION GAINS

Only five States gained more in population during the last decade than New Jersey, according to the census returns announced Saturday by Director Durand. These were New York, Pennsylvania, Texas, Oklahoma and Illinois. Of these New York made the greatest gain, having added 1,844,720. New Jersey is the eleventh State in the Union in point of population.

In regard to density of population New Jersey stands fourth, being exceeded only by the Distrcit of Columbia, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. The census figures show that this State has 337 persons to the square mile, as compared to 259 in 1900.

The complete report of the thirteenth census shows that the United States, with its 13 possessions, has a population of approximately 101,100,000. The population within the borders of the States is 91,972,266, a gain of 21 per cent. and an increase of 15,977,691 since the last census in 1900.

Since the first census was taken in 1790 the population has multiplied twenty-five times. The first census showed that the population was 3,929,214, slightly larger than the present population of Texas.

The United States, including Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico, has a population of 93,402,151. This is a gain of 20.9 per cent. and an increase of 16,145,521.

In the census report the country is plainly marked off in broad groups of States, according to the difference in the rate of increase. The States showing the lowest rates of increase, falling below 10 per cent., are five in the central portion of the country namely, Iowa, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee; the three northern New England States and Maryland and Delaware.

It is a notable fact that with the exception of Florida and New Jersey, the only States which show an increase exceeding 30 per cent. are located in the West. South Dakota, Colorado and Utah had rates of increase between 30 and 50 per cent.; North Dakota, Wyoming, Nevada, California, New Mexico and Arizona show increases of more than 50 per cent. Increase and Oklahoma, Idaho and Washington had more than 100 per cent.

To Say and To Do.

"Do you wish to go to church this evening?, Father is going to preach, you know," the minister's fair daughter asked.

"Um. The last time I went he rather fell on some of my feelings. The young man considered.

"Yes; you know what his text will be tonight?"

"Yes; 'Love One Another.'"

He regarded the round pink cheek approvingly.

"Suppose," he suggested softly, "that we let the old gentleman go preach, while we sit out on the porch and practise?"—Lippincott's Ahead of His Time.

"That man Biggins is away ahead of his time."

"What's he doing now?"

"He's working out a code of traffic ordinances for aeroplane drivers."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SATAN ON THE MARCH

A Personality Who Knows no Mercy, a Monarch Without Soul.

HE STARTS ON THE WIND.

Invades the Home, the Factory, Store and Church—Sleepless, Never Tires—Luther's Vision.

In his sermon on Sunday evening Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, took for his text Job. 1-7, "And the Lord said unto Satan, 'Whence comest thou.'" Pastor Maguire drew a picture of God upon His throne listening to reports of his acts. He spoke from he had sent to the ends of space to note the progress of the worlds of the firmament, and among those to report last was Satan who answered saying: "From going to and fro in the earth and from walking up and down in it."

"This report of the devil was characteristic of him then as it would be today,' said Mr. Maguire. "He is jumping from place to place, from home to home, from factory to factory and from store to store as well as from church to church seeking whom he may devour. He thinks will fall for his sophistries. He is a monarch who rules somewhere, notwithstanding the belief of those who say there is no such thing as a devil. If there is no such a personality how is his work carried on?

"He goes on his march, as St. Paul says, on the wind of which he is the prince. He works his way in the conditions of the atmosphere. He breathes on the winds and they become the whirlwinds of death and destruction. There would be no need of cemeteries if it were not for Satan. There would have been no death. He contaminates everything. The church is locked six days in the week and the saloon is doing a good business for the devil.

"Perhaps he is most insidious in the domestic circle—setting the husband against his wife and the wife against the husband until he has them seeking the divorce courts. He tempts the man by showing him a butterfly of a woman and drawing seductive comparisons between his wife and the butterfly. To get the wife started against her husband the devil tells her that the husband is neglecting her and that he thinks more of his own comforts than of her. Oh, he is wide awake and quick to take advantage of the weak. I tell you that one of the greatest causes for divorces today is that we are raising an army of girls who neither know how to cook or sew. A man's heart is reached through his stomach. But the woman too often lets the devil stir the soup, while she is gadding about at her club or playing cards. Dr. Lanham, the world's greatest student of economics at home now says this and I believe he is right.

"The young man is led away by the devil whispering to him that he ought not to be tied to his mother's apron strings. But let me tell you, young man, that you are never more noble looking than when you are standing beside your mother, wiping the dinner dishes. It is better that you be thus tied than to be called in the devil's whip. Here is another way the devil works. In the factory he goes to the proprietor and whispers: 'You are not getting enough out of your capital; you are the owner, your money is invested, why don't you get more for it? Reduce the men's wages, that's the way to do it!' Then he makes his way into the shop where the men are working for a mere nothing and tells them they are not getting enough money for their work. 'Strike,' he says. Then follows terrible times. The factory is put to the torch, families are rendered homeless and destitute and the evil looks on laughs in glee at what he has wrought.

"In the mercantile establishments it is the same. The clerk behind the counter is tempted to pocket his employer's money. He falls and Satan adds another victim. The young woman, envious of the dress and automobile and other possessions of her sister, asks how it is done and learning, adds to the devil's total another destroyed soul who later seeks shelter at one of the Salvation Army homes for herself and child. O, the pity of it. Listen, the time is coming when the rule of gold will give way to the golden rule, but Satan will reap his quota of lost souls until that time comes. Give heed to the voice of the Master as it whispers to you in the solemn watches of the night. Remember that Satan's only mission is to destroy souls, and to create disputations, strife and misery and misery. He has millions of agents who are tireless and never sleep. He works even in church while I am talking to you, but don't let him get you napping. His power is limited, God's power being greater, but every so you must get in the vision that Luther had and thus make your assurance doubly sure.

"Luther saw in his vision Satan approaching him and trembled at the sight. 'Look,' said the arch fiend, 'here is a book showing your sins. Everyone you have committed in your life. The page is black. How can you hope to square this account? Give up the struggle and follow me.' Then later there appeared to Luther the angel of the Lord who also showed him the book with the account of his sins, but across the page was the legend 'They were all atoned for at Calvary.' Luther was convinced and saved.

"So, I tell you, especially you young people, if you listen to the voice of Satan and follow his advice you are lost. But if you will accept the bread of life with the promises of God, and through His son your souls shall be saved to the uttermost, you will live to bless the day you made the right choice and spend an eternity with your heavenly Father."

THINK GALLAGHER MAY BE MENTALLY UNSOUND

The third and probably the last examination by alienists for the State of James J. Gallagher, who shot Mayor Gaynor, took place Sunday afternoon at the Hudson County jail. The physicians subjected the prisoner to mental and physical tests for over two hours. The alienists were Dr. William J. Arlitz, of Hoboken; Dr. John D. McGill, of Jersey City; Dr. George H. Sexsmith, of Bayonne, and Dr. Frank Cotton, of Trenton. In addition to the State's alienists there were present Dr. John J. Reilly, of 59 West Forty-fourth street, New York, and expert for the defense Alexander Simpson, of Jersey City, Gallagher's counsel, and Prosecutor of Pleas Pierre P. Garven. It is the opinion of the alienists that Gallagher is not sane.

The doctors took turns in asking Gallagher questions, and Dr. Reilly, at the request of the State's alienists, also participated in the quizzing.

"If a man stole your watch would he right to kill him?" asked Dr. McGill of the prisoner.

"That depends on what kind of a watch it was," replied Gallagher, "If it was a cheap one, no; if it was a good watch, yes."

The doctors asked the man several questions for the purpose of learning from him his idea of his own importance and this is one reply they received: "Daniel O'Connell wasn't any more to Ireland than I was to the New York Dock Department."

Gallagher told the doctors that he considered himself quite a politician, having turned two campaigns in New York by his speeches.

The prisoner failed in several memory tests and gave several indications that his brain was weak. On Thursday last there was taken from Gallagher's spine a sample of serum which is being subjected to test by Dr. Cotton with the idea of ascertaining the condition of his brain.

After the examination Doctors Arlitz, McGill, Sexsmith and Cotton had a talk with Dr. Reilly, who expressed the belief that Gallagher was not sane. The State's alienists will file a report of their conclusions with Prosecutor Garven. If they certify that Gallagher is crazy an application will be made to Justice Swayze for the appointment of a lunacy commission to determine officially of his sanity. If they inform the prosecutor that Gallagher is sane he will be tried on December 20 before a struck jury.

EX-DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CHAIRMAN BUDD DEAD.

Thomas B. Budd, one of the oldest residents of Elizabeth, and a contractor and builder, died yesterday at his home, 318 Morris avenue, after a short illness. He was eighty-two years old. He was a life-long Democrat, and for many was chairman of the Union County Democratic executive committee and also of the Elizabeth city Dmeocratic executive committee.

Mr. Budd was born at Madison, and went to Elizabeth when a young man. He was a member of the Masonic order for fifty years, and the second oldest member and a past master of Washington lodge of this city. He was in the early sixties a deputy sheriff of Union county.

He is survived by a widow ,one son Frederick, of Boston; two unmarried daughters, Harriet and Lillian, who were teachers in the Pingry Academy, and one widowed daughter, Mrs. Eleanor H. Van Horne.

PUPILS OF MISS GRACE P. KARR GIVE A MUSICALE.

An informal recital was given by the pupils of Miss Grace Powell Karr at her residence on Putnam avenue, Saturday afternoon. The pupils showed marked advance since the previous recital. Those who took part were Roswell E. Bohn, Elwood E. Waller, Walter Bell, the Misses Lucy B. West, Marjorie P. Searing, Minnie Bantle, Alice F. Simons, Eleanor V. Searing, Eleanor U. Buckbee, Ruth S. Kuhlerschky, Sarah L. Schuck and Mildred M. Clark.

Miss Elizabeth Schuck rendered two solos on the violin, Rubenstein's Melody in F, and Gypsy Mazurka by Gabriel-Marie. The pupils for the month of November were Roswell E. Bohn and Miss Sarah L. Schuck.

A New Year's Dance.

Invitations have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fleming and their daughter, Miss Barbara Fleming, of Park avenue, for a dance to be given on Monday evening, the second of January, at nine o'clock, at the Park Club.

COMMERCE CHAMBER FOR CONSOLIDATION

Directors Applaud Speech of Mr. Saunders and Will Start Campaign.

That the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield should be effected without delay was the argument made by former Mayor William F. Saunders at a meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce Monday. The fulfillment of this obligation by the people of the two municipalities for their mutual interests, should be followed, he declared, by action on the part of the Legislature making the borough's territory a part of Union county.

So favorably was his speech received that the directors planned at once to give the chamber's support to the movement. That there be no further procrastination, it was decided to start the campaign at the next meeting of the body. Mayor Saunders and former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, whose expressions were published in these columns some days ago, have been invited to speak on the subject at that time.

Mr. Saunders' speech follows:

Eight years ago the problems which confronted us were not as pressing as at present. Political conditions are different, and there is more independence of thought and a greater disposition to sacrifice personal interest to the public welfare.

I shall not rake up past history, except call attention to the fact that there was a call attention to the fact that after the consolidation battle was over and a period of 5 years had elapsed a joint committee, representing the Council of Plainfield and the Council of North Plainfield, passed a resolution recommending the appointment of a commission by the governing bodies, said commission to consist of two citizens of Plainfield and two of North Plainfield, who should have the power to select a fifth member, who should be a citizen of Plainfield. This commission was appointed and instructed to examine into the advantages and disadvantages of consolidation. On May the 6th, 1907, a report was made and signed by every member of the commission, namely, Alexander Gilbert, Floyd T. Woodhull, Mason W. Tyler, Charles W. McCutchen, Elston M. French. The following is the recommendation of this commission:

"The recommendation of the Commission is that your honorable bodies cause to be prepared a bill for shall provide for both consolidation and annexation, to take effect only afte, a majority of the legally authorized voters of both municipalities shall have voted in favor of the same in the regular or special election held for that purpose."

Action was not taken upon this recommenadtion because the time was not opportune from a political point of view. By this I do not mean that it was because the legislature was Republican, but because the leader of the majority, Senator Frelinghuysen, was a power in the legislature and had shown a strong disposition to oppose any act which might lead to annexation.

There is now on the statute books of the State a bill known as Assembly Bill No. 155 of the Laws of 1902. The title of this bill is as follows:

"An act to unite and consolidate the municipal corporations known as inhabitants of the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union, and Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield."

This is a referendum bill, namely, it becomes effective only on approval by the people of both municipalities at a special election.

The bill upon which the election was held in 1902 was known as the annexation bill, namely to provide for a change in county lines only, and after the negative vote cast at that time this annexation bill was repealed.

The condition we are in at present therefore is that in order to provide the proper machinery a new annexation bill should be presented to the legislature.

It has been claimed that a mistake was made eight years ago in voting on the annexation referendum first. Perhaps this criticism is well taken. In any case, my view would be that any future action by the people should be taken first upon the question of consolidation: that is, municipal union, and that the question of change of county line should be acted upon only after both had decided whether or not they wished to unite these two governments.

It seems reasonable—it is certainly in line with precedent, that a people as closely related as the people of any city and borough, and voting by a majority to become united in one government, should be entitled to go to the legislature and demand that the county lines be changed so as to accommodate these changed conditions. What stronger appeal can be made to a legislature than to ask aid in removing obstacles which affect the health, happiness and prosperity of a people whose interests are at stake? Political expediency should never be allowed to raise barriers against home rule. A county line is a political expedient, an imaginary line only, drawn for the purpose of separating and grouping the people of the State ,whose interests are mutual. The history of every State shows countyl ine changes. Originally New Jersey was divided into three or four counties only, and there would appear to be no serious reason why the line which is a barrier between Plainfield and North Plainfield should not be changed in the interests of the people who are on the spot.

Why should there be a referendum vote on this question of change of county line? This vote to be reasonable should include everyone in the county from which a section is to be taken. This, of course, would make it out of the question to change a county line. The people of Raritan and Somerville are not likely to give up anything which they now have because it is going to help somebody in North Plainfield. But why should the people of Raritan and Somerville stand in the way of what affects our local conditions. There is really no reason except selfishness and political expediency. If the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield vote yes on municipal consolidation why should they be expected to pass judgment upon the question of county line change? This is really the function of the legislature.

My suggestion would therefore be that a bill be prepared providing for a change in the county line, taking North Plainfield from Somerset county and putting it into Union, this bill to take effect only when the people affected, namely, Plainfield and North Plainfield, had voted affirmatively on the question of consolidation.

There are several live statutes providing the machinery for joining these two places as for instance.

"An act concerning consolidated cities and annexed municipalities and townships and portions thereof," page 152 of the Laws of the Session of 1900.

Also Revised Statutes of New Jersey, Volume II, page 2245, where there is an act as to the assumption of collections, etc., of annexed territories to cities. If these laws do not provide sufficient machinery others should be passed. There is nothing difficult about this—the main question being to make the people really want to consolidate or not. If they do let us have complete consolidation.

I should like to hear some reasons against this proposition. It seems useless to spend time and money on an argument in case so apparent: Plainfield and North Plainfield are not like New York and Brooklyn, they are not like Orange and East Orange and South Orange. The mountains on the north and the railroad on the south confine the borough of North Plainfield to a growth following the railroad and hugging Plainfield as a saddle hugs the back of a horse. The main artery of the city, Front street, is within a stone's throw of the dividing line. From the rear of the Front street properties reach to the brook which separates us. We of North Plainfield cannot patronize North Plainfield shops because many of us are too far away and must follow that is least resistance. Front street is nearer, and is contributing daily to the prosperity of Plainfield without receiving any return. The shopping district of Plainfield is concentrated and the income to the city treasury is increased because the non-resident alien people patronize city industries.

The position of North Plainfield geographically makes our future hopeless for growth and prosperity without consolidation. Some of the finest residential land in New Jersey has lain dormant for almost a generation. It cannot be claimed that this is because we have no sewers. Plainfield property showed substantial growth before the sewers were installed.

In all this matter of sewers, water works, lighting, etc., how much easier it would be, and how much more practical it is for us to act together and not separately. As ex-Mayor Randolph has said, "We should get married first and then put our house in order."

Yours truly,
W. L. SAUNDERS.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS ELECTS NEW OFFICERS.

The annual election of officers of the Women's Relief Corps was held on Friday evening at Reform Hall with the following result: President, Mrs. Jennie D. Bergen; senior vice-president, Mrs. William Manley; junior vice-president, Mrs. Elizabeth Naylor; chaplain, Mrs. Sarah Mattox; treasurer, Mrs. Sarah P. Struthers; conductor, Mrs. E. K. Frazee; guard, Mrs. Jennie D. Smith.

The delegates to the department convention are, first, Miss Evelyn Manley; second, Mrs. Clara Barton Smith; first alternate, Mrs. Annie E. Smith; second alternate, Mrs Whitney; musician, Mrs. Sarah J. Manley. The appointive offices will be filled and the committees appointed later.

Ernest Jeffery Improving.

Ernest Jeffery, the nine-year-old son of William Jeffery, of Berkeley Heights, who has been laid up at Muhlenberg Hospital for some time as a result of a gunshot wound in his arm, is recovering nicely and it is expected that he will leave the hospital on next Saturday.

ROOMS FOR GIVIC BODY

Chamber of Commerce Headquarters in the Frost Building.

ELECT ULRICH SECRETARY.

Committees to Suggest Seal and Motto—Arrange for Some Good Addresses in the Near Future.

It was decided at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce's directors Monday to lease rooms in the Frost building at a monthly rental of $50 and to expend $300 in furnishing them. D. J. Carney, Herbert Schuldenfrei and R. F. Coriell were appointed a committee for the purpose.

Former Judge John Ulrich was elected secretary, his compensation to be fixed by the incoming board. President Babcock, secretary Ulrich and treasurer Laing were named as a committee to submit a design for a corporation seal for the organization and the secretary and Mr. Carney were selected as a committee to suggest a motto.

The secretary and treasurer were instructed to file bonds in $1,000 each and the secretary was ordered to obtain stationary.

After a discussion of annexation and consolidation, reported in another column, Mayor Alexander Gilbert, a vice-president, was invited to address the chamber on "The New York Clearing House; What It Is and What It Does." He is chairman of that institution. Mr. Saunders, the other vice-president, was asked for the same meeting to speak on "Panama," a subject he has made a study.

LOWER 'PHONE RATES FOR BUSINESS HOUSES

Division Commercial Manager Baker, of the New York Telephone Company, announced today that on January 1, 1911, important reductions in its schedules of charges for local messages will be made in the larger cities and towns in the northern half of the State of New Jersey in which it operates.

In Plainfield there will be reductions from $48 to $42 and from $39 to $36 for 600 messages in connection with direct and two-party line service respectively. In some of the smaller towns the rates for local messages sent from private branch exchange systems will also be reduced. The new schedules complete will be published shortly and the subscribers affected will be notified.

WANTED RED CROSS SEALS BEFORE SHE DIED.

A man walked up to a Red Cross Christmas Seal booth in New York a few days ago, and after fumbling around till he found a dollar in his pocket, asked for a hundred seals. He seemed to want to say something, and the chance being given, he told how these greetings were to be put on some letters, cards, and little packages his wife was to send out this Christmas.

"She told me to be sure to get them," he said, "and so I came here before going to the shop, for it's the last Christmas she'll have a chance to remember those she loves. The doctor says she may hold out till after New Year's but her cough's so bad now I don't much think she will."

Then he turned quickly and hurried away.

MRS. E. A. VARS' FUNERAL SERVICE IS LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral service of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Vars, widow of Nathan Vars, was held at the home of her son, Alexander W. Vars, on Webster place, at 2:30 o'clock, Monday afternoon. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. H. N. Jordan, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, New Market, of which Mrs. Vars was a member for many years, officiated. He spoke of the faithful Christian life of Mrs. Vars and of her devotion to her home.

There were many beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the bearers were Andrew J. Gavett, John Y. Wilson, Jesse Burdick, A. H. Burdick, James R. Dunham and Lewis T. Titsworth.

Christmas Tree Entertainment.

The Little Missionary Day Nursery, 93 St. Marks place, New York, of which Miss Sara Curry is the manager, will hold its Christmas tree entertainment at the Seventh Street church, 22 East Seventh street, New York city, Thursday evening, December 22, at 8 o'clock. Friends of the work have received invitations to the affair.

Aspinwall Sale Nets $5,141.25.

The total amount realised from the sale of the personal effects of the late William H. Aspinwall which was concluded on Saturday, was $5,141.25, as reported by P. H. Latourette, the auctioneer.

OBSERVED ANNIVERSARY

Friendship Council Jr. O. A. M. of New Market Celebrates Twentieth Birthday.

ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE.

Organizations Home Filled to Capacity with Members and Friends —Has Had a Splendid Growth.

In celebration of the twentieth anniversary of its organization, Friendship Council, No. 83, Jr. O. U. A. M., of New Market, conducted appropriation ceremonies and an entertainment in its hall, Monday. The affair was attended by more than 250 members and friends and proved to be one of the most successful observances of the kind ever held in the village. The gathering included several State officials of the order among them State Councilor William B. LaRue, of Bound Brook.

The hall was lavishly but tastefully decorated with flags and bunting. There was also a large electric display bearing the numerals "1890-1910." The decorations were arranged by W. T. Piddington and D. W. Moody and were in the cause of much admiring comment.

The council first assembled in regular session at 7 o'clock for the transaction of business after which the anniversary exercises commenced. The fore part was devoted to an entertainment during which addresses were made by Councilor R. P. F. Von Mindon who was in charge of the ceremonies. State Councilor LaRue, State Councilor's secretary William Ward, Past Councilors William L. Coriell, Friendship's first councilor and several others. About thirty members were presented with past councilor badges by Mr. LaRue. The addresses were interspersed with selections by Naylor's orchestra, of six pieces. Feature numbers in the entertainment were provided by the Elks quartet, of Plainfield, composed of William Tallamy, Harry Blimm, Jack Todd and William Smith. There was also numerous songs and stories contributed by Tom Muir, of Plainfield, assisted by William H. Pope. All the numbers were well received. At the close of the entertainment refreshments were served and the floor was cleared for dancing. It was kept up until an early hour Tuesday morning.

The observance was arranged and in charge of a committee composed of William Van Neise, chairman, O. E. Meeker, David C. Ward, W. T. Piddington, Jr., J. E. Pine, and Foster Sofield.

Friendship Council was organized on December 12, 1890, with twenty-seven charter members, of whom there are but few left. Since then it has enjoyed a steady growth, the membership now numbering 158. The council owns Friendship Hall, free and clear and has a very satisfactory financial balance.

The past councilors who received badges were as follows:

William L. Coriell, C. S. Day, J. R. Dunham, C. E. Kelly, W. J. Nelson, Geo. W. Day, H. S. Garretson, M. R. Dayton, Edson Davis, C. T. Rogers, Jr., Randolph, Wm. David Lawson, F. O Nelson, H. J. Piddington, Foster Sofield, Z. P. Osmun, J. M. Dayton, Mm. Van Nuis, J. E. Meeker, A. E. Curtiss, Charles Clark, F. F. Randolph, C. K. Kellaway, D. C. Ward, J. M. De Groff, Wm. T. Piddington, C. B. Carman, Wm. T. Piddington, Jr., A. M. Johnson, James E. Pine and O. E. Meeker.

The charter members of Friendship Council were as follows:

Charles Day, William Winkler, Phillip G. Mitze, James Day, James R. Dunham, John Stein, Edward Schenck, Wm. G. Giles, C. H. Ward, M. J. Whitford, Wm. T. Brokaw, H. S. Garretson, David Blackford, Ambrose Ryno, Abram Van Arsdale, D. C. Ward, A. E. Nelson, A. G. Nelson, B. D. Pizie, Wm. Waglow, D. W. Lawson, D. C. Fulton, George W. Coriell, Wm. J. Davis, Fred C. Ward, S. R. Titsworth and Wm. L. Coriell.

ANGRY AT CENTRAL RAILROAD.

Breach of contract was charged against the Central Railroad of New Jersey at a meeting of the United Singers in the Kruger Auditorium, Newark, Sunday.

A party numbering 104 members of the Newark singing societies made the trip to Washington last Wednesday on a special train chartered by the United Singers on the occasion of the Steuben monument dedication ceremonies. When it came time to return it was found that instead of leaving Washington by special train at 11:30 Wednesday night, as per schedule, cars set apart for the Newark singers were attached to a regular train scheduled to leave Washington at 12:10.

Protests against this change in the arrangements proved unavailing, and the Newarkers reached Newark at 7:55 Thursday morning. Members of the excursion party, who lost a half day's work in consequence, were directed at Sunday's meeting to place any claims for reimbursement in the hands of Secretary John J. Piemenik.

Benners—They say he can write a check for $1,000,000.

Jenners—So can I, but the bank people won't cash it.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN E. MAYNARD.

W. K. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law,
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary
$900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. Some salary and commission; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house, grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure permanent, independent position. Liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once,
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Mechanics Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITELL

DIED.

HALE—Suddenly, at his residence, 5 Grove street, North Plainfield, on Monday, December 5, 1910, Frank Hale.

MORTIMER—In New York city, on Wednesday, December 7, 1910, John Mortimer, aged 58 years.

KAMPMAN—On Sunday, December 11, 1910, at her residence, 924 Madison avenue, Annie Katherine, widow of Joseph Kampman, late of Boston.

MOWREY—On Tuesday December 13, 1910, John Y. Mowrey, aged sixty-nine years.

VARS—On Friday, December 9, 1910, Elizabeth A. wife of the late Nathan Vars, aged 76 years.

SPRING—At Hamlet, North Carolina, on Thursday, December 8, 1910, Simon Spring.

WAGES NOT UP TO ADVANCE IN FOOD.

New Jersey State Bureau Points to Marked Increase In Cost of Living.

The annual report of the State Bureau of Statistics of Labor and Industries shows that while a number of selected articles of food have increased in price 40.96 per cent. in the last twelve years, the average wages of factory and workshop employes have advanced during the same period only 22.2 per cent. The increase of wages has fallen 18.7 per cent, short of keeping pace with the growing cost of food supplies.

It is also pointed out that house rents and practically everything in the nature of family and individual requirements have experienced an advance equal to the ratio shown for food. Prevailing prices in 1910 have been lower than in 1909, when the average cost of a typical bill of staples was $13.79. In 1910 it was $13.14.

Califon, Hunterdon county, still maintains the position of having the lowest prices of any place in the State. The cost of the selected bill of goods there is $10.74.

Commenting upon the high price of meat, the report says:

"The advance in prices of pork products surpasses all other meats. The price of bacon has increased 107.44 per cent.; that of shoulder 91.67 per cent.; salt pork, 87.27 per cent.; ham, 84.03 per cent.; fresh pork, 80.36 per cent.

"The increase in the price of beef, although much below pork, is also very large."

"I want a boy to carry a message in a hurry. One who won't read a dime novel on the way."

"Can't fill the bill, sir, but here's a boy who will finish his book in a couple of chapters."—Pittsburg Post.

MAYOR SMALLEY FAVORS RENEWAL OF FIGHT FOR CONSOLIDATION OF CITY AND BOROUGH

Replying to Former Mayor Randolph, Borough's Executive Warmly Approves His Suggestion That for the Common Good the Two Municipalities be Merged.

Responding to a letter from former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph which contained the suggestion that for the mutual welfare of the taxpayers of the city and borough the two municipalities should be consolidated, Mayor Newton B. Smalley comes out strongly in favor of a union. Two plans were referred to, one for a new county with Plainfield as its centre and the other for the merger of the two towns.

Report has it that early in the year, the old fight for annexation and consolidation will be renewed and will be brought to an issue within a short time. As Mr. Randolph is an officer of the Bi-partisan League, it is believed that he and his colleagues will be active in the agitation. That North Plainfield's mayor is heart and soul for the proposition is amply shown by the tone of his reply to Mr. Randolph. He does not consider the county idea feasible but he does claim that the consolidation should and will be effected. The expenditure on the question is not favored by him for reasons set forth in his letter which follows:

Your letter of December the First, concerning your views on matters vital to Plainfield and North Plainfield in common, particularly as to a proposed merger of the two municipalities, has been carefully considered by me. The talk of a union of the two places, as you know, has been of long standing. Personally, I regret that there was not a merger years ago, for if there had been, I believe the progress of the community would have been more rapid, and today we would be enjoying needed improvements which as yet appear a long way off.

"One of the chief obstacles to every suggested improvement considered on either side of 'the brook' has been the attitude assumed, by force of law or otherwise, of the other. Both may equally need such an improvement but the one without the other is helpless to accomplish it. To quote your own words: "These problems in Plainfield and North Plainfield, if not actually identified, are closely allied."

"As matters stand at present, disunited politically and geographically, satisfactory results can be obtained by neither independent of the other. This condition, through annexation, could be removed for a consolidation would effectually bring the desired results. North Plainfield is nothing more or less than part of Plainfield's expansion. We are a residental section of Plainfield in every respect except in law. And there is no reasonable argument against that barrier being removed and for us to be all one, working for our common good.

"While the new county idea which you suggest would solve the problem, the loss of so important a territory to the three counties involved would bring formidable opposition, which, in the event of our failure, would result in delaying the prime object. North Plainfield holds the key to the proper solution of important questions effecting the future of the whole community. And if you succeed in arousing public sentiment along the lines we aim at, I am certain North Plainfield will meet you at the door of hope.

"I do believe that a consolidation could be effected. North Plainfield, and the part of the borough in Plainfield township, have no interests in common with the rest of Somerset county. The reasons are too well known and have been too oft repeated to need any comment. We are at the core of Plainfield and of Union county and there our interests lie. This is true of both the borough and the township.

"It is my firm conviction and has always been that a bill should be passed by the legislature without a referendum clause. When this matter was fought out some few years ago, the result did not reflect the real sentiment of our people. This was because as soon as the campaign began, factional politics, personal animosities and other things that had no bearing on the question at issue cropped out. In the end, even before the day of election, political feuds had already defeated the proposition and a great wrong was done to our interests as citizens and taxpayers. Therefore, I would be sorry to see such a performance repeated and it possibly would be if a referendum clause were inserted in the bill.

"In my humble judgment, the Legislature could be convinced that it would be the duty the State owes to the people of both the city and the borough to make them one in law as they are now in all other respects. And this is what I wish to see. I may add that I have never lost hope for the ultimate success of the cause.

"There are other matters I should like to confer with you and others who are proud of our community about, but I shall wait until a more opportune time."

This is Mr. Randolph's letter which brought the mayor's reply:

"Two of the prominent citizens of North Plainfield—gentlemen of high intelligence and considerable vested interests—have recently written letters looking to a courageous and progressive public policy in regards to needed improvements. The time seems to have fully arrived when men of standing who have much at stake in the community should consider and agree on large questions of policy in Plainfield and North Plainfield.

"The feeling must be borne in upon our minds that we are now confronted with problems seriously concerning our present welfare and still more seriously concerning the welfare of those who shall come after us. These problems in Plainfield and in North Plainfield, if not actually identical, are closely allied. If they can be dealt with as a whole by one community the results will be attained with greater economy and with immeasurably greater satisfaction.

"For example, the Water Problem should be met by the entire community of Plainfield and North Plainfield as a whole and the same is true of the Sewage Problem. In either case any half-way, or separated, schemes must result in waste and disappointment.

"It is said that Plainfield and North Plainfield respectively border on Greenbrook, but the municipal situation of these two civic corporations borders on absurdity. Here we have one community attending the banks, receiving news from the same public journals, served by the same national postoffice, taking railroad service at the same station. And yet this community calls itself by different names on the two sides of a babbling stream and on each side maintains a full-fledged organization for government and taxation. And each side is now contemplating plans for important improvements. For one, I agree and insist that unless the two municipalities are to come together in one, then each one of them must go on with an independent scheme of progress. A general partnership, involving proportions of cost in this plan and that, is most impracticable and would be utterly objectionable. I do not think it ought to be seriously entertained. Ultimately it would lead to serious perplexities and litigations. The simple way out of this dilemma is to obtain such legislation as is necessary to bring together in one the two municipalities, and then let the wheels of progress be put in motion—with all due deference to economy and good management.

"I am aware that difficulties have arisen, one in respect of the fact that Plainfield and North Plainfield lie in two counties, the brook being the dividing line. But I feel sure that, wisely guided, legislation may be obtained overcoming such obstacles.

"For myself, I would favor a greater Plainfield with our city serving as the County seat to a new county. In my opinion our community and, for the most part, the entire State would be much benefitted by such a plan. If, however, this plan is not found to be possible, then I would favor simply taking North Plainfield into the city limits of Plainfield. Some plan of this general character is really becoming a public necessity. It is earnestly to be hoped that the authorities of Plainfield and North Plainfield will take measures—looking first to a full consultation and exchange of views, and next to the adoption of a distinct plan such as will consummate an object so desirable and so essential to wise progress.

"The legislature of 1911 will largely be composed of new material unconsulted and unprejudiced on this question of the union of the two municipalities. It seems a most favorable opportunity for obtaining the required legislation, and the subject should receive immediate attention, and I trust that all fair and leading citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield—and indeed of all who are interested in the proper advancement of our common interests.

"Of late I have conferred with a number of my fellow citizens on this subject and I have found no serious difference of opinion. In this letter I give to you, as Mayor of the Borough and as a friend, my own earnest conviction—trusting that you will find it of some use and encouragement."

Wishing Too Large.

"But before we were married you said that your happiness would consist in fulfilling my smallest wish.

"Quite so, but you can't maintain that a dress costing 500 francs is one of your 'smallest' wishes."—Pele Mele.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

SOME VOLUMES ADDED TO EVERYMAN'S LIBRARY

These books have recently been placed on the shelves at the Public Library:

Biography.

Helps, Sir Arthur.—Life of Columbus.

Scott, Sir Walter—Lives of the novelists.

Trotter, Capt. L. J.—Life of Warren Hastings.

Classical.

Homer'rs Iliad.—Lord Derby's Translation.

Homer's Odyssey.—William Cowper's Translation.

Plato.—Vols. I & II.

Thucydides.—History of the Peloponnesian War.

History.

Atlas of Literary and Historical Geography.—Vol. I. Europe.

Bede, The Venerable.—Ellesiastical history of the English Nation.

Froude, James A.—Reign of Mary Tudor.

Gibbon, Edward.—Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. Vols. IV., V., VI.

Irving, Washington.—Conquest of Granada.

Pilgrim Fathers, Chronicles of the.

Smith, Sir Wm.—Smaller classical dictionary.

Essays and Belles-Lettres.

Arnold, Matthew.—On the study of Celtic literature.

Brooke, Stofford A.—Theology of the English poets, Cowper, Coleridge, Wordsworth, Burns.

Burke, Edmund.—Reflections on the French Revolution.

Hazlitt, William.—Lectures on English poets, and the Spirit of the age.

More, Sir Thomas.—Utopia and the dialogue of Comfort.

Ruskin, John.—Time and tide.

Poetry and the Drama.

Byron, Lord.—Complete poetical and dramatic works. Vols. I., II., III.

Ibsen, Henrik.—Doll's House, Wild Duck and Lady from the Sea.

Jonson, Ben.—Complete plays. Vols. I., II.

Minor Elizabethan Drama.—Pre-Shapeskearean-Tragedy and Comedy. Vols. I and II.

Romance.

Aucassin and Nicolette.—Translated by Eugene Mason.

Science.

Huxley, Thomas H.—Lectures and lay sermons.

Travel and Topography.

Burton, Sir Richard F.—First footsteps in East Africa.

Dufferin, Lord,—Letters from high latitudes.

Fiction.

Balzac, Horone De.—Cousin Pons.

Collins, Wilkie.—Woman in white.

Eliot, George.—Scenes of clerical life.

Fielding, Henry.—History of the adventures of Joseph Andrews and his friend, Mr. Abraham Adams.

Kingsley, Charles.—Alton Locke, tailor and poet.

Lytton, Count Leo.—Master and man and other parables and tales.

Thackeray, William M.—Newcomes. Vols. I. and II.

Philosophy and Theology.

Berkeley, George.—New theory of vision.

Mill, John S.—Utilitarianism, liberty, representative government.

St. Francis of Assisi.—Little flowers, Mirror of perfection.

Spinoza, Benedict De.—Ethic, and de intellectus emendatione.

Thomas A. Kempis.—Imitation of Christ.

For Young People.

Bulfinch, Thomas.—Age of fable.

Edgar, J. G.—Heroes of England.

Yonge, Charlotte M.—Little duke, or Richard the fearless.

PUBLIC PROVISION FOR CONSUMPTIVES.

Sixteen state sanatoria, twenty-eight hospitals, and twenty-one municipal hospitals for tuberculosis have been erected and provided for since January 1, 1909, says a bulletin of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, issued today.

Within the last two years the number of state institutions for tuberculosis has doubled, and the number of county and municipal institutions has increased from about 30 to 80. The expenditures of public money for treatment of tuberculosis also has more than doubled. Not less than $2,000,000 of state money was appropriated for tuberculosis institutions in 1909, when 43 legislatures met, and over $600,000 when only eleven legislatures were insession. The hospitals and sanatoria in the last two years will aggregate fully $2,500,000 bringing the total of local appropriations for tuberculosis hospitals up to over $6,000,000 in the past two years.

In spite, however, of this good showing, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis states that not one-tenth of the public provisions for tuberculosis that is neded has been made. More than 250,000 tuberculosis patients are constantly without proper institutional treatment.

She— Then you know my husband?

He—Know him! Why, I loaned him $5 once.—Yonkers Statesman.

FREEHOLDERS BUY SITE

White Plague Camp to be Located at the Fullerton Farm.

WAS PURCHASED FOR $15,000.00

Architect Engaged and Work Will Be Begun in the Spring—Tract Covers Sixty-Five Acres.

The Union County Board of Freeholders at a special meeting held at the Coudthouse, Elizabeth, Friday, purchased the Henry S. Fullerton farm near Scotch Plains for $15,000, upon which it is proposed to establish a county tuberculosis camp. The farm adjoins the Duyckinck farm, the one originally suggested as the desirable location, the latter tract being offered for $20,000.

The above action was not taken until considerable opposition was offered by many who attended a hearing given by the board. These arguments against the desirability of the purchased site, were ably answered by Dr. W. H. Murray, of this city, as well as William S. Tyler.

Following the hearing, Freeholder J. Hervey Doane, chairman of the special committee, presented his report recommending the purchase of the Fullerton farm and it was adopted and the tract subsequently purchased. Jesse Ooakley, the Elizabeth architect has been engaged to draft plans for suitable buildings, which must first be subject to the approval of the State Board of Health. He will also consult Dr. Carrington, of New York, a specialist in tuberculosis work, and will be guided largely by his views in making his plans.

The Fullerton farm comprises sixty-five acres being considerably smaller than the Duyckinck farm, but the up-to-date improvements more than make up for the size. There is on the tract a modern house of twelve rooms, finished in hardwood. There are also on the farm a lake, ice-houses, stables a windmill, a gas engine for pumping water and is up-to-date in every detail. Its distance from the trolley or railroad is about the same as from the Duyckinck farm.

The Duyckinck farm was owned by Mrs. Dickson, sister of City Clerk J. T. MacMurry and while the announced price was $20,000, it is understood that it could have been purchased for $15,000.

Freeholder Doane in making his report explained what had been done by the committee, telling of its investigation and the assistance and advice from tuberculosis societies, as well as physicians. It will not be possible to do anything in the way of building until spring. In the meantime preparations will be made for the reception of tuberculosis patients.

Touching Memories.

There were introductions all around. The young man stared in a puzzled way at the club guest. "You look like a man I've seen somewhere, Mr. Blinker," he said; "your face seems familiar. I fancy you have a double. And a funny thing about it is that I formed a strong prejudice against the man who looks like you —although, I'm quite sure, we never met."

The little guest softly laughed. "I'm the man," he answered, "and I know why you formed the prejudice. I passed the contribution plate for two years in the church you attend."—Everybody's Magazine.

Not Buying Wholesale.

A man went to the store to select some goods for a dress as a present to his wife. He caused the fat lady behind the counter no little trouble, but she finally persuaded him to decide upon a certain piece of goods.

"Now, I don't exactly know how much I want," said the man.

"Well," interposed the fat saleswoman, suavely, "let's see. Now, I should need about——"

"Madam," brusquely rejoined the husband, "I don't want this for an awning; I want it for a dress."—Harper's Magazine.

Japs Not so Many.

Mother—The Japanese are a wonderful people, Willie; the dentists can pull out their teeth with their fingers.

Willie—That's nothing. I've seen grandma pull out hers with her fingers lots of times.

No Time for It.

Singleton—Do you believe in the old adage about marrying in haste and repenting at leisure?

Wedderly—No, I don't. A man marries he has no leisure.—Smart Set.

A Little Jaunt.

"Got the children out for a walk, I see."

"Yes, once a week I take them around to a cold storage warehouse to watch our Christmas turkey fattening."

In Safe Company.

Nephew—Aren't you afraid of shooting the dog when you go hunting, uncle?

Uncle—No, he's in no danger so long as he keeps close to the rabbits.

NETHERWOOD PASTOR WED

Rev. Royal Arthur Stout Marries Miss Ellen Peterson, of Vineland.

TO TOUR THROUGH THE SOUTH.

Reception to Be Held on Completion of Newly Built Parsonage—Home for Christmas.

Before a large number of members of the church of which he is pastor and many invited friends and guests, Rev. Royal Arthur Stout, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, married Thursday Miss Ellen Surran Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Peterson, of Vineland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. P. T. Pockman, D. D., of New Brunswick, in the Netherwood Reformed church, at 7:30 o'clock.

The bridesmaids were two cousins of the bride, the Misses Ida and Bertha Davis, of Vineland. The best man was George Walter Stout, a brother of the groom. The matron of honor was Mrs. A. A. Cozzens, of New Brunswick, a sister of Mr. Stout. The ushers were A. A. Cozzens, of New Brunswick, and Rev. Leonard Appelboorn, of Kalamazoo, Mich.; Donald Gardiner, of Rutgers College, presided at the organ, playing Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal couple approached the altar and the wedding march from Lohengrin which was beautifully sung by Mrs. Cozzens.

There was no reception after the ceremony this function being deferred until the completion of the new parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Stout departed for a trip through the southland and will return in time for the Christmas festivities.

The bride was attired in white lace over Brussels net empire with train, and carried a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley and bride roses. The matron of honor wore a blue silk princess gown and carried a bouquet of huge pink chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids wore empire gowns of pink silk with chiffon sashes and tulle vests and carried white chrysanthemums.

The groom presented the ushers with stick pins and to the bride a pearl necklace. The bride's gift to the matron of honor was a silver mesh bag while to her bridesmaids she presented gold crescent pins with pearl settings. A handsome gift to the couple came from the bride's father. It was the skin of a deer shot by him this fall and especially prepared for the occasion. The couple received numerous other beautiful and useful gifts from members of the congregation and relatives which will be shown at the reception after the completion of the parsonage.

Rev. Mr. Stout was ordained and installed pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church on Friday, May 27, last after his graduation from Rutgers Theological Seminary, the installation being conducted by the Newark classis and Rev. Dr. Pockman delivering the sermon.

Under Mr. Stout's careful guidance the new church has prospered and grown in membership and the indications are that prosperity will continue to follow the efforts of its young minister.

Preceding the wedding the bridal party were entertained at dinner at The Plainfield, by Mrs. Berrien.

TRANSFERS OF LOCAL REALTY RECORDED WITH CO. REGISTRTR

These transfers of these local properties have been recorded in the office of the County Registrar:

George W. Cole et ux. to Enoch Berry, southerly side Leland avenue, corner East Second street, Plainfield, $1; Augustus L. Hayes to Daniel J. Devoe, lots 29, 30, "Map of Ira L. La Rue," Plainfield, $1; Emanuel Kapelouzos et ux. to Perpetual Realty Co., lots 1-16, same map, Plainfield, $1; Alberne 'H. Burdick et ux. to Harry O. Bogert, southerly side Bradford avenue, 120 feet northeasterly of De Kalb avenue, Plainfield, $100.

Juliet C. B. Halard et ux. to Thomas Apgar, lots 17-18, block H, map of Rockview Heights, Plainfield, $1; Thomas Apgar to Juliet C. B. Hallard, same as above, $1; Marion L. Y. Furman et al. to Ida Levine, southwesterly side Elm place, corner Lacy's land, Plainfield, $1; William Lacy et ux. to Ida Levine, same as above, $1; Security Realty and Construction Company to Louis Rosenthal, northeasterly side John street, 100 feet southeasterly of West Fourth street, Plainfield, $875; Euphemia E. Perrine et al. to John H. Cottle, lot 24-205, map of Westfield Golf Park, Fanwood, $1; Enoch Berry et ux. to Leonie Scruton, northeasterly side Leland avenue, 197 feet of George street, Plainfield, $1.

A Stable 'Speriment.

Charged with cruelty to animals in having fed his horses with excelsior, Walter Ford, of Connellsville, Pa., a negro, is in jail today in default of bail. One of Ford's horses died and another is sick.

"Ah jus' tried to 'speriment," he told the judge.

MISSIONARY OF ASSAM DESCRIBES THE GAROS

The usual mid-week service of the First Baptist church was varied last Wednesday by an address from Mrs. Walter C. Mason, a missionary from Assam, who gave a thrilling story of pioneer work among the Garoe, one of the Sabage Hill tribes of Assam. She said that thirty-eight years ago the Garos were a tribe of naked savages, pronounced by the English government incorrigible and the terror of neighboring tribes. The beginning of the change for the better came with the work of two boys, out of twelve, who were educated at the hands of the English government. They returned to their native tribe fired with the desire to christianize them and after some years of perseverance and toil succeeded in winning forty of them to Christ.

At the same time, Messrs Philips and Mason, two Americans, who were forbidden by the government to enter the Garo borders because of its danger, prepared the way for future work by reducing the Garo language to writing, a burculean task. When they were finally allowed to enter the hills, the Garo warriors, who received them, planted their spears in the earth and gave them a hearty hand shake. From that time the work has progressed rapidly, the Christians in the tribe numbering 5,000, who have the Bible in their own language, books churches and schools.

The Mission station is at Lura, and Mrs. Walter Mason, the daughter-in-law of the pioneer missionary, described among the building one for the Bible, publications, built as a memorial to her mother, by her father, Dr. Stephen Smith, of New York.

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS LEAGUE ANNIVERSARY

The first anniversary tea and pound party, under the auspices of the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, and the discharge of the membership committee, was held at the Nurses' Home, adjoining Muhlenberg Hospital, Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. The affair was largely attended, everyone present bringing a pound or something of use for the tuberculosis work. Many who could not attend sent donations.

Mrs. William H. Murray, chairman of the membership committee, poured and was assisted by Mrs. William C. Kinney, Mrs. Chapman Fisk, Mrs. Daniel Ginna and Mrs. William S. Tyler. All of the members of the committee assisted in serving tea.

Miss Margaret Merrill sold Red Cross stamps and several thousand of them were disposed of during the afternoon. During the hours of the tea, the visitors inspected the tuberculosis shack, which are seven children and one adult. There was especial interest in the children who were found playing out-of-doors in the snow and all gave unmistakable evidence of decided improvement in health. During the past year twenty patients have stayed at the camp and not one failed to respond to the treatment. Eleven have been discharged and returned to work.

AN INQUISITIVE GIRL PREFERRED THE SEALS.

"Mamma, what's a seal?" asked eight-year-old Mary, looking up from the paper, whose black headlines she was laboriously deciphering.

"A seal is a little animal that lives in the ocean. We use its fur for coats and wraps," was the enlightening answer of the parent.

Mary puckered her brow for some minutes and again interrogated, "Mamma, will seals stop plague?" referring perhaps to some of the Biblical narratives she had heard told in Sunday-schol.

"Stop plagues! Why, child what are you talking about?" cried the mother in amazement.

"Why, here it says, 'Red Cross Seals Stops White Plague,'" triumphantly holding up the paper.

The mamma explained to her little daughter that the Red Cross Seal is a tiny stamp-like sticker which is placed on the back of letters and packages coming from Santa Claus and others. Every seal costs a penny, and every penny goes to fight and cure consumption, which is the real name of the white plague, and which is an awful sickness. Mamma told her of a little girl in their own neighborhood who had consumption, but who was given a chance to get well because the people had bough Red Cross Seals.

Mary listened attentively, and finally touched by the closeness of the appeal, said, "Mamma, I think I'd rather have some of those seals than a new dolly."

Real Generosity.

Old Gent—Have you a vanishing ink that disappears quickly.

Clerk—Yes, sir. Going to make sure of no breach of promise suit?

Old Gent—Oh, no, going to give my daughter a check for $100,000 as a wedding present.—Boston Transcript.

TO PROVIDE ANTI-TOXIN

The Board of Health to Give it to Those Who are Unable to Pay.

INSPECTIONS DURING MONTH.

14 Cases of Scarlet Fever; 7 of Diphtheria and 18 of Measles Were Reported in November.

The Board of Health at its December meeting, Wednesday afternoon, decided that, inasmuch as there are from time to time cases of diphtheria in families unable to pay for anti-toxin, and the use of this restricts the spread of the disease and is necessary for the public good, to purchase a quantity of anti-toxin and keep it on hand for such indigent cases. The local physicians will be notified as to how and under what circumstances the anti-toxin may be procured.

It was reported yesterday that the general sanitary condition of the city is good. The number of communicable diseases numbered fifty-eight, divided as follows:

Scarlet fever, 14; diphtheria, 7; tuberculosis, 13; measles, 18; chicken-pox, 1; typhoid fever, 5. The following cases of scarlet fever are in seven houses: there being five in one house, three in another and two in another. On December 1 there were eight houses under quarantine, four on account of scarlet fever and four on account of diphtheria. There was also one case of scarlet fever in the hospital.

During the month seventy-two inspections were made of dairies and bottling places. Thirty samples of milk were collected and analyzed with unusually good results; six of the samples contained less than 10,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter and none contained more than 497,500. Three samples of water, one from the public supply and two from wells, were collected and sent to the State laboratory for analysis. The former was of its usual good quality, but the water from the wells was found to be polluted, and owners were accordingly notified to discontinue the use of the water and provide a pure supply for their tenants.

The following inspections were made during the month:

In connection with plumbing and sewer connections, 90; milk supply, 194; miscellaneous, 96; tenements, stables, restaurants, bakeries, back yards, barber shops, etc., 845, making a total of 1,129.

The plumbing bonds of two new plumbers, Edward O. Driver, of North Plainfield, and O. M. Webber, of Dunellen, were accepted; also two renewals, George F. Giles and Edward Dacy. Frank Sikova was granted a permit to collect garbage on condition that his apparatus is covered. These returns were made during the month: 47 Marriages, 21; births, 39; still-births, 2; deaths, 29.

A Homemade Present.

A row of hand embroidered scallops to trim a corset cover is not an unacceptable gift for a friend. Just enough to apply to neck and armholes (but enough without a doubt) is a reasonable amount to make. Get handkerchief linen and stamp upon it tiny scallops with eyelet in each or in every alternate scallop, if simplicity is the object to strive for. This bit of hand work, perfectly padded, buttonholed, eyeleted and then cut out, pressed and mounted upon colored tissue paper, will not be spurned by the friend in need of the woman who never embroidered. It is entirely applicable to the neat corset cover and easily done at that.

Automobile Lunches.

A man who detests what he calls picnic food, otherwise the cold food usually eaten at lunch time when motoring, has hit upon a plan by which it is possible to have hot lunches when stranded far from home.

Glass jars are filled with hot soup, coffee, chocolate or any desired beverage, another contains hot chicken terrapin, lobster newburg, creamed oysters or any dish that can be prepared ahead of a meal.

The jars are then put in by the engine of the motor, and when wanted are found to be hot and delicious as when packed.

Took Even Their Carefare.

Guest—Was your bazar the other evening much of a success?

Hostess—Well, I should say so; every man present had to walk home.

Sister's Beau.

When sister's beau comes Sunday night
We always turn on all the lights,
And pa and ma and Sis and me
We entertain the company.
He sits across the room from Sis
Like this.

Our bedtime's 9 o'clock, you know,
(I just pretend, but do not go.)
The lights they seem too strong for him
And so they turn 'em awful dim
And he sits on the couch with Sis
Likethis.

—D. L. Horton, in Woman's Home Companion.

REVOLTS AMONG NATIONS

Germany, England and The United States Affected by Crises.

SAYS MISS J. E. NICHOLS.

In Lecture Before Large Audience At Hartridge Auditorium—President's Dilemma.

Miss Janet E. Nichols, of Washington, D. C. gave the second talk in her series of nine on current history Thursday afternoon in the Hartridge auditorium, before a large and appreciative audience. She took as the topic the reasons for the revolt, unrest and changes along progressive lines in the three great Saxon countries, the United States, Great Britian and Germany. In each of these three great and progressive countries there is revolt of the common people against special privilege in one form or another.

Dwelling first on conditions in Germany Miss Nichols said that the Reichstag's hysterical outburst on its reassembly in Berlin last week and the revolt of the press and the entire German nation against the Kaiser's Konisberg speech of August 26, in which he claimed for himself Divine right to rule, gave rise to two interesting points. First that any modern day ruler could be found to describe himself as the Kaiser had done in the following words: "Considering myself as the instrument of the Master regardless of passing views and opinions I go on my way." And, second, in view of all that the Kaiser has done and is doing to promote the welfare of his empire, that the German people should have been so incensed at his assumption of Divine right. Eight years ago such words would have passed unnoticed thereby proving the immense step towards democracy made by present day Germans.

"Turning to the revolt in England and the common People pitted against special privileges in the form of social position as unduly exercised by the House of Lords. The parliamentary elections now in progress in England hinge on the question of restricting the power of the House of Lords to veto liberal measures and money appropriations. Should the Liberals be returned to power Mr. Asquith, the prime minister, proposes to curb this power by passing into law any liberal measure which after three times obtaining the endorsing vote of the House of Commons is for the third time rejected by the House of Lords.

"One of the most dangerous situations which has ever confronted the English people is the question of Irish home rule. Ireland split into the two factions of Protestant North of Ireland and Catholic Southern Ireland, is at war with herself on the question. Should dollars be the founding of a huge cathedral to which he has given the name mentioned above, and it is alleged that his brother who is the real rector of a real church in Basking Ridge, is highly indignant at his relative for entering into a scheme which on its face appears fraudulent.

The project for the new cathedral, Mr. Meisel is alleged to have said, to erect the office which will be non-sectarian with seats all free and to be built at Washington. There in a huge volume will be inscribed the names of "angles" who have contributed money in memory of deceased relatives. Mr. Meisel proposed to raise $1,800,000 in this way, but it is doubtful now whether the scheme will succeed owing to the publicity given to it.

WHITES DEFEAT REDS IN MEMBERSHIP CONTEST.

Winning members for the Probasco Bible class has been the most strenuous work done by the old members for some time and resulted in a victory for the "White" brigade, who defeated the "Reds" handily. As a result the Reds will entertain their opponents at dinner some time in January at which the guests will be joined by the new members.

The Bible class held its monthly meeting Thursday in the Y. M. C. A. parlors with thirty-six members present. After the business routine had been disposed of the young men enjoyed games, music and a general good time, including a roaring fire in the big old fashioned fire place. Dr. Norman H. Probasco is the teacher of the class.

Oh, You, Joseph.

The current issue of the Billboard, the theatrical weekly, has the following to say in its correspondence notes of a well known Plainfielder: "Joseph Lane, advance man for 'Silver Treads,' was in town today arranging for the appearance of the production at the Lyric next week. Joe is looking fat and sassy and had the usual cheerful smile for his old friends."

Mabella—Luther says Dickis Van Zant is what you might call a financial pessimist.

Bettina—Why, what is a financial pessimist?

Mabella—A man who is afraid to look pleasant for fear his friends will touch him for a loan.—Harper's Magazine.

just ended, Ballinger is right in his attitude, but his policy is wrong, and therefore decisions of the Alaskan coal claims are to be taken from the Secretary of the Interior and handed over directly to Congress. This finding being popularly known as white-washing Ballinger."

At the close of the talk Miss Richards was most warmly applauded.

VISIONS OF GRAND CANYON AT LECTURE

The beauty and wonders of the Grand Canyon of Colorado were portrayed through words and pictures by Nat M. Brigham at the Washington School auditorium, Thursday, before a large audience. The lecture was the first of a series under the auspices of the Board of Education, and proved a great success. Mr. Brigham displayed 150 views, a majority of them being among the finest yet seen here. They gave a faithful representation of the indescribable beauty and wonderful formations to be found in this world-famous centre of America.

Mr. Brigham is a delightful speaker and his descriptive powers are such that he holds the close attention of his audiences. His description of the Grand Canyon itself, giving figures as to its depth, length, as well as that of the main trail leading through it, gave all a clearer idea of this wonderful place never to be forgotten.

There were many present who have visited the Grand Canyon and there was double pleasure for them in a review of the whole scene so familiar to them. It is the intention of the board to give a series of such entertainments during the winter and last night's attendance should prove encouraging. A noticeable fact in connection with the lecture, was that the presentation of a picture of Roosevelt, failed to bring forth applause from even a single person. The audience sat perfectly silent while the picture of the former President was on the screen.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Brigham gave a short illustrated lecture on the "Indians," before the children of the Washington School, and it proved enjoyable to everyone present.

"GOD'S CATHEDRAL" PLAN MAY BE FRAUDULENT

What the "contributors" to "God's Cathedral" may think of "Bishop" Theodore Homer Geisel, of Basking Ridge, may develope later, but it is inferred that there will be a wild scramble for the office seat to a man by that name as soon as the scheme by which the money has been secured is given the publicity it deserves. The self-styled bishop, it would seem, has been collecting not only paltry dollars for the founding of a huge cathedral to which he has given the name mentioned above, and it is alleged that his brother who is the real rector of a real church in Basking Ridge, is highly indignant at his relative for entering into a scheme which on its face appears fraudulent.

The project for the new cathedral, Mr. Meisel is alleged to have said, to erect the office which will be non-sectarian with seats all free and to be built at Washington. There in a huge volume will be inscribed the names of "angles" who have contributed money in memory of deceased relatives. Mr. Geisel proposed to raise $1,800,000 in this way, but it is doubtful now whether the scheme will succeed owing to the publicity given to it.

WHITES DEFEAT REDS IN MEMBERSHIP CONTEST.

Winning members for the Probasco Bible class has been the most strenuous work done by the old members for some time and resulted in a victory for the "White" brigade, who defeated the "Reds" handily. As a result the Reds will entertain their opponents at dinner some time in January at which the guests will be joined by the new members.

The Bible class held its monthly meeting Thursday in the Y. M. C. A. parlors with thirty-six members present. After the business routine had been disposed of the young men enjoyed games, music and a general good time, including a roaring fire in the big old fashioned fire place. Dr. Norman H. Probasco is the teacher of the class.

Oh, You, Joseph.

The current issue of the Billboard, the theatrical weekly, has the following to say in its correspondence notes of a well known Plainfielder: "Joseph Lane, advance man for 'Silver Treads,' was in town today arranging for the appearance of the production at the Lyric next week. Joe is looking fat and sassy and had the usual cheerful smile for his old friends."

Mabella—Luther says Dickis Van Zant is what you might call a financial pessimist.

Bettina—Why, what is a financial pessimist?

Mabella—A man who is afraid to look pleasant for fear his friends will touch him for a loan.—Harper's Magazine.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 18, 1910.

Topic—If we really love Jesus.—John xiv, 15-31. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

In the Christian life, how much depends upon our really loving Christ? We may think we love Him or profess that we love Him when we really do not. If so love for Christ is not genuine and we cannot claim the promise of the New Testament based upon the real, genuine love of Christ.

There may be some professing Christians who doubt whether we can tell if we really love Christ. But such a doubt is absurd. We have no trouble in deciding whom we love among our earthly friends. We delight to be in their company, to tell them the secrets of our life, to receive confidences from them and to keep them, to do anything we can to make their life better and happier. This may seem more like friendship than love, and perhaps it is when between members of the same sex, but otherwise it is love.

But love applied to other things, such as king or country, is determined practically upon another basis, and that is our willingness to obey them. If a man really loves his country and it is in danger he will obey the call of sovereign and be willing, if necessary, to sacrifice his life for its protection or preservation. Christ thus makes obedience the test of our love to Him. "If ye love Me." He says, "keep my commandments." We are to manifest our love by our obedience to Him, and the reverse is true, "He that hath My commandments and keepeth them, he it is that loveth Me." It is not only true that if we love Christ we will keep His commandments, and, on the other hand, if we keep His commandments it is proof that we do love Him and are His friends and disciples. "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you."

The relation of Christ to man is most unique. It differs from any other relationship that exists in life, whether it be our love for nature or our friends or our relation to other forms of creation. He is our Saviour and thus demands our love. He is our supreme King, our King of kings, and therefore has a right to implicit obedience. We must love Him above father, mother, sister or brother or country, and above them we should love Christ or we are not worthy of Him. If country calls to that which is contrary to the laws of God "we ought to obey God rather than man." He who would not leave father or mother for His sake does not know what real love for Christ is. As He is supreme in our lives, so we must render a supreme loving obedience to Him.

Loving Christ and obeying Him results in blessings to us. We abide in His love. God's love is extended toward us. The blessing of the presence of the Holy Spirit in our hearts is another derived benefit from real love to Christ and the keeping of His commandments. Love inspires love as iron sharpeneth iron. "We love Him because He first loved us." He not only loved us but gave Himself for us. Let us therefore love Him and prove it by the test of obedience.

BIBLE READINGS.

Deut. vi, 4-7; x, 12, 13; Matt. xxii, 17-22; Mark xii, 28-33; Luke x, 25-28; John xv, 8-14; Acts v, 25-29, 41; Rom. viii, 28; 1 Phil. i, 29; Heb. xii, 1-3; 1 John iv, 19-21.

Two Australian Projects.

The Victoria (Australia) Christian Endeavor union has just established a new department. Many able papers on Christian Endeavor subjects are read at the various meetings. The idea of the exchange is to get copies of such papers and supply them to such societies as may request help of this kind. In this way addresses would be given again and again. This same union is getting up "a complete list of work for each committee." The societies are asked to send in lists of work done by the various committees. From this information a list of work for each committee will be compiled. When any committee wishes to know what similar committees have done an application for the list of work will bring the information.

An Anti-slang Brigade.

Last November seven Intermediate Christian Endeavorers of the Lodi (Cal.) Congregational church organized an anti-slang brigade. Today the membership is more than forty, and it is growing fast. Their motto is, "Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth but that which is good to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace to the hearers." There are no pledges or fines. The brigade is interdenominational, and its members are largely drawn from the high schools. Bimonthly meetings are held, and members tell of progress in getting rid of their slang. The brigade has an emblematic pin, a shield with the letters "A. S. B." A president, a vice president and a secretary are the only officials.

AN ENDEAVOR DAY.

At light of day
A little prayer
To chase away
A word of care;
At noonday's hour
A calm retreat
To break the power
Of some defeat.
Thus with ch. eve
Is falling ever
The benediction
Of Endeavor.
—John R. Clements.

POPULATION IS 2,537,167

State's Big Increase Since Last Census When Total Was 1,883,669.

UNION COUNTY'S IS 140,197.

In Somerset County 58,820; In Middlesex County 114,426—Somerset's Gain Is a Trifle Over 5,000 In Ten Years.

Union county has a population of 140,197, according to announcement made by the census bureau at Washington, D. C., Thursday. This is a gain of 41,044 since the twelfth census taken ten years ago. Then the total number of inhabitants was 99,153. In 1890, there were but 72,467 inhabitants.

The entire population of the State, according to the thirteenth census, given out yesterday, is 2,537,167, as against 1,883,669 a decade ago. This is a gain of 653,498 since 1900. The census taken in 1890 showed that New Jersey had 1,444,933 inhabitants.

Middlesex county's population, according to the new census, is 114,426. The twelfth census gave it 79,762 and the eleventh census showed that there were 61,754 people in the county.

Somerset county has 38,820 inhabitants, having gained 5,872 in population in ten long years. Then its population aggregated 32,948. The eleventh census gave it 28,311.

LOYAL DAUGHTERS SUCCESSFUL TEA AND SALE

Under the auspices of the Loyal Daughters Circle, of the King's Daughters, a successful tea and sale was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Stuart H. Patterson, 1006 Park avenue. Despite the fact that many other affairs were being held, the tea and sale was well patronized and about $75 was realized. Mrs. J. A. Peterkin is the president of this circle and all the members assisted.

Those in the tea room were Mrs. J. A. Hassell and Mrs. H. B. Smith, while those who assisted were Mrs. Walter Cahoone and Miss Helen Patterson. Those in charge of the sutlery table were Mrs. G. H. Patterson, Mrs. Burton Hall, Mrs. J. P. Gibson, Mrs. W. M. Alling and Mrs. A. W. Ransome. At the candy table were Mrs. E. J. Allen and Mrs. F. W. Carlisle. Mrs. L. W. Alling was in charge of the apron table. Another table devoted to Porto Rican drawn work was in charge of Miss Louise Patterson and Miss Helen Patterson. Subscriptions for a magazine were received by Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. E. E. Treasurer and Mrs. A. W. Coriell presided at the cake table.

PASTOR'S AID SOCIETY HANDKERCHIEF SALE

One of the most beautiful displays of Japanese embroidery, cloisonne and satsuma seen in this city in many a day was that exhibited at the sale of cake, handkerchiefs, etc., held in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon by the Pastor's Aid Society. Beautiful examples of the flimsiest kinds of silk doilies, exquisitely embroidered in flower designs; silk kimonas, and other objects of art all of which were sent from Japan especially for this sale by a missionary of this church. The booth was in charge of Miss M. B. Abbott and was largely patronized.

The occasion was the annual Christmas sale and the total receipts were gratifying to the committees. The cake table committee reported the sale of every bit of their wares and the results at the handkerchief table were almost as good. Fifty dollars was realized. Those in *charge were: Cake, Mrs. W. W. Du*nn, assisted by Mrs. M. A. Pope, Mrs. A. E. Hoagland, Mrs. Charles Hummer, Mrs. George Ballantine, Mrs. David Boice, Mrs. Anna Diman and Mrs. A. V. Searing. Jr. Mrs. L. A. Hummer, chairman of the handkerchief table, was assisted by Mrs. C. McKillop, Miss Dorothy Bull, Mrs. J. L. Brower, Miss A. L. Cadmus and Mrs. Fred Lounsbury.

Tea was poured by Mrs. D. K. Young, assisted by Mrs. Percy Dayton, Mrs. H. A. Schafuss, Mrs. John Johnston and Mrs. John Martin.

Kidney Beans in Brown Sauce.

Set the beans to soak over night. In the morning rinse and cook till a little tender. Put on in hot water. Make a thickening sauce with the water from the beans, a tablespoonful of butter and one of flour to a cup of liquid. Brown the flour, then add the butter, creaming the two. Add to the water and thicken. Pour in the beans. Serve with croutons of toast bread in small squares as a luncheon dish, or as a vegetable with meat.

DR. F. C. ARD GIVES EYE TALK AT Y. W. C. A.

The members of the Young Women's Christian Association enjoyed a most interesting and instructive talk on the eyes at the association building Friday night. It was given by Dr. Frank C. Ard, Plainfield's well known specialist, and was illustrated by valuable stereopticon views prepared for the occasion.

Dr. Ard's address embraced explanations of the common diseases and troubles of the eyes the best method of prevention and their treatment. He also showed the proper way of abstracting foreign particles from the optics. A matter that frequently leads to serious complications if undertaken by inexperienced hands. In speaking of the care of the sight he emphasized the importance of proper light for reading or sewing and warned his hearers against strain at any time.

*Taking up the most prevalent dis*eases of the eye, Dr. Ard detailed the cases and symptoms of each, with similar complaints, and how to detect them. He also gave a thorough explanation of cataracts, a common cause of blindness, picturing their origin in the hardening of the lens, their early development and the forms of removal. Throughout his address, Dr. Ard avoided a surplus of technical terms, with the result that he was easily followed in all his intricate details. The talk was one of the best ever given under the association auspices.

Following the lecture the members of the evening dressmaking classes remained for a social hour, during which they held a "speed" contest. In this clothes-pins were used as models for making dresses in the least possible time, producing a lot of wholesome fun.

HOSPITAL SUNDAY DATE IS CHANGED

The question of changing "Hospital Sunday in the Churches," from the last Sunday in December to a Sunday in February, was discussed at a meeting of the Plainfield Ministers' Association, at the home of Rev. C. L. Goodrich, on West Seventh street, Thursday afternoon. The matter was brought before the ministers by George P. Mellick, chairman of the finance committee of the hospital board. He explained that during December the people are busily engaged in preparations for the holidays and are not so ready and willing to contribute to the needs of the hospital, as at other times in the year.

It was further explained by Mr. Mellick that about $6,000 more than is received is needed each year for the work of the hospital and it is believed that if a Sunday in some other month is designated as the time for receiving the offering, a larger sum will be realized. The matter was thoroughly discussed and it was decided by the ministers to recommend to their churches that a Sunday in February be designated for the purpose. At all events the annual offering will not be received on the last Sunday in December. There were several ministers absent yesterday and they will be acquainted with the action of the association.

After the business session there was a social hour at which light refreshments were served. The association will hold its next meeting on Thursday, February 9, at the home of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie. The program will be announced later.

THE FIGURED CREPE SCARF.

It can be combined with black satin and chiffon to form a stunning blouse, the scarf cut in bolero effect, with the upper part of the sleeves and the lower part of the bodice of the satin, and the black chiffon draped all over it.

It can be pleated as the facing of a picture hat, the Persian printing being especially effective. A border of galloon or gimp defines the edge of the pleating.

Two scarfs together can form a very striking tunic, extending in a slight bib effect above the waist line at the sides they are stitched together and bordered with plain-colored ribbon in the predominating shade.

It can be trimmed with deep fringe and the sides caught by a few stitches which will convert them into sleeves, the whole appearing as a remarkably pretty light evening wrap.

It can be used as an applied hem on a lighter chiffon dress, slip-stitched or cat-stitched to the fabric or with its outermost edge cut off and quilled.

It will make the very prettiest of girdles, tying with an obi bow or with a stiff rosette combined with metallic lace edging.

It will make pretty shirred sleeves on an evening dress, since nothing is supposed to be worn nowadays, and color can be made to harmonize well enough without being of the same fabric.

Finally, its separate figures cut out and whipped with metal thread, will make lovely appliques for a velvet blouse, especially if the colors be bright and somehow barbaric.

WARREN CHAPEL HOLDS SUCCESSFUL SUPPER

The fair and supper held at Warren chapel, Thursday afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the Missionary and Aid Society, was a great success. The chapel was thronged throughout the afternoon and evening, and 200 suppers were served during the appointed hours. The chapel was elaborately decorated for the occasion and the various tables and booths also presented an attractive appearance, representing different holidays.

Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, president of the society, acted as cashier, while Mrs. J. W. Davett, Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, Mrs. Ed. Hoagland and Mrs. Gibson Smith comprised a special committee having general direction of the affair. In the evening there was a fine program of music by Martin A. Korff's orchestra. The decorations were the work of Theodore J. Martin. The reception committee comprised Mrs. Charles Holstein, chairman; Mrs. Summers, Mrs. Schenck, Mrs. VanWert and Miss Gulick. This was the supper committee: Mrs. John Snyder, chairman; Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. VanWert, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Bodine, Mrs. McCrogan, Mrs. Boe, Mrs. Windham, Mrs. Hoffman, Mrs. Fahn, and the waitresses were the Misses Demarest, Hoagland, Newmiller, Stiglitz, Wheeler, Story, Bunker, Smith, Farlee, Higgins and VanDenberg.

The tables and those in charge follow:

Fancy — Decoration Day—Mrs. Benjamin Moore, chairman; Mrs. Harring, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Frazee, Mrs. Chamberlin, Mrs. Fenton, Mrs. Myer, Mrs. Parving, Miss Sargeant. Books and stationery — Lincoln's Birthday—Mrs. Hoagland, chairman; Mrs. George Demarest, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Gildes, Mrs. Story, Mrs. Rankin. Apron—Labor Day—Mrs. Bishop, chairman; Mrs. Kline, Mrs. Hoagland, Mrs. Ely, Mrs. Martin, Miss Valentine. Children's table —New Year's Day—Mrs. William Bacon, chairman; Mrs. Brokaw, assisted by the Misses Green, Gildes, Hoagland, Stewart, Ackerman, Smith, Martin, Bodine, Brokaw, Ruth Martin and Bunker.

Candy table—Washington's Birthday—Mrs. John Schenck, chairman; Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Seader, Mrs. Pope, Mrs. Windham, Miss Swain, Miss Squier, Miss Codington. Cakes and preserves—Thanksgiving Day—Mrs. A. J. Stiglitz, chairman; Mrs. Randall, Mrs. Newmiller, Mrs. Sharp, Mrs. Kline, Mrs. Woodland, Mrs. LaTourette, Miss Tyler. Ice cream—Mrs. Vincent Burner, chairman; Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Whitley, Mrs. VanWickle, Mrs. Gulick. Clothes line and wonder packages—Mrs. R. O. Stewart, chairman; Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Wheeler and Miss Taynor.

LARGER RESOURCES FOR JERSEY'S STATE BANKS.

A statement issued by Commissioner Vivian M. Lewis of the department of banking and insurance, shows that during the past twelve months the resources of State financial institutions have increased by $15,860,545 and the deposits by $11,957,339. The same institutions have now aggregate resources of *$354,604,662 and deposits of $285,-*867,600.

The report includes returns from eighty-four trust companies, nineteen State banks and twenty-five savings banks, the condition of which is shown at the close of business on November 4, 1910. A comparison is made with November 16, 1909, when corresponding reports were received last year.

The trust companies have resources of $222,850,894, an increase of $10,042,343. The savings banks have resources of $113,089,431, an increase of $5,787,464. The resources of the State banks amount to $18,-664,336, an increase of $28,045.

The deposits in trust companies amount to $167,172,741, an increase of $6,198,795. The savings banks have deposits of $103,891,303, an increase of $5,540,863. The deposits in the State banks are $14,763,-555, an increase of $217,680.

In the comparison made with last year there are included four more trust companies, one less savings bank and one less State bank.

ARCANUMITES ELECT AND HEAR ADDRESSES.

Plainfield council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, elected the following officers at its meeting, Thursday: Regent, H. W. Satterfield; past regent, H. N. Holder; vice-regent, H. A. Todd; orator, George M. Chrisman; secretary, L. V. P. Wilson; treasurer, D. W. Littel; collector, Edward T. VanWinkle; warden, Abram Devine; sentry, Charles L. Smith; trustee for three years, Albert I. Littel. The installation ceremonies will be held on January 26.

Brother Wilson, regent of Corinthian Council, Newark, and Brother Benjamin supreme alternative representative, also of Newark, were in attendance after the election and made brief addresses relating to the order.

A Useful Souvenir.

The State Trust Company is distributing as a Christmas souvenir, a useful little celluloid letter opener. Depositors and others may obtain them by calling at the bank.

SUN A MIGHTY MAGICIAN

Declares Rev. W. B. Wallace in Lecture at Park Avenue Baptist Church.

A REAL SUNSHINE MAN.

Brooklyn Divine Dimmed Radiance of Electric Lights—"Look on the Bright Side," He Says.

There was no need to wonder what caused the radiance which dimmed the electric lights inside and out of the Park Avenue Baptist church, Thursday. The cause was inside. Rev. W. B. Wallace, pastor of the Baptist Temple in Brooklyn had just finished his lecture on the "Sunshine Man" and it was the reflected brilliance of Dr. Wallace's talk shining in the faces of his audience which caught up the beams of light and radiated them all about. Nobody could have listened to the lecture and left the building with anything else in his heart than gladness because of having been able to absorb some of the diffused sunshine.

Dr. Wallace began by saying that the sun was a mighty magician making winter hide and bringing joy and gladness in the place of gloom and sadness. His influence on the world is like the influence wielded by some men's lives, all for the good. He said that there were three distinct attributes to the sunshine man—first, charity in not criticising others; second, looking always on the bright side of life, and third, brightening life for others. He contrasted the sunshine man with the fellow who is never happy unless criticising his neighbor; the man who is always dissatisfied with what he has; the fellow who imagines himself happy while separating a Damon from a Pythias or a David from his Jonathan. He declared that the "Critic Brewer" causes more heartaches, headaches and misery than the whiskey distiller or the saloon keeper.

Dr. Wallace suggested the reading of 1 Corinthians, Chapter 13, as a remedy for the ills of the pessimist and all others who are enshrouded in the gloom that wont come off. "The sunshine man," he said, "has a habit of putting himself in the *other man's shoes and always re*members that he might have done worse or shown similar weaknesses than the other fellow did if as well. The sunshine man does not criticise his fellows. He takes the beam out of his own eye before he attempts to take the mote out of his brother's eye, and the sunshine man believes and love accomplish more than kicks. He looks on the bright side of life and keeps silent about his own sorrows. He understands the law of compensation and demonstrates how it is that no one never accomplishes anything. He has the philosophy which forces a smile instead of a frown and he is the man the world loves.

"The sunshine man seeks to gladden the hearts of others. He takes as his motto, "Look up, not down; forward, not backward; out, not in; and lend a helping hand.' Gladstone, Abraham Lincoln and Miss Helen Gould are included in the category of sunshine people."

The lecturer gave several concrete instances in anecdote of the workings of sunshine and repeated poetry of classic authors to further impress the thoughts upon his audience. This is one of the brief couplets:

"If I knew the box where the smiles were kept,
No matter how large the key and strong the bolt,
I would try so hard 'twould open to me,
And over the land and sea broad*cast,*
I'd scatter the smiles to play,
That the faces of children would hold them fast.
For many and many a day.

"If I knew a box that was large enough
To hold all the frowns I meet,
I would go to work and gather them in
From nursery, school and street,
Then, holding and folding I'd pack them in
So they never would get free
And I'd hire a giant to drop the box
To the depths of the deep, deep sea."

Rev. St. John Fitch was introduced as chairman of the evening by *Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, the pas*tor. The lecturer and Mr. Fitch were schoolmates in Canada and during the interval between Dr. Wallace's arrival and the lecture both spent some happy reminiscent moments together. A large audience listened to the lecture, and frequently interrupted the speaker with applause at some telling point.

TO CLEANSE TATTING.

Tatting cannot be properly washed to look as good as new, for it is almost impossible to restore the picots to their natural shape. Soak the pieces in gasoline and while wet dust them with cornstarch. Wrap them in a clean towel and leave them for several hours. Beat the towel lightly, lift out the lace and shake it free of starch. Press the picots into shape and iron lightly on the wrong side.

SOMERVILLE'S BIG FIRE

L. A. Bellis' Garage and Blacksmith Shop Burned.

DAMAGE PLACED AT $25,000.

Mrs. Richard L. Bellis Loses Some of Her Wedding Gifts—Property Only Partly Insured.

Causing the total destruction of almost a half a block of the heart of the business section of Somerville, the most serious fire Somerville has ever known did $25,000 damage Saturday night. The fire originated in the L. A. Bellis Carriage Company's building, spread to the Bellis blacksmith shop, Kline's automobile painting shop, laying them all in ruins and damaging the building of the West End Hose Company. The loss is only partially covered by insurance.

The Bellis Carriage Company had been newly stocked with vehicles, and the paint shop containing four costly limousine automobiles which were being repainted. All these were a total loss. Bellis had his home over the blacksmith shop, and his apartment as well as its contents were reduced to ashes. The fire caused a towering blaze that drew thousands of spectators from miles around the countryside, who thought a conflagration was in progress.

The cause of the fire is unknown. Flames were seen in the carriage building about 11 o'clock. An attempt was made to send in an alarm but the apparatus did not work properly, and it was almost half an hour before the firemen assembled in such numbers as to be of use. Meanwhile the flames had gained headway and spread with much rapidity. Houses across the street were endangered and repeatedly caught fire, but the actual loss to them was small. It was three-quarters of an hour after the firemen got to work when control of the blaze was obtained.

At the time of the alarm of fire Mrs. Bellis was at home alone. She ran out and spread the alarm. At that time it seemed as though the home of Bellis, who is chief of police, would be saved, but the firemen could not gain admittance to the rear of the building, and the flames spread by that route.

Plumbers were at work Saturday in the carriage company's place, thowing out frozen water pipes. It is thought that in doing this the fire may have been started smoldering, which spread through the interior of the building before it was discovered.

As far as can be learned no one was injured.

Mrs. Richard L. Bellis, who is a daughter of Henry Nischwitz, of North Plainfield, lost considerable furniture and other valuables, a part of which were wedding gifts presented to her at the time of her marriage to Mr. Bellis three years ago. Fortunately a large part of Mrs. Bellis' belongings remain here. The loss she suffered approximates $200, partly covered by inrusance.

Aspinwall Sale.

The sale of the antique furnishings belonging to the late William H. Aspinwall, which was finished on Saturday night resulted in realizing a sum up in the thousands of dollars. The total amount will not be known until tomorrow. Purchasers from New York, Philadelphia, and nearby cities including numbers of dealers attended the sale. A set of decorated Lowestoft china in which there were eighty-two pieces more or less chipped and cracked was purchased for Bishop Dewolf, of Connecticut, the price being $200. Other antiques brought correspondingly high prices.

U. S. Population 93,402,151.

The Census Bureau Saturday at Washington announced the total population of the United States to be 93, 402,151. Ten years ago the total was 76,303,387. These figures include Alaska and Hawaii, but not the dependencies. The average guess was around 91 000,000.

Raise Wages and Shorten Hours.

The New York Telephone Company has announced a shortening of hours and increase wage schedule for all its operators in the metropolitan district, which includes Plainfield, and in fact all the suburban points within a radius of fifty miles of New York city. The rearrangement of time schedules will necessitate the employment of 800 additional operators and an increase in the annual operating expenses of the company, amounting to $425,000. The wage increase becomes effective at once, and the readjustment of hours will be made gradually.

Enjoyed a Straw Ride.

Miss Ethel Wardner, of Somerset street, gave a straw ride party for twenty friends, Saturday night. The trip was to New Brunswick and back by way of Bound Brook, where supper was enjoyed. The ride was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

His Ideal of an Angle.

"When we were engaged you said I was an angle, and now you refuse me a new dress."

"Well, my dear, do angles wear dresses?"—Pele Mele.

RUSHMORE BOWLERS DEFEATED POND'S TEAM

In a match series at Campbell's alleys on Saturday afternoon, the Rushmore team captured the odd games from the team of the Pond Tool Works.

The first game proved to be the most interesting of the series, the Pond team winning only by thirteen pins. The defeat seemed to stimulate the Rushmore five, for in the next two games they rolled over the 800 mark and won handily.

John Scott's 222 was high for the series.

The scores:

RUSHMORE'S.
Jack Scott	157	222	153
Dan. Mack	146	178	180
E. Smith	137	124	132
Jim Scott	160	191	127
Jim Montross	178	136	217
	778	851	809
POND'S.
J. Buckley	177	157	127
J. O'Keefe	139	148	143
F. Conners	171	138	132
D. Doyle	126	185	164
T. Boyle	178	150	179
	791	778	745

HERE AND THERE.

An extraordinary occurrence was observed on the 12 o'clock trolley car going east on Sunday. The conductor, while going through the car for fares, asked one of a man who evidently had not traveled over this *end of the line before and who im*mediately responded with the nickle. In a moment or two the conductor leaned over and whispered something and putting his hand in it pocked brought forth a coin which he passed to the passenger. That individual had overpaid and had met an honest conductor. They exchanged smiles.

A new discovery with regard to the phenomena of the sense of sight has been announced by Dr. F. W. Edridge-Green, an eminent English authority in visual research. He has found by an interesting series of experiments and tests that the process of vision is not the simple transmission by the optic nerve to the brain of objects photographed upon the retina. The new discovery in nontechnical language amounts to this: In front of the retina there is a small chamber or sack of clear liquid which is the constant motion of currents or eddies. Dr. Green finds that this liquid itself contains distinct perceptive nerve power which plays an important part in conveying impressions to the brain. In other words, this wonderful fluid contains liquid nerves, so to speak, which transmit to the understanding a considerable part of the impression it receives of color, form, etc.

BRIGHT SAYINGS OF THE LITTLE FOLKS.

The new singing teacher had put on the board two quarter notes followed by two half notes, all in the same position on the staff.

"Now sing, children," she commanded.

The children sang "Do, do," and stopped.

"Why don't you go on?" she inquired.

After a pause Randall raised his hand and said: "Please, we don't know how to sing the notes that aren't stuffed."

A little four-year-old, on being taken to the circus for the first time by her big brother, spying the monkeys, cried: "Oh, Johnny, Johnny, look at the little dogs that look like us."

Jimmy, a boy of seven years, was deep in thought over a word in the first reader. His mother noticed him, and said: "Jimmy what are you thinking about?"

"Oh, mamma!" he said, "I'm thinking how Adam got through the first reader with nobody to help him."

Little Robert, three years of age, went to his grandmother to the chicken park to see her feed the chickens. When the little ones jumped upon the water dish and dipped their bills into the water he cried: "Oh, grandmother, they are putting their feet on the table."

Baby Helen was happily splashing the water in her shining new bathtub, when she looked up at her mother and said: "Why, I is barefooted all over now, isn't I, muvver?"

A teacher, in giving a lecture to the members of her junior hygiene class, had cautioned them against eating anything hard, such as nuts, hard candy, etc. A small boy held up his hand.

"What is it,' Sammie?" she inquired.

"Say, did you ever see any of these here candy jaw-breakers?" he asked.

"Yes-s, I believe so," she hesitated, wonderingly.

"Well, Willie here," indicating another boy in the class, "stood right in front of Gregorio's store yesterday and et five of them right down."

"Ate," corrected the teacher.

"Aw, was it eight? I was thinkin' it was only five."—The Delineator for December.

DUNELLEN BLUE LAW AGAIN EVADED BY RATTI

The Sunday closing fight was continued at Dunellen, Sunday, but it was all one-sided as far as the officials were concerned. Peter Ratti, the fruit dealer who was arrested last week for an alleged violation of the ordinance and fined $10, again kept open for business but was not molested. He was guided in his actions by the advice of his counsel, William G. DeMeza, the latter spending a portion of the morning at the store to await developments. The other dealers in the borough closed up as before.

Ratti is the only one of the men affected by the "blue" law, as it is called, who has determined to do Sunday selling. He has adopted the legal right of closing his place at sundown Friday evening and opening at sundown Saturday. A merchant has this prerogative under the statutes, irrespective of the fact that he has been a member of a firm. The law has failed to question a man's religion, according to a prominent local attorney. The curtains on Ratti's windows were drawn all day Sunday and to all appearances his place was closed. He did a thriving business.

Mayor William A. Sanford was out of town practically all of Sunday but several of the councilmen visited Ratti's place. None of them made any move to take it upon themselves to stop him and it is presumed that they had been legally advised. Ratti says he intends to keep open every Sunday under the same conditions as yesterday.

JOHN ROGERS MAXWELL MEETS SUDDEN DEATH

John Rogers Maxwell, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, for many years president of the Atlas Portland Cement Company, a director in many railroads and other companies, and an enthusiastic and widely known yachtsman, died suddenly Sunday night at his home, 78 Eighth avenue, Brooklyn, of cerebral apoplexy. He had seemed to be entirely well all day, and had gone out in the afternoon. Shortly before dinner he was stricken, and though several doctors were called in he died within an hour.

Mr. Maxwell was a member of the firm of Manning, Maxwell & Moore, selling agents for the Pond Machine Tool Company.

FELL FROM POLE; ESCAPED WITH CUT AND BRUISES.

Daniel Guinee, inspector for the Public Service Electric Light Co., probably bears the cham of life. On Saturday night at 10:40 o'clock while inspecting lights at the corner of Central avenue and Ninth street, he missed his footing and fell twenty feet to the ground striking on his side and head. He received a severe cut over the right eye and contusions about the body, but no bones were broken. He was taken to police headquarters and from there to the office of Dr. Pittis on East Front street where his wound was dressed.

Mr. Guinee, about four years ago, was unfortunate enough to touch an electric light feed wire while trimming trees near the City Park and received several thousand volts of electricity through his body. He was severely burned and after several weeks in the hospital recovered. He has had several nasty falls.

Westfield's Corporation Tax.

The amount of money received by the town of Westfield from corporation taxes this year is larger than ever before. The total amount from the various large corporations operating in the town is $8,245.12. Of this amount the Public Service Corporation pays the most, its share being $4,738.75. The Cranford Gas Light Company pays $582.44 and the Plainfield-Union Water Company $1,153.64. The New York Telephone Company has appealed to the County Board for the Equalization of Taxes concerning its valuation, which the assessors placed at $30,-179.

To Build Bungalows.

William Jeffery has sold a tract of forty-one acres adjoining the Fullerton farm at Scotch Plains to the Commuters' Bungalow Company, of Berkeley Heights. It is the purpose of the company to build a number of small bungalows on the newly acquired property for the convenience of those who may possibly want to be near patients who are to be treated at the new tuberculosis camp.

P. H. S. Girls Win Game.

The Plainfield High School Girls' basketball team completely out played their opponents from the Flemington High School on Saturday afternoon. The Flemington girls barely escaped a shut-out. The final score was 28 to 2. For Plainfield the Misses Phillips and Stiles played a remarkable defensive game, while the rest of the team were alert to every advantage presented by their opponents.

GUARDING THE CZAR'S HEIR

Owing to an Attempt at Abduction, Women Nurses Have Been Abolished and a Sailor Watches Over Him.

London.—Wherever the six-year-old czarevitch goes he is accompanied and guarded by a stalwart Russian blue-jacket. The Vossische Zeitung, a German newspaper, tells an interesting story of how the future little father came to be put in his charge.

Late one evening the czarina entered the boy's bedroom and on looking at the bed was horrified to find that he was missing. Rushing out into the corridor, she raised the alarm and then fainted.

The sentry on duty in the corridor was this particular bluejacket, and he rushed forthwith into the park surrounding the imperial palace, where he soon heard faint sounds of an infant's cries in the bushes. On reaching the spot the sailor found the future emperor of Russia lying on the ground clothed in nothing but his nightshirt.

The Czarevitch With His Guard.

Investigation showed that some one must have climbed from the ground to the bedroom on the first floor and then removed the little czarevitch by means of a rope ladder. This bold stroke was rendered possible through the nurse on duty having gone to supper, and the abduction of the child was carried out during her short absence so quietly that the sentry in the corridor did not hear any suspicious sound.

Whether the plan was to kill the czarevitch by exposure to the cold night air or whether he had been laid in the bushes as a preliminary to being bidden at some more inaccessible place was never discovered. Since that occurrence this sailor has been told to watch over the czarevitch.

WATER HIGHER THAN LAND.

Rivers, Flowing Between Dikes, in Holland Have Washed Away Millions of Acres of Land.

Delft, Holland.—It is curious that the most densely populated parts of Holland are those that are by the North sea, between the deltas of the Rhine, the Maas and the Sheldt—are, in fact, those districts of which the larger portion lies below the level of the North sea, as does much of the land along the north coast. Thus rivers, held between dikes, flow several feet above the surrounding country.

It has been estimated that, despite the natural sand dunes and the artificial dikes, designed to prevent the encroachment of the waters, the sea has engulfed within historic times nearly a million and a half acres of the surface of Holland. Of this loss some million acres have been recovered from sea, river and lake. The illustration shows a river flowing between typical dikes and gives an excellent idea of the way in which the tops of the dikes are used as roads. In the event of an invasion the Dutch would almost certainly open a part of their country. Their success in this regard in the past is one of the heroic pages of history, for by this means strong forces of invading Spaniards and French were turned back and completely routed.

Typical Holland Dike.

She Takes the President's Place.

Washington.—Few people know that one American woman, Mrs. Margaret W. Young, is president of the United States pro tem. many times in a year. She holds a unique position in the government employ which requires her to affix the signature of the president to important papers (and patents) that frequently represent great money value. She is authorized by congress to do this and has done it for three years. She signed "Theodore Roosevelt" to over 90,000 land patents, placing under that name her own, thus, "per Margaret W. Young." She has signed an even larger number with the name "Wm. H. Taft." Her handwriting is distinctly feminine.

NEWSBOY ENDS LONG TRIP.

Henry Blanche Worked His Way For 20,000 Miles Through United States and Canada.

New York.—Wearing more medals than a bandmaster, Henry Blanche, a nineteen-year-old newsboy, has just returned from a 20,000 mile trip covering a large part of the United States and Canada. He started on June 1 without funds for Reno, Nev., to see the Jeffries-Johnson fight. He sold papers and lemonade at the ringside.

While there he conceived the idea of visiting the larger cities and went to San Francisco and the other Pacific coast towns. He then journeyed to Denver. From there he went through Texas to New Orleans. From Louisiana he worked his way to Winnipeg, Man., where he reversed his course to Henry Blanche.

Jacksonville, Fla. He then went to St. Louis and took a zigzag course back to New York.

At every place he obtained a newsboy's badge, and now he has more than fifty. He said that the newsboys every where treated him well.

He traveled only on passenger trains. "I couldn't make the mileage on freights," he said. "In nice weather I traveled on the tops of cars. The fenders of engines were all right. I'd get in one before the engine left the roundhouse. In bad weather the coal or tool box under a diner is all right. You can travel 600 or 700 miles all right if you're little. If the coal is in the way—why, throw out some coal."

Blanche took the trip to win the title of "king of the newsboys," held by "Noodles" Fagan of Pittsburg, who won notoriety by his travels. He now is at the Newsboys' home, at Forty-second street and Second avenue, New York, and will again sell papers.

BUST OF COLUMBUS UNVEILED

Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston Performs Ceremony on Day Dedicated to Knights of Columbus.

Boston.—The largest bust of Columbus ever modeled was unveiled by Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston in the Mechanics' building. The unveiling of this great bust was the crowning feature of a day at the mechanics' exposition, dedicated to the Knights of Columbus.

The bust of the great discoverer was modeled by Hugh Cairns. It is about four times the size of life and is notable as much for the fine character of the work as for the enormous size of the figure.

Bust of Columbus.

Columbus in the bust wears the service cap and coat of a Spanish admiral of the period and the necklace presented him by Queen Isabella. The face is evidently a composite of the best known portraits of Columbus, but the sculptor has stamped on it something of a character that reflects the popular conception of the discoverer of America. The modeling of the bust is consistent with its great size. It is a very successful bit of work, and it will undoubtedly be cast in bronze.

A Clever Woman Campaigner.

Gulfport, Miss.—Miss Mary Jane Brunson, a winsome brunette of twenty summers, is credited with having caused the election of Patrick Harrison to congress from the Sixth congressional district of Mississippi over J. R. Tally by 1,229 votes in the second primary.

The chief assets of Miss Brunson in the Harrison campaign were openwork hosiery and gauzelike shirt waists. When she appeared before an audience in her bewitching and cool summer garb the Tally men had to succumb. Then, too, she had a line of argument against trusts, combines, high tariff and scandals in mighty circles that was hard to get around.

WATCHUNG HUNT HAS LIVELY CHASE IN SNOW

Although the ground was covered with snow this proved no barrier to the riding members of the Watchung Hunt Club, Saturday afternoon, when the weekly chase after the hounds was held as usual. The snow was just deep enough to make going good, and the hounds led the riders a lively chase from the time they were met at the Plainfield Horse Show grounds until the finish at Melrose Manor.

The chase led over the golf course of the Plainfield Country Club, to Oak Tree, through South Plainfield and Metuchen and back to Melrose Manor, the concluding point. There were two or three spills, but none serious. Henry Watkins, the huntsman up on "Telephone," went off at a blind ditch, giving him a severe shaking up. "Telephone" won second place in the high jump at Madison Square Garden, last year, and is an exceptionally good hunter. The other spills were of a trivial nature. J. J. O'Donohue, of New York, was one of the new riders to join the hunt.

Those who finished were Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H., J. J. O'Donohue, Harry Bourne, Fred G. Alpers, Chas. F. Wildey, Jr., Harry C. Finch, Hart S. Farlee and Harry Watkins, huntsman.

KING'S DAUGHTERS' CIRCLE HOLDS SALE AND DRILL

The In His Name Circle of The King's Daughters held a successful sale of kitchen utensils and a broom drill at the Hartridge School auditorium, Saturday afternoon and evening. While the patronage was not as large as hoped for, the affair was well attended and the members of the circle were much encouraged. The sale opened at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and about an hour later those present were entertained with a fantastical broom drill, under the direction of Mrs. Frederic W. Butler, president of the circle. Those who took part in the drill were the following:

The Misses Edith and Marguerite Arnold, Eleanor Browne, Katharine Browne, Gertrude Butler, Katharine Drayton, Pauline Gates, Helen Harrington, Eleanor Hatch, Lella Hedges, Ellen Hovel, Eleanor Irvedell, Arline Lane, Dorothy Leal, Dorothy Smith Ogden, Dorothy Parvin, Monaes Sharrets, Caroline Slauson, Gwendolen Stanton, Helen Strong, Ruth Timpson, Dorothy Tuttle, Marion Weam and Martine Weeks.

All of the members of the circle assisted at the sale, which was continued in the evening, when the broom drill was given again. The affair was concluded with a dance by the young folks. The proceeds will be used in support of the charity work carried on by the King's Daughters.

OPEN QUESTION BOX AT PARK AVE. CHURCH

An innovation has been begun in the Park Avenue Baptist church by Pastor Maguire. It is a "question box" for the use of the congregation and any others who have questions to ask regarding the Bible or religion. Several of these questions were answered by the pastor last evening, showing that the people of the church are becoming interested in the matters which are considered universally important.

Among the questions found in the box Sunday were several relating to politics. Mr. Maguire responded to these, saying that he refuses to answer political queries excepting in a hall, which he advised his questioners to hire. Then for the sum of $100 he will entertain them with suitable replies.

FORMER PLAINFIELDERS TURN OVER THEATRE LEASE.

Roy Montgomery, a vaudeville actor, appearing this week in New York, has leased the Majestic theatre at Schnectady, N. Y., from W. J. Counihan and Michael L. Shannon, formerly of this city. The new lessee will change the policy from combination to stock. Messrs. Counihan and Shannon will devote their time to other theatrical interests.

David Rogers, of this city, who was acting as treasurer at the playhouse, has secured a position with a large sign painting and advertising firm in Schnectady.

Playing in Baltimore.

Miss Ilka Diehl and Harold Mead, formerly of the Plainfield theatre stock company, are now the leading members of the "Boston Players," a stock company playing at the Savoy theatre, Baltimore, Md. They are meeting with great success. Last week they presented "Girls."

H. O. Newman Resigns.

H. O. Newman has resigned his position with the Boice, Runyon Co., to take effect January 1. Mr. Newman has been in the employ of the firm for nineteen years.

MORE MEMORIAL WINDOWS

Two Unveiled at Crescent Ave. Presbyterian Church Sunday Morning.

FOR TWO FORMER MEMBERS.

Arranged in Chronological Order—Handsome Examples of the Work of Taber Sears, of New York.

At the Crescent Avenue church Sunday morning there were unveiled two more memorial windows in the series planned to replace eventually all the present windows in the church. Those windows were given in memory of Samuel Fisher Kimball, a faithful and beloved member and deacon of the church, by his wife, Mrs. Emma C. Kimball. The window portrayes in the upper lights, "The Resurrection." Beside the empty tomb stands a brilliant angel in white facing the two Marys who are represented in attitudes expressive of humble faith and joy, each still bearing their tears of their past sorrow.

The medallions for the lower part of the window give two scenes from our Lord's life after the Resurrection; "Jesus appearing to the Holy Women" and "The Supper at Emmaus." The windows are very rich and brilliant in color and are done in painted and stained glass in the style of the renaissance. These windows are also the work of Taber Sears, of New York, and contain in their details reminiscences of some of the most famous work in the great churches of the continent. They will keep in the memory of the church he loved and served so well, a member of the church who was greatly beloved.

The entire plan of windows arranged is as follows and is now published for the first . The pairs of windows in the four corners of the church will represent: 1. The Patriarchs and the Law Giver, Abraham and Moses; 2. The Prophets and the Psalmist, Isaiah and David; 3. the evangelists, Matthew and John; 4, the apostles, Peter and Paul. The intervening six pairs of windows will follow the Life of our Lord in the form of the meeting of the the Old Testament and the apostles, and will proceed as follows:

The Nativity, The Presentation in the Temple (recently given as a memorial to Mr. Mead and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Myers, by Mrs. Mead), A scene from the Ministry of Jesus, The Crucifixion, The Resurrection (dedicated yesterday), The Ascension.

The great front window of the church is reserved for a missionary window portrayig the giving of the Greater Commission of our Lord to his disciples and the figures of the great missionaries and a multitude of successors receiving their trust. It is believed that there are in existence only three other missionary windows. It is hoped that this window will be the gift of the whole parish as a memorial of the life and ministry amongst us of Dr. William R. Richards.

AUTO HITS A SLEIGH: BOGERT AMONG INJURED

Samuel Bogert, son of Joseph Bogert, of East Sixth street, is at his home suffering from nervous shock as a result of an accident early Friday morning, when the sleigh in which he and some friends were enjoying a ride, collided with a touring car owned by Edward Moore, a Passaic real estate man, in which was the latter's chauffeur, William Marches. The mishap happened on the Metuchen road, a mile distant from any house. Russell Warne, of New Brunswick, driving the sleigh, sustained a fracture of the leg, while Mrs. Joseph Howatt, a guest at the Bogert home, received a severe scalp wound. The others members of the party were not injured beyond the nervous shock each received.

When the crash came, all but Mr. Warne and his wife, who was also in the party, were thrown from the sleigh. One of the horses was killed. The auto, which it is claimed was being driven at a terrific speed, was badly damaged. Marches was not hurt.

The direct result was the summoning of an international conference and the signature of the famous Geneva convention in August, 1864, whereby the neutrality of doctors and nurses in wartime was established. The Red Cross on a white ground—the Swiss flag—was adopted as the badge of neutrality out of compliment to the country of Dunant's birth.

Mr. Markey Surprised.

A birthday surprise party was tendered to Peter Markey, of South avenue, on Saturday evening, the occasion being his fifty-first anniversary. The evening was enjoyably spent in games, music, dancing and refreshments. About thirty of Mr. Markey's friends were present.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XLII PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY DECEMBER, 22, 1910. NO. 40.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

MARTINE HAS 29 VOTES

This is Enough to Make Primary Winner Choice of the Caucus.

Boss Jim Smith, Jr., had another bad day yesterday at the hands of the New Jersey progressives. Another of the alleged props was knocked from under his brazen attempt to wrest the United States Senatorship from his party and from the Democratic voters of the State. The delegation to the assembly from Morris county yesterday announced that it will line up with Governor-elect Wilson and the progressives in their advocacy of James E. Martine, the choice of the Democratic primary for United States Senator.

According to the calculations of the progressives, Martine now has enough votes in the assembly to assure his election. The latest estimates of his strength give him 29 votes, with but 11 votes pledged to Smith and with 10 votes doubtful. There are fifty Democrats in the legislature, and Martine thus requires 26 to win out.

It is fully expected by those who are watching the trend of events most closely that day by day the Martine strength will grow apace, for the reason that in the public opinion, which is every day becoming more intense and outspoken in its depudiation of Smith and all he stands for in the way of machine politics and special privilege legislation, the democratic legislators are feeling a pressure from the public at large which is unique in the political annals of the State.

The bosses, both Democratic and Republican—for in this fight there is a fraternity of feeling between the bosses of both parties in their last desperate stand against the new force which Wilson and the solid phalanx of voters back of him represent—were further dismayed today by the announcement that Doctor Wilson will go before the people in another public document in a few days.

On Friday or Saturday of this week the Governor-elect intends to issue a lengthy statement to the people of New Jersey. This will be at once an analysis of the situation and an inspiring call to arms to all good men and true in the State to arise and demand that the men whom they have elected to represent them as they indicated their will in the primary.

Doctor Wilson, followed his habit of taking the people entirely into his confidence in regard to all matters of public import, has felt it his duty as the elected leader of his party to remain silent, during a fight which has been beclouded by inspired reports and arguments in all parts of the State and country, into its fundamentals.

He desires to let the people know just what the issues are that are being contested. He wishes to let the legislators know just what they are about to do when they cast their ballots for the United States Senator in this most unique and epoch-making contest.

There is no doubt in the minds of the people of the State but that Doctor Wilson will leave the entire question stripped down to its simplest terms, and that by the time he has concluded his analysis in his own peculiar and always convincing method of getting at the essentials, neither legislator nor voter nor political boss nor corporation crook will be in any doubt as to what the election of Martine or of Smith will mean—both to the State and the country.

By Doctor Wilson's advisers it is thought that this statement will become as famous in the New Jersey political history as the letter to Record which was virtually responsible for the election of Wilson. The statement will be directed to the legislators in the first instance and will outline what, in Doctor Wilson's opinion, is the path of honor of the assemblymen in the contest.

He will point out that every consideration of party honor and public morality calls upon the Democratic assemblymen to stand by the pledge of their party at the convention and vote for the successful candidate at the primary. In the second place, it is understood, Doctor Wilson will address himself to the people of New Jersey, calling upon them to rouse themselves into a mighty storm of rigorous protest against the election of Smith, and thus force the recalcitrant legislators to actually represent them.

In the third place, it is thought that Doctor Wilson will go into the question of the circumstances surrounding his nomination and what he at that time understood the attitude of Smith to be regarding the senatorship, as it has now become a matter of general report that Doctor Wilson in the conference in New York last July, at which the matter of his nomination for governor was discussed, was given to understand that Smith was in ill health and that

(Continued on page 4.)

GOVERNOR-ELECT THANKS MR. MARTINE'S NEIGHBORS

Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson has written a letter expressing his appreciation of the action of Plainfield's business men in denouncing the attacks made on James E. Martine, which questioned his ability to fill the office of United States Senator. The merchants' resolution as transmitted to the scholar-statesman rebuked the newspapers published at distant points for giving space to articles reflecting on Martin's ability.

In his reply, acknowledging the "round robin," Governor-elect Wilson says:

"Allow me to acknowledge with real appreciation your letter of December 16, with its enclosures, the resolutions concerning Mr. Martine. Such resolutions greatly strengthen me and assist not a little to guide my purpose."

IRVING SCHOOL PROGRAM FOR XMAS CELEBRATION

An elaborate Christmas program has been prepared for presentation at the Irving School tomorrow afternoon at 1:45, under the direction of Miss Genevieve Petrie, principal. Charles L. Lewis will have charge of the music and Miss Ethel Sleight will be the pianist. The kindergarten will hold exercises Friday morning at 9 o'clock. The public is invited to attend both exercises. The program for tomorrow afternoon follows:

Greeting, Victor Brancati; song, Welcome to the Happy Morning and Wonderful Night, school; recitation, Just 'Fore Christmas, Theodore Swartz; song, Prithee When Christmas Day, school; exercise for Christmas, Loretta Reynolds, Earl Adams, Jessie Graves, Josie Eyler, Lawrence Patterson, Andrew Fitzpatrick, Joseph Driscoll, Anna Mendell; song, When Sandman Comes a Creeping, pupils of first and second B grades; three songs by first second and third grades, primary class; recitation, Troubles, Maggie Schavizon; song, Don't You Tell, Edith Hughes; song, The Christmas Story, pupils of 4-B grade; recitation, If You Don't Believe in Santa Claus, Catherine Andress; skating song and dance, pupils of 5th grade; carol, Christmas Bells, school; recitation, Writing to Santa Claus, Lester Symonds; recitation, Letter from Santa Claus, Alice Spangenberg; postman, Peter Cowley; song, On Juda's Fields Abiding, school; recitation, Christmas Greetings, Cornelia Lyle; exercise, Star, twenty pupils of 4-A class; song, Santa is Coming, school; recitation, Ain't you Glad You're Living, Richard Borden; recitation, The Christmas Tree, Henry Zweifel; exercise and song, We're All Around the Christmas Tree, school; recitation, Christmas Night, Marjorie Dufford; closing song, Beautiful Starlit Heaven, school.

GOVERNOR-ELECT WILSON IS IN FIGHT TO FINISH

Calvin E. Brodhead, Assemblyman-elect, when interviewed as to the Senatorial situation yesterday, had this to say of Mr. Martine's chances:

"Mr. Smith's letter has made no change in the Senatorial situation. Everybody knows that he has been an active candidate ever since the election was over. On the other hand his strength is growing and will crystallize into an irresistible force before the balloting comes. Governor-elect Wilson is in the fight to a finish and there will be no compromise."

Xmas Music at 1st Baptist Church.

The Otto Schill String Quartet, of Newark, will play at the Christmas service to be held at the First Baptist church, Sunday morning. In addition to instrumental selections the quartet, with the organ, will accompany the anthems to be sung by the choir. The personnel of the quartet is: Otto K. Schill, first violin; Ernest Roentgen, second violin; Carl Schoner, viola; Udo Gossweiler, violoncello.

Xmas Dance at Park Club.

The next event of interest at the Park Club will be the Christmas dance on Tuesday night, December 27. The clubhouse will be elaborately decorated, as usual, for the holiday season, and there will be a number of attractive features. The Junior dance will be held Saturday night, December 31, and there will be the usual New Year's Day festivities.

Miss Kennena Hansen, of East Second street is convalescing after a severe attack of the grip.

SALVATION ARMY DINNERS

Five Hundred Families to Enjoy Christmas Cheer Through Salvationists.

Five hundred dinners will be distributed among the poor of Plainfield on Saturday night next, and as a result, joy will reign on Christmas Day in humble cottage as well as palatial mansion. Indeed, it is fitting that sympathy should be the keynote at this festive Yuletide season and that the right hand of good fellowship should be extended at this time toward those whom the world deems less fortunate.

This evidence of "good will toward men" has been made possible through the kindly contributions of the citizens of Plainfield and is a climax worthy of the untiring efforts of the local Salvation Army.

Lest some should fail to grasp the full significance of these five hundred dinners it might be well to mention that each of them will contain: chicken, potatoes, bread and butter, sugar, coffee, crackers and oranges, in varying proportions, according to the size of the family provided.

These Christmas dinners for the poor will be given out at eight o'clock on Saturday night at the local headquarters of the Salvation Army and the people who will be served have been carefully selected as the most needy and deserving in our midst.

A like number were fed last year at Christmas time, though now there are many new comers to the city. On the following Wednesday, an entertainment will be given at the Salvation Army hall to poor children and among other things each child will receive presents such as toys, warm underclothing and dolls. Not the least interesting feature of the entertainment will be the Christmas tree. These blessings for the poor of Plainfield have been made possible through the generous response of the public and Capt. and Mrs. Hewitt take this opportunity to express their heartfelt thanks to all who have contributed, whether through the medium of the tripod stands on the streets, or by mail.

Those who have displayed their practical Christianity by helping the good cause along will doubtless receive a full reward in the knowledge that they have helped to enlighten the burden of their fellow men at a time when all the world is saying "Peace on Earth Good Will Toward Men."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH S. S. CHRISTMAS SERVICE

The Sunday-school of the First Baptist church, under the direction of a committee of which Arthur M. Harris is the chairman, has planned an elaborate Christmas service to be held at the church, Friday evening at 8 o'clock. In addition to the singing of Christmas carols by the school and recitations, presentations of gifts, etc., there will be instrumental selections by the Norma Trio comprising Miss Edna White, trumpet soloist; Miss Norma Sauter, violinist and Miss Cora Sauter, cellist.

This trio filled a long engagement at the Ocean Grove auditorium last summer and proved one of the great attractions at the concerts; also at the Sunday services. An address will also be made by Rev. Winfred R. Ackert, pastor of the Vermilye chapel, connected with the Collegiate church of St. Nicholas, New York city.

The aim of the First Baptist church and Bible school this year, is to carry out the teaching of Christ, "it is more blessed to give than to receive." The presentation of gifts by the different classes for the poor will be an important feature of the service.

Slick Thief.

One of the slickest thieves yet caught is one John W. Vincent, alias John W. Wilson, who was arrested in Providence, R. I. yesterday. Vincent disguised himself as a workman and helped himself to silver bars from the safe of the Gorham Mfg. Co., in Providence. Vincent was caught through the vigilance of John F. Harmon, of West Eighth street, this city, who became suspicious when a bar of the stolen silver was presented to his firm, Handy and Harmon, of Fifth avenue, New York, to be refined. Mr. Harmon wired the Providence firm and Vincent was nabbed after stealing another ingot worth approximately $800.

—Daily Press Want ads Pay.

—Neuman Bros. offer for the holiday trade Gorden & Dilworth, Brick's Nonpareil celebrated mince meat. It makes fine pies which will help to make your Christmas and New Year's dinner all that it should be.

SWEET SENTIMENTS OF "GOOD FELLOWS"

Two mighty Good Fellows dropped into the poetical yesterday and announced that they had made up their minds to keep up their membership in the club in language whose import cold type can scarcely convey. Here's one of them:

"Well, here's Christmas again. Some call it Merry Christmas because everybody wants everybody else to be happy. Yes, I want all the youngsters to be happy, but unfortunately I cannot take care of more than twenty. I want them to be happy as I am while I am writing this to the big "Good Fellow." I find it hard at times to tell others my feelings, but I find it easy to share mine with them, especially when they are brimming over as they are today."

The other fellow says: "It is the merry laugh of children, the warm hand clasp of a friend, the thought of gladness, all quicken the heart and cause it to sing. It makes one forget self in wishing others well and that echoes up to the very stars the notes of happiness."

There are but three days left for you to send now and there are still some poor little folks wistfully looking up and around the chimney for the coming of Santa. Will you let them look in vain? I would not. Get on the big sleigh with the ruddy faced saint and put your gifts in his sack. Then lay back and see the smiles creep over the features of the happiest little mortals you ever conjured up in your mind's eye. It will spell happiness for you the rest of the year, regardless of whether November's political results or the last snowstorm or anything else has made you a little grouchy.

"Good Fellow" is waiting to acknowledge your willingness to help him help others to have a happy Christmas. Don't happen a time or two and the letter published today on page 4, addressed to the Good Fellows of Plainfield.

BUZZARD'S CLUB FEAST ON NEW YEAR'S EVE.

The Buzzard's Club met in special session last night and completed arrangements for the club's second annual banquet. The affair will be held in Company K armory, New Year's Eve. Demolli, of this city, has been engaged as caterer. The committee in charge of the affair comprises William Harlpenae, chairman; Wallace Morton, George Slorah, Harry Doty and James Downing. Secretary Edward Koechlein has been chosen toastmaster, who will prepare subjects for the various members upon which to speak.

In connection with the banquet, a Christmas tree will also be had. Each members will be presented with a gift from the tree. The committee in composed of F. C. Denton, chairman; Harry Doty and Roy Lee.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE FOR LINAS WALPOLE OF PLAINS.

Linas Walpole, of Scotch Plains, got into a mess with R. H. B. Dalley, special policeman employed at Proctor's theatre last night and as a result was arrested and passed the night in a cell at Police headquarters. He was arrested by Patrolman Tobias Nolan on complaint of Ernest James and special policeman Dalley.

James appeared as complainant in the police court this morning and said that Walpole created a disturbance in front of the theatre which attracted a crowd, and when requested to go away insisted upon entering the theatre. Sentence was suspended this morning by Judge Runyon.

Jerusalem Lodge Elects.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., at a regular communication last night, elected these officers: Worshipful Master, George B. Zimmer; senior warden, H. G. Klein; junior warden, Charles A. Lee; secretary, Robert Kenney; treasurer, Clarence Goss; trustees, L. R. Woolston, Robert A. Meeker and Charles A. Lee; representative to Masonic Hall Association, James F. Buckle. The installation of officers will take place Tuesday night, January 3.

Division No. 4 Elect Officers.

Division No. 4, Ancient Order Hibernians, has elected these officers: President, Thomas Farrell; vice-president, Patrick Griffen; recording secretary, Timothy Cullinan; financial secretary, Martin Regan; treasurer, Patrick Harrington; sergeant-at-arms, Patrick Torpey; sentinel, Peter McShay; finance committee, John J. Gallagher, J. J. McCann, A. E. Matthews. Ten new members were initiated. There was a smoker and social time.

—For a picture, mirror, art cast or a box of oil or water colors, Swain, 217 West Front street, has an attractive showing of these and very suitable gifts for season. ***

BOUND BROOK BOILING

Don't Like Being Told That They Cannot Protest Against Sewage Disposal.

Bound Brook is stirred from centre to circumference today and excitement is running high over the statement of Sherrard Depue, of the law firm of Lindaberry, Depue & Faulks, of Newark, that Bound Brook had permitted the time limit for objections against a North Plainfield sewerage disposal plant to expire. That such is the case seems to have awakened the people to a sense of what is termed their danger of having a sewage disposal plant in their midst.

Mr. Depue, on Monday, appeared before the State Board of Health and urged the claims of North Plainfield for the establishment of its plant and in arguing the point for the borough declared that the limit of thirty days provided in the statutes of 1907 had expired and that therefore the inhabitants of the township of Bound Brook had no further right to object to the work proposed by North Plainfield.

Residents of that pretty section of the country seem to think that they have not only a right, but propose to exercise it, and that vigorously, to prevent the dumping of sewage within a few feet of their back limits. According to the law, to which Mr. Depue is said to have referred, the residents of a municipality are not the only people who have a right to object to a proposition such as a sewage question is, but all the people of the township, borough and municipality and therefore, there is no legal time limit put on those outside of the city in which to file their objections with the State Board of Health.

Monday's hearing was not advertised, it is said, so that those of the territory concerned could be present to raise their voices against the proposed establishment and only one or two of those concerned convinced the president of the board, John B. Capstick, that the motion of Mr. Depue was illegal and the public hearing was set down for January 24 next.

In speaking on the subject this morning Henry C. Snyder, of Bound Brook, said that his interpretation of the law under which Mr. Depue had based his opinion as to the expiration of the time limit was entirely different and he believed that the people of Bound Brook had a right to object on sanitary grounds against the proposal of the North Plainfield people to make an ill-smelling spot of the environs of his city.

DE BRIGARD IN TROUBLE, HIS STORE IS CLOSED

Boice, Runyon & Co., through Isaac P. Runyon, has placed an attachment on the goods in the store of Louis DeBrigard on Park avenue, for the November and December rent. Mr. DeBrigard closed the store, which is in the building of Boice, Runyon & Co., several days ago and has failed to notify the concern as to what he intended to do.

Mr. DeBrigard had a young man working for him, who joined him in signing the lease for the store, but the clerk disclaims any responsibility and says that he was not in partnership with DeBrigard. DeBrigard conducted an art and supply store, having been located on Park avenue for the past two years, formerly being associated with Paul Collier.

CITY RECEIVES $827,000 OF THE YEAR'S TAXES.

Tax Collector W. R. Townsend reports today that the total collection of taxes for this year to date amount to about $327,000 out of a total of $402,000 assessed. Yesterday was the busiest day in the tax office, the collections amounting to about $115,-000. The total for the month of December is but $285,000.

Taxes are still coming in toady by mail, mostly in checks and up to noon there had been received about $15,-000. All of these receipts have to be sent back by mail which means a considerable expense to the city in the way of postage.

At Temple Baptist.

There will be the usual Christmas services at the Temple Baptist church, Sunday morning with a sermon by Pastor Musson. In the afternoon there will be a union service and the lesson will be taught by Frank Stewart, assistant superintendent. Rev. Mr. Musson will make a few remarks. A special Christmas service will be held in the evening under the auspices of the Sunday school. L. W. Randolph, superintendent, will have charge of the afternoon and evening services.

—See that the children have only Ritz candies at Christmas. 12 21 3

SCHWARTZMAN'S FURS FOUND IN NEW YORK

Perhaps some of the fur articles alleged to have been stolen from the store of Max Schwartzman, on East Front street, were not taken at all. Chief of Police Kisly has received a letter from C. E. Malgadey, 36 West 65th street, New York, in which Mr. Malgadey says that he has some furs which were sent to him by Julian Davis, the young man accused by Schwartzman, of embezzling $500. The articles were sent in to be repaired.

The New York merchant enumerates certain furs which he says belongs to customers of Mr. Schwartzman, in this city. As they could not have been on hand when the last inventory of the stock in the store was taken they may prove to be part of the furs alleged to have been disposed of by Schwartzman's manager.

WATCHUNG RESIDENTS HAVE MAD DOG SCARE

The residents of Watchung are in the midst of a mad dog scare as the result of a rabid canine running amuck in the valley about two weeks ago. The animal bit two dogs belonging to John Mobus and another belonging to Theodore Luerson, both of which were killed yesterday. They were promptly shot by Marshal Clement. Six pigs the property of Clarence Kellogg, whose barn was destroyed by fire last week, also fell victims to the dog's bite and had to be slaughtered Monday. The porkers were separated so soon as it was known the canine had been in their midst but all gave unmistakable signs of rabies.

Beside the three dogs and pigs, it is known that two cows were also bitten but the owners have not been located. An effort is being made to find them. It may be possible that other animals have been affected and all the farmers are keeping a close watch on their stock.

The dog that is at the bottom of the trouble was a homeless mongrel that first made its appearance directly in Watchung. As soon as it became known that it was mad, Constable Clement started in pursuit and finally killed it. The head was sent to State Assayist at Trenton and word was received in reply that rabies were plainly evident.

UNITED SUNDAY SCHOOLS' CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION

The Christmas exercises of the Sunday-schools of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held at the latter church, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and promises to be an enjoyable affair for the children and older members of the various schools. This program will be presented:

Organ prelude; hymn, Hail, Hail, Days of Days; responsive reading; prayer, Rev. F. D. Tildon; hymn, Welcome to the Happy Morning; responsive reading, G. Herbert Condict leading; hymn, Wonderful Night; exercises by the children of Bethel chapel; hymn, Shine, Bethlehem Star; exercises by children of Warren chapel; hymn, In Juda's Field's Abiding; presentation of offerings; offertoire, violin solo; prayer, Rev. J. O. McKelvey; exercises by children of home school; hymn, Christ's Coming; benediction, Rev. J. O. McKelvey; organ postlude.

"THE COUNTRY BOY" IS COMING TO PLAINFIELD.

Plainfield theatregoers will have an unusual treat when Henry B. Harris, the eminent New York manager, sends his special company on Tuesday, January 3, to present the great comedy hit of the year: "The Country Boy," Edgar Selwyn's bright story of city life.

The company which comes to the Plainfield theatre is the same one which goes to Philadelphia for an indefinite run and has made a prodigious hit in all the cities where it has appeared.

The name of Henry B. Harris is a guarantee of a production of the highest class and nobody should miss seeing "The Country Boy" when it is produced here, particularly as it has been the one great success this season on Broadway.

Crescent Company Elects.

Crescent Company, No. 12, U.R. K. of P., met last night and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Captain, Robert Loughlin; first lieutenant, Oliver R. Pearson, Jr., second lieutenant, Robert Gow; recorder, Fred Douglas. The company is in good shape in every way and expects to be unusually active during the coming year.

ACKERMAN SENATE HEAD

Plainfielder is Choice of Republican Caucus for Presiding Officer.

The first move in the United States Senatorial contest of a positive character was made at Trenton yesterday when the twelve Republican Senators, who will control the upper House, organized with Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of Union, as president; William C. Murphy, of Camden, secretary, and Senator John Dynely Prince, of Passaic, leader of the majority.

Other caucus nominations of officers were: Assistant secretary, Benjamin Patterson, of Salem; journal clerk, John W. Clift, Union; assistant clerk, not announced, but assigned to Passaic; supervisor of bills, Edward A. Sexsmith, Monmouth; assistant supervisor of bills, Wilbur K. Sloan, Gloucester; bill clerk, Charles Bohm, Cape May; assistant bill clerk, not announced, but assigned to Cumberland; calendar, Tuttle C. Walker, Atlantic; sergeant-at-arms, Goudloupe A. Holl, Mercer; assistant sergeant-at-arms, John Pitzga, Somerset; president's secretary, not announced, but assigned to Union; assistant to the president's secretary, not announced, but assigned to Somerset; committee on printed bills, not announced, but assigned to Burlington.

The steering committee, composed of Senators Bradley, Frelinghuysen, Gaunt, Leavitt and Nichols, made the following allotment of minor patronage:

Somerset—Assistant sergeant-at-arms, doorkeeper, clerk to banking and insurance committee, assistant secretary to president.

Union—Journal clerk, president's private secretary and page.

The Senators decided to abolish the positions of cloakroom-keeper, assistant clerk to the secretary. The Senators will meet again next Tuesday to discuss legislation to be introduced at the coming session, etc.

SALE OF CITY MARKET PROPERTY JANUARY 4.

A sale of the City Market property was scheduled to take place in the sheriff's office at Elizabeth at 2 o'clock, this afternoon but postponement was obtained by the interested parties until January 4. There are two mortgages on the property, one held by Mr. Lillian Mendenhall, of New York, who is represented by I. P. Runyon, and another by Mrs. Lydia Bullock, of this city, who invested $4,000 in the property and who is represented by W. S. Angleman. It is said that it will require about $32,000 to clean up the matter.

Among those who are interested in the company controlling the market property are Clarence L. Murphy, Ira L. LaRue and Mrs. T. Logan Murphy, known as the Quoin Investment company. They acquired the property from a Mrs. Peck, of New York, and the market was opened about a year ago.

It was reported today that a local man would take over the property and that business would continue as at present. The market has been conducted with much success since it opened. It is said that the aggregate rentals from the stalls in the market amounts to about $4,500. The Quoin investment company will seek to have a postponement when when the matter comes up in Elizabeth today.

J. G. Lister Transferred.

J. G. Lister, of Los Angles, Cal., who has been superintendent of the Plainfield office of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, since last February, has been transfered to Paterson, where he will have charge of that district. He will be succeeded here by H. Parra, of Philadelphia.

St. Stephen's Parish Meeting.

Rev. E. G. Bowers, the rector, has issued the formal call for the annual meeting of St. Stephen's parish to be held on Thursday night. Three vestrymen as well as delegates to the diocesan convention will be chosen and other important business will be transacted.

Will Chase the Hounds.

The Watchung Hunt Club will meet the hounds this afternoon at the kennels at 3 o'clock for a short run. Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock the members will meet at the South Plainfield Railroad Station.

Christmas in the Schools.

Christmas exercises will be held in the public schools of the city and borough on Friday morning and afternoon. In most of the schools interesting programs have been arranged.

—Don't forget that Richmond Suction Cleaner for your wife's Xmas. $1.00 puts it in your home. W. H. Pope, 116 North avenue. 'Phone 225. Open evenings this week. ***

STATE SCHOOL PROBERS LISTEN TO SUGGESTIONS

Senator Frelinghuysen's Committee Welcomed Some Good Ideas of Plainfield's School Board

The Senate investigating committee appointed by the last Legislature to probe into the methods existing in the public schools of the State, at which Joseph S. Frelinghuysen is chairman, sat Thursday in the State Senator Frelinghuysen, Chairman State School Probers' Committee.

Board of Education rooms in the High School and the result of the session proved that conditions in the Plainfield schools were such as to meet with the heartiest approval of the entire committee and instead of probing here they were willing to accept suggestions from our board for improvements which may later be made in schools throughout the State. Among the suggestions to which great attention was given were two by Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, that of compulsory vaccination and the other establishing clinics at Muhlenberg Hospital, where those too poor to pay for medical attention might be treated free.

With Senator Frelinghuysen were State Senator William J. Bradley, Assistant State Superintendent of Schools J. B. Betts, Samuel St. John McCutchen, member of the State Board of Education, and John P. Murray, counsel for the committee. The committee were in convention from 10 until 12 o'clock and retired to North Plainfield for similar investigation at noon.

The first topic taken up by the committee was that of the disposition and location of school moneys deposited with the City National

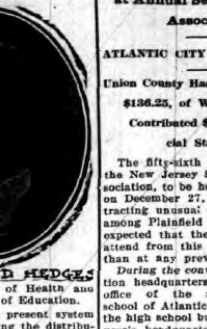
—Photo by Stone.

William S. Tyler,
Member of Board of Education.

Bank. Mr. Arnold was sworn and said that in addition to receiving a salary from the city as its treasurer he also received $550 a year from the city as custodian of the school funds. He described the method of borrowing and stated that the city pays to the board each year the amount of the school tax at the end of each month. In December of each year the city pays to the board out of a contingent fund the difference between the school tax actually collected and the amount which was to be raised by means of the school tax. For the year 1909-10 an amount between $1,700 and $2,000 was so paid.

Floyd T. Woodhull, secretary of the board, explained the methods of auditing the bills and the general system of conducting the financial transactions of the board. Leander N. Lovell, president of the board, suggested a change from the present system of awarding the school money from the State tax on the railroads. Mr. Lovell said that the money from the railroad taxes did not come in until December in each year, which necessitated the borrowing of money which cost the board interest at the rate of five per cent. He suggested that some measure be taken to make this money available earlier, thus making a saving and at the same time obviate a certain amount of trouble and time wasted.

W. S. Tyler said that he favored



DR. B. VAN D. HEDGES

President of Board of Health and Member of Board of Education.

the abolition of the present system of procedure regarding the distribution of State school funds. It goes through too long and roundabout way to get to its destination. And as a matter of fact he declared his belief that the payment of taxes for school purposes was more a matter of sentiment than anything else as the money comes out of the people indirectly through increased railroad fares.

Dr. Hedges said that he favored a law compelling vaccination. By this means it would be possible to prevent epidemics where such might be threatened and further would insure the children against diseases which might affect them at the most inconvenient time. Another suggestion offered by the doctor was that after the report of the examining physician is made a nurse follow up the case and see to it that the physician's recommendations are carried out. In cases where limited means prevented the engagement of a physician by the parents of the pupil he suggested the establishing of a free clinic at Muhlenberg Hospital where just such cases might receive attention. Going further Dr. Hedges said that the pupils suffering from adenoids and enlarged tonsils are backward from two to three years in their studies and the accepted operations for the relief of this class. An open air school, he thought, would be a splendid thing for this city. It has proved a blessing in Montclair and Orange and if a sufficient number of anemic pupils could be found in the local schools it would be a good thing to give them the open air treatment. He also said that at least 25 per cent. of the pupils' eyes were defective in some way.

James F. Buckle said relative to

Floyd T. Woodhull,
Member of Board of Education.

the selection of members for the board he favored the elective rather than the appointive system as in vogue in this city. There would be no advantage in an appointive board here. It might do in other places.

Superintendent Henry M. Maxson in reply to questions said that he had been superintendent for nine*teen years and his experience had* shown him that the recommendations of the medical examiners were worthy of the highest consideration. He was heartily in favor of Dr. Hedges' suggestions regarding the following up of medical treatment when recommended. Dr. W. J. Schaffner, of Lakewood, who was present during the session, declared that Plainfield deserved the congratulations of the entire State for the splendid physical condition of the pupils. He said that he had found by a careful investigation that only two per cent. of the pupils of the schools were sub-normal, which is remarkable. In no place so far probed have things been found in so healthy a condition as in this city.

Superintendent Maxson submitted a thorough report of the dental examiners and made a comparative statement with the conditions existing last year. The report showed a distinct and gratifying improvement all along the line. So great was the showing that the entire investigating board retired showering congratulations upon the board for the excellent conditions found.

The Athletic Reader.

"Been over the President's message?"

"Sure. I hurdled it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Some bought gifts early, they avow,
But still they stew.
They hustle now and daily now
Exchange a few.

PEDAGOGUES TO GATHER

Plainfield to be Represented at Annual Session of State Association.

ATLANTIC CITY DEC. 27, 28, 29.

Union County Has Paid During Year $136.25, of Which Plainfield Contributed $29.75—Financial Statement.

The fifty-sixth annual meeting of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association, to be held in Atlantic City on December 27, 28 and 29, is attracting unusual attention this year among Plainfield pedagogues. It is expected that the number that will attend from this city will be larger than at any previous convention.

*During the convention the associa*tion headquarters will be at the office of the superintendent of school at Atlantic City, which are in the high school building. The treasurer's headquarters will be in the secretary's office in the same building on the same floor and opposite the entrance to the auditorium. All members of the association will be requested to register their names and addresses in a book provided for this purpose in the treasurer's office. The members of the association will have especial reason for gratification at the convention for the reason that the long-standing debt of the association has been paid. The fiscal year, closing on June 30, it is stated, ended with unexampled prosperity.

The State treasurer's statement for the fiscal year shows: Receipts, $152,087.51; disbursements, $86,802.24, of which $58,648.31 was paid in benefits; surplus on the year's business, $65,285.27, and assets, cash and investments at the end of the year $193,641.49.

Union county and Plainfield have done much toward contributing to pay the debt and to meet current expenses. Union county has contributed $136.25, it standing fourth among the counties. Essex, Hudson and Passaic come first in the order named.

The contributions from Union county are divided as follows: Elizabeth, $88,; Fanwood, $1; Plainfield, $29.75; Summit, $9; Union, $2; and Westfield, $6.50.

From the formation of the association to June 30, Union county has paid $14,613.15 toward thirteen annuities. Two of these are annulled because of deaths, which leaves 11 annuities to the value of $4,199.50. Of these Elizabeth has granted four annuities to the value of $1,632.50, the total annities being paid amounting to $5,354.82. There have been no deaths among members in this city, so that the members and value of the annuities remains the same as those granted.

Many one-time members, it is stated, have forfeited membership by giving up teaching in New Jersey. These teachers are either teaching in some other State, have taken up some other vocation, or are married. Teachers of this class who have resumed service as teachers in the State have been recognized as members which, it is stated, under the law, they are not. It is also stated that they are not eligible for membership. It is held that all teachers are ineligible to membership who haveat any time prior to January 1, 1908, been employed in the public or State schools as duly licensed or certificated teachers under a regular monthly or yearly appointment and salary and who did not before January 1, 1890, making written application for membership. A member must, on changing place of employment, give notice to the new Board of Education that he or she is a member of the Teachers' Retirement Fund, and must send copies of such notice to the State treasurer and the secretary of the board of trustees. The validity of a member's claim on the fund may depend on his faithful observance of this requirement.

MOTHER.

In all the world—go where you will—
You'll never find another
Who'll cling to you through good or ill,
And love you like a—mother.

In all the world—wher'er you roam—
With sister, wife or brother,
You'll never know so sweet a home
As that one made by—mother.

In all the world—tho' wealth commands
For you the work of others—
You'll never find a pair of hands
To toil for you like—mother's.

In all the world—tho' friends sincere,
Are more to you than brothers,
You'll never find another
A voice as kind as—mother's.

In all the world—altho you break
The hearts of others,
There is no other heart can ache
For you so much as—mother's.

In all the world—tho you create
A pleasure for another,
You can give to none a joy so great
As you can give to—mother.

In all the world—where you in bliss
May soon forget another,
There is no one whom you will miss
When she is gone, like—mother.

"You were trying to evade the law by operating an automobile without being qualified."

"Trying to evade the law nothing! Didn't I run into an officer?"—Exchange a few.

2ND REGIMENT'S REVIEW

Presentation of Medals to be Made at Trenton Armory Thursday, Dec. 29.

C. K BOYS ARE TO BE THERE.

Brig.-Gen. Collins In Charge of the Annual Ceremony—Orders Are Issued By Col. N. Y. Dungan.

Arrangements are rapidly being completed by the State military authorities for the annual regimental review of the Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., in the Trenton armory, Thursday night, December 29. The affair is given to Brigadier-General Dennis F. Collins, commander of the Second Regiment and Co. K, of this city, will take part. At that time there will be a presentation of medals for marksmanship during the year. The local company will leave this city at 7:10 on the evening of December 29, and will be joined at Bound Brook by Co. M, of Somerville.

*The review is an annual one ten*dered to General Collins, who commands the brigade to which the Second Regiment is attached and it is one of the most notable military affairs in National Guard circles each year. It is the one big night socially and otherwise for the officers and men of the regiment and on the general's staff.

Presentation of medals and trophies for work on the rifle range and for merit will feature the review. The following medals and trophies will be presented: The Duncan trophy for improvement in marksmanship, the Mack Medal for expertness in rifle shooting, the Salter sharpshooter's medal, the John Roger Williams cup, the Collins medal for marksmanship, the National Rifle Association medal, the regimental trophy for highest per cent. of duty, the long and faithful service medals and the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution medal for the highest figure of merit for rifle practice.

Orders have been issued by Colonel Dunran, commanding the regiment, instructing the men to wear their olive drab uniforms, white gloves and fatigue caps. The field and staff officers are ordered to report to the commander at 8:15 o'clock in the armory while the noncommission staff, the band and field music are instructed to report to the regimental adjutant at the same hour.

The buglers will sound "first call" at 8:30 o'clock, and "assembly" will be blown five minutes later. Adjutant's call will sound at 8:40 o'clock.

LITTLE LOST PUP.

He was lost!—not a shade of doubt of that:
For he never barked at a slinking cat,
But stood in the square where the wind blew raw,
With a drooping ear and a trembling
paw,
And a mournful look in his pleading eye
And a plaintive sniff at the passersby
That begged as plain as tongue could sue,
"O, mister, please may I follow
you?"
A lorn wee waif of tawny brown
Adrift in the roar of a heedless town.
O, the saddest of sights in a world of sin,
Is a little lost pup with his tail tucked in.

Well, he won my heart (for I set great store
On my own red Bute—who is here
no more),
So I whistled clear, and he trotted
up,
And who so glad as that small lost pup?

Now he shares my board, and he owns my bed,
And he fairly shouts when he hears
my tread.
Then, if things go wrong, as they sometimes do,
And the world is cold and I'm feeling
blue,
He asserts his right to assuage my woes
With a warm red togue and a nice cold nose,
And a silky head on my arm or knee
And a paw as soft as a paw can be.

When we love the woods for a league about
He's as full of pranks as a school
let out;
For he romps and frisks like a three-months' colt;
And he runs me down like a thunder
bolt,
O, the blithest of sights in the world so fair
Is a gay little pup with his tail in the air!

—Arthur Guiterman.

NEWLY PAINTED ROOMS.

Place a vessel full of lighted charcoal in the middle of the room and throw on it two or three handfuls of juniper berries, shut windows, chimney and close the door for twenty-four hours. When opened the smell will have entirely disappeared and no delicate fabric will be found damaged.

DR. STANTON ADDRESSES LOCAL DENTAL SOCIETY

The Plainfield Dental Society held its quarterly meeting and banquet at the "Homestead," on Washington avenue Wednesday the dinner being prepared and served by Mrs. Henry Johnson. After the dinner, the dentists listened to an excellent talk by Dr. Frederick L. Stanton, of New York, on the subject: "Orthodontia or the Relation of the Malocclusion of the Teeth to the Development of the other parts of the Body." This was followed by a general discussion on the part of the dentists.

Among those present were Drs. F. S. Wells, Charles W. Moore, George Moore, W. E. Stelle, Charles G. Davis, R. W. Emerson, B. F. and C. W. Leonard, D. G. Atwood, Frank T. Clawson, E. A. Giddes, of this city. Dr. Hogan, of Dunellen, Dr. C. M. F. Egel, of Westfield. There were also representatives from Somerville and other nearby towns.

SCOTCHMEN ORGANIZE THE CLAN MACKENZIE

Clan Mackenzie was formally organized in the office of Robert Murray on East Front street Wednesday, when about fifteen Scotchmen met for that purpose. The organization is a branch of the Order of Scottish Clans and the name was chosen in honor of Edmund L. Mackenzie, who was present and thanked the members for the honor conferred upon him.

After the meeting was called to order, John M. Donaldson made a motion, which was adopted, that the organization be named Clan Mackenzie. Mr. Murray then spoke a few words upon the name of Mackenzie, giving a short history of the Mackenzies of Kintail Estate, Scotland, of which Mr. Mackenzie is a descendant.

Another meeting will be held Saturday night in Coward Hall on Park avenue, at 7:45 o'clock when the organization will be completed and officers will be elected. This order has been in existence for three years old, having been started in St. Louis. It has paid out over two million dollars to widows and orphans of deceased clansmen. At the coming meeting an opportunity will be given all who may wish to join as charter members. Several officials of the order will be present and explain the benefits of the organization.

EARLY MORNING FIRE IN WASHINGTON VALLEY

A barn on the farm occupied by Clarence Kellogg, and located on the Washington Valley road near the Moldenke castle, was totally destroyed by fire shortly before 6 o'clock Wednesday morning. The contents included four tons of hay an a quantity of farming machinery, none of which were saved. The flames were plainly visible in the city and borough.

Mr. Kellogg was in bed when the fire broke out and was apprised of it by a neighbor. He believes that tramps are responsible as they were in the habit of sleeping in the place. It was located across the road from his house.

The place is owned by Mrs. George Giebelhouse, of West Front street, and her loss will be about $700. Kellogg's loss is placed at $300, without any insurance. His stock is kept in another building on the place. J. W. Gavett, the local crockery man, formerly leased the farm as a summer place.

NEW TRIMMINGS.

Gold gauze lace, leather and satin are being worked up into attractive forms for garments and hats.

Butterflies of white kid are made over wire and are placed at the side of a large hat.

Grapes of gold tinsel, very much different from the huge jet or glass ones of a few seasons ago, are really artistic when combined with metallic laces and many-colored laces.

A new kid is now exploited in leaf form. The foliage of leaves and buds is particularly becoming on vel*vet hats in the soft neutral shades* so much in vogue.

Silk and satin flowers, each petal edged with beads, are used on the crown and under the brim of an evening hat.

Fur plays a large role in trimming little turbans and large shapes. A little knot, a cabochon, an edge of fur on the brim and a band around the crown are some of the expressions of the milliner's art.

Must Be Friends.

"Are they good friends?"

"I should think so. Anyhow, Jane is one of the girls Marie expects a Christmas present from."—Detroit Free Press.

Meats and Serials.

"Dr. Wiley says the reduced meat prices are fictitious."

"They certainly are novel."—Exchange.

ACCUSED AS EMBEZZLER HELD IN $1,000 BAIL

Charged with embezzling $500 Julius A. Davis, manager of Max Schwartzman's fur store on East Front street, was held in $1,000 bail this morning by City Judge William N. Runyon for a hearing tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. State Senator *Silzer has been retained by Schwartz*man to push the case and W. S. Angleman will look after the interests of Davis, the accused man.

Davis is about twenty-nine years old and has been manager for Schwartzman since September 1 and Mr. Schwartzman alleges that he has managed to dispose of property worth considerably more than the amount stated in the complaint during the past three months. He mentions specific amounts which have disappeared at certain times and claims that either the goods or money has been taken by Davis.

Owing to the fact that Senator Silzer was not notified of the case until late this morning he was unable to be present when Davis was arraigned. George W. Bird, who was first called by Davis and who learned of the charges against him declares his belief in the innocence of Davis and thinks that a mistake has been made. According to what can be learned of the alleged embezzler he bears a good reputation and came well recommended from friends of Mr. Schwartzman in New York.

POLICE CONFISCATED MANY SLOT MACHINES

Penny-in-the-slot machines of a variety which come under the head of gambling devices are under the police ban and yesterday a raid was made in various parts of the city and a half dozen of the machines taken from stores to headquarters. It has been learned that boys have been the greatest customers of the machines in trying to win a quarter for a cent. One boy on West Third street is known to have expended seventy-five cents, for each of which he received a piece of gum, but nary another prize.

It is the belief of the police that the gaming instinct is fostered by the machines and it is the intention to put a stop to their use in the city.

The six men who were haled to court this morning on a charge of running the machines all claim that they were put in their stores by an agent whose name they do not know, but who has his headquarters at Perth Amboy. Chief Kiely and others tried with upward of a hundred cents to make the coin drop into *some other slot than the cent sec*tion but without success. All the other machines of this kind found in the city will be confiscated.

SENATOR SILZER'S VOTE TO BE CAST FOR MARTINE

Senator George S. Silzer, of Middlesex county, yesterday made a statement in which, while not mentioning James E. Martine by name, indicates plainly that he will vote for that gentleman for United States Senator. Mr. Silzer says he has not changed his views on the primary expression act, which can have no other meaning than that he stands with Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson in the matter.

The Senator said:

"I do not know why you ask me where I stand. My position has never been in doubt. I am publicly on record in the Senate and elsewhere. Why should I change now?

"I have many weaknesses, but I do not think that political instability is one of them."

Mr. Silzer declined to say anything further, believing that these words fully outlined his position.

The Senator helped to draft the Senatorial primary act and has been regarded as one of its most emphatic champions. Therefore his declaration that he has not altered his views can indicate nothing but a determination to vote for Martine.

Touching Memories.

There were introductions all round. The big man stared in a puzzled way at the club guest. "You look like a man I've seen somewhere, Mr. Blinker," he said. "Your face seems familiar. I fancy you have a double. And a funny thing about it is that I formed a strong prejudice against the man who looks like you—although, I'm quite sure, we never met."

The little guest softly laughed. "I'm the man," he answered, "and I know why you formed the prejudice I passed the contribution plate for *two years in the church you attend*ed."—Everybody's Magazine.

Had Forgotten.

Aged Lady—What are you doing out here fishing? Don't you know that you ought to be at Sunday-school?

Small Boy—There now! I knew I had forgotten something.

ON MAKING AMERICANS

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring Tells How it is Done From Arrival to Destination.

REGARD LIBERTY AS LICENSE.

Methods of Training Foreigners in Mission Work a Quick Solution to Problem of Making Good Citizens.

Under the auspices of the Missionary Study Class of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, the minister of the church, delivered an illustrated lecture in the Sunday school room Wednesday, on "Making Americans," illustrated with seventy-eight steroptican views which took in the immigrants' movements from the ship's arrival until their destination, whether in the East Side of New York City or the fields of the great West and held his hearers' attention from beginning to end.

Dr. Herring said in part: "There is no more important question that can absorb the attention of this nation nor is there one that is likely to arise for many years to come than the far reaching problem of immigration. It is not a consideration to be easily set aside for it affects the very life blood of America, deciding the character and power of the republic. To be indifferent to this subject is to be guilty of negligence, to pass if by ig to be criminal to the hightest interests of the nation.

"These immigrants come in great ship loads at the rate of a million a year and are examined first in New York harbor for examination, a sort of winnowing process which takes but a short time but which makes the later examination at Ellis Island easier. This examination physical and otherwise is one which than all others, prehaps is most important. And for the purpose trained doctors who are experts must make no mistake when they O. K. the applicant who wants to make his home here. Many of those who come mis-translate the word of the city. They regard it as giving unbridled freedom and say 'liberty means license.' They have yet to learn the wholesome restraints of liberty.

Dr Herring took his audience through the streets of Ellis Island, and followed the trail of the immigrant from there to his various destinations, showing in the photographs thrown on the screen, people of every nationality under the sun, the regimental adjutant at the same regimental attempt to keep out the undesirable; and showed various groups of the kind of people America wants and one group of the worst class of what was termed the off-scourings of the slums of Europe and Asia.

From the dirty alleys and hidden places of New York, where it was shown many of the lower class of immigrants congregate, to the glowing western field, where immense armies of men, women and children have found not only refuge from tryanny at home, but a veritable paradisein outdoor and free America. Views of the farms and the workers revealed the great contracts which exist between those who remain in the big cities and those who go to the farm land of the West and Northwest.

Following these were slides showing the actual work being done by the home missionaries and in connection with this Dr. Herring said: "Many immigrants have been church goers in their old homes, but if they are not looked after here and gathered into churches they become indifferent and drift into unbelief. Training those of foreign birth to work among foreigners is one of the quickest solutions of the problem. Many young men and women are being trained along these lines and they are giving splendid results. However, funds are greatly needed by the mission boards for every department of work among foreigners. It is found that by taking care of the children it is easy to reach the parents and thus build up for the country a desirable class of citizenship."

Among those who Dr. Herring mentioned as being among the foremost in the circle of the best sons of Christianity among immigrants, was Jacob Riis, who is called the most useful citizen of New York; Carl Schurz, a national figure in American affairs for a half century; John Willis Baer, a man known in all denominations as one of the best friends of an immigrant that ever came to this country. "The making of foreigners into Americans offers the grandest mission work," concluded the speaker.

A. V. Searing, Jr., did admirably with the stereopticon, the pictures being clear and distinct.

Will Hold Industrial Exposition.

Trenton will have its first industrial exposition in 1912, plans for the big event being launched on Tuesday at the meeting of the publicity committee of the Chamber of Com*merce of that city, at the Hotel* Windsor. The exposition project will be further advanced at a meeting to be held in the officers' room of the *armory next Wednesday, when ad*dresses will be made by men prominent in State affairs.

"Do you and your wife agree?"

"Oh yes, always—at least, I do."

LIKES WILSON'S ATTITUDE

Henry Van Dyke Believes Governor-Elect's Attitude Right.

ON SENATORIAL SITUATION.

Signally Fair and Honorable Says Eminent Scholar—Brave, Upright and Forward-looking.

That Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson's attitude in relation to the senatorial situation has met with the approval of such an authority as Henry Van Dyke is shown by the subjoined letter to the New York Times.

To the Editor of The New York Times:—

The position of Governor-elect Wilson of New Jersey in regard to the senatorial contest has an interest for thoughtful men of all parties. It involves one of those moral issues which raise questions of mere politics to the level of polit-ethics. As a matter of fact, the issue has been involved by those who have attacked Dr. Wilson's position as unfair and treacherous. The ground on which it is to be defended, the ground on which it seems to me admirable and praiseworthy, is not that it is a prudent and politic position, but that it is signally fair and honorable.

It represents the action of a man who feels bound by the only pledges that he made in his campaign—his pledges to the people whom he asked to vote him on the basis of certain assurances. It was on these pledges that he won a sweeping majority. Democrats voted for him because they wanted a better Democracy. Republicans voted for him because they thought the experiment worth trying under his auspices. Now he stands up and acts like a man who considers his pre-election promises really binding. It was precisely such action that brought Grover Cleveland into trouble and ultimately into honor and glory.

This is not a political letter. I am not even a passive candidate for any office, and have not the advantage of acquaintance with either of the leading candidates for the senatorship from New Jersey. Nor is this an academic letter. It has no connection with Princeton University, which as an institution of learning, is and ought to be free from all partisan bias in politics. This is a personal letter on a question of public morals, on which any citizen has a right to form and express his opinion without reference to his ecclesiastical, academic, or political connections. Churches will survive, universities wither, and parties rot, if plain moral questions are twisted, obscured, or smothered.

Here is a concrete case. Dr. Wilson was elected on a platform which indorsed the principle of direct primaries in Senatorial nominations. Under the law approved and supported by his party, an overwhelming majority of those who chose to exercise the privilege thus conferred upon them expressed themselves as definitely in favor of a certain Democratic nominee for the Senatorship. It is idle and silly to talk, in this connection, of those who did not choose to vote. They may be counted next time, if they wish, but not this time. The only candidates considered at the time are those who voted. And they have a moral right, irrespective of the wisdom or unwisdom of their votes, to expect their party to keep faith not only with them but with all the people of the State, and to give effect to the result of the primary.

How could Governor-elect Wilson keep silent on a question like this without lying? It is true that it will not be his duty to take part in the voting of the Legislature which sends a man to represent New Jersey in the National Senate. No doubt he is glad of that. It is equally true that it is his duty now to oppose any attempt of his party to disregard the promises which were made to the people before election. No doubt he is not exuberantly glad of that necessity. It is not what you would call a radiant and restful recreation which is presented to him. But none the less it is inevitable. Dr. Wilson did run for the Governorship only. He ran openly, publicly and avowedly for the leadership of his party in the service of the State. All those who voted for him in both parties understood what he was running for. He got it, an immense majority of his fellow-citizens expressed their judgment that he was fit both to govern the State and to lead his party. In refusing to forfeit that leadership by a consenting silence in a crisis which involved the honor of his party he is only keeping his word. In keeping his word he acts well and wisely, and justifies the hopes which elected him, not to be the figurehead of a pusillanimous and perfidious Democracy, but to be a real man of courage and integrity in the front of public affairs.

His ordeal by fire has come to him, earlier than usual, at the outset of his political career. He meets it, as far as we can judge, with calmness and fortitude and justice, without violence or abuse. Much will depend for the future, upon the backing which his fellow-citizens give him in this first trial. And I, as one of them, expecting soon to leave the institution where my humble judgment has forced me to disagree frankly with him on a detail of academic policy, am all the more glad now of this opportunity to express, in the only way open to a mere writer, my sincere admiration for Dr. Wilson's attitude as Governor-elect. It is the position of a brave, upright, and forward-looking man, and it is worthy of the support of those who believe in what is fair and honorable.

Dec.10, 1910. HENRY VAN DYKE.

PRACTICAL LECTURES; COURSE AT Y. W. C. A.

The Young Women's Christian Association has announced a practical course of lectures and demonstrations to what to do in the case of illness or injury. The lectures will begin on January 5 and will run until March 23. They are called "First Aid to the Injured." The lectures will be given Tuesday afternoons at 3:30, beginning January 10, and Wednesday evenings at 8 o'clock, beginning January 5. There will be a review the week of March 13 and an examination the week of March 20. A certificate from the American Red Cross Society will be given those who attend the examination. The lecturers and the subjects are divided as follows:

First—Object of the course, general directions for rendering first aid, structure and mechanics of the body. Shock. Use of internal remedies, heat and cold. Dr. William D. Gray. Second—Injuries in which the skin is pierced or broken. Outline of circulation of the blood. Treatment of wounds in general, cuts, infection, hemorrhage, etc., dressings, bandages, tourniquets. Dr. Norris Jones Tobasco. Third—Injuries in which the skin is not pierced or broken. Brief description of bones, muscles and joints. Treatment of fractures, dislocations, sprains, application of splints and bandages. Lifting, carrying, removal of clothing, etc. Dr. H. D. Corbuster.

Fourth—Respiration. Treatment of suffocation, drowning, croup, choking, bleeding from nose and lungs, etc. Artificial respiration. Dr. Frederick J. Hughes. Fifth—Common emergencies. Foreign bodies in eye, ear, throat, and nose. Bites, stings burns, poisons from plants and animals, swallowing poisons, what to do when clothing takes fire, etc. Dr. F. E. DuBois. Sixth—Nervous system. Treatment of unconsciousness—pain and compulsion. Fainting, injury to brain, hysteria, apoplexy, sunstroke, etc. Dr. Edward S. Krans. Seventh—The sick room. Preparation of bed, ventilation, warming, disinfection, contagious diseases, clinical, thermometer, pulse, feeding, baths, etc. Miss Josephine Hughes, superintendent Muhlenberg Hospital.

EASTERN STAR MEMBERS SURPRISE WORTHY MATRON

Lydia Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, gave a surprise party to the worthy matron, Mrs. C. H. Rugg, of Mercer avenue, Wednesday. About sixty members of the organization and others formed the gathering.

The participants first met at Nagle's grocery and then proceeded to the house. Mrs. Rugg was entirely unprepared for their coming and was so greatly surprised it was several minutes before she could regain her composure.

The self-invited guests proceeded to make merry and enjoyed an informal program of dancing, games and music. Vocal selections were given by Mrs. C. M. Nagle and Mrs. W. W. Warnock and piano selections by Mrs. Herbert Woodard. Refreshments were served in conclusion by a committee composed of Mrs. A. E. Force, Mrs. W. W. Warnock and Mrs. Margaret Wilson.

LOCAL REALTY TRANSFERS RECORDED AT ELIZABETH.

The following transfers have been recorded in the office of the County Registrar:

Hugh H. MacMurry et ux., to Susie B. Morton, West Seventh street, corner Bonnell's land, Plainfield; $1.

Home Land Co. Company to Henry F. Windham, northwesterly side West Fourth street, 45 feet northeasterly of Hunter avenue, Plainfield, $1; Jacob Sachar et ux. to Louis Shiff, southerly corner Stebbins place and South avenue, Plainfield, $1; Lemuel B. Woolston et als. to William W. Warnock, Park avenue, corner North avenue, Plainfield, $1; George E. Hall Corporation to Florence M. Adams, Denmark road, corner Victoria Smith, Plainfield, $1; Dorothy Bohl to Florence L. Bohl, Arlington avenue, 42 feet of Union street, Plainfield; $1.

An Approaching Wedding.

Mrs. Helen Thomas, of Spooner avenue, has issued invitations for the wedding of her daughter, Miss Marie Emma Thomas, to Charles A. Frederickson, son of Police Captain Christian Frederickson. The ceremony will take place at Mrs. Thomas' home, on Saturday evening, December 31, at 8 o'clock. Both young people have many acquaintances in the city and borough.

COMMENTS ON MERGER NEW HOME IS INSPECTED

Newark News Says Action Without Referendum Would be a Mistake.

HISTORY OF THE MOVEMENT.

"Political Result of Change Would Be Doubtful," Says New Jersey's Leading Newspaper.

Comments on the consolidation and annexation agitation here are being made by many of the State's newspapers. The Newark Evening News had this to say on the subject in its issue Thursday afternoon:

"Plainfield and North Plainfield form one municipality in everything except name and government. The line dividing the two places is an imaginary one drawn by statutory law. Economical and good government seem to insist that the communities be legally consolidated, but there are several obstacles in the road. The first is that Plainfield is in Union county and North Plainfield is in Somerset. The claim is made that complications enough to offset the benefits would follow unless the county lines were changed so as to bring the proposed city all within the boundaries of one county. Then a change in the county lines has been objected to in the past on the ground that such a change would upset the balance of power politically in the two counties, for both Plainfield and North Plainfield are normally heavily Republican. If North Plainfield should be taken out of Somerset, that county it has been said, would be safely Democratic, while Union would be assured to the Republicans. Another objection to the change is to be found in the fact that the agitation for the municipal merger was begun years ago by discredited politicians for selfish purposes. These politicians deceived the people, with the result that they were retired to private life and have been kept there since. There is a change now in the situation, however. Neither Plainfield nor North Plainfield is reliably Republican, judging from the recent election returns. In fact, the political result of such a change would be doubtful. Under these circumstances, perhaps, a Republican Senate and a Democratic Assembly could be induced to pass the necessary measure for the consolidation of the two places and for the changing of the county line. There is a demand that such measures be passed without referendums so that the laws would be effective whether the people of the Plainfields wanted them or not. Such a move would be a mistake and would be resented. The forcing of consolidation by the Legislature would be a direct attack on the principle of home rule. This attack would not be warranted even by the advantages that would result from the two places being joined. The people of the Plainfields are entitled to the kind of government they want, and they shouldn't be deprived of it by vote of the Legislature. If the Legislature is willing to have county lines changed this winter in the case of the Plainfields, then perhaps the lawmakers might be equally willing to take some action to allow the West Hudson towns to come into Essex and join their fortunes with Newark.

HERE AND THERE.

The following is credited to Ernest D. Easton, executive secretary of the Newark Anti-Tuberculosis Association, in relating incidents about the Red Cross seals. It deals with a little boy who had read the sign on the Red Cross booth at the post-office, and goes like this:

"Mamma, what's a seal?"

"A seal is a little animal that lives in the ocean. We use its fur for coats and wraps," was the enlightening answer of the parent.

Johnnie puckered his brow for some minutes, and again asked, "Mamma, will seals stop plagues?" referring to some of the Biblical narratives he had heard told in Sunday school.

"Stop plagues? Why, child, what are you talking about?" cried the mother, in amazement.

"Why, it says 'Red Cross Seals Stop White Plague,'" he triumphantly replied, pointing to the sign over the booth.

Will Sing a Xmas Cantata.

The quartet choir of the First Presbyterian church, Miss Elizabeth DeCant, soprano; Mrs. Charles K. Mason, contralto; Alex MacGowan, tenor; Charles P. Titsworth, baritone, will sing "The Star of Bethlehem," by F. Flaxington Harker, at the service Sunday morning, December 25. The service will be in charge of Clifford A. Builder, organist and choirmaster. Miss DeCant and Mr. Titsworth will do the solo work.

Assistant Prosecutor Returns.

Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and Martin B. Stutsman, who have been spending the past ten days at Old Point Comfort Va., have returned home. Mr. Hetfield is much improved from his recent illness.

NEW HOME IS INSPECTED

Several Hundred People Visit Columbus Club's Handsome Quarters Just Completed.

FORMAL OPENING NEXT WEEK.

Building Furnished on All Floors in Strikingly Tasteful Manner—Committee Receives Hearty Congratulations.

The handsome new clubhouse of the Columbus Club, formerly known as the Lindsey property on West Front street, was opened for public inspection Thursday. Fully 300 people, half of whom were women, availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the building. The building committee members acted as escorts and showed the callers through the spacious and handsomely furnished rooms. The one expression heard oftenest was "splendid," and the men who had worked hard to bring about the present state of affairs felt fully repaid for all their efforts. The inspection lasted from 8 to 12.

The clubhouse was originally a plain brick building, but it has been completely transformed. The outside has been ornamentally stheeed, a roomy sun parlor, 19 by 30 feet added on the east side and the interior made over on all three floors. The furnishings and decorations in all are placed with a view to harmony and it was noticeable to all.

The reception hall opens directly off the main entrance and the staircase to the upper floor is at the far end. The newell post is graced by a handsome bronze statue of Christopher Columbus. To the left of the reception hall is the parlor and back of it the music room. The library is in the east room at the rear and leads to the sun parlor. This comprises all of the first floor. The parlor and music room are all in mission style, every thing throughout corresponding, even to the exposed mission beams overhead. The music room is equipped with a handsome player piano of corresponding design. The library is in chestnut, while mission rockers and tables grace the sun parlor. The latter is entirely encased in glass and steam heated. It can be used winter or summer for euchres, receptions, dances or similar affairs.

The second floor is taken up by a pool and billiard room which runs the full length of the building on the west side, and a ladies retiring room at the east end is furnished with white wicker furniture and green velvet carpet. The card rooms four in umber, are on the third floor, al of them being fitted up with a view to comfort and convenience.

The front of the building is graced by French windows and a marquise over the entrance. The view from the east side of the sun parlor extends all the way up West Front street to Park avenue. In the rear the property extends 276 feet to Green brook, affording plenty of room for future building needs.

The work of securing the original house and planning the club as it stands devolved upon the building committee composed of Theodore J. Shirley, Arthur A. Cannon, J. J. Kenney, M. D. O'Keefe, John C. Traynor and Patrick Traynor. They were warmly complimented for their work. The committee turned over everything last night to the newly appointed house committed composed of Andrew E. Kenney, C. L. Kling, C. W. Fogarty, Clinton A. Shannon, Thomas F. Carty, Jr., David E. Boyle and Francis A. Blatz. They will have full charge of the formal opening of the clubhouse next Monday night.

DUNELLEN TRADE BOARD HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

The Dunellen Board of Trade held its annual meeting in the borough hall, Friday and elected the following officers: President, Frank D. Wynkoop; vice-president, Lewis Schneider; secretary, W. P. Doering; treasurer, W. S. Frederick; executive committee, A. Cockburn, Edward Maurer, H. J. Swackhamer, F. D. Baerman, Alfred Meyer, John Fedderman and H. S. Garretson.

In the report presented by the secretary it was shown that the board had been instrumental in securing a double-tracking of the Public Service line through the borough, the appointment of a sewage commission, the existence of a public library proposition, the macadamizing of several blocks of streets with stone taken from North avenue during the double-tracking and various other achievements since the board has been existence, whose total valuation of the borough has increased over $100,000. The treasurers report showed a balance of $69.

Her Experience.

Employer—And where did you get your commercial education?

Miss Wood B. Employed—I did the Christmas shopping for our entire family."—Harper's Bazaar.

JULIUS P. DAVIS, ACCUSSED OF EMBEZZLING $500 MUST FACE CHARGES.

MAX SCHWARTZMAN'S CLAIMS.

Fur Dealer Says Stock Was Reduced Without Producing Money Equivalent—Davis Makes Denial.

Julius P. Davis, manager for Max Schwartzman's fur store on East Front street, Friday denied the accusation made against him by Schwartzman who accused him of embezzling upward of $500 between September 1 and December 14.

Mr. Schwartzman declared on the stand that when he installed Davis in the store, he gave him stock amounting to about $5,500, and that when he took stock on December 11, he found that about $900 worth of furs had been disposed of for which there had been no cash return. When cross examined by Mr. Applemann, Davis' counsel, Swartzman said that he had entered his place of business on December 11 without the knowledge of Davis, obtaining the keys from Dr. Pittis, the owner of the store. He denied that he had surreptitiously taken any of the stock away at that time.

According to the contract between the two men it was understood that Davis was to receive a stated salary of $10 per week and at the end of the term of the contract the profits of the business were to be equally divided. Schwartzman said he had received about $400 from Davis and had frequently paid him his wages by check, although Davis was empowered to help himself from the receipts of the business up to the amount of his salary.

The actual difference and what Schwartzman claims to be a shortage is about $900 but Davis claims to have paid this money to Schwartzman and apparently has no receipt to show for it. Neither could he produce receipts for goods alleged to have been taken by Schwartzman to his other stores in Trenton and New Brunswick.

Those bearing the evidence which took until nearly noon Judge Runyon held Davis in $1,000 bail for the action of the grand jury. In an interval between the examination of Mr. Schwartzman and the appearance of Davis on the stand, Counsellor Angleman in behalf of the counsel of the complaint saying that it had not been proved that Davis had embezzled any money from the complainant.

Mr. Schwartzman is represented by State Senator Silzer.

HEAR NATIONAL W. C. T. U. CONVENTION'S REPORT.

Interesting facts concerning the work of the Women's Christian Temperance Union as brought out at the National convention held in Baltimore, November 12-17, were presented at a parlor meeting of the local union held at the home of Miss Anna Boice, on Park avenue, yesterday afternoon. The report was made by Mrs. T. C. Bodine, who was the representative of the county union at the convention.

The report showed that the organization has increased on an average of ten thousand a year for the past ten years, the present membership being 300,000. There were 588 accredited delegates at the convention, the representation being one to every 500 members. The same officers were re-elected.

After the talk, a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by a committee comprising Mrs. I. N. West, Mrs. A. G. Negley, Jr., and Miss Nan Randolph.

Growth of Methodism.

The entire membership of the Methodist Episcopal church increased 63,047 last year, according to a statement made yesterday to the Chicago Methodist-Ministerial Association by Rev. David G. Downey, corresponding secretary of the Board of Sunday schools. The secretary added: "We have ceased to expect accessions from the regular church and Sunday school meetings. We find that we can increase our membership only by occasional spectacular and sporadic meetings. We will have to have more spiritual character building work in our Sunday schools. We find we are getting nowhere by grading our classes and following the methods of public schools."

Disabled.

In a certain camp a battalion was being instructed on "How to take a convoy through an open country." One company was told to represent a convoy, the men being instructed that they were to represent horses, cows and wagons.

After being halted a short time the advance signal was given and the convoy moved on, but the major noticed that one man continued to lie down, and, galloping up to him in a rage, said:

"Man, why don't you advance?"

The soldier replied: "I can't sir."

Major—You can't? What do you mean?

"I'm a wagon," said the soldier, "and I've got a wheel off."—Tit-Bits.

AN UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIAL.

The lady with the glinty eyes and the pink elbows bounced into the grocer's shop and accosted the proprietor. "Morning," she said, affably. "I'll like another dozen o' them eggs you sent me yesterday."

"Certainly," smiled the shopkeeper. "Are you making puddings again?"

"No, thank you," sniffed the lady. "I want those eggs for somethin' more profitable this time. They're goin' to get me let off this quarter's rent."

"Indeed! Are you going to offer your landlord some appetising pancakes?"

"Not exactly," said the customer. "You see, it's this way. He's comin' round this morning for the money, so if I crack them eggs and hide 'em in our back yard it's ten to one he'll cry quits about the rent, thinkin' it's the chickens."

Then the shopkeeper's professional smile quickly faded.

No, Thank You!

"A short distance ahead," said the guide, "there is a narrow place in the tunnel which we call the 'Fat Man's Misery.'"

"If I go through it," asked the portly gentleman, "do I get any rebate on the expense of this exploration?"

"No, sir."

"Then you go ahead with the rest of the party. I'll just stay here till you come back."

Rural Opposition.

"I see that some Texas congressman has just interduced a bill to hev th' mails carried by airships."

"He's a dum fool, by jimminy. I wunt stand for it. Ef Hank Wintergreen thinks we're goin' to fly our mail boxes on kite-tails so's he c'n c'lect th' letters as he scoots along in his rural d'livery airyplane, he's all-fired mistaken, by heck!"

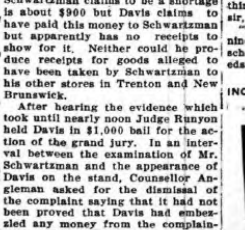
Just So.

"There had been a family row.

"Well," remarked the alleged head of the house, "a man learns a few things when he gets married. Yes, sir, a man lives and learns."

"That may be," retorted the feminine half of the sketch, "but the school of experience doesn't bar coeds."

INCORPORATING A MARRIAGE MONOPOLY.



Jim—I see that a New Jersey man has married over a dozen women in that state.

Jack—Well, New Jersey is the state where nearly all the trusts and monopolies are chartered, isn't it?

The Poor Poet.

A living, simply writing rhyme,
Somehow he couldn't make it!
Although he thought his stuff sublime,
No editor would take it.

Slighted Opportunity.

"So you think music is a waste of time?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Wallop. "I understand some of these professional pianists practise five hours a day. Think what golf players they might have become in that time."

Self-Sacrifice.

"I thought I told you to stop smoking," said the doctor, severely.

"I tried to," replied the patient, "but I haven't the heart to disappoint the members of my family who look to me for prize coupons and baseball pictures."

They Are All Alike.

In Norway women of 25 and over will be permitted to vote.

And it isn't likely that anything would please a Norway woman more than to her her vote challenged on the ground that she is too young.

Heard From.

Bacon—You'll hear from that man Wabash, some day.

Egbert—I heard from him today, in the restaurant, when he was eating his soup.—Yonkers Statesman.

High Finance.

"Look here, you've owed me $5 for five years."

"What are you complaining about? You've only been out a dollar a year."

A Wise Wife.

"I'm so sorry to be so late, my dear, A friend asked me to stop by and take pot-luck with him."

"Well, did you win the pot?"

In the Future.

"Whom are they after in this aviator trust?"

"Naturally, after the man high up."

MUSIC LOVERS PLEASED

Second McIntyre Concert Greeted by Large and Fashionable Audience.

MME. HISSEM DE MOSS SINGS.

Trio by Arensky and Two Movements of Haydn's Opus 32 Warmly Received—David Bispham Here Soon.

The second of the series of McIntyre trio concerts given in the High School auditorium Thursday resulted as did the first in pleasing a big audience. What has often been said of these concerts of chamber music may be repeated without fear of contradiction. They furnish to the music lovers of Plainfield the true symbolism of all that is elevating in the art without the necessity of straining after effect. In the assisting artist, Mr. McIntyre produced a soprano of known ability and who was in no way a disappointment to the audience. Mme. Hissem de Moss has a voice of superior flexibility and showed to careful training to best advantage in Lucile Grand Mignon, "I Am Titania," Thomas. However, Mme. de Moss showed her best with her group of songs in English and was forced to respond to an insistent encore, and it may be said that in the closing bit, "My Shadow" she completely won her audience.

Too much cannot be said of the ensemble playing of the trio. It goes without saying that Mr. McIntyre, Messrs. King and Britt entered into their duties of interpreting Arensky's trio, opus 32, in D minor, with an earnestness which marks all their work and at the end were compelled to acknowledge the plaudits of the audience which figuratively rose to its combined feet. They played the four parts with a devotion which only masterpieces can demand. Mr. McIntyre being particularly brilliant in the technic of the Scherzo while Mr. King was master of the intricacies of the finale.

Haydn's trio, of which only the Cantabile and Rondo were given, showed the trio to splendid musical advantage. The music with its tuneful theme was rendered with absolute fidelity. Of Mr. Britt's solos it can only be said that this artist is fast approaching the pinnacle of his highest ambition. He was particularly pleasing in the Gavotte by Pepper. This sprightly composition demands absolute fidelity to technic and received it at Mr. Britt's hands. As an encore Mr. Britt played with magnificent feeling and expression the invitation to dance from Weis.

Plainfielders will now look forward to the visit of David Bispham who it is promised will appear with the trio on January 12.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY SOCIAL FOR NEW MEMBERS.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church held a social and entertainment at the church, last night, for the purpose of welcoming the new members. There was an informal program, comprising piano selections by Miss Bessie Gunzelman; recitations by Mrs. F. H. Bogel, of Cranford; vocal solos by Miss Nellie Lawton.

Refreshments were on sale of aprons and handkerchiefs in charge of Mrs. I. P. LaRue. Mrs. I. E. VanArsdale, Mrs. Robert Lee and Mrs. F. W. Wenzel comprised the reception committee. Mrs. John Lant arranged the decorations and Mrs. F. W. Wenzel, Mrs. John McCormick and Mrs. J. C. Pierson served the refreshments.

IONA COUNCIL ELECTS AND PLANS FOR A BALL.

Officers were elected by Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, at its meeting, Thursday, and it was also decided to hold a ball some time before Lent, a committee being appointed for that purpose, comprising Mrs. John Ludgate, chairman; Miss Ella Sebring, Walter Wilson, Charles Meyer, Jr., and Charles F. Holstein.

These officers were elected for the coming year: Prophet, Mrs. Henry Anglemeyer; Pocohontas, Mrs. Julia Hallard; keeper of records, Mrs. Lavinia Holstein; collector of wampum, Mrs. Rue Mattis; keeper of wampum, Mrs. Sadie Bowman; Powhatan, Charles Meyer, Jr. The installation will take place on Thursday night, January 5, when the appointive officers will be announced. Following the business of the evening refreshments were served by a committee appointed for the purpose.

Exempt Firemen's Annual.

The Exempt Firemen's Association held the annual meeting Wednesday night, and elected the following officers: President, Thaddeus O. Doane; vice-president, William H. Addis; secretary, Guillermo Thorn; treasurer, William Townley. The treasurer submitted his yearly report, showing the finances to be in excellent condition.

Rev. Dr. Easton to Lecture.

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Easton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, will give a lecture at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Thursday night, February 2, instead of February 12, on "Widening Horizons in American Life."

The Constitutionalist

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., December 22, 1910.

AS TO CONFIDENCE.

At the conclusion of his report on the water supply question, Mr. Fuertes, the expert, wisely observes: "It is, after all, a matter of confidence." That is, can the city safely rely on the water company for adequate supply of pure and wholesome water for a long term of years, as secure as a long term of years can be secured by any municipal plant? If the company should become unable or unwilling to fulfill the most carefully drawn contract a lawsuit it must be admitted, would not provide an adequate remedy. Contracts terms of which they acquire an option on the American rights of all of his new compositions for the next five years. "The Girl and the Kaiser," which attained enormous European success under the title of "The Doll Queen Christ\!," is the first work by Jarno ever to be presented in this country by an English speaking company, and should, therefore, be of special interest to students of music. Another operetta by Jarno is now being rehearsed in London at the Irving Place Theatre. It will be recalled that Miss Glaser's last New York engagement was in "Mlle. Mischief," which scored a notable success and served to introduce the music of Mr. A. Ziehrer, another noted European composer, to American audiences.

BOROUGH SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The North Plainfield Board of Education held a regular meeting Monday night during which the members informally discussed the recent visit of the Senate investigating committee to the borough. From the opinions expressed by the investigators at the time, the board was assured that everything within its control to has been conducive in a thorough manner. The full report of the session has not yet been received, but when it is the members held the belief that it should be published in pamphlet form for distribution among the taxpayers.

The board discussed at some length the question of insurance on both the Somerset and Watchung buildings. A number of policies recently expiring have been re-written, and are soon to terminate. Bids have been received from several companies for taking these up and they were referred to the proper committee.

The board recently authorized an analysis of the coal used in the schools and the report of the chemist who received the bids. He stated that the samples were fully up to the requirements and according to the specifications.

The usual Christmas holidays will commence next Friday and resume on Tuesday, January 3. While the schools were closed, various repairs will be made to both the buildings, one of the most important innovations will be the installation of a science labratory in the manual training department. Bills to the amount of $6,602 were ordered paid.

LOCAL REALTY TRANSFERS RECORDED AT ELIZABETH.

The following transfers of local property have been recorded in the office of County Registrar F. H. Smith at Elizabeth.

Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company to Emma R. Naylor, northwesterly side West Third street, 8* feet sothwesterly of Prescott place, Plainfield, $1; George E. Everson et ux. to Emma R. Naylor, southwesterly side Plainfield avenue, 242 feet northwesterly of Central Railroad Company, Plainfield, $1; Charles L. Parker et ux. to Jennings D. Wright, westerly side Arlington avenue, 548 feet northerly of Randolph road, Plainfield, $1; J. Arthur Cannon et ux. to Columbus Club, of Plainfield, Main street, corner First Baptist church, Plainfield, $1; Highland Park Realty Co. to Emma D. Wright, southeasterly side George street, 849 feet northeasterly of Leland avenue, Plainfield, $1; Minnie Stryker et al. to Alice A. Pfister, northwesterly side West Front street, corner Kalb avenue, Plainfield; $1.

Mr. Carney's Souvenir.

David J. Carney is distributing an artistic blotter as a Chamber of Commerce Xmas souvenir. It is inscribed "The Chamber of Commerce of Plainfield, New Jersey, sends you its heartiest wishes for the very best kind of Merry Christmas accompanied by the hope that your membership in the Chamber of Commerce may contribute to make it and many successive Christmases all the merrier. Headquarters in Frost building, Park avenue."

Waiting for Thicker Ice.

The Natural Ice Company, of this city, has stopped cutting ice at Watchung, for the present, preferring to wait until it can get ten inch ice.

REQUESTS MADE BY P.S.G.

Asks City to Allow Installation of Trolley "Y's" and Two Big Gas Tanks.

The Public Service Gas Company petitioned the Common Council at its adjourned meeting Monday for permission to erect two 3,500 gallon oil tanks, for the storage of gas drip oil, on the company's property on Watchung avenue and Fourth street. The company desires to erect these tanks in conformity to the city ordinances governing such construction. The matter was referred to the fire and building committee.

Albert N. Fox and other residents petitioned the Council to macadamize West Sixth street, between Monroe and Clinton avenues. This was referred to the Council of 1911, as was also a petition from residents of Leland avenue protesting against the city cleaning sidewalks of snow on December 8, when this work was done by the property-owners December 6 and 7.

Jacob Sachar presented his bond protecting the city from any damage that might result from the removal of his building on East Fourth street. The bond of Hezekiah Hand as constable, was presented and referred to the finance committee.

Mr. Gloat presented several petitions and on his motion they were referred to the incoming body. Mr. Taylor offered a resolution, which was adopted, transferring the balance of $2,116.29 in the fire fund of 1909, to the department account of 1910.

Mr. Mygatt also referred several petitions to the 1911 Council, including a request from another city for information about water supply, a petition from George P. Mellick and two petitions from the Public Service Corporation for permission to install "Ys" in this city. Charles C. Randolph reported back several petitions and had them referred to the next year's body. Mr. Randolph also reported on the appointment of Fred Bader as a regular policeman, stating that it had been considered favorably and he moved that the appointment be confirmed, which was done. Mr. Montgomery offered several petitions for light and they will be taken up by the new Council. Mr. Mygatt moved that when the Council adjourn it be to meet tomorrow night to pass upon the bills.

In the matter of the assignment of C. M. Meeker regarding the street pavement contract held by him, Mr. Mygatt presented a communication from William A. Coddington, trustee in the matter, stating that there is due him as trustee, $1,367.24. The matter was referred to the finance committe. The amount due Mr. Coddington represents his fee following the settlement of all differences, all the creditors having been satisfied.

Dr. Richard's Portrait Unveiled.

Rev. Dr. William R. Richards won for himself no less a place in the hearts of this community during his long pastorate of eighteen years over the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, that every tribute to his memory is of interest to Plainfielders. Parishioners of the Presbyterian church of the Covenant, New York, have presented to the church a portrait of Dr. Richards which was recently unveiled at a memorial service. The Church of the Covenant is affiliated with the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, of which Dr. Richards had been pastor for seven years sat the time of his death last January.

More Trouble for Schwartzman.

It is said that Max Schwartzman, who conducts several fur stores in this State has now to face an action brought against him by his brother, Abraham Schwartzman, of New Brunswick, in which the brother seeks to restrain Max from using the firm name of "New York Fur Co.," which he claims is an infringement on the name of the company which Abraham represents. Max Schwartzman recently caused the arrest of his manager Julian Davis on a charge of embezzling the funds of the store on East Front street.

ELKS WILL ENTERTAIN 500 POOR CHILDREN

More than 500 children will be entertained by Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, at Proctor's Theatre, West Front street, on Friday afternoon. The entertainment will last from 1:30 to 4:30 and during the afternoon tickets which will entitle the holders to a skating cap, a pair of woollen mittens and a pair of warm stocking, will be distributed.

The Elks have provided 800 pounds of candy, 1,000 oranges for the little ones. The tickets which will be distributed on that day will be honored at the store of A. E. Force & Co., from December 27 until January 7, 1911.

This is following out the annual custom of the lodge for the poor children of the city and promises to be one of the events of the season. The children always look forward to this time of the visit of the Elks' Santa Claus and this year the entertainment will be superior to any proceeding one.

NAME GENERAL COLLINS TO ARRANGE FOR B LL

General D. E. Collins has received notice from the arrangement committee which has in charge the Inaugural Ball to be given in honor of Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson in Trenton, on Tuesday January 17, that he had been appointed on the general committee from Union county. He was requested to give all possible information as to persons to whom invitations to the event should be issued.

General Collins stated that he would make an effort to arrange for a party large enough to warrant the use of a special train to leave Elizabeth and to stop at Cranford and Garwood. With this end in view he will meet men representing the different municipalities so that more complete information may be gained.

A special request has also been made to General Collins that the officers on his staff be present at the ball in full dress uniform.

The ball is to be held under the auspices of the Second Regiment, N. J. N. G., in the Second Regiment armory. Edward Kenny, dean of the Assembly, that the democratic majority members of that body will caucus in the rooms of the Democratic State Committee, Newark, on Wednesday, December 28. The date was arranged after a conference between Governor-elect Wilson and State Chairman Nugent. No date has yet been set for a caucus of the democratic Senators.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONS LOSE DOUBLE-HEADER.

The Cuban trip of the Philadelphia Americans was brought to a finish Sunday by getting walloped twice. The world's champions were first beaten by the Almendares Club by a score of 7 runs to 5 and going down before the Havana nine by a score of 6 runs to 2.

The trip of the champions was a financial success and an artistic failure. The Athletics won only a third of their games, the Cubans hammering the life out of "Chief" Bender, Eddie Plank and Jack Coombs. News to the effect that the National Commission in the near future will adopt stringent rules prohibiting champion teams from going to the island hereafter reached the ball players yesterday, and did not have a good effect on them. The Athletics cannot understand how they happened to be so easy for the Cuban teams, and blame their reverses on the climate.

The players started for home yesterday some going first to Key West, but most of them getting out for New York. The players who made the trip were Jack Coombs, "Chief" Bender and Eddie Plank, pitchers; Jack Lapp and Ira Thomas, catchers; Harry Davis, Jack Mclnnes, Frank Dermody and Jack Barry, infielders, and "Topsy" Hartzel, Briscoe Lord and Danny Murphy, outfielders. Each player received $500 and his expenses.

For Good Reading Get

LIPPINCOTT'S

MONTHLY MAGAZINE

Each Issue Complete in Itself

Its contents is of such a compelling nature as to cause the reader to buy one number and want the next. LIPPINCOTT'S now covers a wide field of discriminating readers who seek only that which is best in Fiction, Fact, and Fun.

ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION WILL BRING TO YOU

12 GREAT COMPLETE NOVELS—one in each issue.
50 TIMELY ARTICLES by competent writers.
75 SHORT STORIES—clever, clean-cut, and vital.
50 PLEASING POEMS that need no interpreter.
200 PAGES OF NEW AMERICAN HUMOR in "Walnuts and Wine," the most widely quoted humor section in America.
2000 pages yearly of exhilarating reading.

25 cents per copy — $2.50 a year

Send all orders to this paper or to

E. Washington Sq. LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE Philadelphia, Pa.

SEND FOR OUR SPECIAL MAGAZINE OFFERS

SENATORIAL CONFERENCE

Wilson, Sullivan, Osborne, Tumulty, Broadhead and Others Hold Pow-wow.

Governor-elect Wilson, Judge Sullivan, of the Court of Errors and Appeals, Senator Osborne, of Essex, Assemblyman Tumulty, of Hudson, and Assemblyman-elect Calvin E. Broadhead, of Union county, all Martine men, held a conference here Monday afternoon, at Trenton, to discuss the Senatorial situation. At the close of the confab Dr. Wilson would only say that the campaign had been discussed, but Senator Osborne had talked more freely.

Mr. Osborne declared that a mass meeting campaign against the candidacy of Mr. Smith would be begun soon, probably next week or at least early in January. Mr. Wilson will speak to crystallize public opinion in favor of Martine. "It is a question of principle rather than of personalities," said Mr. Osborne. "Mr. Martine, the primary nominee, must be elected if the democrats' reform promises are to be kept."

Dr. Woodrow Wilson said last night that he did not intend to make a stumping tour of the State in the interest of James E. Martine for United States Senator, but that he would make two or three speeches in Mr. Martine's behalf.

"It is not necessary," said Mr. Wilson, "to take the stump to arouse public opinion against Mr. Smith. It is already aroused."

Each of the eleven Essex Assemblymen-elect who signed the recent invitation to James Smith, Jr., of Newark, to become a publicly announced candidate for United States Senator yesterday received this letter from Governor-elect Wilson:

"It is not necessary that I should be in the common interest that we should fully understand each other with regard to the question of the United States Senatorship, and I should be very much assisted by a personal interview with you. May I not ask that you will make it possible to see me at Princeton next Wednesday, the 21st, in the late afternoon or in the evening? I would esteem it a real favor if would do this?"

Plans are being made in Essex and Hudson counties for meetings within the next ten days, at which it is expected that Dr. Wilson will be the chief speaker, the topic being the United States Senatorial controversy.

It was announced yesterday by Assemblyman Edward Kenny, dean of the Assembly, that the democratic majority members of that body will caucus in the rooms of the Democratic State Committee, Newark, on Wednesday, December 28. The date was arranged after a conference between Governor-elect Wilson and State Chairman Nugent. No date has yet been set for a caucus of the democratic Senators.

COLUMBUS CLUB HAS ITS FORMAL OPENING

The new home of the Columbus Club, on West Front street, was formally opened Monday night. The house committee had full charge and exercised every privilege to make the initial affair a pleasant criterion of what is to follow. The attendance numbered about 150.

Andrew E. Kenney, chairman of the house committee, had supervision during the vening, and made an address at the outset, during which he took occasion to congratulate the building committee on the success of its plans. Other remarks were made by Arthur A. Cannon, H. P. Greenwood, Francis J. Blatz and M. D. O'Keefe. All took the opportunity to speak in highest terms of the work of Theodore J. Shirley, who arranged and had charge of the color schemes in decorating and selecting the furnishings. The striking harmony and general restful tone of all the rooms are the outcome of his ideas. Mr. Shirley responded in a fitting manner. During the evening selections were given on the player-piano by an expert and in conclusion a turkey supper was served under the direction of John J. Kenney and Thomas Carty. It proved to be the piece de resistance in the general entertainment.

The opening was conducted by the house committee composed of A. E. Kenney, chairman; C. L. Kling, C. W. Fogarty, Clinton A. Shannon, Thomas F. Carty, David B. Doyle and Francis J. Blatz.

TRINITY COMMANDERY'S ANNUAL INSPECTION.

More than fifty Knights Templar gathered in Masonic Asylum, in the Babcock builing Monday night. The occasion was the annual inspection of Trinity Commandery which was inspected by Grand Generalissimo Mason, of Trenton. Following the inspection a banquet was served by Timbo under the supervision of B. Frank Coriell and Lemuel B. Woolston, at which speeches were made by several of the grand officers, including Col. Nelson Y. Dungan and Generalissimo Mason.

Delegates from Damascus Commandery, of Newark; New Jersey Commandery, of East Orange, and Hugh de Paine Commandery, of Jersey City, were present.

MARTINE HAS 29 VOTER

(Continued from page 1.)

the death of his wife had removed from him all ambition for the United States Senatorship.

At that conference there were present James Nugent, chairman of the State committee; Richard V. Lindaberry, a prominent corporation lawyer and personal friend of Smith; Eugene Kinkead and Robert Hudspeth, representing Boss Bob Davis, of Hudson county, and Colonel George Harvey, personal friend of Smith and, at that time, a personal friend of Wilson.

Wilson has every reason for believing that these men spoke with authority when they declared that Smith would not be a candidate for senator and Wilson had foresight enough to make himself perfectly certain on that point. It was not until after the election that he became assured that Smith was laying wires cunningly and secretly for the coveted senatorship.

It is thought the governor-elect may have something to say of these inside facts in his public statement this week.

Doctor Wilson and his friends feel that the fight will be won when this statement appears and is spread broadcast throughout the State. But, in spite of this, the bosses continue to show their teeth and to keep on with their plans to ruin the party in the State. Doctor Wilson will take the stump and will probably go from end of the State to the other in his campaign for Martine. That, the progressives say, in the light of Doctor Wilson's wonderful personal popularity and influence on the stump during the gubernatorial campaign, would simply wipe away the last vestiges of the bosses' domination in the State and would result in overwhelming defeat for Smith.

With a view to giving all of the legislators an opportunity to get in line before he issues his statement upon the senatorial situation, Doctor Wilson has invited the delegates of Essex, Warren and Sussex counties to visit him at Princeton. Those from Essex county, Smith's bailiwick, are down on the card for tomorrow, and at this conference Doctor Wilson hopes to be able to dissuade them from a course of madness and certain political suicide, if they were to fly in the face of the people's express will, as shown at the primary election.

FRED TENNEY WILL MANAGE BOSTON CLUB

Fred Tenney will manage the Boston National League baseball team next season. The board of directors, William Hepburn Russell, L. Cowes Page, George A. Page and Frederic J. Murphy, met at the club office and at the conclusion of the meeting President Russell made the following statement:

"The board of directors has been in session and has conferred with Messrs. Fred Lake and Fred Tenney.

"The directors all like Mr. Lake very much, and had it not been for negotiations made previous to the change of ownership, no change would have been made in the management of the club at this time.

"Mr. Tenney has been of greatest possible service to me as the negotiations to buy the club were in progress.

"Today the directors decided that the manager of the club for 1911 should be Fred Tenney.

"Mr. Lake's contract, which calls for $5,000 salary for 1911, will be lived up to in every particular, and the money will be paid in accordance with his contract unless at Mr. Lake's own request the contract is terminated.

"We only regret that we cannot have two heads for the same undertaking, but it is obvious that we can't.

"Lake will remain connected with the team as an adviser until the termination of his contract."

FILET LACE BEDSPREAD.

Filet lace upon a bedspread in conjunction with broderie anglaise is much used. A foundation of fine linen hemstitched with a fancy beading is very nice. Large and small squares of filet lace are inserted at regular intervals, the design for broderie anglaise being so arranged that it mingles with, surrounds and supports the lace.

The principal part of the decoration will be upon the top of the bedspread, as the part hanging over the sides is not seen so much. Filet lace with this work seems to give the required lightness; and any one unable to make the lace can buy squares prepared and ready for insertion, after which the broderie naglaise is done.

Filet lace will be found a fascinating study. The squares of net are sewn into frames specially made for this purpose and the darning process is then done. Patterns to copy and books on the subject make its manufacture quite easy.

The trial of the "Count" de Gatingny and his wife, charged with having swindled the Duchesse de Choiseul, formerly Mrs. Charles H. Paine, of Boston, out of $200,00, was begun at Tour, France.

FOR A PUMPING STATION

Was $3,745. and the Land Cost $1,400.

Bids for the installation of a sewerage pumping station on the land at Sherman and Monroe avenues, recently purchased by the city, were received at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, Mondany. Estimates for the work were submitted prior to the death of Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh and the one of the Blaisdell Machinery Company, of New York, was rejected owing to an alleged irregularity. The company afterwards made a strong protest, and Mr. Marsh advised the rejection of all offers and a readvertisement for bids, owing to the fact that the Blaisdell company was the lowest bidder and the State law is strict in the awarding of contracts under those conditions.

Three bids were received last night the Blaisdell Machinery Company *again being the lowest, its figures be*ing $3,745. Blackall, Baldwin & Co., of New York, was second. its bid being $3,980, while Merritt & Co., of Camden, was next, its figures being $4,324. The latter will continue the station, and if it is decided to build two it is understood that the price will be same for a second station. The bids were all referred to the sewer committee.

Mr. Mygatt, reporting for the finance committee, introduced resolutions passing upon the deal for the land at Sherman and Monroe avenues for the pumping station. This tract was owned by E. S. Elliott and purchased by the city for $1,400. The necessary official action was taken authorizing the city treasurer to borrow money for the purpose and closing the transaction.

A resolution offered by Mr. Mygatt and adopted, authorized the borrowing of $2,600 on account of sewer extension work. This is in addition to the $1,400 borrowed for the purchase of the land at Sherman and Monroe avenues.

TUBERCULOSIS CLASS TO BE FORMED HERE

The trustees of the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, met in the parish house of Grace church, Monday, and decided several matters of importance. In addition to receiving reports from the treasurer and other officers. Final arrangements were made for holding a class of instruction commencing the first of the year. The class will meet possibly twice a week in the office of the Charity Organization Society in the Babcock building and will be in charge of Dr. Edward S. Krans.

The class will be for those patients discharged from the local camp and others afflicted with the disease, it being the plan to have them report once a week to Dr. Krans for advice, examination. They will also be weighed and statistics will be kept on file.

The treasurer reported that $300 had been subscribed to the work during the past month and that there is a balance of $80 in the treasury. The league is doing everything possible to stimulate a sale for the Red Cross Xmas Seals, the proceeds of the stamps allotted to Plainfield and if these can be sold it will mean a profit of $700 for the local society's work. It was reported that a cooking and heating range has been installed at the uberculosis camp, which will mean a great saving.

A Christmas party will be given at the camp Saturday afternoon, by Mrs. C. B. Tyler and Mrs. Sherman B. Joost.

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL ELECT AND PLAN ENTERTAINMENT.

Plainfield Council, No. 994, Jr. O. U. A. M., elected these officers at a regular meeting last night: Councillor, Daniel G. VanWinkle; vice-councillor, F. W. Downs, Jr.; assistant recording secretary, Walter Muller; warden, Asher K. Fleming; conductor, William F. Richards; inside sentinel, Walter Morecraft; outside sentinel, Samuel Cratsley; trustee, Daniel G. VanWinkle. The treasurer *Julius Williams, financial secre*tary, Joel Pennington and recording secretary, Arthur J. Spicer, hold over. The installation will take place Monday night, January 9.

The council has planned to entertain the members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and is now waiting for the veterans to fix upon a night that will be convenient to them. The fair committee also held a meeting last night to discuss details relative to the affair to be held in February.

BUILDER OF GRANT'S TOMB PASSES AWAY.

Alfred G. Nason, Sr., at one time a member of the firm of Reed & Nason, which built Grant's tomb and many other structures, died Saturday night at his estate in Murray Hill. He was born in St. John's, Canada, in 1841. Mr. Nason had served as vice president of the Republican county committee of the Seventy-second Assembly District, New York, and as secretary of the Master Carpenters' Association of New York.

CLUBS SUPPORT WILSON

Plainfield Democrats Approve His Position and Arrange for Demonstration.

At the regular meeting of the Plainfield Democratic club Monday it was decided to hold a mass meeting on Friday, December 20, the object of which is to endorse James E. Martine for the United States senatorship. It was also resolved that president Ellis be empowered to communicate with the chairman of the Federation of Democratic Clubs with a view to have similar action taken by the clubs throughout the State.

The committee on resolutions of which Calvin E. Broadhead is chairman drew up the following resolution, a copy of which will be mailed to Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson and to the members of the legislature.

"Be it resolved that the Plainfield Democratic club indorses the action taken by Governor-elect Wilson in reference to the election of United States senator. And that it is the sense of this meeting that we suggest to the other Democratic clubs throughout the State that vigorous and prompt action be taken by them to uphold the governor-elect and aid in the enforcement of the will of the people as indicated by the Primary vote for Mr. Martine.

"To this end we recommend the calling of mass meetings throughout the State through the instrumentality of the Federation of Democratic clubs and at these various meetings one or more delegates be chosen with the purpose of going before the legislature as soon as it can be conveniently arranged after they convene. That these delegates shall demand a hearing on this question and urge the election of Mr. Martine by every honorable means at their command.

"And be it further resolved that it is the opinion of this club that the failure to elect Mr. Martine would be a specific violation of party pledges and party policy and result in lasting injury to the cause of Democracy, not only in this State but throughout the nation."

The December meeting of the Improvement Society of North Plainfield township was a decidedly interesting event as the members of the society went on record as approving the attitude assumed by Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson in the matter of primary elections and also declared itself in favor of abolishing the county boards for the equalization of taxes as being an unnecessary expense and that they have outlived their usefulness.

Resolutions were drawn up covering these points and copies were forwarded to Governor-elect Wilson, Senator Frelinghuysen and Assemblyman-elect Le Mont. The summary of the proceedings which were debated regardless of party lines, follows:

First: That the Improvement Society of North Plainfield township notes with satisfaction the stand taken by Governor-elect Wilson demanding that the party committees unanimously recognize the moral obligation imposed upon it by the recent primary vote for U. S. Senator.

Second: That the association, as representative of the citizenship of the township, declares its adherence, irrespective of party affiliations, to the principle of designating the U. S. Senators of the State of New Jersey by a primary vote of the people. That the association membership will resist by every means in its power any attempt to nullify this right of the people obtained after so long a struggle with so-called "bossism" and "the special interests."

Third: That the association maintains that, regardless of party affiliation, no man who seeks a public office who does not wish or dare to present himself before this popular primary vote, is the very man who is not wanted by the people for such office.

Fourth: That the association membership expects its legislative representatives of Somerset county to cast their respective votes for U. S. Senator in favor of the successful candidate of their particular party at the recent primaries, and thus to demonstrate their adherence to the principle involved.

At this meeting it was resolved that the Governor-elect and the legislative representatives of Somerset county be requested to use their best endeavors to have abolished the county boards for the equalization of taxes. That there boards have outlived their usefulness, and that the work of equalization of taxes can be better performed by the former Commissioners of Appeals, together with the presentation as part of the annual report of the local government, of the tax duplicate. That the latter should be made mandatory upon the local government, so that tax payers may judge for themselves the corrections of valuations and thus bring about real equalizations.

Our Great Advisor.

"I suppose your wife still writes to the Woman's Home Journal for advice on different questions that come up in the management of your home?" asks the man with the stringy white whiskers.

"No, sir," replies the man with the diffident eyebrows. "She writes to Mr. Roosevelt now."—Judge.

MAILED LETTERS.

Owned by the Sender and May Be Reclaimed by Him Until Delivered to the Addressee.

Many persons are under the impression that a letter once mailed is no longer the property of the sender, but belongs to the person to whom it is addressed. This is an error. Under the postal regulations of the United States and the rulings of the highest courts in the land, a letter does not belong to the addressee until it is delivered to him.

The writer has a right to reclaim and regain possession of it provided he can prove to the satisfaction of the postmaster at the office from which it was sent that he was the writer of it.

Even after the letter has arrived at the office which is its destination and before it has been delivered to the addressee it may be recalled by the writer by telegraph through the mailing office.

The regulations of the postoffice department require, of course, that utmost care shall be taken by the postmaster at the office of mailing to ascertain that the person who desires to withdraw the letter is really the one who is entitled to it, so, any the postmaster is responsible for his error if he delivers the letter to an impostor or to an unauthorized person.

The vital principle in our political system lies at the bottom of this matter. In this country the state is the servant or agent of the citizen, not his master. It remains merely his agent throughout the transmission of a letter. The state may prescribe regulations under which its servants may carry a message for the citizen, but it cannot shirk its responsibility to him. —Washington Star.

TUNING A PIANO.

A Professional's Experience With Irritable Von Bulow.

"Piano tuners are for the most part graduated from piano factories," says one of them. "While the piano tuner is required to know every part in the makeup of a piano, he is not nece*s*sarily a piano repairer. Nor can the average piano maker or repairer tune a piano. There are hundreds of expert makers and repairers of pianos who would be able to tell one tune from another.

"The piano tuner is born, not made. His acute sense of the vibrations of sound is given to him at his birth, and the man who hasn't got this sense can't become a piano tuner.

"Quite a number of years ago, when Hans von Bulow was in America, I tuned the piano upon which he played. He wouldn't allow the instrument to be tuned in the anteroom, one of the whims being that even a short removal of a piano knocks it all out of tune—something in that theory at that. So I tuned it upon the platform upon which he was to perform. He stood over me all the time, keeping out agonized whoops and German cuss words until I couldn't help but laugh in his face.

"Finally, when I had the piano almost tuned, save a few more shrieks and, grabbing the wrench, began doing the job all over again. I let him go ahead, and inside of three minutes he had the piano so hopelessly out of tune that it took me three hours to get it into shape again. Here was Bulow had to pay double for this little exhibition of temper."—Spokane Sportsman Review.

How Dickens Learned to Write.

When asked by one of those wiseacres who are convinced that in order to write good English a man must be taught to write bad Latin where his son was educated, Mr. John Dickens replied with that quaint humor which the his son—er—well, his son—er—might be almost said, in a sense, to have educated himself. The street, the warehouse, Mr. Crackie, an attorney's office, the reporters' gallery and post chaise—such was the curriculum that equipped a young man of twenty-four to preside at the banquet of literature at an unprecedented age, to make the best speeches in London, to go into the best society, to set the table in a roar, to lead every company in which he mixed, to travel, acquire French and Italian with ease and write the most animated letters known to the modern world.—London Times.

Crusty Old Gentleman.

"Some people are so queer," said the young mother, with a pout. "Now, I think there is nothing that should be more appreciated than a generous child."

"What are you referring to, my dear?" asked her neighbor.

"Why, the baby. I had him in the car yesterday, and right in front sat a crusty old gentleman with white whiskers. Four times the baby offered him a stick of candy, and each time he only frowned. When the soft candy got stuck in his side whiskers he became very fiery and told the conductor. Wasn't he rude?"—New York Times.

Why He Was Popular.

"How do you know your husband is not a good poker player?"

"Simply answered young Mrs. Torkins, "no good poker player could be so popular as he is with other poker players"—Washington Star.

Either Would Do.

The Dear Girl—He had the impudence to ask me for a kiss! Her Dear Friend—The idea! What cheek! The Dear Girl (blushing)—He wasn't particular which.—Judge.

Incandescent Lamps.

Incandescent lamps can be colored by dipping them in a solution of white shellac in denatured alcohol to which has been added aniline dye of the desired hue.

NEW ROUGH WOOLS.

Materials For This Winter's Suits Are of Very Light Weight.

Though Coarse Faced, They Are Surprisingly Soft—Odd Coats and Belts of Various Shapes and Styles Give Unusual Grace.

With the return of rough faced wools come some new materials of astonishing lightness in weight. Ratine, one of the first to arrive, is the apothe*osis of the knotted faced chinchilla*, but is as light in weight as some silks. In fact, this wool promises a big run since it becomes possible to buy it by the yard. As yet it is scarce and has been seen on very few counters. It first came over in imported suits this fall. The weave is an old one, but in its former vogue it was heavy of weight and not the supple fabric it is in its transformation.

It is a puzzle to any one feeling these new, thick, coarse faced wools to find them so light and soft. Even the tweeds, cheviots, homespuns and worsteds and all the rest of the sturdy suitings are reduced to a minimum of weight. And every one is soft and falls limp without effort.

The tweeds are uncommonly lovely this year—the tweeds and homespuns. All the beautiful low toned colors are found in them—the wood browns, dun grays, old purples, dull tawny yellows and old blues. In the suits and sumptuous coats of the day, with their big revers collars sometimes covering the entire front, these suitings are passing effective.

The suit in our drawing is made of one of the mixed tweeds with the broken stripes introduced to give variety of line. The hat with the suit is made of the same material trimmed with ribbon and shaded feathers.

Odd belt arrangements are a feature of new suits. They encircle the entire waist or crop out wherever the designer sees fit to bring them into view. Many of the coats made of sturdy wools are very short, of mere hip length, and they run into odd little variations in the peplums and fronts. Necks are furnished with collars and big lapels or with bretelle effects, with collarless necks and even with military collars. The collar may be almost anything that the wearer wishes.

The outlining of the coats with braid and other trimmings at the bottom is one of the pretty features just now in ready to wears. Hercules braid several inches wide is the most used trimming, though soutache still appears, but usually in conjunction with the wider braid. Quantities of embroidery are employed on suits intended for dress wear. And there are original little waistcoat effects for open fronts.

Storm Coats.

The season for traveling is not yet over, but the maid who ventures forth now must look out for storms and rough weather. For her benefit has been revived the old fashioned storm coat of rough serge or cheviot, with long "waterproof" cape and wide kimono sleeves. The coat is long, reaching entirely to the bottom of the dress, and is double breasted as a further protection against rain and cold, being fastened by a double row of big buttons. It has the advantage of being perfectly adaptable to home make, since it is simple in cut and plain in appearance. As an idea of the amount of material required it may be said that a thirty-six bust measure, an average size, requires about five and one-quarter yards of fifty-four inch material.

To Clean Hairbrushes.

Dissolve some soda in a little hot water, then fill up the bowl with cold. Dip the bristles of the brush in, take out and shake well. Repeat this several times until the brush is quite clean. The water, being almost cold, will prevent the bristles turning yellow, and if the bowl is wide the back of the brush will be kept dry.

HONOR COUNTY CHAIRMAN

Silver Service Presented to F. H. Smith Prior to Dinner Given for Him.

Anxious to show their appreciation Committee and other friends Monday of his services to the party, the members of the Union County Republican night presented a costly silver service to County Chairman Frank H. Smith. The token of esteem was formally presented at a meeting of the committee at the Dix building, Elizabeth former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean making the speech. Mr. Smith seemed much affected and in his response said that it did not need any such expression to let him know how cordial had been the relations of the committee.

Following the meeting a banquet was held at the Elks' club with Mr. Smith as the guest of honor. Former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean acted as toastmaster and speeches were made by the present county chairman, Former County Chairman Charles N. Codding, of *Westfield; Surrogate George Por*rot, of Elizabeth, also a formerCounty Chairman; former Mayor James F. Buckle, of this city, Mayor Vreeland, of Summit, and Postmaster Charlock, of Elizabeth.

County Chairman Smith referred to the recent defeat of his party, declaring that such temporary setbacks were to be expected at any time but that he felt sanguine that the Republicans who elected a Democratic State administration would return to the fold in the next campaign. Party leaders, he said, were chosen, not self-appointed, and he predicted that Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson would find this to be true before long.

Former County Chairman Codding voiced his sentiments against the direct primary for the selection of United States Senator, while former Mayor Buckle paid a tribute to Mr. Smith and discussed human nature in politics.

Among the Plainfielders present were Amos Andrews, Andrew McCardell, E. C. Westcott, H. Adelberg, Herbert Buxton and James F. Buckle. Dr. F. W. Westcott and George Johnson represented the Fanwood and Scotch Plains Republicans.

This was the inscription on the cover of the menu card:

"Get Out Party
"Lodge of Sorrow
"Our Deeds:
"State Ticket, obit, Nov. 8
"County Ticket, obit, Nov. 8.
"Elks Club, Elizabeth, Dec. 19, 1910
(Picture of Democratic donkey)
"Who Tickled his Hind Legs?
"Banquet and Presentation in honor of our County Chairman Frank H. Smith, just to show him that we appreciate his services even though we were kicked out by a donkey."

This was the menu:

"Jimmyantifil cocktail
Salt River Oysters
"Post Card Celery
"Ballot Stuffed Olives
"Revisiondownward Soup
"(Vintage of Nov. 8, 1910)
Salad
"Cost of Living Punch
"Prime Roast Beef
"Mashed Smiths Tuttle Peas
"Ice Cream Brodhead Cakes
"Coffee
"—That's All. Waiter—More Water."

According to the card, "Jimmy" Buckle responded to the toast "Human Nature," while "Harmony" Smith responded to "It's Going to be a Long Winter for Us."

Among the advertisements on the menu card was one heading:

"For Sale—A slightly worn but much battered machine. Apply to F. H. S., care of Esquimox house."

Another read:

"Popular song, the big hit—"I was knocked out, but I'm still in the ring.'" Sample copies free. Address Plainfield's City Chairman."

At the bottom of the menu card was a hearse with the inscription: "And is this our band wagon?"

GIRL, 11, BRAVE AS FEET ARE CUT OFF.

With her left foot amputated at the ankle and her right foot amputated at the instep little Rose Bondisha, 11 years old, of 14 Bay street, Montclair, is lying down on Mountainside Hospital suffering great pain as the result of being run over by a passenger train of the Lackawanna Railroad Saturday afternoon.

The train had been emptied of its passengers at the Montclair station and was backing out of the siding in the rear of Blondel's coal yard. The girl was picking coal there and did not notice the approaching train. It is not known how many of the cars passed over the girl's feet or how long she had lain there before she was discovered by Michael Caruso, who was passing. He knew the girl, as she lives with her parents and five other children in his father's house.

Caruso ran to the railroad depot and engaged a hackman and had the injured girl removed to the hospital. It was found necessary to perform amputation in an effort to save her life.

At the hospital yesterday it was said that the girl was one of the bravest ever operated on in the hospital. Her condition is critical. The loss of blood and exposure to the cold before being found may cause her death.

HOW ORDER IS KEPT IN THE COUNTY JAIL

In the Union county jail, as in other penal institutions throughout the world, order is kept in cell corridors by the aid of prison trusties. While Warden Dodd and his assistants are always on the watch for any outbreak or disorder among the inmates they depend on men in the cell room acting in the capacity of trusties to keep order. The local county jail is probably one of the best managed in the State and has never been the scene of any serious outbreak among the prisoners. In fact the men who have served there declare that while the discipline of the warden is excellent and rigid, yet life at the jail is not hard.

The warden has very little difficulty in handling even the worst of *his prisoners. He was heard to re*mark one day recently that he simply tells a prisoner who seems to be inclined to disobey that the rules of the institution are there and will have to be obeyed.

Most of the prisoners at the jail and in other jails of the State know that good behavior on their part makes life in the institution easier for them. There is a fear among prisoners of each other. One man is always afraid that the other is a "squeeler," and for this reason few secrets are imparted in the institution for punishment.

In the Union county jail the prisoners do all of the work in the cells, such as cleaning, washing and sweeping. Each prisoner who behaves himself is allowed one day each week on the floor. Other days, except at meal hours, when all the prisoners are allowed in the corridors, they are locked in their cells. This means that every day there are several prisoners on the "floor" of the jail. It has always been customary in the institution for the warden to pick one man, usually one who has been in the institution a long while, as "foreman" of the floor or "trusty." This man is supposed to keep order among the men on the floor and to direct them in the work to be done.

Occasionally there will be a little altercation between two men on the floor. This is at once communicated to the warden and his assistant, and the participants are punished, the usual punishment being confinement in a cell on bread and water. Occasions of this kind are very infrequent.

*Persons who have visited the Un*ion county jail, and there have been quite a few, claim that the institution is one of the best managed in the State. Sheriff Kirkland, who is the head of the institution, and Warden Charles Dodd and Mrs. Dodd, the matron, are complimented by almost every Grand Jury on the appearance of the jail.

WAS PRAYING ON TRACK AS TRAIN CAME ALONG.

As the 5 o'clock train of the Morristown and Erie Railroad was approaching Morristown Friday night the engineer saw a man in a kneeling position on the track. He blew the whistle, but the man didn't move, and the train was brought to a stop. The conductor alighted, grabbed the fellow by the shoulder and started to pull him off the track.

"Leave me alone," said the stranger.

"You're in the way of the train," replied the conductor.

"The Lord has appointed this place for me to pray and I am doing so here."

"The train will run you down."

"Which think you the strongest, the Lord or the train?" retorted the man, and then the conductor told him he thought the train was in this particular case.

The conductor said Friday night that he thought the man was an old resident of Hanover by the name of John Pruden. This is the third or fourth time, according to the conductor, that he has been found in this position on the track.

Fixing the Age of Fish.

The age of a fish can be determined with accuracy by inspection of the otoliths or bony concretions which are found in the auditory apparatus. These otoliths increase in size during the entire life of the fish, each year adding two layers, a light-colored layer fromed in summer and a dark laye formed in autumn and winter. Thealternative layers are sharply contrasted and even when worn down there is no difficulty in counting them. The number of pairs of layers is equal to the number of years the fish has lived. By this method Wallace has made an interesting study of the distribution of fishes in the plaice species over various sea bottoms, according to age. In this way the rapidity of growth of fishes and the effect of fisheries on the population of the sea can be determined.—Scientific American.

Butchers Close Monday.

The butchers of the city who are desirous of seeing their customers properly supplied with meats, etc., hope that the people will order their supplies on Friday early and cover their wants for over Monday, as the stores for the most part will be closed on Monday in celebration of Christmas. It will be better to order everything on Friday because orders given on Saturday run the risk of not being delivered on time.

JERSEYMEN LOSE JOBS AT CLOSE OF CONGRESS

Talk of an extra session of Congress at Washington, D. C., immediately after the close of the present session, the last session of the Sixty-first Congress, is not to the liking of many employes at the Capitol who, with the change in the control of the affairs of the House of Representatives, will find it expedient to look for new positions, for it is expected that every Republican holding a place will be notified that his services are no longer required, once the Democrats assume charge of the affairs. There will be a number of employes who hold their residence in New Jersey who will be among those superseded by Democrats.

For fifteen years the position of chief clerk of the House of Repre*sentatives has been held by William* J. Browning, of Camden. In that time the work has nearly trebled, and Yet Mr. Browning has discharged his duties with marked fidelity and efficiency. So numerous are the details incident to the position that it will be difficult for a new man to take hold and fill the position at all satisfactorily for a time, because of a lack of knowledge of what the requirements of the place are. It has not been definitely settled yet that Mr. Browning will have to go. It is possible he may be retained for a time, provided he is willing to stay, to keep the work from becoming chaotic.

Joseph M. Thompson, of New Egypt, chief telegrapher of the House, will probably be asked to continue in that capacity during Congress, because of his efficiency and uniform courtesy in the position. It is probable, however, that he will find it necessary to take the second position as assistant, as the position as chief will go to a man who is filling the minority place.

Frank Barto, of Camden, formerly secretary of Representative Loudenslager, will continue as one of the official stenographers to committees, because these places are held on merit rather than because of political preferment.

Captain M. E. Matlack, of Mt. Holly, a well-known attorney, the present printing clerk of the House of Representatives, will find a Democrat ready to step into his place in the event Congress. In like manner John W. Bostwick, Jr., of Rahway, clerk of the Committee on Judiciary, will step down with Representative Parker. John G. Shreve, clerk of the Committee on Labor, will return to Atlantic City, where for some years he has been a newspaper publisher.

A L'EMPIRE.

The revival of the Empire modes seems likely to be more accurate, at least for evening wear, than any recent adaptations have been, says our Paris correspondent. I have seen one or two perfect productions of First Empire prints recently.

At one dance there was a girl in a high-waisted lemon-colored silk gown, her dark hair piled on her head, with a plain Empire band of gold about it, no ornaments and an inch-wide string of pale gray velvet ribbon high round her neck. This very unusual finish was to the highest degree artistic, and the success of the get-up was heightened by the fact that the lady was one of the very few who can "trip."

Heroines do it always, unless they are over five-foot-six, but in real life it is seldom that one sees this pretty girl unexaggerated and natural.

MAY IRWIN GOES INTO THE POULTRY BUSINESS.

May Irwin, the actress has that chicken-raising bug which every one gets once in a lifetime. The first inkling of her new fad was given in a lavender tinted note received by Major Crawford, of Montclair, yesterday morning. The Mayor is secretary and manager of the New York Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association, which holds its annual show in Madison Square Garden, December 27, 28, 29, 30 and 31.

Miss Irwin modestly asked for information concerning the New York show, tells of her new experience—raising chickens—and expresses a wish to enter birds for prizes.

But, the Mayor says, Miss Irwin must wait until next year to exhibit them, the entries having closed.

Scandinavian Society Elects.

At a regular meeting of the Scandinavian Society Thule held Saturday night, officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, G. A. Brandt; vice-president, Eric Anderson; corresponding secretary, Caleen; financial secretary, Emil Vickstrom; recording secretary, John Ohgren. Committees were appointed and arrangements are being made for the annual Christmas entertainment to be held on December 31.

Services at Crescent Ave. Church.

The arrangement by which the pastors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and chapels, have always spoken in the Wednesday evening prior to Christmas, will be omitted this year owing to the vacancy in the pastorate at Hope chapel and plans for a special missionary service at Warren chapel. Addresses will be given by the pastor and members of the congregation.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

W. B. CODDINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law,
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, others permanent locals, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand opportunity. Write at once, if man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. Now, if you mean it, write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnaces
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL

DIED.

MARSH—On Sunday, December 18, 1910, Harriet A., daughter of Albert and Elizabeth Marsh, aged 17 years.

MURPHY—In this city December 18, 1910, Mary, wife of Stephen Murphy.

SMITH—At the residence of his daughter, Mrs. T. L. Craig, 20 Bell street, Montclair, New Jersey, on Tuesday, December 13, 1910, James F. Smith, aged 75 years.

COONEY—In this city December 13, 1910, after a short illness, Mrs. Mary Cooney.

THACKRAY—At the residence of her nephew, Mr. H. W. Davis, 25 Grandview avenue North Plain*field, on Friday, December 16,* 1910, Susan A., widow of Isaac Thackray, in her 75th year.

STAATS—At Dunellen, N. J., December 16, 1910, Elizabeth T., wife of Peter Staats, aged 64 years.

P. O. SAVINGS BANK WILL OPEN ON JAN. 3

Washington, Dec. 20.—The postal savings banks system will be inaugurated on January 3, the first working day of the new year, in the different cities of the country which have been selected for an experimen*tal test. Postmaster General Hitch*cock announced last night that the work of drawing up regulations, forms and instructions to postmasters and to the prospective depositors had progressed so satisfactorily as to assure the beginning of operations at experimental offices on that date. One office will be opened in each state and territory to receive deposits, with a view to testing the system which has been devised.

Especial care has been taken, Mr. Hitchcock said, in selecting postoffices with postmasters whose records were excellent in starting the test. The offices are all of the second class in localities where conditions are favorable for the development or the postal bank business. Many of the offices are located where foreigners reside who remit considerable money to relatives in their native lands.

During the last few days a conference was held at the postoffice department for the instruction of twelve postmasters from the Pacific coast and Rock mountain states. They were instructed how the system could be maintained. Within a few days postmasters of thirty-six offices will meet in Washington for similar instruction.

MEN DISCUSS MISSION

Four Parishes Represented at Banquet of Episcopal Church Laymen.

PLAN FOR ORGANIZATION.

Permanent Committee Named—Addresses by John W. Wood, Wm. F. Cochran and Others—G. M. Holstein Toastmaster.

Considerable disappointment was manifested Friday night at the men's meeting in the parish house of Grace Episcopal church, when it was announced that Right Rev. L. L. Kinsolving, D. D., Bishop of Brazil, would not be present to address the men of the four parishes gathered to dine and discuss plans along the line of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. Bishop Kinsolving was detained at Providence, R. I., where he had gone to attend the memorial services of Bishop McVicker. However, John W. Wood, corresponding secretary of the Board of Missions, and William F. Cochran, of Baltimore members of the laymen's movement, gave interesting addresses upon the subject of missions with special reference to the foreign field and the result was the formation of a permanent committee to work in accordance with the plans of the laymen's movement which involves the systematic giving of money for the work among the unconverted of the world.

The meeting for discussion was preceded by a dinner served by Henry Johnson, steward of the Park Club. Sixty eight men were present and were heartily welcomed by the chairman of the meeting, George M. Holstein who acted as toastmaster. Besides the laymen the rectors of the 4 churches in this city were on hand to lend their influence to the movement among the Episcopal men of the churches. Rev. E. Walpole Stevenson and Rev. George A. Warner sat at the speakers' table while Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery and Rev. Elory G. Bowers were among the diners at other tables.

None of the men present except-ing those connected with arranging the meeting were previously aware of the object of it, but when it was revealed they joined heartily in the sentiments expressed by the speakers.

Mr. Holstein in introducing Mr. Cochran said that it was the fighting spirit that usually brought men together in bonds of affection and it was upon this same spirit of co-operation or offspring of the fighting spirit that all great movements of the world are accomplished. The purpose of the laymen's movements he said, is the uplift and development of the human race and the prospects of ultimate success should make every man an optimist.

The fact that success attends the work of the movement is found in the awakening of the popular conscience and the making of the world a better place to live in. The organized missions under the auspices of the laymen's alliance has two purposes—first, to hear the reports of men from the fighting line and, second, to determine whether the fight is for us to take a hand in.

Mr. Cochran told of his personal experiences in the beginning of his entry into the work a year ago, relating interesting data in connection with the work here at home He declared that the Christian who lacks the missionary spirit is a Christian in name only. He quoted the Scriptures to prove that it was every Christian's duty to become in some way, either with money or work, a missionary. He declared that the testimony of W. P. Ellis, a Philadelphia newspaper man, was the most eloquent proof of the success of the work. Mr. Ellis had at his own expense visited foreign countries, investigating the work among the unconverted and was convinced that God's work was being handled with scrupulous fidelity and was bringing splendid results.

"Mr. Ellis's statement went far to correct the wrong impression that foreign converts are not premanent Christians," declared the speaker. "They are not only permanent Christians, but they develope into the most ardent workers. I do not believe, though, that the Church is going to be able to cope with the problems of the world unless she follows all the commands of God. We must get rid of the spirit of apathy that prevails and go forward with vigor and get in the front—on the firing line. In the last analysis it will be proved that the conception of the true Christian who faced the matter squarely has had God's spirit with him and has accomplished what he could to make the world better and that he has fulfilled his stewardship."

Mr. Wood said that those who had previously heard him speak in the church had never had a chance to get back at him, but that he would give everybody the opportunity to ask whatever question he desired on the subject at the conclusion of his speech. He apologized for the absence of Bishop Kinsolving, saying that he was in the main responsible for the absence of his protege.

Mr. Wood said in part: "There are two things connected with missionary work which should be encouraged—that which is good and that which is good for something. If the proper spirit were to obtain the Episcopal church would lead in the giving for missions. As it stands at present our Presbyterian bretheren lead us by a safe margin, but we hope we will soon lead our friends.

"It has been said that the uprising of the laymen has only been that they may turn around and sit down again. But this is not so. Many are not going to get back to the old rut. They are putting their shoulders to the missionary wheel with even more vigor than they showed when they started with the result that the movement instead of retrograding is ever pushing upward to a higher goal. Former Secretary of the Treasury Shaw has said that aptitude and industry spell success. We have the aptitude and it is therefore time for us to get busy and by our industry bring success along the line of prelodical giving for the missionary work.

"The Cincinnati convention proved that the laymen's movement was one in the right direction because it endorsed the movement and immediately following this came the endorsement of the House of Bishops. That the movement took at look as though the matter were a dead issue."

Several instances with figures of the work from the field were given by the speaker all of which tended to awaken the interest of his hearers. He spoke of China. Again Asia Korea as fields where immense strides had been successfully taken and declared that spasmodic giving for missions was unjust to the Church as well as to the fellows who had the spasm.

George S. Bryan, Jr., Fleming, J. A. Bryan and F. W. Iredell approved of the work in short speeches. Rev. C. H. Mallery declared that it was not a favor that Christians were to confer upon non-Christians, but a manifest duty, as Christianity was the only religion that was for every man, woman and child in the world.

Upon a motion of Mr. Iredell, the following permanent committee for missionary work among the men of the four Episcopal churches was appointed: George S. Bryan, chairman, E. F. Feickert, F. W. Iredell, Dr. E. S. Krans, Homer Smith, J. A. Lane, S. D. Lounsbury, John J. Jewet and N. P. Rogers. This committee arranged the dinner of last evening.

PLAN FOR HUNDRED-YEARS' PEACE CELEBRATION.

The American Peace Society is planning to celebrate in December, 1914, 100 years of peace between the United States, Great Britain and Canada. Opinoins of the plan have been solicited from educators and publicists in all three countries, and there appears to be a unanimous desire for such a celebration. The main difference of opinion are in regard to the form and method of the celebration so as to make it of lasting historical value and moral effectiveness in the national character of the countries interested. Andrew D. White, former Secretary of State, thinks that lasting benefit can be secured by inaugurating a movement for a "permanent treaty of arbitration of an unlimited character." Senator Elihu Root is not prepared to say what form such a celebration should take, but that "it would have to be a matter of consultation between the representatives of the United States and Great Britian and her American colonies." Professor L. S. Rowe, of the political science department of the University of Pennsylvania, suggests an international conference of Canadian and American universities and colleges as fitting the occasion. Walter Camp, of course ,wants something in the way of international athletic meets.

Lord Courtney ,of Penrith ,England, president of the International Peace Congress, London ,1908 urges the carrying out of disgrmament on the Great Lakes of the American continent, and to use influence to neutralize other waters. An English authority on international law, Professor Thomas J. Lawrence, suggests the wide circulation of a record of the development of the arbitral process between these countries, and a "vivid representation by tableaux or otherwise of the great deeds done by pioneers of civilization on both sides of the frontier during the past century." David W. Longley, Halifax, N. S., thinks the celebration should be intellectual. "The tendency of the age is towards the spectacular," he says, "but I think that more permanent results could be attained by noble utterances of great representative men of the two countries—Great Britain being included—than by the organization of more Callithumpian show." The Mayor of Halifax ,Joseph S. Chrisholm, strongly expresses himself as follows: "War between people speaking the same language, drawing the best blood largely from the same common sources, and devoted substantially to the same political and social ideals, is so utterly repugnant to our civilization that we may confidently hope that the first century of peace between Britain and the American republic may be followed by another and another and that between them there shall be no more war."

Dr. B. VanD. Hedges has taken up with his Sunday school class of young men at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, a course in "Studies in the Gospel of the Kingdom" having for its subject, "Living Social Problems in the Light of the Gospel of Jesus Christ." The course is prepared under the supervision of an interdenominational committee of which Dr. Josiah Strong is chairman.

F. E. SMITH TRINITY S. S. SUPERINTENDENT AGAIN

Despite the severe weather of Thursday a large number of officers and teachers of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school attended the annual meeting in the lecture room of the church. Superintendent F. E. Smith presided over the business session, which was largely of a routine nature. Following the regular business, these officers were chosen for the coming year:

Superintendent, F. E. Smith; assistant superintendent, Horace J. Martin, Sr.; secretary, Chauncey F. Colthar; assistant secretary, Clarence Rittenhouse treasurer, Charles M. Dolliver; superintendent of Junior department, Miss Mabel Wilson; superintendent of primary department, Mrs. J. M. Tier; superintendent of beginners' department, Mrs. H. E. Gayle; librarian, H. C. VanEmburgh; assistant librarians, LeRoy Woodhull, William Trembath, William Wynkoop, Frank Fraser and Harry Kenyon; precentor, Horace J. Martin, Sr.; pianist, Miss May Randolph; superintendent Home department, Mrs. Henry VanName; assistant superintendent Home department, Mrs. George Bamm; secretary Home department, Mrs. Julius Williams; assistant secretary Home department, Mrs. Charles M. Dolliver.

These committees were also elected:

Executive, William F. Dolliver, Edgar F. Sheppard, Miss Mabel Wilson; library, Mrs. Leonard S. Smith, Mrs. Frank P. Storr, Henry P. Seader; music, Miss Etta Raybert, Miss May Randolph, Miss Harriet Randall, Horace J. Martin, Sr., Phillip A. Vroom, Miss Ellza Dutford; comfort on teachers, Horace J. Martin, Sr., George L. VanEmburgh, Mrs. Virginia Chickering.

At the close of the election a social time was enjoyed by all, refreshments being served by Class No. 24 of the school, of which Henry P. Seader is the teacher.

"GRANDMA" WHITENACK, AGED 100 YEARS, DEAD

Death Thursday claimed "Grandma" Marie Whitenack, of East Millstone, at the age of one hundred years and sixty-eight days. The aged woman had several friends and relatives in this vicinity and she was well known not only here, but throughout the entire State. She was born at Belle Mead and lived there a section of the State all her life. She was a devout Christian woman and the greater part of her life was a faithful member of the Reformed church at East Millstone.

"Grandma" Whitenack always adhered to the primitive style of dress, even to the poke bonnet, and the hoop skirt, which she continued to wear until feeble health prevented her from getting about the house. Her mind remained clear and she was able to converse intelligently on the events and neighbors on current topics of the day.

She is survived by a son, Thomas J. Cooper, by her first marriage, with whom she lived. He is seventy-eight years old. There are also two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Randolph, aged ninety-nine and Mrs. Katharine Kershaw, aged eighty-three.

FIRE CHIEF'S CAUTION TO XMAS DECORATORS

Fire Chief T. O. Doane has issued his annual edict against the use of inflamable materials in Christmas decorations and draws the attention of the public to the fact that a little care properly exercised may be the means of preventing fire and consequent loss of life and property.

Chief Doane urges that if electric illuminations are to be used on Christmas trees that they should be installed by an expert and that they should not be covered with any inflamable materials. The danger of a dried spruce tree is emphasized and particular attention to the danger of using candles on them. "Candles should not be used," says the chief, "they are apt to give forth the sparks which it needs to start a fire on the tree."

Palls of water should be placed conveniently near for use in event of an accidental blaze. Cotton should never be used under any circumstance be used on a tree. If you must have something to represent snow use mineral wood. Never place ropes of ground pine over the gas jets. Do not let the greens rest on or touch an electric light bulb and be sure to keep all decorations clear of heating pipes. Children's clothing may be made fire proof by dipping them in alum water or using alum in the starch in which they are laundered. The chief believes that observation of these few precautions will contribute to the general cheer of the season as well as prevent after regrets.

"That man is at least ten years ahead of his time."

"What is he?"

"The census taker who gave our town its surprising population figures."—Exchange.

MILNE AGAIN PRESIDENT

North Plainfield Improvement Association Re-elects Him as its Head.

DISCUSSES WATER QUESTION.

Judge Isaac P. Runyon Speaks in Favor of a Municipal Plant—Committee Appointed to Arrange Social Affair.

Alexander Milne, who has been president of the North Plainfield Improvement Association since its inception, was again elected to the office at the December meeting in the borough Council chambers, Friday night. The members were unanimous in the belief that the good work he has accomplished should be repeated during the coming year. The other officers were also reelected as follows:

Vice-president Meredith Dryden; secretary, B. J. Phelps; treasurer, Nelson A. Miller.

The subject of municipal ownership of water supply was taken up and the matter was discussed at some length. In view of the importance of the question under present conditions the following committee was appointed to confer with the city commission now investigating the question: L. B. Woolston, Edmund Rushmore, D. J. Carney, E. T. Wilson and Charles Keating.

Following the appointment Judge Isaac P. Runyon took the floor and spoke in favor of municipal ownership of water. He stated that both Madison and Hackettstown own their respective plants and derive a profit from them. He raised the question that if these places could operate municipal plants successfully there is no apparent reason why North Plainfield could not do likewise. The judge's opinion was voiced by several other members.

The subject of holding and entertainment of the affair of some sort was broached and the matter was placed in the hands of a committee composed of David J. Carney, Meredith Dryden and B. J. Phelps. They will decide the nature of the affair and fix the date and all other arrangements.

P. B. Paroubek and John J. Bowers were elected to membership The remainder of the session was devoted to a general discussion of municipal subjects.

President Milne has a number of matters to bring before the association at future meetings and hopes to secure some prominent speakers to address the meetings. The attendance last night was quite large.

WEST END DEMOCRATS ENDORSE DR. WILSON

James E. Martine received another endorsement of his candidacy for United States Senator Friday at the hands of the West End Democratic Club and the club did not delay in letting James Smith, Jr., the Newark candidate know of the action Mr. Smith will have ere this received form the secretary of the club, a request that he name the organizations outside of Essex county who have endorsed his candidacy. This action was taken by the club because they believed that outside of Essex and Hudson, Mr. Smith has very few sympathizers.

Another feature of the meeting of this club last night was the resolution of approval introduced by a member praising the attitude assumed by Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson toward the primary election question. A copy of the resolution was forwarded to Dr. Wilson today. Letters were sent to all the assemblymen and State senators invoking their aid by their votes and influence for James E. Martine.

Arrangements are now being made for a minstrel show and ball which will be held some time in January or February next. The committee appointed to arrange for this affair were: Eugene Caffrey, Harry Goelet and George Moore. Seven new members were added to the club roll.

CEDARCROFT SKATING CLUB ENJOY A SKATE AND SUPPER.

The Cedarcroft Skating Club had a moonlight skating party Friday evening followed by an informal supper in the tea room. There were about thirty persons on the ice and the skating was ideal. The tennis court, which has been enlarged, was flooded at the beginning of the cold weather last week and has been kept in perfect condition ever since. The club is composed of the guests of Cedarcroft and their friends in the neighborhood. The first meeting was held December 8, when officers were elected and rules were adopted.

The exceptionally cold weather during December has made it possible to have skating earlier than was expected and the skaters have taken full advantage of the excellent ice.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

FARM AND HOME

WINTERING BEES.

Sufficient and Careful Preparations Should Be Made For Their Weathering Severe Cold.

More than half of the winter and early spring losses of colonies are traceable to the bees not being properly prepared for their long winter's sleep.

November is the month when the average beekeeper begins to bestir himself in the matter, and the earlier things are attended to the better. The tendency is more and more in favor of outdoor wintering, as bees so wintered are not so prone to dysentery or spring dwindling.

If the colony is strong in bees and stores and properly packed there is slight danger of excessive winter losses. Often in spite of all we can do an occasional colony will perish, but natural swarming the following season will in a large measure make up for the loss.

A few years ago one of the most extensive beekeepers in New York state lost many of his strongest colonies, and he could not understand it. Inquiry revealed the fact that the fall flow was very light, due to the dry weather, and the bees accordingly had reared little or no late brood, so the colony had gone into winter quarters with practically nothing but old bees, and they naturally died of old age.

The bees that go through the winter and constitute the colony in the spring are generally bees that have been hatched after Aug. 1, and a little stimulative feeding from Aug. 1 to Sept. 1 will insure the presence of bees of just the right age for wintering. Where there is a steady flow during August and September stimulative feeding is not necessary.

Unite all weak colonies early and thus be sure of wintering one strong one rather than losing two weak ones.

For outdoor wintering see that every hive has a honey board or a piece of canvas over the frames of the brood body that reaches clear out to its edges.

Over this place an empty section or extracting super and fill it full of planer shavings or hay chaff. Then tie about a dozen thicknesses of newspapers around all sides of the hive and super and tack around this a piece of heavy waterproof paper.

Do not allow the paper to close the entrance to the hive. Over all slip a shallow telescope cap of wood, easily made, and covered with waterproof paper. Contract the entrance of the hive with a piece of lath or shingle.

Bees to be wintered in cellars or special repositories should be carried in about the 25th of the month or when a cold spell comes on after three or four mild days, during which the bees have had a cleansing flight. These hives should be placed in a dark cellar and have the entrances to the hives fully open when set in and the temperature of the cellar kept between 45 and 65 degrees.

RACK FOR SEED CORN.

Few Kernels Spoil When Using Such Device, Which Can Be Made Rat Proof.

The rack shown here has proved to be of great value to those employing it for the storage of seed corn.

Its dimensions it is as follows: It is twelve feet long, six feet high and two feet wide. The uprights are of 2 by 3

Storage Rack For Seed Corn.

inch stuff and side pieces 2 by 1 inch. The shelves are eight inches apart. Over each shelf is stretched two foot wire poultry fencing of two inch mesh. The ears are laid on these shelves in such a way that two ears touch each other. In this way only a few kernels of each ear rest upon the wires, and the air can circulate freely through the whole rack.

These racks may be readily converted into mouse and rat proof closets by covering them on sides, ends, top and bottom with wire screening. If this is done the screening on one side should be put on in the form of hinged doors.

Danger of Fighters In Flock.

Don't tolerate a fighting cock among your stock. Your flock is not inclined to fight all the time let one of them out while the other is penned. Sometimes filing the beak and spurs will take the fighting instinct out of both for a time.

Fighting is bad not only for the cocks, but also for the excitement it creates among the hens. Do not tolerate it for a day. Many a valuable cock has been mangled and ruined for a season in this manner.

Beekeeping Is Cheap.

Farmers cannot hire cheaper laborers than bees. They will work for nothing and board themselves, and the farmer can take the product of their labor and then keep them contented by skillful management.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 25, 1910.

Topic.—"Be born in us today."—Eph. iii, 14-21. (Christmas meeting.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Today is the birthday of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. But Christ was not only born of the Virgin Mary by the power of the Holy Ghost, but He is also capable of being born into the human heart and coming by faith into the hearts and lives of men and dwelling there and directing the motives and aspirations of the heart and the external acts of the life, which are the fruits or results of Christ "dwelling in us by faith."

The birth of Christ into the human heart is a mystery. This cannot be denied. No more can it be denied that it is a fact. This is the important phase of this tremendous claim. What matters the mystery if the glorious fact be true? The blind man could not explain how he was healed, but that was of little importance to him since he could say, "Whereas I was blind, now I see." His concern was not about the method of his being made to see, but it was concerned only with the fact that he could see. He knew he had been blind. But whereas he had been blind he knew that he could see. That was all sufficient for him. Hence if we know that Christ does dwell in our hearts, has been born in us by the power of the Spirit, we should we worry about the mystery in connection with the event itself? His own birth is mysterious, and many doubt or deny the virgin birth of Christ, but if we believe it, accept it and act upon it there need be no hesitation in placing significance upon how it could have been. "With God all things are possible." So it should be with Christ's indwelling in us.

The Scriptures declare the fact of Christ's indwelling presence. The topical inference consists of Paul's prayer for the Ephesians. It follows in form the Lord's Prayer, having (1) a preface, (2) petitions, (3) a benediction or doxology. This entire prayer is well worth our close and prayerful study. In one of the petitions Paul prays "that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith." Paul had had a deep religious experience. He spoke from experience. Christ lived or dwelt in Him by faith. To the Galatians he writes, "It is no longer I that live, but Christ liveth in me, and the life which I now live I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself for me" (Gal. ii, 20). If in Paul and in the Ephesians Christ lived and reigned by faith will also dwell in all who accept Him by faith.

The character of Christ demonstrates His indwelling presence. Christ is divine; He is deity—not divine merely in the sense that we are all divine or possess the image of God. He is "very God of my God." Hence He is omnipotent, all powerful and can do anything. Of course His physical body does not dwell in our bodies. No one could conceive of such an absurdity. It is spiritually that He abides with us, and since His departure from earth it is the Holy Ghost who dwells in us as His personal representative. "It is expedient for you that I go away, for if I go not away the Comforter (the Holy Spirit) will not come unto you." He also says to His disciples, "Abide in me and I in you." "I in you" This is His own declaration, and, being God, He can and will fulfill it.

Personal experience proves the indwelling presence of Christ. Millions can testify by experience of the presence of Christ in them. What more do we want? The question of great importance now is, Does Christ dwell in me? If not, let Him come in now—this Christmas time—today! Today is the only day we are assured of. Yesterday is past, and tomorrow will never come. On a Christmas Sabbath evening a pastor closed his Christmas sermon by saying: "This is the day of giving gifts. Why not give to Him whose birthday we commemorate, the best of all gifts—yourself? He invites you to come. Will you accept His invitation?" A youth about seventeen years of age accepted, made a Christmas gift of himself to Christ and is now a successful minister of the gospel. "Let the dear Saviour come in—today."

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. ix, 6; xi, 1-5; Matt. ii, 1-11; xi, 28-30; John xiv, 15-21; xvi, 7-15; Rom. iii, 1-8; Gal. ii, 20; iv, 19, 20; Col. i, 27; iii, 8-14; Rev. iii, 20.

Quiet Moments.

In every church there should be a quiet moment after the benediction, when all the devout and reverent men we wait before God for the blessing which has just been invoked upon us all. In this respect the Episcopalians set an admirable example to most denominations in this country, though we have seen the same quiet moment observed in some Presbyterian churches in this country and always in Scotland.

Why should not every service, whether preaching, prayer meeting or Christian Endeavor, be closed with a silent moment of meditation and prayer with the word heard and closed upon?

I commend this heartily as an invariable rule for the close of every Christian Endeavor meeting.

Then when the benediction is pronounced there is another chance to show that God and heavenly things mean something to us by not relapsing into the frivolous small talk which often occupies the first half hour after the service.—Francis E. Clark, D. D.

DUTCH ARMS ENTERTAINED

Trinity Reformed Church Men Enjoyed Seminary Students' Program.

PROVIDED BY A QUARTET.

Some Changes in Constitution Made at Business Session, at Which F. H. Cutter Presided.

The forty or more members and friends of the Dutch Arms, men's association, of Trinity Reformed church, who braved the cold Friday night to go to the church, were well repaid by the exceptionally fine entertainment provided by the quartet from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary. The program furnished by the four young men was well received and the quartet was obliged to respond to numerous encores.

The quartet was composed of James T. Veneklasen, first tenor; Marcus C. T. Andrese, second tenor; John H. Warshuis, first bass; James Dykema, second bass, with Rudolph Steir as the accompanist. Mr. Warshuis gave several recitations, sang songs and gave a clever exhibition of ventriloquism. There were also solos by Mr. Vaneklasen and Mr. Dykema, while Mr. Steir delighted the audience with several piano selections.

Notable among the selections by the quartet were "The Old Oaken Bucket," and "The City Choir," which were acted out in an amusing way, provoking hearty applause. The young men possess exceptionally good voices and they were generous in responding to encores.

A business session was held early in the evening, President F. S. Cutter being in the chair. During the business session a number of changes were made in the constitution, as proposed at a recent meeting. It was decided to allow the dues to remain as they have been in the past. Following the entertainment by the quartet a committee from the Dutch Arms served refreshments and there was a social time enjoyed by the men.

HORSES MAKE RECORD TRIP TO NORRISTOWN

When Stonewall Jackson got ready for shipment seventeen horses and two mules which were destined to Norristown, Pa., Thursday, he did not think it would be necessary for the intervention of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in order to get the animals started. But so it turned out.

Mrs. Stephen G. VanHoesen, special agent for the society, happened to discover a car loaded with horses and mules standing on a siding near the Netherwood station and as usual her curiosity was excited. Getting close up to the car she found the animals enumerated above shivering with the cold and almost unprotected against the wintry blasts which swept through the yards. Communicating at once with the freight house employees she was unable to get any satisfactory information as to when the animals were to be moved.

President W. G. Besler was appealed to and in a surprisingly short time the horses were on their way to Norristown. R. A. Walker, to whom the horses and mules were consigned, was informed Mrs. Van Hoesen that the carload of animals had made record time in their trip from this city. All of which no doubt may be placed to the credit of Mrs. Van Hoesen and President Besler.

The horses had stood in the car from 5 o'clock until 8:30 when discovered by the special agent and the car was one of the slatted variety which affords very slight protection in winter. It is Mrs. Van Hoesen's ambition to try to secure suitable cars for the shipment of animals from this city and to that end she has written to the Inter-State Commerce Commission at Washington specifying the reason why the Central Railroad should provide cars of similar construction to those in use by the Pennsylvania lines.

N. J. AUDUBON SOCIETY TRUSTEES ARE NAMED.

Organizing to discourage the use of wild bird plumage for millinery and other decorations, the New Jersey Audubon Society was incorporated at Trneton Wednesday. Benedict C. Kuser, of Trenton, is the registered agent, and the trustees are:

George Batten, of Montclair; Weldron DeWitt Miller, of this city; John T. Nichols, Englewood; B. S. Bowdish, Dunellen; Alfred D. Cook, Trenton; Frank M. Chapman, Englewood; William W. Grant, Englewood; Mrs. C. H. Seeley, Bridgeton; Clarence D. Riker, Maplewood; Julia S. Scribner, of 510 East Front street; Anthony R. Kuser, Bernardsville; Gilbert H. Trafton, Clifton; Julian K. Potter, Camden; Henry Van Dyke, Princeton; Alexander Hamilton Phillips, Princeton; John K. Gore, Newark, and Charles J. Baxter, Trenton.

A DEADLY CONTEST.

Tragic Climax of a Bicycle Race in Australia in Which Two Deadly Enemies Led.

One of the most singular events in the annals of athletics occurred a few years ago at Sydney, Australia. The occasion was a great electric light bicycle race, and the attendance was not less than 10,000 people. There were fifty entries, two of whom, James Somerville and Percy Cliff, were not only professional rivals, but deadly enemies. Both were considered expert riders.

From the start of the race Somerville led, with Cliff a close second. Somerville kept the lead throughout and came into the last lap with Cliff only a few feet behind him. When about twenty-five yards from the finish Somerville put on a terrific burst of speed and drew away from his rival. Suddenly at this point his grip on the handle bar relaxed, and he fell forward. The machine, however, under the tremendous impulse it had received, raced ahead like an arrow, the rider hanging limply over the handle bar.

Four yards from the tape the machine slowed down a little. At this point the front wheel of Cliff's machine struck the hind wheel of Somerville's, sending both wheel and rider across the tape. Somerville won the race, but he was dead several seconds before he crossed the tape.—Chicago Record-Herald.

ANCIENT DOCTORS.

Some of the Things They Knew Twelve Hundred Years Ago.

The Russian Academy of Medicine after examining a Tibetan "Hand book of Medicine," first published 1,200 years ago, acknowledges that it contains many truths discovered or rediscovered by modern physicians. Here are some extracts from the ancient volume:

"Number of bones in the human body, 360; number of nerves, 99; number of pores, 11,000,000.

"The heart is the king of the organs and the staff of life. The lungs embrace it as a mother does her child. Sicknesses are due to man's malice, ignorance and inability to curb the passions, for these things interfere with the proper nourishment of the human organs. All unkind thoughts react upon the heart and liver."

The methods for ascertaining the state of a person's health were very similar to those methods employed today—looking at the tongue, feeling the pulse, etc. Vegetable medicines are advocated; also baths, compresses, massage, bloodletting, etc. Pliers were imposed upon physicians who did not keep their instruments clean.

A Fearless Prince.

Victor Emmanuel when prince royal held the rank of colonel in a regiment of artillery, and Humbert I. was on the throne. A new explosive had been invented, and the young prince was invited to be present at some experiments that were to be made with it. At the first shot the cannon being used burst with terrific force, scattering pieces of metal in every direction, but luckily not seriously injuring any one. Nevertheless the natural impulse to fly from danger seized officers and experts alike, and off they rushed with more unanimity than dignity. Only Victor Emmanuel remained at his post. He watched them for a moment and then, in a quiet tone of kingly tenor, called them back.

"No use running now," he said, with a ghost of a smile playing about his lips. "All danger is over."

Pet Names.

Every one likes to see husband and wife on affectionate terms, but Snaggsby, the toyshop keeper, rather overdid the thing. Little Johnny Biggs had sixpence, and he had bought a toy, but little Johnny's fancy is wayward, and he discovered that a clock work railway engine was poor fun compared with a horse and cart, after all. Therefore he went to change the railway engine. "You say you bought this here yesterday?" said Snaggsby dubiously. "Who served you?" "The—gossey gander, sir!" said Johnny, pointing to Mrs. S. And when Snaggsby remembered that he had so addressed his wife in the presence of the boy on the day previous he flushed a pretty pink and changed the toy.—London Sphere.

The Sight of the Pigeon.

A friend of mine ridicules the idea that in the carrier pigeon it can be sight which guides it on its homeward trail. But my friend should really study the mechanism of the eye of the bird before he skepticises. I am sure that from heights at which it is itself invisible the falcon can note its prey, and its eye is simply a self adjusting telescope. The careful dissection of the eye of the bird of prey is an absolute revelation as to creative ingenuity.—Dr Dubbs in Fry's London Magazine.

Dean Swift's Retort.

A young advocate said to Dean Swift, "Supposing, doctor, that the parsons and the devil should litigate a cause, which party would you think would gain it?" "The devil, no doubt," was the dean's reply, "as he would have all the lawyers on his side."

The Aristocrats.

"Are there degrees of rank in the servants' hall?"

"To be sure. Maids who have charge of dogs won't associate with maids who look after children."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Honesty is the best policy, although it may have the deferred dividend clause attachment.—Judge.

"Merry Christmas to All"

We are ready for the "rush." Our lines of Suits and Overcoats are all up-to-date—prices are always right—to fit every need and purse. Our stock of Smoking Jackets, Bath Robes, Pajamas, Neckwear, Gloves, Shirts, Sweaters, Mufflers, Suit Cases, Vests, Handkerchiefs, Hats and Caps, Umbrellas, and many other useful presents are here. So call early and avoid the rush. You know the old stand of

Werner's Clothing House

25 YEARS NOW AT

206 W. Front St.

HIGH-GRADE LINE

Bicycles, Motorcycles & Sundries

Auto Express Wagons
Ball-bearing Velocipedes
Ball-bearing Tricycles

Xmas Tree Lighting Outfits

JACK HORNER

Borough National Bank Building

Tel. 1709 — 33 Somerset St.

A CARVING SET

IS A SPLENDID GIFT.

Make one gift this year of a Russell Carving Set. These sets are particularly well made, the knives especially so; they will take and hold an edge of almost razor sharpness, insuring perfect carving pleasure. Make a memorandum! See a Russell Carving Set at Griffen's.

Other Cutlery Gifts

Cutlery of all kinds is always most acceptable. Look thru this list, make note of one or more items, then come in and ask us to show them to you. Carving Sets, Table Cutlery, Pocket Knives, Razors, Scissors and Shears of all kinds and Manicuring Sets.

A. M. GRIFFEN

119-123 E. Front St., Plainfield, N. J. Two 'Phones, 6—214.

Kensington Riding Academy and Boarding Stable

(Formerly Hugh Gormley's Riding School.)

775 KENSINGTON AVENUE

PLAINFIELD, N. J. Telephone 194.

JOSEPH GRANDL, PROPRIETOR

Beg to announce that a first-class Riding School and Boarding Stable has been established at above address.
Riding lessons given to ladies and children by lady instructor.
Riding lessons for gentlemen by experienced Riding Master.
Gentle, well-broken horses to hire.
Horses boarded at reasonable rates.
Best attention and satisfaction guaranteed.
Horse exchange.
Sleighs to hire. 11 20 1mo JOSEPH GRANDL, Proprietor.

YOU DON'T NEED AN AEROPLANE

to buy coal with. My prices are not high enough for that—no. While every other necessity of life has gone up, coal has not changed in price. You can buy a lot of it for a little money of me, and the quality is best.

RICHARD PARROTT, JR.

Phone 1569 — 686 South Second Street

BROKAW'S CREAMERY.

No need to complain of getting poor butter or cream—go to Brokaw's and get his own make, which is always fresh and good. Our specialties are Fresh-made Butter, both salted and unsalted, Rich Milk and Cream, positively Fresh Eggs and everything in the dairy line. The only place in the city where these goods are made on the spot. Call and see our plant and witness the process.

TEL 293-W — 186 E. FRONT STREET

Christmas Goods

Now On Exhibition at the

Lenox Stationery Store

102 Madison Avenue.
BABCOCK BLDG.

John S. Lewis

Artesian Well Contractor.

Estimates Cheerfully Given

Box 173,

Scotch Plains, N. J.

City Market News Stand

Entrance 123-125 North Ave.
'Phone 957-W.

Books, Magazines, Periodicals, Daily, Sunday and Evening Papers. Books bought, sold and exchanged. Pipes repaired; fine selection of Pipes for gifts; Cigars for the holidays, wholesale and retail; Toys, Novelties and Stationery. Watch for our prices of Christmas Candies; the best in fancy boxes. Remember our prices in everything. Finest and cheapest selection of Postal Cards in the city.

CITY MARKET NEWS STAND.
'Phone 957-W. F. M. Wagner, Prop.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Christmas is made merrier by a good Christmas dinner. Here are some suggestions—Waldorf Canned Goods, delicious in Quality, the finest Vegetables, Fruits and Nuts of the season, appetizing Table Delicacies, Plum Pudding and Desserts and the best Coffee and Cocoa, all at reasonable prices.

Prompt, free deliveries.

W. W. DUNN

THE PARK GROCER
Door So. and Lincoln Pl.

THE WATCHUNG HOME BAKERY AND LUNCH ROOM,
432 WATCHUNG AVENUE,
'PHONE 1712.

Special for Saturday Boston Baked Beans, Individual Meat Pies and Rice Puddings.

McVEY'S
HOME DINING ROOMS
117 North Avenue.
Board By Day or Week.
Meals to Order at all Hours.
Special Dinner Served from 12 to 2, 30 Cents.

JOHN WINZENRIED'S

Storage Warehouse

816-818 WEST FRONT ST.

Separate Rooms—Clean and Dry. Furniture removed with care. Tel. 640-R. Residence 312 Lee place.

JOHN WIRTH
(Successor to Henry Liefke.)
BAKERY AND CONFECTIONERY
201-203 West Front Tel. 726
Orders delivered at short notice.

FURNITURE,
OIL CLOTHS,
STOVES, ETC.

LOUIS KADESH,
23 Somerset Street

E. B. Maynard's

Tonsorial Parlors. Electrical Massage for face and hair. First-class work. Children's Hair Cutting a Specialty. Tel. No. 754-R.
141 NORTH AVENUE.

KODAKS

Complete line of Photo Supplies.
Printing and Developing
At Doane's 115 Park Ave.

Open Evenings from Dec. 19th until Xmas.
Telephone 5500—Market—Five Five Hundred.

L. S. Plaut & Co.

"BEE HIVE." New Jersey's Shopping Centre NEWARK

Imported Lingerie at One-Fourth Under Regular

French, Austrian and Maderia Hand Embroidered Underwear.

An exquisite gift from one woman to another will be found in these beautiful foreign pieces of underwear, daintily embroidered by hand, and representing some of the finest examples of this class of goods seen in Newark in many a day. Also infants' wear, hand embroidered pillow cases, etc.

Night Gowns, hand embroidered, reg. $2.98 to $29.98, now $2.23 to $22.45.

Imported Chemise, hand embroidered, regular $1.00 to $24.95, now 75c to $18.70.

Imported Skirts, Hand embroidered, regular $2.98 to $35; now $2.23 to $26.25.

Imported Combinations, hand embroidered, regular $4.50 to $16.98; now $3.37 to $12.73.

Imported Corset Covers, hand embroidered, regular $1.25 to $9.98; now 94c to $7.48.

Imported Drawers, hand embroidered, regular $1.25 to $19.95; now 94c to $14.95.

Imported Sets, hand embroidered, regular $8.98 to $65; now $6.73 to $48.75.

Infants' Imported Hand Made Dresses, caps, pillow cases, and bibs at one-fourth off.

Imported Pillow Cases, hand embroidered, regular $3.98 to $17.98; now $2.98 to $13.48.

Imported Baby Dresses, hand made, regular $2.98 to $29.95, now $2.23 to $22.46.

Imported Caps, hand made, regular $1.98 to $4.98; now $1.48 to $3.73.

Imported Bibs, hand made, regular $2.98 to $7.98; now $2.23 to $5.98.

707 TO 721 BROAD ST. NEWARK.

"No Mail or 'Phone Orders Filled"

Open Evenings Till Xmas, beginning Monday, December 19.

665-667 BROAD ST., NEWARK

J. WISS & SONS

JEWELRY, SILVERWARE, CUT GLASS.

The New Store

With the Greatest Stock of

JEWELRY, SILVERWARE & CUTLERY

EVER DISPLAYED IN THE STATE

OUR immense variety of Jewelry, Diamonds, Watches, Silverware, Cutlery, Cut Glasses, etc., and our excellent facility for displaying goods, makes this the center of all gift buying.

Everything conveniently arranged for quick selection. Our personal guarantee that every article sold is exactly as represented, assures you against any loss.

Our Usual Low Prices on Everything

665-667 Broad Street, Newark

HOLIDAY GOODS

IN FINE DECORATED CHINA
CHOCOLATE SETS TOAST SETS BREAKFAST SETS
FANCY BRASS WARE
IN DESK SETS AND SMOKING SETS
ELECTRIC AND GAS
READING LAMPS AND DOMES
ENGRAVED GLASS
SHERBERTS SETS
LIBBY AND DORFLINGER CUT GLASS

JOSEPH W. GAVETT

WEST FRONT STREET

Putnam & De Graw

CHRISTMAS GOODS, UNDERWEAR, HOSIERY, GLOVES, SHIRTS AND HANDKERCHIEFS.

THE BIB EFFECT.

Is One of the Winter Season's Charming Innovations.

Is Seen to Great Advantage in Evening Gowns, Both Plain and Elaborate, and is Sufficient as Its Only Ornamentation.

Nothing in this season's styles is prettier than the bodice characterized by the bib effect, the fabric drawn up from the girdle and stitched into a draped or embroidered corsage.

It may be the entire ornament of a gown, the dainty little white satin evening frock, for example, with its tunic and bib of coral velvet. The upper part of the bodice is of all over embroidery with inserts of another pattern, and the stitched bib is caught by a velvet plastron.

Simplicity again is the keynote of the white lousine gown, with a lace yoke over silk and pleated chiffon drapery on the bodice. The bib is pointed with a broad hem, and four deep tucks at the bottom take the place of a girdle.

Rather higher than usual is the bib effect in a yellow silk crape, with handsome Chinese embroidery and two black velvet plastrons with gold net centers. The bodice should be shirred to the circular bib and gathered into the girdle.

A sort of double bib effect is given in a black chiffon gown over satin. The bodice is of all over embroidery veiled by a single instead of a double width of the chiffon. The doubled chiffon is stitched over the embroidery in cuirass style almost to the gold embroidery under the chemisette, and a little farther down the bodice there is another curve of this gold thread embroidery, matching that on the tunic edge.

The bib effect in simpler gowns for afternoon instead of evening wear may be given in the light blue serf figured crepe de chine. Here there is a deep yoke of lace trimmed net, partly veiled by gathered chiffon, which ends in a line of cording. From this is extended the bib, also gathered and stitched into the folded tunic with the shirred and corded plastron.

In our illustration, to instance the possible elaboration of the bib, there is the stunning evening gown of gold lace over satin, where the bib is of the heavily edged lace, brought up to the tulle fold at the top of the bodice and fastened, as is the triple tunic, with a huge black silk button. This, indeed, is the apotheosis of the bib effect.

But, simple or elaborate, it is pretty and makes a charming trimming for the gown of soft material.

Mary Dean

Some New Color Effects.

Among the smartest of the new color effects that will be worn indoors this winter are smoke gray over apricot, yellow, rose, coral and orange linings of a high sheen satin.

Gray and yellow and gray and orange are in particular favor.

A house frock of this type was of dull gray chiffon made over burnt orange satin, the corsage and edge of the draperies outlined in bands of dull silver trimming combined with occasional dots of orange embroidery silk outlined in silver thread.

Where one has a plain gray voile or net frock that has seen its best days it can be made very up to date as a house gown by putting it over a yellow or coral lining.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Collodion for painting upon painful eruptions may be had at any drug store, and the flexible form should be preferred.

Gout may arise from many causes. The use of improper, highly flavored and rich foods or the scanty fare of poverty has much to do with bringing on the complaint. A simple but varied diet is the best.

P. S. R. CHRISTMAS GIFT

Company Again Voluntarily Increases Wages of the Trolleymen.

MEANS EXPENSE OF $125,000.

3,500 Motormen and Conductors Share In Nine Per Cent. Raise In Effect On New Year's Day.

An increase in wages for the motormen and conductors in the employ of Public Service Railway will go into effect January 1. With most of the men it will mean a raise of about nine per cent. and it is estimated that it will cost the company close to $125,000 per year in the shape of higher payrolls.

There are about 3,500 motormen and conductors in the employ of the company and the new scale of wages will go into effect on all the divisions, including the Bergen division, which until recently was the New Jersey and Hudson River Railway and Ferry Company property. Not only are the present employes to be benefitted but the rate of pay for newcomers will also be placed on a higher level.

At present the wage scale of the company for platform men is 21 cents per hour for first year men; 22 cents for second year men; 23 cents for third to tenth year, and 24 cents for those who have been in the company's employ more than ten years. Under the new schedule first year men will receive 22 cents an hour; second year men 23 cents; third to tenth year men 24 cents and those who have served ten or more years 24½ cents. While this increases the rate paid for the first three mentioned classes one cent an hour a very large percentage of the men are in the present first and second year classes so that these men will profit by the raise in wages and change in classification at the same time giving them an increase of two cents an hour over their present wages. For instance the man who began work as a first year man in 1910 at 21 cents an hour becomes a second year man in 1911 and will be paid 23 cents an hour. The second year man of 1910 will be the third year man of 1911 and his pay will be 24 cents instead of 22 cents an hour.

Notices of the increases will be posted in the car barns under orders of General Manager Danforth and Superintendent of Transportation Bolen and the reminder will come as a sort of Christmas gift from the company. The order to raise the pay of the men is part of the action taken by the company a year ago when an increase in wages was put into effect with the promise that a further increase would be made January 1, 1911, with a still further

In addition to raising the scale of wages the Public Service Railway put into effect a minimum weekly wage of $14.50 so that the man on the extra list would get something for their time if compelled to wait around the car barns. Naturally efforts are made to keep the men employed as nearly full time as possible but during the past eleven months the minimum wage rate cost the company something like $500 for waiting time.

NEARLY SEVERS TONGUE IN COASTING ACCIDENT.

Nearly severing a portion of his tongue by biting through it in a coasting accident Saturday morning, the five-year-old son of George L. Listman, physical director at the Montclair Y. M. C. A., is under medical treatment. The boy was injured by falling from a sled while coasting with his sister on a hill near his home at 68 North Willow street, Montclair.

Examination showed a wound midway in the tongue nearly an inch long. It is thought, however, that the injury will not prove serious. In their play the children had fastened a box on the sled, on which they sat. The fastenings of this had come loose, causing the accident.

Mr. Listman was former physical director of the local Y. M. C. A.

A MARKING HINT.

A good scale of sizes to use in embroidering initials on household linen is as follows:

Tablecloths, letters two inches long.

Napkins, letters three-quarters of an inch long.

Sheets, letters one inch long.

Pillowcases, letters one inch long.

Other articles, size of letters proportioned accordingly.

Fashion in marking changes, so that anywhere from half an inch to four or even five inches long is the mode, but these are not safe and sane measurements for the conservative embroiderer.

Issue a New School Paper.

The Plainfield Business Collegian," a new monthly publication edited by Prof. A. S. Herr, of the Plainfield Business College, made its initial appearance Saturday. The paper contains information concerning the local business college and other items of interest to educators; also a picture of Hugh B. Sweeny, solicitor, in an automobile, together with interior pictures of the school. It will be issued monthly.

MISS MILLS THE BRIDE OF RUSSELL RANDOLPH

Miss Ada G. Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Mills, of East Sixth street, and Russell Randolph, of Grant avenue, were married Saturday evening by Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, at his home on Grandview avenue. The couple was accompanied by Miss Viola Burger, of the borough, and Arthur Finck, of West Fifth street, this city. After a short wedding trip the couple will live with the groom's mother on Grant avenue for the present.

The groom is employed in the office of the Pond Machine Tool Works and is a brother to Clifford Randolph, the well-known baseball pitcher. He has been active at Hope chapel, where on various occasions he has taken part in entertainments. The bride attended Warren chapel and both she and Mr. Randolph are well-known in the city and borough.

SWEDISH CONGREGATION AT A IN UNION SERVICE

A large congregation attended the union services of the Swedish Congregational church and Rev. Charles L. Goodrich's congregation, Sunday evening. The pastor of the Swedish church, Rev. Gotfried Sjoblom, was present with his members, but did not address the gathering.

Rev. Mr. Goodrich gave an informal talk on the subject of the Pilgrim Evangelical church, the topic being most appropriate this week being the anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims in this country. He congratulated the members on their success in paying off the mortgage on their little church.

The Swedish congregation was accompanied by their stirring band and choir who rendered several hymns in both languages. The membership of the Swedish Congregational church is growing rapidly and has become a great factor in the social endeavors among the Swedes in this city. With them is found all that the new comer to the country needs—a church home, people of refinement of their own race and language, and inducements to lead a Christian life and learn the language of their adopted country.

Mr. Goodrich's address embraced the meaning of both the names in the title of the Swedish church. After telling briefly the story of the Pilgrims and their struggles in this country he drew a parallel between the Pilgrims and the Swedish people of today, showing that the same willingness to suffer and endure in order to attend the theatre on Christmas day, Monday, December 26, Proctor & Sanderson announces a gala bill for the Plainfield theatre on that day, afternoon and evening. At great expense has been secured "The Great Powell" one of the greatest conjurors and prestidigitators of the day, who, with his own company of singers and dancers, comedians, acrobats and musical artists, will entertain, giving the patrons a clear, concise, entertaining show.

Powell was recently seen at Proctor's theatre, where he completely mystified his audiences with his clever feats of legerdemain, the crystal ladder, the disappearance of a woman, etc. In addition to the many other illusions will be introduced and the children will be especially entertained. Popular prices will prevail.

LEAL SCHOOL GRADUATES WIN SCHOLARSHIP HONORS.

The Plainfield Yale Club in addition to offering a cup each for the young man in the city and borough high school passing the best all around examination, will offer two $25 prizes for the young man from this city passing the best entrance examination at Yale.

This year two young men from John Leal's school won these prizes, Thomas M. Day, Jr., winning the prize for passing the best academic examination and Thomas Foote the prize for passing the best examination at the Sheffield Scientific School. Young Foote added an exceptionally creditable examination. This work reflects great credit on their teacher, John Leal, who has been very successful in preparing boys for college.

Camp Bageley, Spanish American War Veterans, met Saturday night and elected officers for the ensuing year: Commander, Michael D. O'Keefe; senior commander, Theodore Martin; junior commander, John Sickler; adjutant, Daniel J. Shay; quartermaster, J. D. Maenab; officer of the day, Fred Fryer; officer of the guard, R. E. Davis; trustees, Charles A. Flynn, Dennis O'Keefe and John Lamaire. The camp will hold a banquet on January 12.

HUNT CHASE FOLLOWED BY PRESENTATION OF CUP

The weekly chase of the Watchung Hunt Club, Saturday, proved to be one of the best of the mid-winter season. The going and the fencing was fine and the hounds were unusually fast, leading the riders a merry run a distance of about twelve miles over the snow-clad fields and hills. The members met at the clubhouse and the hounds were thrown in on the Holly farm. From that point the chase led across the Nethermood hills to Dog Corners, then back of Westfield, through Fanwood and back to Netherwood. There was not a mishap to mar the run and all the riders kept well together.

Those who rode were Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H., on All Alone; J. J. O'Donohue on Manifesto; Hart S. Farlee on Carlist; Charles F. Wildey, Jr., on Silver Wrist; Col. C. E. S. Bellows on Midgreen, and Huntsman Henry Watkins on Telephone.

After the run the members returned to the clubhouse, where Col. Bellows, on behalf of fifteen members, presented to Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H., a handsome silver loving cup in appreciation of the good runs during his present term. The presentation was a great surprise to Mr. Finch. He thanked the donors heartily for the beautiful gifts. These names appeared on the note accompanying the gifts as donors: Harry A. Bourne, Hart S. Farlee, Paul Harrison, J. J. O'Donohue, Fred G. Allen, W. H. Wildey, C. F. Wildey, Jr., George Rose, Paul Dietrich, Brown Rolston, Miss Mabel B. Hooley, Col. C. E. S. Bellows, W. S. Brown, Ruppert Anderson and Schuyler Casey.

HOLY CROSS CHOIR TEAM DEFEATS N. P. JUNIORS.

The Holy Cross choir boys' basketball team defeated the North Plainfield Juniors in a fast game on the courts at the parish house Saturday morning. The final score was 10 to 5. This was the third and deciding game in the series and gives the choir boys the championship. For the choir boys, Shelton threw two goals and Woolston two, while Chandler threw one. Moore and Dawe threw one goal each for the juniors and Becker scored a goal from foul. As the choir boys have won six and lost four games they will have their new uniforms for Christmas. The lineup follows:

Holy Cross—Forwards, Shelton and Woolston; centre, Chandler; guards, Hebert, Thomas and Chamberlain. North Plainfield Juniors—Forwards, Dawe, Becker; centre, R. Moore; guards, Day, Meyer.

PLAINFIELD TRUST CO.'S HANDSOME CALENDAR OUT.

The handsome 1911 art calendar which The Plainfield Trust Company has had prepared for its customers is ready for distribution and will be given to any depositor who will call at the bank for it.

The calendar is a reproduction of the painting, "Looking for the Will" by W. Verplank Birney, who has been called "the painter of congenial friendship and good cheer," and this picture is said to be his best work. The picture is one in the library of an English gentleman of the leisure class in the last century after the death of the Squire of the estate who—so far as is known—has died intestate. While successor to the land is settled by entail, the disposition of the rest of the property, in the absence of the will, is disturbing the minds of the executor and he and the solicitor are making a search among the books and papers of the deceased for the missing document. The story is an old one, but it points a moral that will never grow old—that "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure."

P. H. S. Beats Nutley.

Two basketball teams from Plainfield High School travelled Nutley on Saturday and succeeded in winning their games from Nutley High. The boys' score was 33 to 25 while the girls won by 9 to 5. Both games were exciting and cleanly played. Manley Foote acted as referee for P. H. S. and the Misses Durar, Stewart and Douglas did fine work for the girls' team.

Rev. Dr. Johnson at Trinity.

Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, of New Brunswick, occupied the pulpit both morning and evening at Trinity Reformed church, Sunday, preaching strong sermons to large congregations. He was warmly greeted by many friends who recall his excellent service as supply for the church, prior to the calling of Rev. John Y. Broek, the present pastor. In the morning, Dr. Johnson took for his topic, "The Christian Outside," 1st Timothy, 1-5, and the theme of his evening discourse was "Burden Bearing," a subject which the clergyman handled with ability and to the edification of his congregation.

Xmas at First Baptist Church.

The annual Christmas service under the auspices of the Sunday-school of the First Baptist church will be held at the church Friday night, and on Sunday, Christmas Day, the regular session of the school will be held. The Sunday-school will attend a special service in the morning, occupying seats in the gallery.

PLAYGROUND SUPERVISOR TELLS OF RESULTS HERE

"Organized Play as a Factor In Child Development" is the title of an article in School Progress for November, written by Miss Harriet E. Moe, one of the supervisors of the playgrounds at the local schools. Quoting Froebel, Miss Moe says that "motor" education was not neglected for the "mental" and vice versa. He believed that each function had to be educated if the child is to be fully developed physically and mentally, and agrees with him.

Miss Moe declares that the playground is the best place in which the child how to play. It is the place where the play instinct can be called in to do its proper work—in the motor, moral and ethical training of the child. Such being the advantages gained by educative play every city should have playgrounds.

"During the year," continues Miss Moe, "the Queen City of New Jersey, Plainfield, joined the ranks by opening two playgrounds under the supervision of a playground commission whose efforts were abundantly rewarded. Splendid results having been achieved during the ten weeks of their use. Mothers were immensely pleased with the new idea and a regular program was followed daily.

Miss Moe declares that the improvement in personal cleanliness was one of the most remarkable results of the work and the general conditions of the children at the end of the season proved the value of the playgrounds, not alone to the children but to the mothers whose burdens were lifted in just such measure as their children were provided with non-mischief making occupations after school hours.

NO FIRE ESCAPES ON BURNED HOTEL

Valentine Bertholdy, 58 years old, who broke his spine Saturday when he leaped from the third floor of the Hungaria Hotel, 424-426 Court street, Elizabeth, to escape from a fire which partially destroyed the building, died yesterday in the Alexian Hospital, Elizabeth. He was unmarried and had no relatives in this country. The body has been removed to the city morgue.

Bertholdy's death was caused indirectly because there was not a fire escape on the building. Although the structure is one of the largest hotels in the downtown section, Joseph Pankuch, the owner, said it was not necessary to have escapes on the building and added that no inspector had ever investigated the hotel or advised him to provide them.

Bertholdy's room was on the third floor. Because he was slightly deaf he did not hear the outcries which accompanied the discovery of the fire, which failed to emerge from his room until the hall and stairs were enveloped in flames. He ran to a window, but there were no ladders available because Truck No. 2, the only piece of apparatus of its kind in Elizabeth, was working at another fire.

Heedless of the firemen's shouts he jumped, before reaching the ground he struck his back on a large sign which hung from the cafe, two stories below.

The fire commissioners had nothing to say on the matter, but they are all of the opinion that an investigation will be made.

The hotel burned quickly. Had it not been for the speedy work of the firemen and police, it is probable that many more victims would have been added to the list. Eleven of the thirteen rooms on the third floor were occupied.

MRS. ROBERT GOW GIVES PARTY FOR HER HUSBAND.

Mrs. Robert Gow, of 827 West Fifth street, entertained twenty-four of her friends at a card party, Saturday evening, five hundred being the game enjoyed by those present. There were six tables. First honors for the women were won by Mrs. H. C. Brideman and the second by Mrs. Elizabeth Bouchard. Arthur McVoy won the first honors for the men and Harry Joseph the second.

The party was given in honor of Mr. Gow's birthday. The decorations were red and green, appropriate to the season. Poinsettia predominated. Refreshments were served and the guests all had a pleasant time.

MONMOUTH LAWMAKER IS OUT FOR MARTINE.

Assemblyman-elect James A. Hendrickson, in a formal statement issued yesterday, says he strongly favors the election of James E. Martine for United States Senator. He regards Mr. Martine as the party choice because of the primary result. Mr. Hendrickson has been classed as a Martine man all along.

The First District Democratic Club of Red Bank, has indorsed Martine for the Senatorship and adopted resolutions "urging upon the Assemblymen-elect from Monmouth County the importance of doing all in their power to aid in his selection, as we firmly believe that if the people's choice is overthrown, it will do irreparable injury to the Democratic party in this State."

REV. DR. HENRY VAN DYKE LEAVES BRICK CHURCH

The Rev. Dr. Henry van Dyke told his congregation Sunday morning in the Brick Presbyterian church in New York that under no circumstances will he consider a call to the pastorate of that church and that next Sunday will be his last one as minister in charge. He told the congregation that he had preached the year and did out of pure love for the work and the Brick church. He did it without pay, but has managed to do much for other churches with the money earned in this way.

Many regrets were heard after the declaration of Dr. van Dyke but the announcement of his retirement did not come as much of a surprise to the congregation. His resignation from the Princeton chair had nothing to do with his action in resigning the pastorate of the Brick church, according to one of the members.

For fourteen years the Rev. Dr. van Dyke was pastor of the Brick church. He resigned and was succeeded by the Rev. Dr. Matthie D. Babcock, who died suddenly while abroad. Dr. van Dyke returned and served until the Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, formerly of this city, was chosen. After six years Dr. Richards died suddenly twelve months ago, and for the third time Dr. van Dyke came to the church, this time as temporary supply.

MISS BLANCHE SMALLEY BRIDE OF PHILLIP SWARTZMAN

Miss Blanche Smalley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hoppock, of Prospect avenue, Scotch Plains, and Phillip Sewartzman, of Westfield, were married Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. George Greenwood, of the Methodist church, Westfield.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white net over silk, the bridesmaid was Miss Mamie Swartzman, of Westfield, a sister of the groom. She was gowned in white silk. Two little nieces of the bride, Dorothy and Blanche Smalley, were flower girls. The best man was Walter D. Smalley, of Scotch Plains, a brother of the bride.

After congratulations were offered a supper was served and the couple departed on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in the Hollingsworth cottage on Valley road, Scotch Plains. The couple received many handsome gifts. Guests were present from Plainfield, New York, Westfield, Garwood and Scotch Plains.

MRS. ADELE VON OHL-PARKER RETURNS FROM 23,000 ML. TRIP.

Mrs. Adele VonOhl-Parker and her grandmother, Mrs. W. B. T. Lane, returned home Saturday from a 23,000 mile trip, during which they visited Vancouver and Alaska and then down the Pacific Coast to California. They had an interesting trip. While in Chicago they met Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fitzsimmons, who are doing a theatrical turn. Saturday night Mrs. Parker returned to Boston for an extended trip through the New England States. She will return to New York in about three weeks.

Mrs. Parker has had great success with her Wild West act. She brought back several new horses, including a clever "high school" animal, which took first prize at the Chicago horse show this year.

P. H. S. FOOTBALL TEAM HOLDS ANNUAL RECEPTION.

The football team of the Plainfield High School held its annual reception at the school Saturday evening, at which the members of not only the football team, but all the basketball teams and members of the athletic associations of the school were present.

Speeches were made by Gardner Bristol, captain of the football team; Miss Jessie Stewart, manager of the girls' basketball team; Sewell Ulrich, manager of the baseball nine, and Alfred Manley, manager of the football team.

Gardner Bristol presented to Principal Lindsay Best, a picture of the football team, thanking him for his co-operation in the sport. The remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing and refreshments.

USEFUL HINTS.

Mahogany or any other colored wood may be darkened by polishing with cold drawn linseed oil.

Quickly clean the windows in bathrooms, etc., apply with a brush a solution of epsom salts mixed in vinegar. This gives a capital frosted appearance, and becomes permanent if white varnished over.

When you clean tumblers or dishes stick together so that there is danger of breaking int getting them apart, put cold water in the inner one and hold the outer one in warm water, and they will separate at once.

Milk will clean piano keys satisfactorily. It will take out ink spots of long standing. Used in starch it will give a satisfactory gloss. It will remove discolorations from gilt mirror and picture frames. Used with bluing it also cleans it will make them look like new.

SCOTSMEN ORGANIZE MACKENZIE CLAN

Clan MacKenzie, order of Scottish clans, was organized with about forty members on Saturday night and bids fair to be one of the strongest orders in the city. One would hardly imagine that there were so many Scotsmen in the city. Robert Murray, who has been industriously working for the establishment of the order here was elected chief.

The other officers elected Saturday night were: Past chief, William Shields; tanist, John M. Donaldson; recording secretary, William Spalding; financial secretary, Donald McPherson; treasurer, John Calder; chaplain, William Doig; senior henchman, Andrew Roxbury; junior henchman, Robert J. Murray; seneschal, Arthur S. Campbell; warden, James Smith and sentinel, Andrew Perdie.

Among those present were Royal Deputy John Pentland, of Newark, and Past Royal Deputy William Boyd, of this city. On next Saturday evening the new officers will institute the clan and delegates from all over this State and New York will be in attendance. The meeting ended Saturday night by all hands joining in "Auld Lang Syne."

JONAS LIE'S WORK WINS FAVORABLE COMMENT

Jonas Lie is now occupying his new studio at 60 South Washington Square, New York city. For the benefit of those interested and those who did not get the opportunity to see his paintings while they were on exhibition at the Madison Galleries, the studio will be open every Friday and Saturday. Mr. Lie's exhibition was a great success; the entire New York press speaking in the most laudable and enthusiastic way about his work, stirring the New York art world to an unusual degree.

Mr. Lie's painting, "Fishermen and Sunrise," now on exhibition at the Corcoran Gallery at Washington, has been especially selected for the 108th annual exhibition at Philadelphia. Mr. Lie will not hold an exhibition in Plainfield as usual, and therefore invited his friends to his New York studio to see his work.

REV. FRED B. NEWMAN GETS DISMISSAL LETTER

Rev. Fred B. Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Newman, of this city, who recently resigned the pastorate of the East Trenton church, of Trenton, was granted a letter of dismissal to the Presbytery of Lackawanna, at a special meeting of the Presbytery of New Brunswick, today, as he desires to accept a call to the Presbyterian church at Tunkhannock, Pa.

James Wilkie, one of the commissioners present at the meeting, spoke feelingly of the work of Mr. Newman. The congregation, he said, had voted to unite with their pastor in making his request before Presbytery. After hearing the parties in the case, the Presbytery granted the request, to take effect December 25. Several pastors at the session bore tribute regarding Mr. Newman and his work.

HOW BRITAIN DOES IT.

There is a lad in Boston, the son of a well known writer of history, who has evidently profited by such observations as he may have overheard his father utter touching certain phases of British empire-building. In rate the boy showed a shrewd notion of the opinion not infrequently expressed in regard to the righteousness of "British occupation." It was he who handed in the following essay on the making of a British colony:

"Africa is a British colony. I will tel you how England does it. First she gets a missionary; when the missionary has found a specially beautiful and fertile tract of country he gets all his people 'round him and says: Let us pray, and when al the eyes are shut up goes the British flag."—Harper's Magazine.

Jr. O. U. A. M. to Hold a Fair.

The four councils of the Jr. O. U. A. M., of this city, Franklin, Somerset, Benevolent and Plainfield, will hold a fair in Belvidere's Hall, February 4-11. The general committee comprises I. N. Wyckoff, chairman; W. H. Cubberly, secretary; A. H. Peck, treasurer; chairman hall committee, L. D. Hall; chairman printing committee, H. Peck; chairman floor committee, Charles S. Wilson; chairman decoration committee, Joseph Martin.

Mrs. M. W. Ball Gets a Divorce.

Mrs. Margaret W. Ball has received a decree of divorce from her husband, Karl Ball, on statutory grounds. J. Henry Crane represented Mrs. Ball. Mr. Ball was formerly manager for the Clarkhurst Dairy in this city. Mrs. Ball has returned to her former home in New York State.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

SIMPLE RIGHTEOUSNESS

Urged Against Brazen Effrontery in Politics and Civic Life.

BY REV. DR. C. E. HERRING.

Organized Goodness Needed to Cope With Evil—Men's League Suggested For Fight Against Saloon.

"A Man's Religion and a Man's Job," was the subject of a discourse by Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring at the First Presbyterian church, Sunday morning, in which the divine took occasion to praise Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson for the stand he took regarding the direct primary law in support of his stand for the candidate who was the choice of the Democratic party for United State Senator. He declared that "it would be an ignoble breach of trust not to carry out the principles" as enunciated prior to election.

Dr Herring also spoke plainly on the subject of intemperance, adding that the city needs the "weeding out of a few resorts which make Front street on Saturday night a disagreeable and disorderly place." In part Dr. Herring spoke as follows:

"Man wherever we find him in the world is naturally religious. He worships something. He believes in God or gods or spirits of some kind upon whom he is dependent. God has given us a revelation in the Bible that we may have the proper direction given to the natural instinct. The Bible centres our thought in Jesus Christ. Nineteen hundred years ago He taught the great lessons of life and there has come into the world no other teacher who has given us better teaching. Lord Lister, the greatest surgeon and bacteriologist of modern times, has said of Jesus Christ, 'I have no hesitation in saying that, in my opinion, there is no antagonism between the religion of Jesus Christ and any fact scientifically established." but more than that which He has laid down. God in his wisdom in His son and revealed to men the kind of lives they should lead and He holds them accountable. A man's religion does not consist in holding an annual meeting and listening to a sermon on immortality but in mastering ourselves according to the great standard which God has given to us in His Son, and in being exactly obedient to Him. A man may bestow charity at Christmas time which does more harm than good if the motive has not been right, and God judges that. A man needs the religion of Christ that will touch him in every part of his life.

"That is the kind of a man that will give help to the community in which he lives, for in his life men will see that he is worthy and honesty. A man's job consists in helping his fellows live the right life. You cannot help your fellows to live the right life, if you don't live it yourself.

"I wish we might have in our city a Men's League" composed of this type of men, whose aim would be not only to save men from sinful association but to strike at the conditinos that make them bad. I think that organized bedness has got such power because goodness has not organized itself. It was frequently been said "if China awakes then look out." It might be said "If goodness would awake and organize as badness is awake and organized then organized badness would have to look out." Then why don't good men organize? We are to be congratulated in having a man like Dr. Wilson as our Governor-elect. We admire the sturdy stand he is making for simple righteousness, against the brazen effrontery of men who have showed a popular will. It it a fight for principles against dollars. It is a fight of the special interests against the common good. It is a stand for the truth against perfidy. Just think of it. The platform on which Dr. Wilson was elected had in it "the principle of direct primaries in senatorial nominations" and the public voted for it. It is an ignoble breach of trust not to carry it out. How can we be expected to believe the promises of men who violate so openly the principles of the platform they promised to carry out. We may differ on the currency and on the tariff but we cannot on questions of common honesty.

"We need a Men's League to cleanse our city from its drunkenness by which purpose should be not only to serve the drunkards but the destruction of that which makes them drunk. We need the weeding out of a few of our resorts which make Front street on Saturday night a disagreeable and disorderly place.

"This is the age when we hear of the work of Laymen. My hope is that we may have in our city an organized body of men who will have a passionate enthusiasm for civic righteousness and who will be continuously loyal to their supreme commander, the Lord Jesus Christ.

Don't Forget the Children's Home.

The Board of Managers of the Children's Home Association will gratefully receive and acknowledge gifts of groceries, clothing, toys, etc., for the children. Checks may be sent to Mrs. Alfred J. Patterson, 740 West Eighth street.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. LXII PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY DECEMBER, 29, 1910. NO. 51.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

INTRODUCED TO SOCIETY

Charming Reception and a Dance for Miss Eleanor E. DeGraff.

MANY GIFTS FOR DEBUTANTE.

Function Held Yesterday Afternoon and Last Nght at Home of Her Parents Mr. and Mrs. J. W. DeGraff.

One of the most charming affairs of the season was the reception and dance given yesterday afternoon and evening by Mr. and Mrs. James W. DeGraff, of Central avenue, for their daughter, Miss Eleanor E. DeGraff, when she was formally introduced to society. The reception was held in the afternoon from 4 to 7, when the home was thronged with guests who called to shower congratulations and flowers upon the debutante and the dance took place at night, when a large number of guests enjoyed the festive occasion. The home was elaborately decorated for the occasion, Christmas greens and holly being used extensively, while there were a profusion of pink roses.

Miss DeGraff, who is a favorite in the younger set, received an unusually large number of gifts including many beautiful floors. She wore an attractive gown of white with a little coloring of pink and blue and gilt embroidery. The guests included a large number of charming young women of this city and out-of-town.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. DeGraff and her daughter, received with the latter's grandmother, Mrs. Samuel Milliken, of this city, and Mrs. James Keppler, of Philadelphia; also Miss McClellan, of York, Pa.; Miss Mount, of Hanover, Pa., Miss Turnbull, of Brooklyn and Miss Doubleday, of New York, the last named a cousin of Miss DeGraff.

Those who assisted in the dining-room were Mrs. Albert A. Tilney, Mrs. J. E. Raymond, Mrs. John C. Foster, Mrs. D. N. VanVliet, Mrs. Howard McWilliams, Mrs. Walter McGee and Mrs. James R. Joy, of this city and Miss Vanderbeck, of Somerville.

The music for the reception in the afternoon and the dance in the evening was furnished by Austin, of Brooklyn, and the various numbers rendered were a delight to the guests.

JEWELER TO REMOVE HIS STORE FEBRUARY 1.

Charles E. Vail, the jeweler, will remove February 1 from his present location on Park avenue, adjoining the City National Bank, to the Boice, Runyon & Co., building at 236 Park avenue, opposite North avenue and will occupy the store vacated by Louis DeBrigard. The lease was signed this morning. Mr. Vail's removal is caused by the fact that the City National Bank desires the store as extra space for a work room, its present quarters being somewhat crowded.

The front of the store will be taken out and remodelled to correspond with the Park avenue side of the bank building. This change will remove another one of Plainfield's oldest establishments. Asa Collier, the jeweler, began business at that location in about 1869, the store being a little smaller than at present. A few years later the bank gave him a little additional room. Nearly nine years ago Mr. Collier sold his business to Mr. Vail, who has continued it with success.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL AT HOLY CROSS PARISH.

The Sunday-school and the children of the Holy Cross parish will have their Christmas tree in the church tonight at 7:45. A carol service will precede the giving of gifts from the tree. Young men of the Bible class will assist in the distribution. The children will bring gifts of groceries, toys and games for use in St. Bernard's school for poor boys at Gladstone, N. J.

The tree which is a huge balsam spruce stands nearly thirty feet high It will present a beautiful appearance with its load of gifts and multitudious tiny electric lights.

Friend's Xmas Entertainment.

The First day school of the Religious Society of Friends enjoyed its Christmas entertainment at the meeting house on Watchung avenue, last night. There was the usual large attendance of children and friends, the exercises being in charge of Miss Mabel Vail, superintendent of the school. There was an informal program of readings and recitations by the children, and a feature was the display of a number of lantern slides, which pleased both young and old. At the conclusion of the entertainment each child received a box of candy and an orange.

Tone Overton, of Rutgers College, is at his home in the borough for the holiday season.

CHRISTMAS DANCE AT THE PARK CLUB

The annual Christmas dance at the Park Club, last night, proved to be one of the most enjoyable social functions of the season. It was largely attended, there being about 150 present. The clubhouse never looked more attractive in its elaborate decorations. This was the work of Henry Johnson, the steward, and was greatly admired. There was an arrangement of Christmas greens, holly and flowers about the stage, behind which Muller's Orchestra, of Brooklyn, was seated.

The orchestra rendered a popular program of music for the dancing which continued until an early hour this morning, with an intermission at midnight for refreshments.

The affair was in charge of the entertainment committee of which Mrs. Samuel Townsend is the chairman, while the patronesses were Mrs. John L. Watson, Mrs. Samuel St. John McCutchen, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. W. A. Connor and Mrs. Walter McGee.

MISS MARION PORTER WEDS AT HOTEL ASTOR

In the presence of only immediate relatives of the two families, Miss Marion Louise Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Porter, of West Third street, and George L. Barbour, of New York, will be married in the Hotel Astor, New York, at 4:30 this afternoon. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Apheus Smeltzer, of St. Bartholamew's church, New York. Neither of the young people will be attended.

Miss Porter will be attired in a white serge suit set off by a large black hat. Her travelling suit will be of brown velvet corduroy with hat to match trimmed with willow plumes.

Following the wedding a supper will be served and later the couple will leave on a two weeks' trip. They will visit Old Point Comfort, Washington and other places of interest. On returning they will be at home in an apartment in 125th street.

Miss Porter has been making her home in New York for several years, but has a host of local acquaintances She was prominent in work at Hope Chapel for a long time. Mr. Barbour is a silk importer with a place of business in downtown, New York. The wedding trip has been shortened as he and his bride will go abroad next May.

MISS AMELIA CARBONE WEDS JOHN A. NAYLOR

Miss Amelia Carbone, daughter of Mrs. Michael Higgins, of 129 East Second street, and John Albert Naylor, son of John E. Naylor, of Lee place, will be married at 5 o'clock this afternoon at St. Mary's church. The ceremony will be performed by the pastor, Rev. B. M. Bogan.

The bride, who will be attended by Miss Mary Kelly, of this city, as bridesmaid, will wear a gown of castor broadcloth; also a white velvet hat with plumes and will carry a prayer Book. The bridesmaid will wear a blue satin gown and will carry a bouquet of roses. The best man will be Frank Winzenreid, of this city.

A reception and supper will be held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother on East Second street, after which the couple will go to their new home on Lee place. They will take a wedding trip later. There will be guests present at the wedding and reception from New York, Newark, Dunellen and this city. The bride has received a large number of gifts. The groom is a mason by trade.

Soccer Football Results.

The Plainfield A. F. C. defeated the Pomeroy Thistles, of Kearney, in a game of soccer football, Monday afternoon by a score of 4 to 2. This was a postponed league game and this gives the Plainfield team two more points in the league standing and they are in second place. In the afternoon, a scrub team from this city played the Newark Celtics and was defeated by the visitors by a score of 5 to 0. A game of football A. A. is expected to play a league game here Saturday afternoon.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Emmons, of 47 Prospect place, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Myra Emmons, to Harold Hutchinson Millar, son of Alexander Millar, of 718 Madison avenue.

—Use Daily Press want ads. They bring results.

GRAND JURY TO DECIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Diano Held on Own Recognizance for Alleged Assault.

SHUBERT'S HEAD WAS BROKEN.

Killed a Calf Then Celebrated with Whiskey—Quarrel Started Over Broken Window—Rolling Pin a Weapon.

Mrs. Annie Diano and her husband, Andrew, were held in their own recognizance for the action of the grand jury by City Judge William N. Runyon this morning on a charge of assault preferred by Peter Shubert, of 830 George street. The assault is alleged to have taken place near midnight on December 16. Judge William Newcorn represented the complainant and Winfield S. Angleman the two defendants.

The people concerned in the fracas which resulted in Shubert getting a broken head with a rolling pin in the hands of Mrs. Diano, are Slavs and Poles and the quarrel which resulted in the fight arose over a dispute regarding repairs to a kitchen window in the house owned by Shubert and occupied in part by Diano and his family. Shubert declared this morning that he was entitled upstairs to the apartments occupied by the Diano family and there after an argument about the window was assaulted by both Diano and his wife. Of course, whiskey had something to do with the affair, it being acknowledged by both parties to have been partaken of by those who witnessed and helped at a calf slaughtering which took place in Shubert's barn earlier in the evening.

Shubert acknowledged that he had had a couple of drinks and Diano told the court that he had drunk some of the liquor in his tea at supper while John Wolf, a huge German, declared that there was not enough whiskey to go around particularly if he was in the drinking crowd. Wolf said that he killed the calf and that the men each had a drink or two from a pint bottle of liquor, "but chudge, that ain't enough to make a man drunk. I could drink der whole pint minself und go home sober."

Mrs. Diano did not deny using the rolling pin. She said that Shubert was choking her husband while he was sitting on a trunk and was trying to defend himself. He had called to her for help and she like a good wife had come to his assistance and used the time honored weapon with which all housewives are familiar. She denied that her husband had struck Shubert, although the latter claimed that it was her husband's blow that laid open his scalp. Diano in his own defense claimed to have used no violence until attacked by Shubert. He said he did not use the rolling pin, but tried to defend himself with his hands. The grand jury will have to be decided whether the Dianos are to be tried for assault.

THE ENGAGEMENT RING A RELIC OF BARBARISM

Dr. Morris Korshet, who is engaged to wed Miss Gertrude Riskin, at Passaic, does not believe in engagement rings, and his fiance agrees with his views that the ring is a relic of barbarism. Instead he has given books as an engagement token.

"In times of long ago," said Dr. Korshet, "the man either captured his female partner or purchased her from her male parent with presents. When she was afterward his he placed a crude ring upon her finger. It was regarded as a symbol of inferiority and made the wearer appear in the light of personal property. Miss Riskin will not be my chattel. She will be my equal, my companion and helpmate. Therefore I gave Miss Riskin something for her mind, and not an ornament for her finger."

Wedded Last Saturday.

Rev. Cortlandt J. Mallory, rector of the Heavenly Rest church, officiated at the wedding on Saturday afternoon of Henry Rapp and Miss Lena Meyer, both of Elizabeth. Fritz Meyer, a brother of the bride, acted best man, and Miss Amelia Rapp, a sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid.

Martine Mass Meeting.

A mass meeting for the purpose of urging the appointment of James E. Martine to the United States senatorial election will be held on Monday night, Jan. 3, at Reform hall.

Forty Hours Devotion.

Forty hours devotion will be held in St. Joseph's church commencing Sunday morning at 10:30. Special masses will be said at the beginning and ending of the observance.

—Advertise in The Daily Press.

GOING TO CHINA TO WED

Miss Florence Wildey Will become Vaughn McFee's Bride in Manchuria.

TO RESIDE IN THE ORIENT.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGee and Miss Elizabeth McGee Will Attend the Wedding—Early in February.

Miss Florence Wildey, daughter of Charles F. Wildey, of Martine avenue, will leave early in January with Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGee and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth McGee, of the borough, for China, where upon their arrival, she will be married to Mr. and Mrs. McGee's son, Vaughn McGee. It is expected that the wedding will take place early in February, the date depending on the arrival of the party at its destination.

Mr. McGee is located in Manchuria, where he has charge of a foreign office of the Standard Oil Company. He has been away about a year, and will probably remain in China for two or three years. Mr. McGee and Miss Wildey became engaged just before he left here.

Miss Wildey is a sister of Mrs. Morris J. Dumont and the Misses Wildey, who are known as expert tennis players, they having taken part in all the big tournaments in this part of the country during the past two or three years. Both Miss Wildey and Mr. McGee are especially fond of athletics and they have been prominent in social functions in the city and borough.

Miss Wildey's father is proprietor of the Herald Square and Cosmopolitan Hotels in New York.

BELLIGERANT WOMAN CAUSED THE TROUBLE

A case in which the complainant became the defendant came before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning, the charge coming when Mrs. Ellen Schneiderback, of Prescott place was put on the stand to prove her charge of assault against Ernest Minor, of the same street whom she accused of kicking her last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Schneiderback was fined ten dollars by the court, the testimony of eyewitnesses being to the effect that she was the aggressor.

The trouble arose over an alleged attempt on the part of Mrs. Schneiderback to kick a dog belonging to Minor. When Minor protested against such cruelty, he declared, Mrs. Schneiderback struck him with a dishpan accompanying her attack with profane appelations. Later, he said, the woman attacked and beat his wife and had also threatened to "do up" Mrs. Christian Bendtell, a neighbor.

Mrs. Schneiderback said on her own behalf that she was hanging clothes on a line in the rear of the Minor residence when she was attacked by Minor's dog. The dog bit her, she said, and it was in defense of her person she tried to kick the dog. Then, she alleged, Minor came on the scene and proceeded to kick her off the stoop which caused her to run into the room of Mrs. Ernest, a neighbor, whom she was nursing and there she had a fit. She recovered quickly enough to come out and berate Mr. Minor, who then had a warrant issued for her arrest.

The Judge reviewed Mrs. Schneiderback's police record and discovered that the woman had been before him twice before on charges of which she had been found guilty. He then imposed the fine.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES AT STONY HILL CHURCH.

The Christmas Day services at St. Mary's church, Stony Hill, were greatly enjoyed by large congregations. The music was unusually fine. The services began with a midnight mass, Miss Sutherd being the soloist; Miss Julia Exner presided at the organ and there were selections by Louis Morell and Thomas Exner on the violins. There was low mass at 9 o'clock at which solos were sung by James Welch, Lawrence Exner and Mrs. Thomas Exner, accompanied by organ and violins.

At a high mass at 10:30 o'clock, the music rendered at the midnight mass was repeated. The soloist were Thomas Dennis, Mrs. Debbie, Miss Agnes Delny, Mrs. Hurlburt, Miss Catherine Delny, Mrs. Thomas Exner and Lawrence Exner. There was the benediction of the blessed sacrament and a sermon by Father Schwartz.

—Fancy fruits, comprising oranges, fancy grape fruit, tangerines, pears, etc., are among the specials offered by Neuman Bros., grocers.

GETS A PURSE OF GOLD

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire Handsomely Remembered by Congregation.

AT A XMAS ENTERTAINMENT.

Departure from Usual Methods of Amusements at Park Avenue Sunday-school Pleases Huge Audience.

The Christmas entertainment of the Park Avenue Baptist Bible school was given last night before an audience that completely filled all the available space. The program included a number of very clever acts by Rosani, of New York, the Juggler, who kept his audience in a continuous laugh by his side remarks and funny faces as an accompaniment to his juggling. He is considered one of the best in his line of entertainment, and much of the balancing which he did, was really difficult work. Harry Brown, also of New York, another of the entertainers, recited several Christmas stories and sang a number of songs. He was accompanied on the piano by Miss Mary Clark, the pianist of the Sunday-school. The Palmer Musical Trio delighted the audience with their selections upon the Merimbophone, the Bamboo Bells and the Saxophone.

The entire entertainment was a change from that of recent years, and furnished amusement for both children and adults.

Superintendent Georg E. Hall was in charge of the program, and at the conclusion of the entertainment had the privilege of presenting to the Pastor, Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, a purse of $100 in gold from the members of the church and congregation, as an evidence of their love and appreciation of his magnificent work. Mr. Hall spoke beautifully of the inspiration which the pastor has been to the people of this church, and asked him to accept this gold as merely a token of what they would like to do if they could. Dr. Maguire acknowledged the gift in his graceful way, and assured his people of his deep appreciation of their love and hearty co-operation.

Mr. Hall then stepped to the platform again, and in tender earnest words of appreciation, told of the faithful, loving service which Deacon Theodore I. Runyon had rendered the Park Avenue Baptist school as superintendent for so many years, and on behalf of Deacon Runyon's class, asked him to accept the handsome umbrella as an expresion of the loving regards which every member of his class felt for him. Mr. Runyon responded with thanks that came from his heart, and which showed how much had meant to him all these years the happy association of teacher and class in this Sunday-school where a perfect spirit of loyalty and good feeling make all work so pleasant, harmonious and successful.

The Volunteer Bible class presented their teacher, Mrs. Gabriel Reid Maguire, with a handsome lamp.

The evening's exercises were brought to a close by the presentation of candy and gifts to the members of the Elementary department, in which Mr. Hall assisted the superintendent Miss Elmira Runyon, and her teachers.

MRS. JANE A. HAMILTON, AGED 83 YEARS, DEAD

Mrs. Jane A. Hamilton, mother of Walter F. Hamilton, of Verdon street North Plainfield, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harriet E. Merritt, 121 West 105 street, New York, aged eighty-three years. The funeral services will be held at the daughter's home tomorrow night at 8 o'clock and interment will be made at Mt. Kisco cemetery privately on Friday morning.

Mrs. Hamilton was a native of Albany, N. Y., and was the widow of Robert Hamilton. Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. H. E. Merritt and Miss Grace Hamilton, both of New York, and one son, W. F. Hamilton, of this city. There are also two nieces, Grace L. Merritt and Mabel Hamilton, and three nephews, Walter F. Jr., Robin S. and Lester A. Hamilton.

He Was "Celebrating."

James McCann, of Westfield, whose celebration of the holidays was not over yesterday appeared before Judge William N. Runyon this morning on a charge of intoxication. He was found drunk on West Front street yesterday afternoon and brought to headquarters by Patrolman Vanderweg. It was his first offense and the court was lenient, suspending sentence.

Miss Clarissa Lisignola, of East Front street, is detained at home by illness.

7TH. DAY BAPTIST S. S. XMAS ENTERTAINMENT

The Christmas entertainment for the Sabbath school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was held in the parlors of the church, last night, there being a large attendance of members and friends of the school and church. Both old and young were well entertained by the excellent program which included and illustrated lecture on the life of Christ. While the views were being shown, Mrs. Frank Kellogg read several selections appropos to the pictures.

There was the usual Christmas tree, elaborately decorated and after the entertainment, which also included the singing of carols, and instrumental selections, Superintendent O. S. Rogers distributed suitable gifts to the children of the school and refreshments were served. Mrs. William C. Hubbard was the chairman of the general committee, and she was assisted by John Cottrell and other officers of the school.

DINO AND KOTSCHIO WERE COMBANTANTS

Of the five men arrested by the local police alleged to be implicated in the injury of Joseph Kotschio on Christmas night only one has been detained to await the result of his injuries. Michael Dion, who was traced and arrested by Detective Sergeant Flynn and Sergeant Overbaugh in North Plainfield on Monday, who is himself somewhat cut up appears to have been the only one who can be held on a charge of assault on Kotschio.

It was a clever piece of detective work which brought to light the part taken in the big Hungarian fracas and implicated Dino, A remark let slip by one of the men who were released yesterday gave Detective Flynn the clue which he followed up. He found Dino working in spite of his four knife wounds none of which had been dressed. It is alleged that Dino and Kotschio got into a fight through an over-indulgence in liquor on Sunday night and a quarrel resulted in a fight between the two men. Kotschio is in bad shape and it may be several days before he is able to leave the hospital. The wounds from which he is suffering were inflicted with a small coal shovel. He probably used his knife on Dino as the latter's wounds are all cuts on the head and shoulders. The hearing is set down for tomorrow morning, subject to the appearance of Kotschio.

AUTOMOBILE AND CAB COLLIDE ON PARK AVE.

Congested traffic near the corner of Park avenue and Second street was responsible for a collision which occurred between a cab driven by William Willis, colored, and Dr. J. Stanley Woolley's automobile at 2 this afternoon. The wind shield of the automobile was shattered and Morris Harrison, manager of Muhlenberg hospital had his arm bruised. Dr. Woolley, who was driving the car was not hurt.

According to bystanders there was just room for two automobiles going toward Front street to pass between an opening in the traffic. Dr. Woolley's machine was following another and larger car and Willis was driving his cab in the opposite direction. It is claimed that the cab driver should have waited the passage of the two cars before attempting to rush his trotting horse through the too small opening between vehicles on either side of him. The cab was not injured neither was the horse. It will cost about fifty dollars to repair the damage to Dr. Woolley's car.

ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF MISS ALBERTA WATERBURY.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteau, of Fairview avenue, gave a Christmas party at their home, last night in honor of their guest, Miss Alberta Waterbury, a former teacher in the borough schools, but now supervisor of music in Syracuse University. During the evening there were violin selections by Joseph Denny, piano selections by Miss Waterbury and Miss Clara VanFleet, while several operatic selections were given on a phonograph. A feature was the making of a record by the party.

There was a Christmas tree laden with gifts and after the entertainment these were distributed by Mr. LaBoyteaux, who interpreted the part of Santa Claus. The rest of the evening was devoted to sociability. Refreshments were served.

—Last of the season. Rabbits 25c a pair at Roth's. ***

TRIED TO KILL HIMSELF

Young South American Fires Bullet in Head But Fails at Suicide.

ONLY SLIGHTLY WOUNDED.

Came Here to Secure Business Education—Rash Act Committed at Guardian's Home in South Plainfield.

Max Bararra, a young Ecuadorian who has been boarding at 222 West Second street, attempted suicide early this morning at the home of his guardian, William Chamaidon, of South Plainfield. He placed a pistol to his right temple and fired, but the bullet took an upward course and passed out with penetrating the brain. He was taken to Muhlenberg hospital at 3 o'clock and given all possible treatment to avoid infection. It is probable that he will be discharged tomorrow.

Bararra is about eighteen years old and has lived in Plainfield a short time. He was sent here by his parents, who are reported to be wealthy in order to secure a business education. Mr. Chamaidon has been acting as his guardian and he went to the latter's home to spend the holiday vacation. He had not been in good health lately, but it was not known that he had been brooding over his condition.

Bararra retired as usual last night but shortly after 12 o'clock the family were aroused by a pistol shot. It was traced to the young man's room and he was found lying on the bed. He was able to converse and told what had happened.

Dr. F. J. Hughes was summoned and gave temporary treatment. He afterwards ordered the ambulance to have him removed to the hospital. The young man would give no definite statement beyond the fact that he had been suffering from a severe headache.

Bararra was greatly liked by his fellow-students at the Plainfield Business College. Principal Herr said of him that he was a bright and gentlemanly at all times and of a very happy disposition. His address on West Second street is the home of Charles Baker, who also speaks well of him.

OILY RAGS CAUSE FIRE SCARE IN WEST END HOME.

The family of J. R. Heaton, of 836 West Sixth street, was aroused from sleep at the home at midnight this morning by choking smoke. The rooms on all the floors were filled with it and a hurried search failed to show the cause.

A telephone alarm was sent to Fire headquarters and Hose Company No. 3 responded. Before the apparatus arrived Mr. Heaton located the trouble. He had been oiling the second floor and left some of the rags in a pail. They generated spontaneous combustion and smoked until the house was dense. The pail was piping hot when the firemen arrived and a blaze would undoubtedly have followed.

JAMES CASHIN KILLED BY N. Y. CENTRAL TRAIN.

Notice was received this morning by the relatives of James Cashin, of East Sixth street, that Mr. Cashin had been killed at Larchmont, N. Y., yesterday by a train on the New York Central Railroad. Mr. Cashin went to Larchmont several months ago, where he had employment in a marble yard.

Mr. Cashin is survived by a wife and several children and was a brother of Mrs. Thomas Murphy, of North avenue. One daughter is the wife of Chris. Frederickson, a son of Police Captain Christian Frederickson, of this city.

Notice of the funeral of Mr. Cashin will be given later.

HARVESTING FINE ICE ON WATCHUNG POND.

The Natural Ice Company resumed operations at its large pond at Watchung this morning with a force of over 100 men, cutting ice from ten to twelve inches in thickness. The quality of the ice is said to be the best in some years.

With the force of men employed it will be possible to harvest forty cakes, weighing 300 pounds each, every minute. If the weather remains favorable an unusually large crop will be gathered to fill the big houses at the pond.

Will Hold a Reception.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Zelie will hold a New Year's reception at their home, the parsonage of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Monday afternoon from 2 until 6 o'clock, and will be glad to receive the visits of the congregation and friends.

—Advertise in The Daily Press.

OFFICIAL MINUTES OF THE BOARD OF FREEHOLDERS.

The regular meeting of the Board of Freeholders of Union County was held on Thursday December 1, 1910, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed the following members present: Director Cady, Freeholders Adams, Crane, Darby, Doane, Garrison, Gruener, Hall Jones, Krouse, Martin, Meisel, Perry, Randolph, Smith, Swain and Thomas—17. Absent—Freeholders Haviland, Jensen and Wilbur-3.

On motion of Freeholder Smith, the reading of the minutes of the meetings of November 3 and 18 was dispensed with, the minutes being approved from printed copies on members' desks.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis, Elizabeth:

Whereas the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union has determined to erect a county hospital for the treatment of tubercular patients; and

Whereas, there is a great and pressing need for such an institution, for the cause there can be no place in the community where such patients can receive treatment, and delay in the opening of the hospital must result in the avoidable deaths and the spread of tuberculosis; and

Whereas, we are advised that efforts are now being made to secure a proper site for the proposed institution; and

Whereas, it is of the highest importance that the hospital shall be easily accessible from Elizabeth by the patients from this city and their relatives and friends; it is

Resolved as follows:

First—That this association heartily approves and commends the decision of the Board of Chosen Freeholders to erect and maintain the proposed hospital.

Second—That this association urges that a site for the hospital shall be selected as near as practicable to a trolley line running to and from this city, so that it can be easily reached by the patients needing the same and their relatives and friends.

Fourth—That a copy of this resolution shall be forwarded to the secretary of the association to the Board of Chosen Freeholders.

On motion of Freeholder Doane received and referred to Committee on Tuberculosis.

Gentlemen—Realizing that you are seriously considering the question of selecting a location for a county tuberculosis hospital within the County of Union, we beg to suggest that in selecting the site for such hospital, great care should be exercised, and we are confident that several sites now under consideration, among them a site on the southerly slope of the Watchung Mountain back of the Plains in the Township of New Providence, which, in our judgment, is far superior to any other site mentioned, for the following reasons:

1. By reason of this site, we are informed, is from three to five hundred feet above the other sites under consideration, which elevation renders the air in this section (which is famed for its curative powers) highly favorable to patients afflicted with tuberculosis.

2. The location upon which the buildings necessary may be erected, is of a southerly exposure and protected on the north by the mountain range.

3. The picturesque outlook, with its natural scenery, is unsurpassed, being a landscape skirted by wooded hills.

4. Through this property flows a beautiful stream of water, fed by which would easily and inexpensively be utilized, and a lake formed for boating and ice gathering purposes.

5. The supply of water for the above mentioned on this property, are two living springs, one containing mineral properties, and the other pure, soft water yielding a never-failing supply, sufficient for all purposes and containing a hydraulic-ram power already installed.

6. If these conditions are favorable (as suggested by Dr. Carrington, for wealthy patients), we are humanitarian enough to believe the same chance for life should be accorded the more unfortunate. The main object in establishing hospitals of this character is to cure incipient cases. We know that this can be accomplished more effectually in bracing mountain air than in lowland near congested population, and where buildings must be screened in summer in order to exclude and avoid the annoyance of mosquitoes and insects, and the outlook in such lowlands would be unattractive and wearisome to patients.

7. We desire also to call your attention to the outlay necessary in securing the location for said hospital. We are informed that the location with the details can be secured at the rate of about $100 per acre, and we are also informed that the site under consideration, and which we do not consider favorably, would cost from four to five hundred dollars per acre.

8. We understand the question of accessibility to the location has been raised as an objection to the location on the mountainside. We beg to state, that, in our opinion, while other locations might be more accessible, yet the location on the mountainside is practicable, and the slight difference of five or ten cents in reaching the same should not count against the other advantages obtained for said hospital.

Signed by 104 residents of the county.

On motion of Freeholder Doane received and referred to Committee on Tuberculosis.

Mr. John N. Cady, Summit, N. J.

My Dear Sir—Confirming our verbal acceptance of Edgar Road, Livingston street and Milton avenue connection, Union county, on October 13, 1910, I hereby notify you, and, through you, the Board of Chosen Freeholders, that the said road has been completed to our entire satisfaction and is therefore accepted upon the part of the State.

Very truly yours,
FRED. GILKYSON,
Commissioner.

On motion of Freeholder Smith received and placed on file.

F. J. Hubbard, County Engineer, Plainfield:

Dear Sir—Referring to the amiesite roads laid last season in Union county, we have just completed covering these roads with an emulsion of pure asphalt, which, according to our experience, will be all that is required to put these roads in good order. Should this treatment not be sufficient, I have already stated to you personally, the Amies Road Company have authorized me to say that they will make good so far as their ability will enable, and will see that these roads are put in good order.

Trusting that this statement is satisfactory, I am

Yours truly,
W. SCHMIDT,
Vice-president.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse received and placed on file.

Gentlemen—The Township Committee, of Springfield, recently received a petition from Samuel Hartshorn, president of the Short Hills Water Company, in which he states that the water company has completed the laying of the mains of Chosen Freeholders for permission to lay a twelve-inch main through the streets of Springfield Township parallel with the present main. The Township Committee of Springfield wishes to enter a protest against the Board of Chosen Freeholders granting the water company this permission until such time as the Township Committee and the water company have come to a perfect understanding in regard to the privilege to be granted. You will do the Township Committee a favor by not taking any action in this matter until you hear further from this committee.

Yours very truly,
ED. C. TOWNLEY,
Township Clerk.

On motion of Freeholder Gruener received and referred to the Committee on County Roads.

Dear Sirs—In accordance with the terms of its ordinance dated June 7, 1902, this company proposed to open St. George road, at the junction of New Brunswick avenue, in order to make repairs to manholes at this location.

The work will be taken up at an early date and will be done under your supervision if so desired.

Yours truly,
NEW YORK TELEPHONE CO.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse received and referred to County Road Committee with power.

Gentlemen—For several weeks this township has made unsuccessful efforts to inspect the public records of your body. We feel sure you will agree with us that these public records should be open for inspection a reasonable number of hours every day in the week. We also feel quite sure that it not any section of the law that has prevented us from going over the books heretofore, nor do we believe that it is the sense of your honorable board to withhold such records for the best interests of the board itself or the public.

No matter if the official acts of your body were perfect and worthy of every commendation, the action of Mr. Leavitt and Mr. King in preventing the public from getting the information they sought from the original expense bills filed, creates suspicion.

This newspaper now appeals to you forgetful that you make an order giving us the privilege of inspecting all records of a public nature which have to do with your body each day in the week, or as many days in the week as is convenient for you, at which time our representative may secure the information we feel is due the public.

Yours respectfully,
THE PRESS CO.

Director Cady informed the members that a resolution had already been drawn and presented by Mr. Meisel, which request which should be acted upon at the proper time.

On motion of Freeholder Randolph the communication was received and placed on file.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Gentlemen—Your committee on Jail respectfully would respectfully report that it has inspected the jail, also the books of the warden.

Number of prisoners in custody Nov. 1	56
Number of prisoners received during month	66
Number of prisoners discharged to-day Dec.	50
Number day's board	1,454

Maintenance—

Groceries, provisions, etc.	$272.53
Salaries	300.00
Total	$572.53

Cost per day per prisoner, .3937c.

JOSEPH PERRY,
J. H. DOANE,
ELSTON DARBY.

On motion of Freeholder Darby received and placed on file.

Gentlemen—Your committee on Construction of Myrtle Avenue Bridge, Westfield, would report having had plans and specifications for this work prepared and that after advertising same they received bids therfore and awarded the contract to Charles H. French for the sum of four hundred and seventy-eight dollars ($578). This figure was made possible by reason of the county supplying the necessary railroad ties (used in building Westfield) bridge, as the stream at that point was covered and the railing not necessary.

C. A. SMITH,
JACOB MARTIN,
W. J. THOMPSON.

On motion of Freeholder Jones received and referred to Committee on Roads.

Committee on redecking bridges on Grant avenue and Union road, Roselle.

Your committee would report that the work on bridge on Union road was let to Alexander Kerr & Son, they being the lowest bidders, at $1287. After this work had been started it was discovered that the walls of the bridge were falling to pieces, and it was considered necessary to rebuild the walls entirely over the place that was being recovered. This work was ordered done by Kerr & Son, the price to be $1100 additional to their first bid. There are also two cast-iron manhole heads included in the new bid.

The recovering of the Grant avenue bridge was let to Foster Callahan at $149.95, he being the lowest bidder for the work.

A. D. CRANE,
JOSEPH PERRY,
ELSTON DARBY.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse received and placed on file.

Gentlemen—Your committee on Recovering Monroe Street Bridge, Rahway, would respectfully report that it was found impossible to use the present wooden stringers placed on this bridge, as was contemplated by a former resolution.

Your committee has therefore altered the plan for the work, so as to leave the new street surface at the same level as it was and after setting the steel beams, it is proposed to use plank for the roadway with new yellow pine planking.

The work of laying the steel work has been let to Charles Ahlin, he being the lowest bidder at $2,226.50.

The work of laying the new floor planking has been let to John Wolke, of Rahway, at a cost of $682.41.

The original appropriation for this work, was $2,750, and as according to the above agreements, the work will cost $3,019.91, we would recommend that the appropriation for this work be increased from $2,750 to the sum of $3,018.91.

ADOLPH GRUENER,
JACOB MARTIN,
W. H. RANDOLPH.

Freeholder Jones moved the report be received and the recommendations adopted, which on roll call was so ordered without dissent.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Meisel:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this board that all books, bills and vouchers be opened for inspection by any newspaper of this county.

Resolved, That all newspapers and citizens are invited to inspect all bills paid by the county for any purpose, and that for the further convenience of such newspapers and citizens, who may desire to inspect them, the clerk of this board is hereby authorized to keep the Freeholders' room for the next ten days between the hours of 9 in the morning and 12 noon, every day except Sunday, for such use.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the newspapers in the county.

On motion of Freeholder Doane the resolution was adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder Doane.

Resolved, That the County Collector be and hereby is instructed to pay to Mrs. Daley the sum of $106.04 in full settlement of the claim in favor against the County of Union for damages for taking land for bridge abutments, pursuant upon her executing to the county a conveyance of said land and a release to the county.

Attorney Codington addressed the board, explaining the nature of the claim.

Freeholder Swain moved the adoption of the resolution, which on roll call was so ordered without dissent.

By Freeholder Doane.

Resolved that when this board adjournes it adjournes to meet on Friday, December 9, at 2:30 o'clock p. m.

The following bills properly audited and approved were read and on motion of Freeholder Doane

Court—Edward S. Atwater, $540; C. Addison Swift, $500; R. J. Kirk-$208.33; John A. Galatian, $31.82; Hand, $6.20; Alfred D. H. Tofts, $18.75; Cosgrove Detective Agency, $36.40; Robert L. Eaton, $37.50; John A. Galatian, $125; J. C. Pohlman, $10.-92; Edward Hand, $6.20; J. J. Scholpp, $100; J. Pflueger, $42; James Carey, $10; Henry Cook, $23; C. W. Irwin, $174; W. B. Hamilton, $69.03; George W. Perk, $78.30, $22; J. Rankin, $88; S. Ferry, $72.10; D. H. Ramsey, $72; J. Seeland, $62.-65; P. V. Weaver, $87.50; C. Eckhardt, $64.80; Wm. Harris, $24.80; W. B. Toucey, $17.45.

Bridges—A. M. Drake, $20; C. A. Peterson, $12.50, $107.93; Stephens Bros., $6.20; D. H. Tofts, $18.75; F. J. Hubbard, $70; J. D. Loizeaux Co., $88; F. J. Hubbard, $12, $10.40; J. P. Gisby, $26.06, $42.41; Helen Carnell, $6.20; W. C. Cole, $26.12; L. Bauer $25, $25; F. T. Callahan, $391.28; Alex. Kerr & Son, $247; Frank Dryer, $83.25, $140.21; Daniel Hoffman, $7.75; Hubbard, $10; Hauf, $20.85; Charles Arny, $13.40, $12.20; T. Kirch, $345; Jacob Leitchman, $2; F. J. Hubbard, $10; P. Lampheer, $46; W. L. Dunlhear, $47.41, $49.33; G. B. Avery, $43.75; C. P. Lamphear, 47.41; Alexander Kerr & Son, Luther Daley, $5; C. H. Winans, $62.71; F. R. Dickinson, $47.24; E. L. Moore, $31, $107.-50.

Grounds and Buildings—J. R. Rahl $4.53; H. A. Rath, $45.27; Catherine Runyon, $27; J. J. Carey, $60; Henry Vanderveer, $22; W. H. Meeker, Inc., $7.50; T. C. Bothmann, $1.50; Elizabeth Ice Co., $29.-75; Columbia Refining Company, $22.33; Western Union Tel. Co., $2; Springfield Water Co., $42.42; New Idea Laundry Co., $7.50; W. H. Hinkamper, $125, $17.90; Brucklacher, $8.95; N. Y. Tele. Co., $72.70, —$72.70; Hall & Co., $60; Seventy-28; Elections—D. D. Schenck, $3; W. H. Winter, $30; J. J. Gardner, $30; Chester Spittlehouse, $30; John Badgley, $30; Charles Ayres, $30; W. Cole, $30; M. Stewart, $30; Herbert Acken, $30; C. H. Winans, $31.50; G. J. Smith, $9; John Keron & Son, $181.3; Stanley Cook, $25; Henry Schoppe, $54; James Hurley, $30; Fred Herman, $31; Nicholas Mooney, $21; Henry Cook $8.75.

Courts—Alfred D. Tofts, $22, $28.45; Central Beef Co., $13.85, $46.28; Hildebrandt Co., $49.85; J. O. Brokaw, $25.44; Henry Schmidt, $7.75; H. H. Livengood, $25; W. C. Cole, $5.20; Woodhull & Martin, $30.32; James Johnston, $75; C. W. Dodd, $125, $5.17; Fanny Dodd, $30; Pasquale Orlando, $70.

Children's Guardians—N. J. State Board of Children's Guardians, $26.-83.

Lunacy—W. R. Codington, $60.45; N. J. State Hospital, Trenton, $28.25; N. J. State Hospital, Morristown, $3,945.79.

Stationery Elizabeth Novelty Co., $58.25, $4.95; Henry Cook, $8.75; P. H. Charlock, $21.34; Advocate Pub. Co., $13.50, $55; C. Webb, $3.60, $2.60, $2.60; W. Vroom, $12.-75.

Publications—Standard Pub. Concern, $137.50; Courier-News C., $9.-47, $12.25, $72.25, $78.1; Elizabeth Evening Times, $16.80; Standard Pub. Concern, $2.45; Westfield Leader $2; N. J. Advocate, $2.50.

Incidentals—Columbia Trust Co., $115.85; W. E. Codington, $165; J. M. Drake, $27; Henry Krouse, $251.20; F. W. Westcott, $78.95; B. King, $13.65; J. J. Savitz, $14.75.

Tax Board—Florence Stiles, $50, $5; Sidney Eldridge, $100.

County Road Repair—C. H. Winans, $426.35, $544, $29.96; J. L. Bauer, $80; F. J. Hubbard, $42.80; J. Woodruff, $13.50; Weldon Con. Co., $628.06, $596.96.

New State Roads—J. L. Bauer, $150, $367.64; C. H. Winans, $2,-500; F. J. Hubbard, $1,000; Hubbard, $500, $82.88, $40; Weldon Con. Co., $25, $217.60, $13,336.86.

Surrogate—Rosabel Ahlin, $100; Anna Dilks, $60; Mrs. Parrot, $208.34; Ida Parrot, $458.33.

Members' Pay—Peter Meisel, $31; Elston Darby, $26; S. P. Wilbur, $24; W. Garrison, $24; J. N. Leavitt, $30; Benjamin Hall, $18; Joseph Perry, $34; Thomas Haviland, $42; J. H. Doane, $30; A. H. Gruener, $24; A. D. Crane, $24; B. Jones, $15; Jacob Martin, $40; Henry Krouse, $46; C. A. Smith, $36; W. H. Randolph, $36; W. H. Swain, $22, E. Adams, $13.65.

Salaries—Benjamin King, $133.33; N. R. Leavitt, $250; James Fink, $100.

Committee Expenses — Thomas Haviland, $7.60; S. P. Wilbur, $17.-15; Elston Darby, $6.75; A. D. Crane, $8.30; Peter Meisel, $5.65; Jacob Martin, $8.60; Joseph Cady, $5.65; Joseph Perry, $7.25; W. H. Swain, $5.10; John Keron, $9; W. H. Garrison, $22.15; $22.90; B. Hall, $5.-80; Joseph Perry, $7.25; A. Smith, $21.60; E. K. Adams, $13.65; J. H. Doane, $9.95.

Sheriff's Account—R. J. Kirkland, $43.14, $48.33; W. H. Wright, $208.33; James Clark, $108.33.

Registrar—F. H. Smith, $468.33; Edward Bauer, $208.34, $12.41; Ella Bauer, $14.66; Josie Galloway, $70; Evelyn Gore-Kelly, $40; Marion Swift, $60; Ida Courser, $70; Louise Stauffer, $70; Irene Donaldson, $70; Charlotte Schobel, $70; Henriette Meincke, $70; Edward Mohr, $3.95; Ottilie Reuter. $35.

County Clerk—J. C. Calvert, $43.14, $48.33; Ella, $86.67; Helen Whelan, $35; Irene Calvert, $70; Frances McCabe, $52; Z. K. Norman, $208.34; C. W. Runyon, $100.

At this point Freeholder Swain stated that Mr. Russell, of the Elizabeth Evening Times, wished to address the board, which permission was granted.

Mr. Russell addressed the board in regard to his communication asking for permission to examine the books of the county and at the time specified in the resolution offered by Mr. Meisel, stating that the time 9 a. m. to 12 noon was accepted by him, but asked that the number of days be prolonged.

Freeholder Meisel stated that when he introduced the resolution he did not know that ten days was not sufficient time, but was willing to make the time unlimited.

County Counsel Codington then addressed the board, stating that he would like to maintain a clerk's office like cities do. He then suggested that a committee be appointed. This was deemed a good idea by the board and he recommended that the resolution as passed be allowed to stand and that as the board would meet again on Friday, December 9, an arrangement could be made to extend the time if desired.

Freeholder Adams moved to adjourn which was carried.

The Director declared the board adjourned until Friday, December 9, at 2:30 o'clock p. m.

BENJAMIN KING,
Clerk.

The adjourned meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders held on December 9, 1910, at 2:30 p. m., at the courthouse, Elizabeth.

Roll call showed all members present with the exception of Freeholder Martin.

At the request of a number of citizens who wished to be heard on the question of selecting a site for the tuberculosis pavilion, the board gave a public hearing in the courtroom. Addresses were made by Mr. John Campbell, Union Township; Director Mravlag, representing the city of Elizabeth; Dr. Grier, of Elizabeth; Dr. Murray, of Plainfield, and others.

After the hearing the board adjourned to the board room and took up the regular business of the meeting.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were received from the Township of Union, Union Township Board of Improvement Society, objecting to a site for the tuberculosis hospital in their townships.

From the Township of New Providence, objecting to the site in that township.

From the City council of the city of Elizabeth requesting that a hearing be given the members of the Financial Committee.

From Hugh P. Fox, of the charity Organization Society, commending the board for its action on the tuberculosis question and advising the selection of a site on high ground.

On motion these communications were received and placed on file.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Gentlemen—Your committee appointed to confer with and upon which to erect a county tuberculosis hospital-sanatorium would respectfully report that it has conferred with Director H. B. Liveseed, C. E., inspected the various sites situated in different parts of the county, these properties suggested to us either by agents or owners, through judicial advertising and the publicity given the subject by the newspaper press of the county.

Well-known experts have been consulted and their advice has been of great value to the committee in selecting a site.

Your committee has left no stone unturned in its inspection of the properties, that we might be sure to secure the best location.

The main object in the minds of the committee was to find a property best suited for the cure of incipient cases, and to make conformable with those more advanced. Many matters to be considered were the choice of good farm land, which would yield vegetables, fruit, etc., in abundance; where chickens and cows would thrive; a pleasing landscape, a mountainslope, a proper altitude, with Southern exposure, with a mountain on its northern boundary, thereby adding to the attractiveness of the view, thereby solving the question of holding the patients, pure water, a stream or lake which could be dammed, forming a lake where ice could be cut and stored and in summer used for boating and fishing and in winter for skating.

Dr. Carrington, in his suggestion regarding site and construction of county hospital-sanatoria, says: "The site should be one which would retain as usually to be preferred—sites where strong prevailing winds exist during certain seasons of the year should be shunned unless protected by forests or hills; climatic conditions should be carefully investigated." He also says: "The open country offers a choice of sites which should be considered from this point of view (natural beauty)—meadows and trees add to the cheerfulness of the landscape, and a lake or pond may give great opportunities for amusement;" thus doing much to solve the question of holding the patients, which question in turn (i. e. holding the patient) Dr. Carrington stated 'seems to be on absolute necessity in order to control the disease."

Your committee is glad that the county is fortunate that the opportunity presents itself of procuring a farm so beautifully and suitably located as contained in the report.

A goodsized lake, from which a supply of ice may be taken, while the patients might use the same for skating in winter and for boating and fishing in summer; a windmill and gas egine pumping from the ground a good supply of water; a spring of water which flows into the lake; and apple orchard yielding abundant of fruit each year; a house of twelve rooms in first-class condition, barns, ice-house, ice-house, etc., all in large amount has been expended in laying out and beautifying the grounds.

The Fullerton Farm contains about sixty-five acres. The whole tract can be purchased by the county for $13,000.

Other properties presented for our consideration, all lacking in a great degree the forgoing requisites for the special purpose as offered at $6,000 and upwards. The above more expensive properties can be reached at a saving of a five-cent carefare we have deemed a negligible consideration.

Accessibility has also been duly considered. The Fullerton farm, besides possessing all the foregoing benefits only five and a quarter miles from the trolley, a short walk over a good macadam road, taking but a few minutes, or patients may be taken to the spot in a county conveyance in half that time or less.

Reliable dealers assure us that all board bills for food can be purchased on the ground as cheaply as at Plainfield or Elizabeth. We are informed that tradesmen will deliver supplies under the same conditions prevailing in the towns.

Finally, the question of comparative cost has been carefully considered. We believe that economy, rather than extravagance, should be practised in the expenditure of public moneys, as well as in private affairs.

We, therefore, recommend the purchase by the county of the property known as the Fullerton farm, situated in Washington Valley, in the Township of New Providence, and that the County Attorney be authorized to execute the necessary papers looking to the conveyance of title thereto by the county of Union.

J. H DOANE,
HENRY KROUSE,
THOMAS HAVILAND,
Committee.

Freeholder Wilbur moved that the report be received and the recommendations adopted, which on roll call was so ordered without dissent.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Krouse.

Whereas, the need of this board establish a county hospital for the care and treatment of persons suffering from the diseases known as tuberculosis, and

Resolved, That this board purchase the property known as the Fullerton farm, consisting of about sixty-five acres, for said purpose, for the sum of $13,000,—and be it further

Resolved, That the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union do hereby authorize and direct bonds of the county to the extent and amount of $50,000 fr the purchase of said site and the erection of such hospital, to be issued in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled "An act authorizing the establishment of county improvement Society, objecting to a site for the tuberculosis hospital in their townships.

From the Township of New Providence, objecting to the site in that township.

From the City council of the city of Elizabeth requesting that a hearing be given the members of the Financial Committee.

From Hugh P. Fox, of the charity Organization Society, commending the board for its action on the tuberculosis question and advising the selection of a site on high ground.

On motion these communications were received and placed on file.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Gentlemen—Your committee appointed to confer with and upon which to erect a county tuberculosis hospital-sanatorium would respectfully report that it has conferred with Director H. B. Liveseed, C. E., inspected the various sites situated in different parts of the county, these properties suggested to us either by agents or owners, through judicial advertising and the publicity given the subject by the newspaper press of the county.

Well-known experts have been consulted and their advice has been

Resolved, That the Director of this board and the County Collector are hereby authorized to cause said bonds to be prepared, printed and executed, and advertised and sold to the highest bidder, but not less than at par.

Freeholder Smith moved the adoption of the resolution which on roll call was so ordered by an unanimous vote.

By Freeholder Meisel.

Whereas, in compliance with the resolution of the board passed at its last meeting the hours of 10 in the morning and 4 in the afternoon for the period ending December 31, 1910, every business day.

Freeholder Krouse moved the adoption of the resolution, which was so ordered.

By Freeholder Krouse.

Resolved, That the board adjourns it will meet on Wednesday, December 28, 1910, at 2:30 p. m.

On motion of Freeholder Jones the resolution was adopted without dissent.

Freeholder Swain moved to adjourn, which was carried. The Director declared the board adjourned until Wednesday, December 28, at 2:30 p. m.

BENJAMIN KING,
Clerk.

DR. EVANS REPORT OF MORRIS PLAINS ASYLUM

Regarding the separation of criminal from other insane patients as of great importance, the managers of the State hospital at Morris Plains unite with the medical directors in urging in their annul report that action be taken by the next legislature making possible such a segregation. A bill authorizing construction of such a building upon the grounds of the State Hospital in this city was introduced in the last legislature. The fact that it failed to pass is regarded by the Morris Plains authorities as most unfortunate.

They point out that the plan proposed would serve the twofold purpose of relieving the congestion of the State Hospital, which has been the subject of complaint for years, and would serve to render more desirable the surroundings of those inmates who are without criminal tendency. The convict, says the report, necessarily brings into the institution all his evil elements, his bloodthirsty tendencies, his cunning and his deception.

Another need of the hospital which the managers regard as important are a cottage, workshops and an addition to the corps of physicians. The particular benefits which would result from these acquisitions are dealt with in detail in the report of the medical director Dr. Britton D. Evans.

During the hospital year covered by the report 276 men and 243 women were admitted, the total of 519 being the greatest number of admissions during any single period in the history of the hospital. The population at the close of the fiscal year was 2,118, an increase of 59 over the preceding year. During the year the total number treated was 2,522. The classification of the patients at the end of the year was as follows: 1,813 indigents, 209 pay patients, 66 convicts and 30 criminals. Since the opening of the hospital, thirty-four years ago, 9,981 patients have been received.

The statistical tables show that the patients who are supported entirely by the State number 604, or twenty-eight per cent. of the whole population. Of the patients admitted about thirty-three per cent. were diagnosed as suffering from mania or mental exaltation. Fifty-six patients had a history of homicidal tendencies. In twenty-one and two-tenths per cent. of the admissions dementia was manifested, while eighteen and four-tenths per cent. were afflicted with melancholic or mental depression. Suicidal tendencies were exhibited in 104 cases.

In over twenty-four per cent. of those admitted a history of hereditary taint was ascertained. In many cases, however, it was impossible to secure reliable data regarding heredity, because of the reluctance of relatives to enter into the intimate phases of family history. Dr. Evans, therefore, does not believe that the percentage of this is as large as the facts would warrant.

The statistics for the past year show an increase of cases in which intemperance and other excesses are given as the cause of mental alienation, amounting to seventeen per cent. of those admitted. Of the admissions 179 patients were born in New Jersey, 137 were natives of other States and 203 were of foreign birth.

Dr. Evans says it is gratifying to report an increased percentage of recoveries during the year. The recoveries amounted to 26.2 per cent. based on the number admitted, showing a gain of 1.2 per cent. over the preceding year. More than 56 per cent. of those who were restored gained their mental equilibrium within twelve months after their admission.

A Wonderful Woman.

"Thrifty, is she?"

"Thrifty? I won't go into a long dicourse. I merely tell you that she banks money by December."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HELPS

Provisions Collected at Christmas Entertainment at First Baptist.

REV. MR. ACKERT SPEAKS.

Vocal and Instrumental Music and Recitations Classes Make Their Gifts for the Poor of the City.

Six tons of coal, three barrels of flour, three barrels of potatoes, several complete turkey dinners, clothing, fruit, vegetables, cereals, and aggregating a cash value of about $200, together with $65.57 in cash were given by the officers, teachers and various classes of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, at its Christmas service, Friday. The edifice was thronged with members and friends of the school and the service was one of the most enjoyable in recent years.

Other features of the evening were several selections by the Norma Instrumental Trio, violin, piano, 'cello and trumpets, in solo work and they also assisted in the rendition of carols led by Charles L. Lewis. Howard M. Case was at the organ, opening the program with the Pilgrims' Chorus from Tannhauser. Otherwise the program was carried out as previously published. James E. Church, superintendant of the school, was in charge of the program, being assisted by the committee consisting of Arthur M. Harris, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chanbliss, pastor of the church, also assisted in the services.

The solo and trio numbers by the Norma Trio included Romance, Wieniawski, Miss Norma Meisel; Angels Message, Dressler, Miss White with 'cello obligato; Aria, Tenaglia, Miss Cora Sauter; offertory, Night Sinks on the Wave, Smart, Alda Trumpet Trio.

Another pleasing feature was the address by Rev. Winfred R. Ackert, pastor of a mission church on the East side of New York. His remarks were appropriate to the Christmastide season, telling something of his work among the poor.

There were three recitations, The Christmas Tree, Emily Pilger; A Christmas Thought, Dorothy Hall and The Night After Christmas, Anna Sherwin. Interspersing the numbers on the program the gifts from the various classes were received as follows:

Officers, one ton of coal; class No. 1, Dr. Norman H. Probasco teacher, three barrels potatoes; 2, Harold Serrell, three dinners; 3, Mrs. H. H. Matlack, ton of coal; 4, F. S. Thompson, $3 for a dinner; 5, R. C. Brown, ton of coal; 6, Mrs. J. L. Manning, cereals and groceries; 7, Miss Harriet O. Mattison, clothing, etc; 8, Miss Eva Bliss, one ton of coal; 9, Miss Liveseed; 10, T. B. Drake, $1 cash; 11, G. A. Chapman, three tons of coal; 12, Miss Mabel Cronce, canned goods; 13, Men's Bible class, W. H. Herrman, three barrels flour; 21, Gideon Fountain, dressed turkey; 22, Miss Nelly, turkey dinner; 23, Miss Ruth Day, basket fruit; 24, Miss Minnie Serrell, $1, cash; 31, Mrs. Harold Serrell, turkey dinner; 32, Miss Amy J. Conant, fruits; 33 Mrs. R. C. Brown, fruits; 34, Mrs. W. H. Vail, canned goods, books and vegetables; 35, Mrs. Frank W. Jones, fruits, cereals and vegetables; 36, Miss Sarah M. Johnson, groceries; 37, Mrs. Jennie VanHorn, jellies; 38, Mrs. F. S. Thompson, fruits and cereals; 39, Miss Violet VonWinkle, vegetables and groceries; 40, Miss Beulah Van Winkle, vegetables and groceries; primary and beginners' departments, two baskets of groceries. The offering was for the Day Nursery.

MORE THAN A THOUSAND CHILDREN AT PROCTOR'S

More than one thousand children enjoyed the performance at Proctor's theatre yesterday afternoon given for their benefit by the Elks lodge. Each youngster was presented with a box of candy and an orange while those who were actually in need received a sack of food, fuel, Form & Co. for caps, mittens and stockings.

Long before the hour announced for the opening of the doors the little ones began to gather and in order to prevent the overcrowding of the street, Mr. Sanderson permitted the opening up of the house at 1 o'clock and the way the kiddies poured in was a caution. Messrs. Cose and Carney of the Elks' committee had their hands full trying to keep order, but they succeeded in getting their guests seated and properly chaperoned.

The entertainment, as usual, was delightful and fully appreciated by the children who were especially pleased with the moving pictures. To Mr. Sanderson is due much of the success of the afternoon's proceedings and for the part he took in providing entertainment which was an expensive one. He has the thanks of not only the committee but of the second lodge whose members made the treat for the children possible.

"Does tobacco make a man nervous?"

"It is likely to," replied the physician, "if his wife objects to his smoking."—Exchange.

WILSON TO THE PEOPLE

Governor-Elect Calls Upon New Jersey Citizens to See That Justice is Done.

BITTERLY DENOUNCES SMITH.

Democratic "Boss" Placed in the Limelight in a Most Remarkable Document—Eulogizes Martine.

Calling upon the people to "speak their minds in unmistakable terms to those whom they have been chosen to represent them," Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson, in the most remarkable statement to the voters ever issued by one in a similar position, denounces James Smith, Jr., in no unmeasured terms for his attitude in the senatorial contest.

The letter follows:

"In view of Mr. James Smith, Jr.'s, public avowal of his candidacy for the seat in the Senate of the United States presently vacated by the Hon. John Kean, it becomes my duty to lay before the voters of the State the facts as I know them, and the reasons why it seems to me imperative that Mr. Martine and not Mr. Smith should be sent to the Senate.

"Before I consented to allow my name to be put before the State Democratic Convention for the nomination of Governor, I asked the gentleman who was acting as Mr. Smith's spokesman if Mr. Smith would desire to return to the Senate, in case the Democrats should win a majority in the State Legislature. I was assured that he would not. I was told that the state of his health would not permit it and that he did not desire it.

"Immediately after the election Mr. Smith came to see me and said that had been his feeling before election, but that he was feeling stronger and hoped that the Legislature would offer him the seat. I pointed out to him that this action on his part would confirm all the ugliest suspicions of the campaign concerning him, and urged him very strongly not to allow his name to be used at all; but my arguments had no effect upon him.

"I subsequently learned that before my nomination and at the very time I was told that he would not desire the seat, he had made an agreement with the leader of the Hudson county organization that the votes of the Hudson county members in the Legislature would be cast for him as Senator in case the Legislature should be Democratic. The gentlemen who were to be nominated for the Assembly from Hudson were not consulted; it was an agreement between leaders. The vote was to be turned over to Mr. Smith by the organization in case of a Democratic victory.

"Mr. Smith has at last publicly announced his candidacy, but he has been a candidate from the first. Ever since the election he has been using every means at his disposal to obtain the pledges of Democratic members of the Legislature to vote for him as Senator. He has assumed, in dealing with them, that the State organization would be in control of the Legislature; that its offices would be distributed as he should suggest; that members would be assigned to committees as the committees had made up as he wished them to be. He has offered to assist members in obtaining membership on such committees as they might prefer. In brief, he has assumed that he and other gentlemen associated with the Legislature by the people would have the same control over the action of the houses that is understood to have been exercised by the so-called Board of Guardians of the Republican party in recent years.

"I said in my former statement regarding this matter that if Mr. Smith should be sent to the United States Senate he would not go as the representative of the people. I meant that he would go as the representative of particular interests in the State, with which it is well known he has always been identified. It is significant that his candidacy is supported by the Camden paper known to be owned or controlled by Mr. David Baird, Jr. John W. Griggs in a letter recently published has condemned me for taking any part in this matter and has thereby confirmed the impression that he also has clients who are interested in being represented in the Senate by Mr. Smith. So far as the voters of the State are concerned and the States' essential interests, there is no reason why a change should be made from Mr. John Kean to Mr. James Smith, Jr. They are believed to stand for the same influences and to represent the same group of selfish interests. It should be a matter of indifference to both Republicans and Democrats which of the two represents the State at Washington.

"I say these things with genuine regret. I made every possible effort, consistent with dignity and self-respect, to induce Mr. Smith to withdraw from his candidacy. It was my sincere desire that he should receive the credit which is due him for the undoubted service of the Democratic State organization in the recent campaign. By withdrawing he would have won respect and applause and I should have been very glad to join in according him all just praise. I had hoped that it would be possible for me to assume office and enter on the performance of my duties without giving utterance to anything about individuals that would give them pain, or draw me away from the attitude of respect which I had tried to maintain. But I have been left without a choice in the matter.

"The issue is plain. If Mr. Smith is sent back to the United States Senate, the Democratic party and the State itself is more delivered into the hands of the very influences from which it had struggled to set itself free. Nothing could have been more unfortunate than Mr. Smith's candidacy. It revives the alarms and prejudices which make fair and just legislation so difficult and doubtful. It renews and intensifies the struggle between the party and selfish interests, between popular rights and property rights, between privilege and opportunity, which ought to be accommodated by laws which will be fair to all parties. It is a sad circumstance that the conflict must be fought out through this last unfortunate stage. But of course it must be. Mr. Smith and those whom he represents have made it inevitable.

"The people must now speak their minds in unmistakable terms to those whom they have chosen to represent them. It must now be determined whether the present members of the Legislature are representatives of the people or puppets of a bi-partisan machine. I believe in organization. I desire to co-operate with Democrats of every affiliation in carrying the party forward by union and harmony of action towards the great service which it can render the country, if it will but stand by its principles. But when organization is used for the elevation and benefit of individuals who do not represent the people, whose interests are opposed to those of the people, I must resist it by every means at my disposal.

"Over against all this selfish effort to use a machine, over against all this sinister pressure to put a man into the United States Senate who by common consent will not represent the people, stands the candidacy of Mr. Martine, supported by the vote of a very large majority of the Democrats who chose to express their preference at the primaries. It is my earnest and deliberate judgment that it is the duty of the Democratic members of the Legislature to ratify that expression of preference by electing Mr. Martine a member of the Senate.

"The last time a Senator from New Jersey was chosen the party counted itself lucky to get a man like him as its candidate. Three years ago Mr. Smith proposed Mr. Martine for the Governorship. Throughout the Union the Democratic party has been turned with greater and greater enthusiasm to the practice of following the preference of the people expressed at the primaries in the choice of Senators. The Democratic party in New Jersey has again and again indorsed the principle and favored the practice. It cannot retreat from it now in this instance without completely discrediting itself and all its professions of faith in this popular and admirable reform.

"Mr. Martine is a man of sterling character, of fine fidelity to his party and to its principles, and is considered by those who know him best to be undoubtedly qualified to serve the State well and honorably in the Senate. His election will definitely and finally commit the State to the practice of elevating to the Senate men indorsed at the polls by the people. This is the opportunity, the significant and critical opportunity, for the Democratic party to prove its good faith in this cardinal matter of self-government. Confirm the vote of Mr. Martine and the principle of the people's choice is established—will live vitally in practice; ignor it and the people will distrust both primaries and parties. If the present members of the Legislature turn away from the people now they will never again have or deserve another opportunity to enjoy their support and confidence.

"The issue is, therefore, not merely an issue between choosing a representative of the people or a representative of the business machine, but an issue between sustaining or rejecting a great principle to which the party is unequivocally committed. I do not see how any true Democrat can in the circumstances doubt his duty or turn away from it to hazard shame and utter discredit."

OUR INVALID.

It is only in extreme cases and at inopportune times that visitors are excluded from the sickroom—the tedium of confinement is relieved so much by the smiling countenance and cheery word of a friend.

It may seem almost superfluous to offer any suggestions as to the means in making a call upon the sick acceptable, yet "often times we do offend where most we wish to please." How many, even among those who are the promptest to discharge their duty in such cases, are so unmindful that their return is awaited with eagerness?

The failure, or partial failure, of such well-meaning persons may arise from the fact that the sense of duty which has prompted the visit is allowed to make itself too apparent. Calling on the sick is by no means the pleasantest of tasks and it is not to be wondered at, perhaps, if the duty is sometimes put off until the delay is no longer excusable.

Chamois leather should be washed, when necessary, in soapsuds, and rinsed in soapsuds—not in clean water. Treated thus it will always keep its original softness.

DISCUSS WATER PROBLEM

Offer Suggestion That Effort First be Made to Obtain Better Contract.

PROMINENT CITIZENS CONFER.

Gilbert, Dumont and Holstein do not Look With Favor on "M. O." Idea—Randolph and Frost Take Opposite View.

Upon invitation of the special water commission, prominent citizens and large taxpayers attended a conference held in the Common Council rooms, Thursday, for the purpose of discussing informally the water question in view of the recent report made by James Fuertes, the expert engineer.

Among the invited ones present were L. V. F. Randolph, John B. Dumont, Alexander Gilbert, William S. Tyler, George M. Holstein, George P. Mellick, City Treasurer William F. Arnold, Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett and George H. Frost. The members of the Common Council present were, Frederic E. Mygatt chairman of the special water commission; Frank L. Holt, William L. Gloak, George S. Clay, Duncan W. Taylor, Francis L. Montgomery, Herbert Buxton and Mayor-elect G. W. V. Moy.

Having another engagement later in the evening, Alexander Gilbert was the first speaker. He advised the Council to weigh the question of a future water supply slowly and carefully before deciding on municipal ownership. He expressed himself in favor of an effort to make a satisfactory contract with the Plainfield-Union Water Company, before deciding on an independent plant. Mr. Dumont supported Mr. Gilbert in his opinion and urged that the Council go cautiously in the matter. He said that the great question seemed to be as to whether there would be sufficient water supply for the future needs of Plainfield, even under present conditions. While some people seemed to be of the opinion that there is plenty of water and that a municipal plant could be operated successfully there is also some doubt as to the ultimate result.

Until such time as the question can be settled definitely, Mr. Dumont believed that the city should try to make the best possible contract with the present water company and thus avoid any trouble in the immediate future. Mr. Dumont did not favor the bonding of the city for a million and half for the purpose of acquiring a municipal plant and Mr. Gilbert was of the same opinion.

L. V. F. Randolph spoke in favor of a municipal plant, it being his opinion that the present water company cannot guarantee to furnish an adequate water supply for years to come. He believed that the city should seek to protect its water rights as far as possible and control its own supply. George H. Frost agreed with Mr. Randolph, adding that now is the time to solve the problem instead of waiting any number of years.

The legal rights of the water company were explained by William S. Tyler, former councilman, who, as a member of a special committee, investigated this phase of the question some time ago.

An important declaration by Mr. Randolph was to the effect that in his opinion the old charter of the Plainfield Water Company, which was sold by the late E. R. Pope to Frank Bergen and John Kean, was dead before it was sold. If this was true, Mr. Randolph said that if condemnation proceedings were adopted it would not be difficult to prove that the franchise damages should not and would not be anything.

George M. Holstein favored making as satisfactory contract as possible with the present water company and continuing the investigation of the advantages of a municipal plant until such time as all important points are definitely settled.

The members of the Common Council did not enter into the general discussion, the object of the conference being solely for the purpose of getting the opinions of some of the large property owners. It is probable that other conferences of a similar character will be held in the near future with a view to getting additional opinions on the subject.

Jerusalem Chapter Elects.

Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, Royal Arch Masons, at a regular convocation last night, elected these officers for the ensuing year: High Priest, W. A. Cochran; king, John Ulrich; principal sojourner, Charles Strotevant; treasurer, Henry Leifke; secretary, William McDowell Coriell; captain of the host, Henry G. Uhler; principal sojourner, John Knight; royal arch captain, R. H. Barnard; trustees, L. B. Wright, Robert A. Meeker, W. R. Codington; representative to Masonic Hall Association, William R. Codington. The installation will take place Thursday night, January 12.

Mistaken Meaning.

The Father—That young fellow who has been calling here lately is a very fine young man; he has the right ring about him.

The Daughter (eagerly)—Has he? Have you seen it? Is it a diamond?

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

MRS. G. H. BABCOCK DEAD

Well Known Woman, Noted for Benevolences, Succumbs After Long Illness.

A STEPSON SURVIVES HER.

She Had Large Realty Holdings Bequeathed by Her Husband—The Funeral Saturday Afternoon.

Mrs. George H. Babcock, aged 63 years, died suddenly at her home on West Eighth street, Thursday afternoon. The immediate cause of death was cardiac asthma. Mrs. Babcock had been ill for the past five years with a complication of diseases, including kidney trouble, neuritis and last summer she suffered a second stroke of paralysis, while at her summer home in Watch Hill, R. I. She was able to be about, however. On Wednesday she took a drive and yesterday she was about the house during the early part of the day.

Mrs. Babcock was Miss Eugenie L. Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan K. Lewis, and she was born at Hopkinton, R. I., March 29, 1847. She spent her girlhood days at Hopkinton. Later she was engaged as a school teacher at Westerly, R. I. She came to Plainfield in 1883, having been engaged as a school teacher at the Bryant School. She held this position until 1893, when she was married to Mr. Babcock.

Mrs. Babcock was a woman of rare qualities and was beloved by all who knew her. The extensive educational, religious and charitable work carried on by her husband was continued by her. She was liberal in her contributions to worthy causes. She and her son, George L. Babcock, gave $4,000 toward the equipment of the laboratory at the Plainfield High School, it being given in honor of the late Mr. Babcock.

The English prize of $25 in books, which was given each year at the Plainfield High School commencement by Mr. Babcock, was continued each year by Mrs. Babcock. She also was generous in her contributions to local charity, as well as to the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of which she was a lifelong member.

In addition to these benefactions, Mrs. Babcock was continually giving to the worthy poor, many individual cases receiving her care and attention. It has been said that no worthy person or cause was ever turned away by her, so anxious was she to help the needy. Mrs. Babcock had large property interests left to her by her husband. Mr. Babcock was for many years one of Plainfield's most prominent citizens, the business block on West Front street bearing his name, being considered one of the finest in the city.

Mrs. Babcock owned a handsome summer home at Watch Hill, R. I., and her residence on West Eighth street, which was recently completed, is without doubt one of the most attractive and handsomely furnished in the city.

Mrs. Babcock is survived by a son, George L. Babcock; a brother, Wayland W. Lewis, of Westerly, R. I.; also Nathan E. Lewis, of this city, a nephew, while Mrs. H. M. Maxson, of this city, is a cousin.

MR. PUTNAM DENIES HE'S PARTNER OF DE BRIGARD.

Robert Putnam, who has always been looked upon as a partner in the firm of DeBrigard & Co., on whose goods an attachment was recently placed by Boice, Runyon & Co., said this morning that he never had been a partner in the concern and that his only connection with it was that of an employe.

Mr. Putnam declares that he never signed the bond which he was charged with signing. He announces that he has gone into business in New York with an export house dealing in machinery and his friends wish him success in the new venture.

OLD ZOUAVE ARMORY IS BEING TORN DOWN.

Elizabeth's old Veteran Zouave Armory, in Elizabeth, which was built forty years ago and was the scene of many notable events, including receptions to General Grant, General and Governor Gordon, of Georgia; Kansas City Veteran Zouaves and Chicago Zouaves, to begin with, is being torn down. It was recently purchased by Commodore Walter Summerton, of the Elizabeth Yacht Club, for $405.

Only a few years ago the city of Elizabeth paid $11,000 for the structure, to be used as an armory for the National Guard, but it was found to be too dilapidated to answer the purpose. Then the Norwood Athletic Club offered the city of Elizabeth $500 a year for a lease of the place, but the city asked $800.

F. H. Smith a Director.

County Registrar Frank H. Smith, of this city, has been elected a director of the El Mora and West End Building and Loan Association, the articles of incorporation which were filed in the office of the county clerk on Wednesday. The association begins its career in an auspicious manner, a total of 641 shares being subscribed for by 105 members.

POPULATION IS 20,550

Plainfield's Percentage of Gain in Ten Years Has Been But 25 Per Cent.

MISS STIFFS WINS THE PRIZE.

Her Guess Was But 17 of the Exact Figures—Next Best Prediction Was Made by Robert Van Horn.

Plainfield's population is 20,550. This is the announcement contained in a dispatch received at 3 o'clock Friday from Director Durand, of the Federal Census bureau. This is a gain of but 5,181 in ten years. The percentage of gain is only a trifle above twenty-five per cent.

According to the census of 1900, Plainfield had 15,369. That was the twelfth census. The eleventh census showed a population of 11,267.

Miss Jean Montgomery Stites, of 110 East Fifth street, is the winner of the five dollar gold piece offered by The Daily Press to the person who made the guess nearest to the exact population. Her prediction was 20,567. Robert Van Horn, of 323 West Front street, was next best, his guess being 20,435. The third nearest prediction was 20,718. It was made by J. F. Bamberger, of West Front street.

The highest figure was submitted by Harry Christianson, of Netherwood avenue, who predicted 36,700. The lowest submitted was that of Walter J. Swalm, of Nee street, it being 15,352.

JIM SMITH AT PRESENT AND IN FORMER DAYS

Hisory is repeating itself in New Jersey. In the fall of 1892, shortly after Cleveland had been elected President, eight Assemblymen from Essex county addressed a letter to James Smith, Jr., asking him to become a candidate for United States Senator. Smith was the county chairman, and every one of the eight owed their election to him up to that time he had declared himself in favor of the election of Gov. Leon Abbett. There was supposed to be no other candidate in the field. But the letter from the Assemblymen paved the way for him to take the field in opposition to the Governor, whom he had promised to support. On the eve of the legislative caucus, he announced himself as a candidate, and, by means which need not here be rehearsed, he was elected.

This year it was generally understood to have been one of the conditions which Woodrow Wilson imposed on the party leaders before he would consent to accept the nomination for Governor that Smith should not later—in the event of a Democratic victory—become a candidate for the Senate. It was understood that a virtual promise was made to him by "Nephew" Nugent and others who pressed to have the right to speak for Smith, that Smith accepted this condition and would not become a candidate.

Three weeks ago, the eight Assemblymen from Essex county, acting exactly as did their predecessors eighteen years ago, addressed a letter to Smith asking him to become a candidate for the Senate. Yesterday his reply to that letter was made public. In it he disregarded his pledge just as he did on the former occasion, and agreed to become a candidate.

There is this difference only: In 1893 he delayed the announcement of his decision until the eve of the caucus, when it was too late to prevent the betrayal. This year he has replied early enough, it is believed, for his opponents to demonstrate many powerful reasons why he should not be allowed to have another opportunity of misrepresenting his State in the Senate.

The political record of James Smith, Jr., the Democratic boss who aspires to succeed John Kean in the United States Senate, is one long story of betrayal of friends and of party. He has broken party pledges and personal promises. He has advanced his own interests at the expense of his friends and enriched himself. He has been unscrupulous in accomplishing partisan ends by means of trickery and the expenditure of enormous sums of money under the name of "campaign contributions," and then, in the same unscrupulous way and by the same means, he has accomplished his own ends at the expense of the party whose machinery he controls.

It is doubtful if another man of like prominence in public life in America today has a record that should so absolutely disqualify him from seeking a seat in the highest legislative body in the land.—New York Evening Post.

Pat was being shown an incubator by one of his friends who had removed to the suburbs. He took great interest in all of the details and examined everything with great care. Then, as he looked at about 100 young chickens that had just been hatched, with an awed expression he said: "Human nature is a funny thing, after all."—Everybody's.

DUTIES OF CITIZENSHIP

Imitation of the Master and Practice of the Golden Rule.

SAYS SAMUEL S. SWACKHAMER.

Address to Men of Church of the Heavenly Rest—Upholds Woodrow Wilson and the Primary Election.

A goodly representation of the members of the Men's Club of the Church of the Heavenly Rest heard a speech by former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, Friday, in the parish house which elicited three hearty cheers at its close. As a mark of esteem Mr. Swackhamer was elected an honorary member of the association and was besides given a rising vote of thanks.

Mr. Swackhamer spoke on "The Duties Of Citizenship," telling the members of the club that they each had a duty that should not be shirked. He said that to bring the millennial down men must live in imitation of the Master and practice the golden rule. "The spirit of Democracy has spread," he said, "in Germany, England and in the United States, and in the latter country gave on November 8 last an unmistakable sign to the enemies of liberty of the people."

Mr. Swackhamer in his speech proceeded to demonstrate that the fight now on between Governor Woodrow Wilson and his supporters, and the opposition is momentous. He stated that trade politicians and bosses of the State had gathered and were lined up in opposition to the right of the people to choose their United States Senators, and that these opposers were found in both parties alike; that the trusts and special interests were antagonistic to the popular choice of United States Senators, because the people would be likely to choose such men as would withhold their support from such legislation as these interests desired. He insisted that the only remedy for the evils of class legislation is the selection by the people of representatives who are in favor of equal rights and opposed to governmental favoritism. He said it was the duty of all good citizens to consider seriously the contest which is now on, and to act the part of patriots. He said it would be found that practically all the enemies of popular government are on the side of the General Interests against the Governor in this struggle, and that this fact characterizes the conflict. He urged all citizens to take a hand in upholding the principle at stake, and predicted that the people would do their duty.

Referring to the fight now going on between principle and "the interests" he said that the party which won so signal victory at the polls was now divided, but that the fight for the principle, whose champion was Woodrow Wilson, will be fought to a finish again; the manipulators of both parties, and every honorable means would be used to save from final defeat the great victory won in November. Mr. Martine's candidacy for the United States Senate was upheld and the contest between him and James Smith, Jr., declared to be the greatest ever faced by the people of the State.

Following the speech the entertainment committee served hot coffee and sandwiches. On the evening of January 5 the club will hold a "ladies night" with progressive euchre.

RESIDENCE OF D. C. IVINS BADLY DAMAGED BY FIRE

Loss Placed at $3,000. Originated in Basement and Spread Through Walls to Second Floor—Firemen Hampered by Smoke.

The home of De Witt C. Ivins, located at Hillside avenue and Lake street, was badly damaged by fire at an early hour Friday a. m. When discovered by the owner and his son, the only occupants at the time, shortly after 2 o'clock, the structure was filled with smoke emanating from the lower floor. It was afterward learned that the flames originated in the basement and may possibly have been caused by the wooden cold air box catching in some way from the furnace. In the opinion of Chief Doane the flames had been smouldering for several hours.

Mr. Ivins telephoned to fire headquarters as soon as he was aroused and when Chief Doane arrived with the first apparatus he sent in a general alarm from box 27. The men found the basement and first floor in flames, mostly in the partitions. The basement was finished off in plaster and lath and most of it had to be torn away before the water could be made effective. The task was rendered difficult by the choking smoke which greatly hampered the choppers. Several of them were almost overcome.

The flames worked their way through the walls to the second floor but did not get beyond. The chemical stream and four lines of hose from the steamer poured water into the lower part of the house and the fire was finally drowned out at half past four. The recall was sounded at 4:48.

A number of holes were chopped in the first floor and these proved a danger to the firemen as they moved about in the darkness. One of them, G. H. Freeman, fell through to the basement and injured his back slightly. Chief Doane was not injured.

Most of the furniture was gotten away from the water and flames so that practically all the damage was to the house. This is placed at $3,000. The loss on contents is trifling. In no instance is the damage is fully covered by insurance.

Mrs. Ivins and her daughter, Miss Hope Ivins, are south at the present time and Mr. Ivins and his son have been living in the house alone.

BOGO PRIMARY PUPILS HOLD XMAS EXERCISES

This Christmas program was rendered by the primary department of the North Plainfield Public Schools at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning:

Singing, When Kris Kringle; recitation, December, Francis Seidel; Merry Christmas, John O'Mara; In Bethlehem, James Cox; Christmas Bells, Anna Johnson; A Christmas Secret, Phyllis Daley; The Frost, Whitney Harmonica solo, Lloyd Snell; recitations, A Surprise, Adelaide Hull; Merry Christmas, Elizabeth Hoagland; A Real Santa, Howell Hodgskin; A Christmas Thought, Clifford Marsh; Christmas Bells, Sandra Michael; singing, St. Nicholas, school; recitations, Who Comes? Gladys Lee; A Sad Mistake, John Hermann; A Wish, Florence Hoagland; address to Santa, James Hodgskin; recitation, The Baby's Stocking, Grace Bolen; A Christmas Lullaby, eight girls 2A; recitations, The Bird's Christmas, Arthur Attlee; Santa's Fright, Russell Huff; A High Ambition, four boys 2A; Jack-in-the-Box, Irving Dodge; A Dilemma, Cornelia Emmons; Poor Santa, Elva Jennings; singing, Christmas Bells, school; recitations, Mr. Jolly Santa Claus, Lucille Neighbor; Writing to Santa, Andrew Vanderbeck; If I Were Santa, Elmer Wilson; A Suggestion, Catherine Sheelen; Through the Telephone, Jonathan Ball; Christmas Eve, Gertrude Rittenhouse; When Santa Comes, Hannah Stiglitz and Josephine Hanlon; Grandma's Mistake, Ruth Hammond; singing, America, school.

The high school and grammar grades held their exercises at 10 o'clock, when Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, made an address appropriate to the season. The exercises at the Watchung school were held at 10 o'clock.

LOCAL REALTY TRANSFERS RECORDED AT ELIZABETH.

These transfers of local property have been recorded in the office of County Registrar F. H. Smith, Elizabeth:

Joseph E. Meeker, et ux, to Michael Kenny, southeasterly side North avenue, 311 feet southwesterly of Halsted Compton, Plainfield $1;

Mary E. Crane et al, to J. Antonio Costales, northeasterly side Madison avenue, 90 feet southeasterly of East Sixth street, Plainfield, ...$1;

Francis Mackin to Domenico Colora, northeasterly side Leland avenue, 47 feet northeasterly of George street, Plainfield .....$1.

HERE AND THERE.

At a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Riskin, in Sherman street, Passaic, Wednesday afternoon, the engagement was announced of their daughter, Miss Gertrude, to Dr. Morris Kornbet, one of Passaic's leading physicians. Dr. Korshet surprised the guests by presenting Miss Riskin with books of the drama, poetry, and fiction by Victor Hugo, Honore de Balzac, George Bernard Shaw, Henrik Ibsen, Caine, Tolstoy, Isaac Zangwill, Jack London, Allen Upward, and others, instead of an engagement ring. Speaking of his departure from the time-honored custom, he said:

"In times long gone by man either captured his female partner or purchased her from her parents with presents. When she was already his he placed a crude ring upon her finger. It was regarded as a symbol of inferiority and made the wearer appear to the light of personal property. Miss Riskin will not be her chattel, but my equal, my companion and helpmate. What principally distinguishes people is their ability to think and understand. Therefore, I give Miss Riskin something for her mind, and not an ornament for her finger."

Miss Riskin was valedictorian of the class of Passaic High School, which was graduated in June. She is prominent in Passaic's social set.

Might Have Said It.

First Student—That was a swell looking girl you had at the football game.

Second Student—Yes, I suppose she was padded to the limit, but you needn't be harping on it all the time.

The Constitutionalist

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., December 29, 1910.

CONSOLIDATION FIRST.

It is quite apparent that there is a difference of opinion among the people of North Plainfield and Plainfield as to the feasibility and practicability of a consolidation of the two places. Even among those who look with favor upon the merger plan, there appears to be a strong sentiment against renewing the agitation at this time. Some citizens, some very influential citizens, hold that in the light of present events in both the city and the borough, it is most inopportune to stir up the subject just now. One even goes so far as to remark that he "does not consider the matter is regarded seriously enough by the municipal bodies of either the borough or the city" to warrant discussion.

During the last week or so, this paper has communicated with men prominent in civic affairs, men who pay into either the city or borough treasury, goodly sums as taxes each year. Unfortunately we are honor bound not to reveal the identity of most of those whose views we have sought nor the expressions which they have made for permission to publish the replies was expressly withheld. It is no violation of confidence, however, to say that the sum and substance of the objections to reviving the consolidation proposition are based on the claim that other weighty problems on which time, effort and money have been expended are still unsettled and it would be an injustice to divert public attention from these matters which are held to be of prime importance and urgent necessity.

At no small sacrifice to themselves, a number of the borough's citizens have worked diligently for the solution of the sewage disposal problem. It is quite natural that they should be anxious to bring their efforts to a successful termination before the borough tackles another big problem. And so it is as respects the water question, which interests the residents "over the brook" quite as much as it does the authorities of this city who have expended thousands to ascertain if by some chance there be a way to rid the community of the private monopoly and to make money and reduce rates at the same time in the operation of an "M. O." plant.

To us, such reasons as objections to renewing the agitation for consolidation are unsound. They are in reality, such reasons why a merger should be brought about at the earliest possible day. It would be manifestly unwise for the borough to construct a sanitary sewage disposal system larger than is required for its needs for a reasonable time to come and it is assumed that such a plant would be adequate for the needs of both borough and the city as well, and that it would be required for such purposes. Nothing less than the consummation of a merger aforehand would warrant this assurance. The same line of argument holds good as to the water problem. Each community is at a disadvantage in attempting to satisfactorily solve this question as the situation is at present. To our way of thinking the thing to do is first to ascertain definitely and for all time whether the community is to be one in law as it is in every other respect or whether it is to continue to be divided against itself. Then the water and sewage problems would be easy to settle.

RUSH OF WATER WRECKS THE NEW MARKET DAM

The heavy rain of Saturday and the rush of water, from melting snow, caused the main section of the New Market lake dam to give way Saturday night. The masonry had been weakened by the frost and was unable to stand the pressure.

As a result of the break, all the water has been let out of the lake and work has been suspended at the grist mill operated by Clark T. Rogers. He was very busy at this time and he will suffer a bad loss. Almost at the same time the dam gave way, a coal rig belonging to him was hit by a trolley car on West Front street.

The mill property is owned by the Middlesex Water Company and it is not known if they will rebuild. In this event Charles Rogers would suffer a heavy loss as he has $1,000 worth of boats in his lake livery. It would cost approximately about $1,000 to put the dam back in shape.

Art Versus Nature.

The Girl—The whole trip along the river was like a series of your superb etchings.

The Artist—Yes. Nature is creeping up.

Accidentally Embraced.

Myrtle—How do you like those bobble skirts?

Mamie—Fine! I have fallen into the arms of no less than five men this afternoon, and its only 4 o'clock.

OAK LEAVES AND ACORNS.

Combined They Make a Most Attractive Design For a Library Table Centerpiece.

Oak leaves and acorns lend themselves readily for the design of a pattern which may be used for a library table for the use of the one who makes it, or, on the other hand, it is a very good suggestion for a gift.

Tan linen is the best for this, and the easy couching stitch may be used, with which most every one is familiar. Outline the leaves in this way, using the thick rope silk or cord that comes for couching, and catch down every half inch or so with a finer thread. In other words, you follow the outline with the left hand and the thick thread and tack it in place with your needle of the right hand.

It will be extremely effective if you combine green and brown or brown and red in the couching stitches, holding down the thicker thread with a contrasting color.

Work the stems in stem stitch with solid midribs.

The acorns you will outline in brown on the dome shaped tops and fill in the acorn cups with brown French knots. This is very striking and gives a few solid spots on the design.

Pad the scallops with darning cotton and work with brown, using the buttonhole stitch. If you wish you can enlarge this pretty centerpiece still more by adding wide ecru lace in torchon or cluny under the edge.

A little introduction of red or yellow is good; by adding an extra line below the couch stitching to emphasize the brown you will greatly improve this design.

This design is undeniably pretty. You will naturally have to enlarge it to whatever size you may wish.

The Christmas season being so near at hand, this suggestion should serve as a hint to all needleworkers.

SCARF AND MUFF.

Made of Velvet Thess Are Very Effective, and the Cost Is Insignificant.

Straight from Paris comes the idea of a matched set that is less expensive than one entirely of fur and yet from the points of utility and beauty is equally successful. A broad band of black and white striped velvet forms the body of the scarf. The central portion is cut to fit the shoulders with a capelike perfection, and the ends taper to graceful points, from which hangs deep fringe.

An extra band of black fur is used to outline the entire stole, which is possibly three yards long. This fur is applied just inside the edge, and a filling of satin or mousseline softens the outer line.

With this there comes a muff, large, supple and flat. Striped velvet forms the central band, on each side of which is the fur, and broader pulling of velvet makes the assurance of size doubly sure. Quillings outline the openings at the sides.

Any idea can be carried out along these lines. Indeed, there is no excuse for old fashioned sets being kept in camphorated inactivity. Bring them out and make them join forces with velvet or silk. The scarf and muff to match are too good to be missed.

HIGH BANDEAU HAT.

For so many seasons the bandeau has been absent and hats have got into such a way of settling down over head and hair that it is a decided change of fashion to see the hat lifted high by the bandeau once more. This fashion has already obtained great hold in Paris, where Lewis brought out the first of these scoop shaped hats raised thus at the back. Sometimes the space under the lifted brim is filled with chanticleer feathers, sometimes with massed roses and sometimes, as in the present instance, with lace frills and a drooping bow of velvet ribbon. The hat shown is of prune colored velvet, with a lining and ostrich plumes in a somewhat lighter shade of the same color.

A CONCRETE CORNCRIB.

The Floor, Above All, Should Be Made of This Material, as Rats Cannot Nest in It.

Rats destroy grain, carry "catching" diseases from house to house and from their love of matches cause destructive fires. This useless waste has become such a national loss that the department of agriculture at Washington has issued a free bulletin on "How to Destroy the Rat." To get rid of the rat deprive his nesting places. With this object in view the department recommends concrete floors, especially for barns, poultry houses, cornc'ibs and granaries. The experience of many farmers is that grain mature enough to be placed in storage will not spoil on concrete floors. Corn will not mold in contact with them, provided there is good ventilation and the roof is tight.

For a cornc'ib choose a well drained site. Excavate a trench for an eight inch concrete foundation wall around the outside of the building and to the depth of two feet. With box forms of one inch siding on 2 by 4 inch studding, carry this eight inch wall to a height of twelve to eighteen inches above ground level, depending upon the height of the drag belt conveyors used by local corn shellers.

There are several ways of attaching the studding to the concrete floor. One of the simplest and easiest is the nailing strip or plate, generally a 2 by 6 inch piece bolted to the concrete foundation wall. For such a sill while the concrete is still s ft set five-eighths inch bolts eight to ten inches long, head down, three inches in from the outer edge of the foundation wall and projecting two and a half inches above the concrete. These bolts should be placed not more than three feet apart.

Rat Proof Corncrib.

Some farmers prefer to countersink the nailing sill so that its top will be flush with the surface of the floor. If placed, the sill is liable to rot more quickly.

After the forms are removed place a well rammed fill between the foundation walls and within four inches of their tops. Coarse gravel and crushed rock are the best materials for this purpose. If some clay must be used, tamp it in the bottom, but let the floor rest on at least six inches of gravel or crushed rock. With the fill thoroughly settled, commence placing the four inch floor. This concrete should be only wet enough that it will flush a little liquid cement when tamped into place.

Experienced concrete workers often use only an outside board form, one wall, for the foundation walls. They place the concrete for the foundation wall against this outside form and at the same time tamp the gravel fill back of the concrete. In this case the foundation as well as the floor is built in sections and both at one time. The saving in lumber so effected really amounts to nothing, as all the boards can be used later in the crib.

Re-enforced concrete floors, not supported by earth or gravel fill, but by the foundation walls alone, can and are being successfully built. Since the strength of each floor, on account of the variation in size and loading, is a different problem, it is advisable to refer every piece of such work to a man who is thoroughly familiar with the principles of re-enforcing. The main point is that concrete floors last forever. They afford no nesting place for rats. And with dollar wheat, seventy-five cent corn and fifty cent oats the saving thus effected adds considerably to the profits of each year.

Short Feeding Poor Policy.

If there is not enough feed on the place to carry the hogs through and fit them quickly and if prices do not seem to warrant the purchase of feed, then it is much better to market them at once rather than stunt them by short feed in the winter. A stunted animal never made anybody money.

FARM NOTES

The best land for strawberries is a sandy loam.

To rid flowerpots of earthworms water with limewater.

The climbing or trailing nasturtiums can be planted either with or without support.

Do you save your tomato seed? If so obtain them from fine, large specimens of fruit.

Sweet potatoes should be dried and stored in boxes of sand before the frost touches them.

Good garden implements are essential for successful gardening. Much of the benefit and pleasure derived from work in the garden are missed by having poor tools. The best are the cheapest.

Remember that there is no fertilizer for the garden that compares with well rotted barnyard manure. Application may be made any time during the fall, even if the ground is not to be plowed till late.

A FLOWER LEGEND.

How the Myosotis Came to Be Called Forgetmenot Is a Romantic, if Improbable, Tale.

Dr. A. F. Thomson communicated to Miss' "History of Chivalry" the following romantic account of the origin of the popular name, forgetmenot, of the favorite little flower myosotis: "Two lovers were loitering on the margin of a lake on a summer's evening when the maiden espied some of the flowers of myosotis growing on the water close to the bank of an island at some distance from the shore. She expressed a desire to possess them, when the knight, in the true spirit of chivalry, plunged into the water and swimming to the spot, cropped the wished for plant, but his strength was unable to fulfill the object of his achievement, and, feeling that he could not regain the shore, although very near it, he threw the flowers upon the bank, and, casting a last affectionate look upon his ladylove, he cried 'For get me not!' and was buried in the waters. At the world insists upon a reason, this story is as good as another but the worthy knight must have been badly out of his element not to have been able to return from a bank on which the fairness would discern a mere blossom, unless, indeed, we suppose him to have been clad in armor, which was a habiliment ill adapted for a lover by land or water."

THE RHINOCEROS.

This Malicious Brute Is the Assassin of the Jungle.

If the genius of hell used up all his mental energy making a devil for the animal kingdom, he could not have created a more uncertain, malicious and ugly brute than the rhinoceros. This animal has buried more hunters than all other big game combined. It seems to be the hired assassin of the jungle.

Its success as a homicide is not due to the fact that it seeks its victim, but because its victim falls over it. If the rhino knows that there is an enemy about, it will try to get away without being seen. If, on the other hand, it thinks that by keeping still it will be passed unnoticed, it stays as silent and motionless as a statue, its little bad eyes watching the direction of the noise and its nose sniffing the air.

Should an enemy show up suddenly in the jungle the rhino charges like a flash, nose down and horns leveled like swords for the thrust, its huge bulk crushing through the brush like an express train. It is always a fight to the death, for a rhinoceros, once in a fight, wins or dies, and it mostly wins if it is not confronted with an express rifle in the hands of a cool, good shot.—Hampton's Magazine.

The Old Time Album.

"The terrors of the autograph album" must have been more general in the middle of the last century than they are now. The volume had embossed pages of various colors and showed alternate literature and art—original verses and drawings of ruins and bridges heightened with white chalk. Girls presented it for contributions so universally that Charles Dickens was on one occasion much astonished to find none forthcoming. He had actually brought with him some verses addressed to a beautiful maiden, on whose parents he was calling, and he carried them away again. Sending them to her by post, he wrote, "I had meant to put these lines into your album, but you, it seems, do nothing like anybody else, did not produce one."—London Standard.

In Morocco.

In Morocco the prevailing tone is grayish white, men's clothes and houses, towns, bushes, tall umbelliferae, nodding like ghosts in autumn—all are white; white sands upon the shore and in the Sahara and over all a white and vaporous light, as if the sun was tired of shining down forever on the unchanging life. In no part of Morocco I have visited does the phrase "gorgeous east" have the least meaning, and this is always noted by the wandering pasterners, who find the country dull and lacking in color compared with Asia, or, as the Arabs call it, "Blad Es Schark."—"A Journey to Morocco."

Russian Vengeance.

The Russian revolutionaries have absolutely no mercy on those who betray them. It is well known that in the year 1903 a traitor caught at Odessa was bricked up alive in a cellar.

Regnier, a French spy in the pay of the Russian police, for a long time eluded the vengeance of the revolutionaries. But they caught him at last, and that just at the moment when he fancied himself safe. His body was found in his cabin on a ship which reached Antwerp. He had been suffocated by fumes of sulphureted hydrogen. How this was done was never discovered.

The Considerate Clock.

"One kiss!" pleaded a departing lover.

"Nonsense!" exclaimed his fiancee in a teasing mood. "Some one might see us."

"Who?"

"Why, the clock; it has a face."

"Yes, but it keeps its hands in front of it."

When He Missed It.

The baldheaded man was asked if he missed his hair much.

"Only when some fool question makes me so mad I want to pull it," he replied pleasantly.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The rain falls on the just and unjust, but the latter rarely always have the farmer's umbrellas.—Town Topics.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

It is now thought that Harold C. Warren, of Philadelphia, the Princeton student, will entirely recover from a broken spine received recently in a friendly wrestling bout at the university gymnasium.

Failing to respond to the calls for breakfast, Mrs Delia Brusie, sixty-two years old, of 715 Morgan street, Camden, was found dead in bed early Monday morning. Coroner Saunders gave a certificate of death from heart trouble.

Stephen Kallis, thirty-six years old, of 118 Pacific street, Jersey City, was on his way home early Monday morning, when he walked into the Hudson river, at the foot of York street. Policeman Hogan pulled him out.

The Paterson newsboys and their chums again enjoyed the hospitality of Isaac A. Hall, when they were the guests at his annual Christmas dinner Monday afternoon at Helvetia hall, that city. Nearly four hundred boys enjoyed the spread.

The motorman of an electric train bound for Atlantic City, filled with holiday visitors, Monday found the badly burned body of a negro beside the track a mile from Atlantic City. It is supposed that the man stumbled over the third rail and was electrocuted.

A purse of $300 in gold was handed to Rev. W. W. Blachford, pastor of St. James's Episcopal church, Atlantic City, Sunday, as a Christmas present, subscribed by the congregation in recognition of the excellent work he has done since he took charge of the parish.

A passenger on a crowded Bayonne trolley car Monday shoved newspapers into the stove and set fire to the seats. The motorman speeded to fire headquarters, while passengers prepared for a hasty exit. The firemen played two extinguishers on the flames and put them out.

S. M. Braunstein is a prosperous merchant in Atlantic City. Some thirteen years ago he failed, but he has never forgotten the debts he owed. Christmas day he mailed to all his creditors the sums owed, together with the interest up to date, amounting to some thousands of dollars.

A motor car driven by Dr. Hart, of 292 Montgomery street, Jersey City, collided with a coach owned by James Tremble, of Barrow and Bright streets, Monday, throwing Henry Schuldt, of 268 Varick street, from the seat of the coach. Schuldt was injured about the body and was taken to the City Hospital.

While in the garb of Santa Claus at a Christmas tree party for his five-year-old niece, Professor Morton D. Banks, of the Commercial Hotel, Asbury Park, was seriously burned. His cotton cap came in contract with a lighted gas jet. Banks and Paul Walton, father of the little girl, were also burned about the hands beating out the flames.

Because Elsie Stanley, the fourteen-year old daughter of Frank Stanley, of Federal street, Camden, refused to become his wife, Sequa Montemarano, an Italian, also known as William L. May, twenty-one years old, living in the rear of the Stanley home, tried to end his life Sunday by stabbing himself over the heart with a butcher knife. He was taken to the Cooper Hospital.

Three hundred "newsies," the newspaper "merchants" of Atlantic City, were given a Christmas dinner at the Continental Hotel, there, Monday. A pound of candy was supplied each boy as he left the dining-room to fall in line for a vaudeville show and a parade headed by a band. They were the guests of the newspaper publishers of the city and were in charge of George Lenhart and Captain Harry Smith.

With his eye so badly injured that the doctors believe he will lose the sight of it, John Wilson, fifty-five years old, of 847 Spring street, Camden, was admitted to the Homeopathic Hospital Monday morning. He told the physicians that he was not aware that he had been injured until he was awakened for breakfast. Although he could not recall being in a fight, physicians believe he was stabbed.

SOMERVILLE.

At the annual meeting of Castle Lodge, No. 82, K. of P., the following officers have been elected: C. C. Harry Bernhardt; V. C., L. B. Lamoreaux; prelate, William Hardgrove; M. of E., James V. Smith; M. of W., J. Drake; M. of F., John Gernert; K. of R. and S., William D. Quick; master-at-arms, Alexander A. Brokaw; I. G., William Harris; O. G., B. F. Duffield; representative to grand lodge, Joseph Fitzgerald.

At the cabinet meeting of the district Epworth League, E. V. D. Phoenix was elected president of the Elizabeth district Epworth League, and Miss Elizabeth Bagg, of Cliff street, was elected superintendent of world's evangelism.

Dr. P. G. Galpin and Miss Elizabeth Galpin have returned from Chicago, where they spent two weeks with Mr. Galpin's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rogen, of Montreal, are the guests of Mrs. Rogen's mother, Mrs. VanDerveer, on South street.

The Y. Y. Club of the Second Reformed church gave a Christmas party in the chapel Monday evening.

PICKS CHRISTMAS DAY FOR SUICIDE

Choosing Christmas morning as the time to die, Howard Malcolm, 51 years old, of Upper Montclair, committed suicide at his home Sunday by firing a bullet into his head. The bullet entered at the right temple and death was almost instantaneous.

His wife, Mrs. Malcolm, had left the room but a few moments previous and several members of the family had not arisen. They all heard the sound of the shot and ran to his room. They found him lying on the bed, covered by the bedclothes up to his chest. In his right hand was a smoking pistol.

The police of Montclair were notified by the family, who also notified Deputy County Physician Dr. M. Herbert Simmons, of Orange. He viewed the body and questioned the members of the family, after which he declared it a case of suicide and granted a burial permit.

Mr. Malcolm had been in the dry goods business in New York for a number of years, but was compelled to retire from active work on account of ill health. He moved to Rutherford several years ago and, believing his health would be benefited by a change, moved to Upper Montclair two years ago. The change benefited him for a while, but recently his health began to fail again. For the last few weeks he was very despondent, but never intimated that he would end his life by his own hand. Surviving members of his family are his widow and three sons, Howard, Jr., Donald and Bruce. Howard is in business in New York, and the other boys are attending school. The funeral will be private at the convenience of the family.

FAMILIES MADE HAPPY BY SALVATION ARMY.

When the officers and members of the Salvation Army concluded their labors on Saturday night they were tired but happy and retired with the satisfaction of having put Christmas cheer in the homes of more than five hundred persons who otherwise might have been utterly neglected. Captain Hewitt and his wife were tireless in their efforts during the week to locate the most needy families and the crowd which gathered to partake of the bountiful viands prepared in baskets went away satisfied and grateful.

Tomorrow night the celebration of the Christmas tree with the distribution of gifts for the children will take place at 8 o'clock. There will be a musical program and addresses.

Burial of Mrs. Seeley.

The body of Mrs. Agnes Seeley, formerly of Scotch Plains, who died at Coxsackie, N. Y., arrived in this city, last night. Burnal was made in Hillside cemetery this morning, a service being conducted by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of Scotch Plains.

A Technical Wheeze.

Gibbs—Good many carbuncles afflicting humanity just now.

Nibbs—So Doc. Blunt tells me. He's got more'n a dozen patients suffering with 'em. Doc reminds me of one of the knights at King Arthur's round table.

Gibbs—Which one?

Nibbs—Lance-a-lot. Old, is it?

And Gibbs said if it wasn't it ought to be.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

PANIC ON TROLLEY CAR FOLLOWING BAD CRASH

A Public Service main line car west bound on West Front street, near Lafayette place, at 8:30 Saturday night, crashed into the rear of a big coal wagon belonging to Clark T. Rogers, of New Market. The horses attached to the rig, a splendid team of grays, were thrown down and shoved along seventy-five feet before the motorman could bring his vehicle to a stop. Alfred VanNuis, the driver, was hurled backward into the wagon on his head. He was dazed for the time being but later recovered and is able to get about. The rig itself was badly smashed and the harness torn to pieces.

VanNuis had delivered a load of coal at Truell Hall and was returning to New Market when the accident occurred. He was driving along the west bound track when he heard the car coming behind him. It was proceeding at almost full speed and with only the small headlight, the searchlight being shut off. VanNuis attempted to pull out of the way and was hit as the wagon was half way off the track.

The car was filled with Christmas shoppers and a small sized panic followed the crash. It required the efforts of several men to calm the frightened passengers. The motorman escaped injury.

In speaking of the accident, this morning, Charles Rogers, son of the owner of the wagon, said both horses were badly injured and that neither animal would ever be fit for heavy work again. They were valued at $600.

REV. HOBART CLARK DIES AT NEW BRIGHTON, S. I.

Rev. Hobart Clark, for six years pastor of the Unitarian church here, died of pneumonia at New Brighton, Staten Island on Monday. Mr. Clark had been the pastor of the church of the Redeemer—Unitarian—of New Brighton for nearly fourteen years, and his ministry has been greatly appreciated by an unusually close parish, the one to which the late George Wm. Curtis ministered through so many years. They had built Mr. Clark a parsonage next the church and are just now completing a subscription of $11,000 for a parish house. His death is a heavy blow to his parishioners and to his Plainfield friends.

In the Borough Court.

Louis LeMaity, a young man who drives for an ice company, was arraigned before Recorder Dolliver this morning, charged with ill-treating a horse. He explained to the court that the animal became balky and he lost his temper. A fine of $3 was imposed but suspended on his promise not to repeat the offense.

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton will deliver a lecture at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Thursday, February 2, at 8 o'clock, on "The Widening Horizons in American Life."

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church has sent $100 for the school at Sona Bata, W. Central Africa.

The Christmas music will be repeated at the First Baptist church Sunday night, the chorus choir being assisted by the Schill String Quartet, of Newark.

The Curzon Sister's, the Flying Butterflies now Appearing at the New York Hippodrome.

EVENING COATS.

Wonderful Blendings of Rich Fabrics Distinguish the Season.

Most of These Gorgeous Garments Are of Very Ample Width and Give Appearance of Being Wound Around the Wearer.

No richer cloaks and wraps have been seen in any season than those which swarm the corridors of the theaters at present. The richest velvets, most sumptuous brocades, filmiest gauzes and costliest furs clutter the walls. The coats of the present, while all are enveloping and often twice too big for their wearers apparently, as though they were intended to wind around them again and again, are still straight in line. The deep bands of fur at the bottom of many such coats drag them into the desired lines.

Until the season drove them in for very unlimeliness gauze wraps flourished, often with swathings of the richest furs. Just now some of the handsomest coats are made of brocade in old tapestry colors. A beautiful garment seen recently was of old rose velvet shot with silver gray. The skirt part, which was fairly full, was drawn down and shirred into a very deep band of chinchilla, and the same fur went around the neck and down the front and finished the bottoms of the kimono sleeves. A single jeweled button of great size closed the coat far around at the side. Coats of this kind often have the fur that bands the front in kimono style put on so that it can be turned over and so furnish a shield for the throat and chest.

Among the stunning combinations seen have been sapphire blue velvet with sable and leaf green velvet with white fox. A costly cloak of silver gray velvet shot with rose pink was trimmed with chinchilla in a deep band all around. The coat was cut very ample in width and was shirred into a deep band of silver gray silk very closely embroidered with an oriental design in silver thread. The sleeves were of the wide full dolman kind that make a bagging drapery at the sides.

The old time pelisse made of velvet and trimmed with fur is coming out in various styles and is more often than not a pelisse more by name than by actual shape. Such sleeveless overgarments came out early in the season in chiffon as a sort of apology for an outer garment.

The coat in the drawing is made of oil blue velvet shot with silver and is trimmed with ermine. Panther skins are the latest cry in furs, and there is an effort to make panther effects a rage. Already panther feathers have been seen, if not heard of, and panther mixtures may be looked for among the fabrics. One of the most luxurious costumes seen for many a day was of bishop purple silk gauze with a silver lace tunic trimmed with chinchilla. The coat was a long, ample affair of silver mousseline over silver satin. There was a big square collar of chinchilla that extended down the fronts in stole ends, and the bottom of the coat had a deep flounce effect of the chinchilla. Such a coat looks unsuitable for cold weather, although its linings may be of the snuggest. Mandarin coats and Paisley and India shawls made up with handsome furs are seen among the evening coats.

Hatpin Case.

To carry hatpins when traveling make a case the length of your longest pin and about eleven and one-half inches wide of white or colored linen. Finish the side and one end with shallow buttonholing and bind the other end. Fold the material twice like an envelope and embroider the word "Hatpins" on the outer fold.

Inside the case have a piece of eiderdown about half an inch narrower than the linen and as much shorter as the length of the flap. Through this the pins are to be run. It can be lifted out so that the case can be washed.

NEW JERSEY TEACHERS IN SESSION YESTERDAY

A large number of public school teachers are attending some of the sessions of the annual meeting of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association, at Atlantic City. The sessions will continue today and tomorrow.

One of the most interesting meetings of the session will be that of the Teachers' Retirement Fund. The reports of the officers will show that the following annuities have been declared in the past year in Paterson: Isabella Scott, $650; Anna F. M. Thorp, $650; Mrs. Jennie H. Berdan, $480; Mary Chiswell, $486; Elizabeth S. Eakins, $649.20; Hettie Franklin, $402; Martha Hollingsworth, $410.40; Maria Sipp, $553.80; Mary L. Warren, $508.20. Total, $4,789.60.

Next to Newark and Jersey City, Paterson teachers receive the largest amount from the fund. The State treasurer's statement for the year shows that the receipts have been $152,087.51, and disbursements, $86,802.24. The surplus on the year's business is $193,641.49.

The Teachers' Retirement Fund became part of the New Jersey public school system March 11, 1896. The rapid growth of the fund has far exceeded the expectations of its supporters. Last year the fund went to law when the State Board of Education refused to concur in the provisions of the retirement law, which provides for the school authorities to deduct from the teachers' monthly pay two per cent., to be paid into the fund, which provides for the support of retired teachers after serving twenty or more years in the classrooms. The present status of this suit is set forth by the fund in the following language: "The fund has won every point it has contended for so far. The present status of the case is: (1) The Supreme Court has made the fund without restriction a codefendant with the Passaic Board of Education; (2) the Supreme Court has recognized Mr. Davison as our counsel; (3) the Passaic Board of Education has made Mr. Davison its attorney-of-record, in place of the Passaic corporation counsel, thus giving the board of trustees entire control of the case; (4) the Supreme Court has admitted an amended record of the suit prior to its appearance before the higher tribunal—a point in our favor the importance of which cannot be over-estimated; (5) the Supreme Court has taken under advisement both the jurisdictional objection raised by Mr. Davison and Mr. McCarter and concurred in by the attorney general, together with the constitutional question. These points the court will consider in order stated. If the question of jurisdiction be decided in our favor the whole case falls to the ground. If this point be decided against us the constitutional question will be at once before the court. It is probable that a decision on the jurisdiction question will not be given till the February term."

CHAMPION M'GRATH HELD WITHOUT BAIL.

Policeman Matthew McGrath, a champion amateur weight thrower, was arraigned in the Flatbush court yesterday on the charge of having shot George Walker, whom he found in his home Sunday morning, and held him without bail to the grand jury. Walker will probably die. He declares he went to the McGrath home at the invitation of Mrs. McGrath. This is denied by both McGrath and his wife.

McGrath is a policeman and a member of the New York Athletic Club. He is famous throughout the world as a weight thrower. Walker is a clerk employed by the New York Telephone Company. McGrath declares that he came unawares upon Walker about 1 o'colck Sunday morning in the McGrath house. McGrath and Walker differ in their stories of subsequent events, but surgeons found five bullets in Walker's body, three of them in the abdomen.

McGrath asserts that Walker pulled a revolver and fired at him twice after the former found him in the house. This statement Walker denied. He says that the policeman began shooting at him the instant they met.

Walker denied that his purpose in visiting the McGrath home was robbery. On McGrath's complaint, however, the charge of burglary was recorded against him on the police blotter.

JERSEY AGRICULTURIST IN ANNUAL SESSION.

The thirty-eighth annual meeting of the New Jersey State Board of Agriculture will meet at the State House, Trenton, January 18, 19 and 20. The meeting will hear reports from the State Grange, treasurer of the board, the secretary and the State entomologist.

Papers will be read by Dr. George C. Creelman, president of the Ontario Agricultural College; Professor R. R. Dinsmore, of the State Agricultural College; ex-Judge Algernon T. Sweeney, of Newark; J. F. Gordon, of Jamestown, O.; H. O. Daniels, of Middletown, Conn., and Professor W. J. Spillman, of the United States Department of Agriculture.

—Use Daily Press want ads. They bring results.

SUBSTANTIAL SURPRISE FOR PASTOR AND WIFE

Rev. and Mrs. F. D. Tildon, of Bethel chapel, were given a pleasant surprise Friday evening at their home on Richmond street by the congregation. The affair was arranged by Miss Laura Field, Mrs. Maria Sutton and Mrs. Mary L. Shipley. In order to carry out the plan most effectively, the pastor and his wife were asked a few days before to co-operate with the committee in helping to make a merry Christmas for some family. They were asked to contribute and to allow the use of one room as a place for assembling the gifts.

Early Friday afternoon supplies of groceries began to pour in to the chairman of the committee, who was in charge and before it was called in and asked to accept the presents received on behalf of the members of the chapel as a token of esteem of *their best wishes for a merry Christ*mas and Happy New Year.

The pastor responded in a brief address expressing to all his deep appreciation and thanks and wished that the Christmas season might bring to each of them as much joy and happiness as the thought of their feeling toward him had brought to his own home. Among those present were Mrs. Mary Kline, Miss Euphemia Dorsey, Mrs. Lizzie Davis, Mrs. Jennie Francis, Mrs. Mary Reid, Miss Davie Reid, Miss Millie Reid, Miss Hattie Post, Miss Laura Field, Miss Gilette, Mr. and Mrs. Zarchariah Peterson, Mrs. Mary L. Shipley, Mrs. Cora Truman, Mrs Eliza B. Miller, Abram Brown, Mrs. Margaret Carey and Charles E. Vanhorn.

CITY FIRE DEPARMENT HAS SERIES OF CALLS

The firemen of the city department had barely disposed of their Christmas turkey Monday noon when they commenced to get busy on a series of alarms. The first came in shortly after 1 o'clock and was for a chimney fire at the home of W. B. Tyler, of Evergreen avenue. It was put out with extinguishers before any damage had resulted.

At 6:13 last evening a second alarm was turned in from box 46 for a blaze in the home of George Laird, at Liberty street and Orchard place. The family was absent at the time and neighbors noticed smoke pouring from the second story window. When the firemen arrived they found a brisk blaze in a closet filled with clothing. The chemical hose was laid in but the flames were put out with hand extinguishers. The contents of the closet were destroyed. The loss is placed at $100.

At 1:24 this morning the firemen were again called out on an alarm from box 25. A boarder at the home of Mrs. Boss, 219 East Fifth street, was heating some medicine in a bottle and forgot to remove the cork. An explosion resulted, setting fire to some lace curtains. Things looked dangerous for awhile but the occupants of the house got the blaze out before the firemen reached the scene. The loss is placed at $25.

This morning's alarm made the third time in less than a week that the city department was called out between the hours of 1 and 3 a. m. On the other two occasions the fires were serious, those at the Rushmore factory and D. C. Ivins' house, each one giving the men several hours' fight and causing damage to the amount of $5,000.

Thomas J. Imbartia.

Thomas J. Imbartia, aged fifty years, died this morning at his home on East Fourth street. The funeral will be held in St. Mary's church Thursday morning at 9 and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE

For Good Reading Get LIPPINCOTT'S MONTHLY MAGAZINE

Each Issue Complete in Itself

ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION WILL MAKE YOU

12 GREAT COMPLETE NOVELS—One in each issue.
75 SHORT STORIES by competent writers.
20 TIMELY ARTICLES on current topics.
200 PAGES OF NEW AMERICAN HUMOR in "Whims and Whimsies," the most widely quoted humor section in America.
60 PLEASING POEMS that need no interpreter.
2000 pages yearly of exhilarating reading.

Each of the contents of each complete novel in Lippincott's is better in fiction, fact, and fun.

Send all orders to the paper or to LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE

$2.50 a year
25 cents per copy

Philadelphia, Pa.

SEND FOR NEW SPECIAL MAGAZINE OFFERS

ITALIAN PUPILS' XMAS

Miss Bateman's English Class of Lincoln School Entertained at Y. M. C. A.

GIFTS OF USEFUL BOOKS.

Neapolitan Dialect Songs, Italian Hymn and Address by Rev. Mr. Boretty, of the Mission.

Sixty-six members of the foreign men's class in English at the Lincoln school were entertained in a practical way at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Besides listening to some splendid mandolin and guitar *music they were treated to some ex*cellent singing in the Neapolitan dialect and a rendition of the Italian Christmas hymn with a splendid chorus. The singers were members of the class which Miss Zoe Bateman has been instructing in the English language and a more appreciative audience it would have been hard to find. It was a question as to whether the guests or the host and hostess of the class were the more pleased.

Following the musical part of the afternoon, Rev. Mr. Boretty, pastor of the Italian mission, addressed the men in their native language, urging them to study the English language. He pointed out to his audience that it was the best means of making them happier as well as gaining the respect and understanding of their American neighbors.

Great interest was manifested in the Christmas tree from which gifts of fruit and candy were taken for each one, besides a copy of one of the most useful books published for the foreigner. Its title is, "Guida per L'immigrante Italiano," compiled and written by John Foster Carr, and is in the Italian language. The book gives a good synopsis of American laws and customs, a map of the United States, the addresses of Italian consuls and protective societies and a fund of other useful information especially designed for the immigrant. The pupils of Miss Bateman's class were greatly pleased at this manifestation of her interest in them and showed it in their earnest attention to the address given. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB MEMBERS ENJOY HOLIDAY.

The members of the Watchung Hunt club celebrated Christmas Monday. The clubhouse was attractively decorated, presenting a cheerful appearance.

Skating on the club pond was enjoyed during the morning, after which several luncheons were given. The festivities continued throughout the afternoon and evening, a number of dinner parties being given in the evening. The affair was enlivened with good music.

During the day the members of the Log Cabin Gun Club held their annual shoot on the club grounds.

LEG BROKEN WHEN MILK WAGON TOPPLED OVER.

Lawrence Powers, driver of a milk wagon for the Valley Center Dairy at West Seventh street, was thrown from his wagon Sunday night at 10 o'clock when the horse became frightened and ran away. The wagon was smashed and Powers sustained a broken leg and other injuries. He was removed to Muhlenberg hospital in the patrol wagon by patrolman O'Gorman and Chief Kiely.

When Powers was discovered by M. F. Giles, of East Seventh street, he was lying on the ground with the whole weight of the wagon resting upon him. Mr. Giles summoned help from the neighborhood and with those who responded managed to move the heavy vehicle from Powers' body and drag him out from underneath. Mr. Giles saw at once that *Powers was seriously hurt and sum*moned the police. An examination of the injured man relieved a broken leg. He will be confined to the hospital for several weeks.

HOME NEWS.

Of Interest to Everyone in Plainfield.

In every newspaper in the country you will read statements made by people living in out-of-the-way places who are supposed to have been cured or derived great benefit from some wonderful remedy or "cure-all." But here in Plainfield we only publish statements made by Plainfield people—the testimony of your friends, neighbors and fellow-townsmen.

Mrs C. Rosseter, 127 Watchung avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I had severe backaches and occasional attacks of rheumatism. Being told that Doan's Kidney Pills were very effective in cases of this nature and believing that my trouble arose from disor*dered kidneys*, I procured a box of this remedy from Randolph's Pharmacy. I soon found relief and since that time I have always kept Doan's Kidney Pills in the house. Whenever I feel out of sorts, I take a few doses of this preparation and I am soon feeling good. Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE

June 15, 1910.

NEW YORK MAILS.
Arrive—6.30, 8.00, 9.00, 11.45 a. m., 1.30, 2.30, 5.00, 5.30, 8.30 p. m., 12 midnight.
Close—6.30, 8.00, 9.00, 10.30, 11.45 a. m., 2.00, 3.50, 5.50, 7.20, 7.45, 9.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.
Arrive—8.40, 10.50 a. m., 12.30, 3.15 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—8.00 a. m., 12.35, 1.30, 4.30, 5.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA, DIRECT.
Arrive—8.30, 11.00, 8.40, 11.45 a. m., 12.30, 2.30, 7.00 p. m.
Close—6.30, 8.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 5.50, 7.45, 9.00 p. m.
THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR EAST.
Close—11.50 a. m., 7.10 p. m.
DIRECT THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR WEST.
Close—6.30, 11.30 a. m., 1.30, 6.00 and 7.45 p. m.
DIRECT SOUTHERN MAILS.
Close—6.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.50, 5.50, 7.45 and 9.00 p. m.
PENNSYLVANIA, WEST OF EASTON.
Close—6.30 a. m., 12.35, 1.30, 5.50 p. m.
ELIZABETH, DIRECT.
Arrive—8.00, 8.40 a. m., 1.30, 2.30, 5.30 p. m.
Close—8.00, 9.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 5.50, 9.00 p. m.
NEWARK, DIRECT.
Arrive—8.00, 8.40 a. m., 1.30, 2.30, 5.30 p. m.
Close—6.30, 8.00, 9.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 5.50 p. m.
DIRECT MAILS TO SEA SHORE RESORTS DURING SUMMER.
Close—11.50 a. m., 7.10 p. m.
WATCHUNG.
Arrive—1.05, 6.45 p. m.
Close—9.00 a. m., 4.30 p. m.
WARRENVILLE.
Arrive—1.00 p. m.
Close—9.00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.
Office open from 8.30 to 10.30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

H. M. BIRD, P. M.

Advertisements
—FOR—
New York Herald,
World, Times, Sun, Journal, Telegram, American, Brooklyn Eagle
—and—
Newark Evening News
Received at
The Daily Press
AT REGULAR OFFICE RATES.

Health Is Wealth
Various boards of health, government inspectors and sanitariums everywhere urge the use of manufactured ICE.
Why? BECAUSE it is pure. We manufacture the purest Ice that can be produced and sell no other. PRICES REASONABLE.
CRYSTAL ICE Co.
MacDONALD & IVAMY,
Exclusive Handlers.
307 Arlington Ave. 'Phone 1023

Howard W. Cobbs'
tailoring establishment, 146 East Fifth street, has undergone a thorough renovation, from flooring to 30c Cobbs' patent, the tailoring, cleaning and pressing of clothes in a modern tailor shop.
Four suits and one overcoat are cleaned and pressed at a monthly rate of $1.50.
Suits are made to order from $20 and up. Repairing and altering are well and neatly done.

Howard W. Cobbs
TAILOR TO MEN AND WOMEN
146 EAST FIFTH STREET.
Telephone 401-L.

Hoagland's Express
Careful Furniture Moving
Experienced and Competent Men.
Office 205 Park Av. Tel. 833-w
Home Tel. 648-L

Get Ready for 1911
ACCOUNT BOOKS
LOOSE LEAF LEDGERS
CARD SYSTEMS
LETTER FILES
FILING DEVICES
CABINETS, ETC.
TYPEWRITERS (all makes)
OFFICE SUPPLIES
Of all kinds.
Drop in and talk it over or Telephone 1036-R and our representative will call.
Lenox Stationery Store
102 MADISON AVENUE.
Babcock Building.

New Jersey Central
TRAINS LEAVE PLAINFIELD.
For New York—2.10, 3.41, 5.41, 5.56, 6.09, 6.27, 6.50, 7.25, 7.39, 8.28, 8.46, 9.05, 9.46, 10.58, 8.12, 8.39, 8.36, 8.43, 9.29, 9.59, 10.11, 11.00, 11.53 a. m., 12.07, 12.39, 1.11, 1.27, 2.32, 2.41, 3.11, 3.50, 4.12, 4.40, 5.45, 6.39, 6.40, 7.22, 7.35, 8.27, 9.40, 10.15, 10.36, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.10, 3.41, 5.41, 7.39, 7.58, 8.55, 9.34, 9.42, 10.37, 11.52 a. m., 12.40, 1.17, 1.34, 2.32, 3.24, 4.25, 5.41, 6.35, 6.48, 8.13, 8.27, 8.35, 9.42, 10.28, 10.38 p. m.

For Newark—5.36, 6.27, 7.05, 7.39, 8.36, 9.29, 10.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.27, 2.32, 3.11, 4.12, 4.40, 5.45, 6.39, 7.35, 8.27, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.23, 8.52, 9.34, 10.37, a. m., 12.40, 1.51, 2.41, 3.24, 4.29, 5.41, 6.48, 8.12, 9.42, 10.38 p. m.

For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.18, 8.17, 9.43, 11.19 a. m., 2.00, 5.31, 5.46, (6.37 p. m. Easton only). Sunday—5.46, 10.26 a. m., 1.58, 5.46, 7.02 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—6.18, 9.43 a. m., 5.46 p. m. Sunday—5.46, 10.23 a. m., 5.46 p. m.

For Long Branch and Asbury Park, etc.—3.41, 8.12, 11.00 a. m. (12.27 Saturdays only), 2.11, 4.40, 5.45, 8.27, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—3.41, 8.52 a. m., 2.24, 8.12, 9.42 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—3.41, 9.29 a. m. (12.27 Saturdays only), 1.27, 5.11. Sunday—(1.58 Lakewood only), 9.42 a. m., 2.24 p. m.

For Philadelphia—7.23, 7.39, 8.45, 9.04, 10.43 a. m., 12.03, 12.42, 2.17, 2.45, 5.12, 6.44, 7.42, 9.50, 10.45 p. m. Sunday—8.45, 9.56, 10.39, 10.45, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 2.45, 5.12, 6.44, 7.42, 8.50, 9.46, 10.54, 11.54 p. m., 1.29 night.

For Baltimore and Washington, Daily—8.45, 10.43 a. m., 12.42, 2.45, 6.44, 7.42 p. m.

W. G. BESLER, Vice-Pres. & Gen. Mgr.
W. C. HOPE, G. P. A.

If you are dissatisfied with your paper service call on or 'phone
The Hustler
The best service in the city.
Morning, Evening & Sunday Papers
Phone 668-J
William H. Olmsted
331 Watchung Ave.

Vail
JEWELER AND OPTICIAN
143 Park Ave.,
calls your attention to his
Rimless Glasses.
They Look Good and You See Good.

HENRY WIERENGA
Residence 'Phone 517-3.
Furniture, Freight, Baggage, Express and Rigger.
PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY.
FURNITURE,
OIL CLOTHS,
STOVES, ETC.
LOUIS KADESH,
23 Somerset Street

Try a Press Want Ad

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law,
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commission and expenses; rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant line. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnaces
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing, Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Masters Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL

DIED.

CLARK—On Tuesday, December 20, 1910, C. Clayton Clark, aged 56 years.

MURPHY—On Tuesday, December 20, 1910, Elizabeth, widow of Michael Murphy, aged 60 years.

BABCOCK—On Thursday, December 22, 1910, Eugenia L., wife of the late George H. Babcock.

POUND—At Plainfield, N. J., December 25, 1910, Elizabeth Mary, wife of T. Harry Pound, aged 39 years, 8 months, 16 days.

LOYD—ON December 25, 1910, at her residence, 65 Washington avenue, North Plainfield, Rebecca R., daughter of the late Isaac S. and Elizabeth Loyd.

Holds Office 57 Years.

On January 1 Assessor John M. C. Marsh will begin his fifty-seventh year as a public officeholder at Westfield. "Uncle Johnny," as he is known, is an old time Democrat and he has weathered safely many political gales. At the age of twenty-one, 'way back in 1853, Mr. Marsh was elected township constable, which position he held until 1900. In 1878 he was elected to the assessorship on the Democratic ticket and he is still holding down the job. This he has served forty-seven years, as as a constable and thirty-two years as assessor.

CELEBRATE THEIR 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Kalman Rothberg, of West Third street, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding at their home Monday night. There were about one hundred relatives and friends present from New York, Philadelphia, Trenton and St. Louis. The couple received many gifts. During the evening a dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Rothberg were married December 26, 1885, in New York. They have resided here for twenty-three years. They have six children, Samuel, Harry, Rose and Harvey, Louis and Sadie Rothberg.

Mr. Rothberg's nearest friend, Isaac Lind, who was married on the same date, also celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary yesterday at his home in New York. During the day the couple exchanged greetings.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. McCutcheon, of Plainfield avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Katherine H. McCutcheon, to C. Louis L. Dana, son of Dr. Charles L. Dana, of New York city. No date for the wedding has been fixed.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Christmas entertainment will be held at the Wilson Memorial chapel tomorrow night.

There will be preparatory service at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow night and communion on Sunday morning.

The Christmas entertainment will be held at the First Baptist church, Thursday night. Admission will be by ticket, the affair being intended for the members of the school and church.

The Birds' Christmas carol will be the Christmas entertainment at the First Presbyterian church, Thursday night. Tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock the children will hold their Christmas party.

There will be a Christmas tree at the Ebenezer Baptist church for the children on Thursday evening. Those wishing to co-operate with the committee with a view to decorating the tree are requested to consult Walter Ford, Miss Josephine Darby and Mrs. Sallie Ford.

The children's Christmas party will be held in Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church, tomorrow afternoon, when Santa Claus will make his appearance. The entertainment for the oldest members of the school will be held Thursday night, when the Ruggles Family will entertain under the direction of Mrs. Judd Stuart.

TO HAVE IDEAL HIGH SCHOOL IN ELIZABETH.

C. Godfrey Poggi, the Elizabeth architect who has been chosen by the high school committee of the Board of Education to draw plans for a new high school, has already begun work. With Superintendent of Schools Clement he has visited the new high schools in Bayonne and in this city. He will also visit other schools in the State and will probably visit New York city. From these visits Architect Poggi expects to gain ideas that may be used on the proposed school in Elizabeth.

"We were by no means satisfied with the schools we have visited," said Superintendent Clement yesterday morning. "The buildings have had defects that will be eliminated from our school. We intend to have a good high school and a beautiful one."

OLD MINE SWALLOWS A PENNSYLVANIA SHOP.

A coal mine, abandoned fifty years ago, gave way yesterday and carried down the large foundry of Zahniser Brothers & Sten, on West Chestnut street, Washington, Pa.

John A. Sten, vice president of the company, and twelve workmen were severely injured, but none will die. There were a score of other employes who escaped unhurt from the debris of fallen walls, broken machinery and twisted shafting.

Some sections of the building fell 150 feet to the base of the old mine. The loss amounts to about $75,000.

Senate Seat 23 a Hoodoo.

Who is going to get seat No. 23 in the Senate after the readjustment necessary because of the recent elections is a question being asked at the Capitol. The "indian sign" first was put on No. 23 when Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, occupied it. He was defeated for re-election and died abroad shortly afterward. Senator McMillan moved into No. 23 after Senator Wolcott vacated it, and died in office. Then Senator Wetmore took it for a few months, only to have the Rhode Island legislature become deadlocked. It was six months before Senator Wetmore was returned and in the meantime his seat was forfeited. Senator Kittridge was sitting there when Senator Wetmore reached the Senate after the deadlock ended, and he was defeated when next he came up for election. Senator Burkett, of Nebraska, who has been occupying No. 23 of late years, has just met defeat in that State and will be succeeded by Representative Hitchcock. No hoodoo has seemed to attach to No. 13.

Stricken on Street.

Toppling over suddenly without any apparent reason, Frank D. Hart, of 128 Broadway street, layed his length on the sidewalk at the corner of Watchung and North avenues last evening at 5 o'clock unconscious. He was seen to fall by a passerby and police headquarters notified. Dr. Pittis on examining the man urged haste in removing the man to Muhlenberg hospital. There it was found that Hart was suffering from apoplexy. He may not recover.

Dance For Miss Fisk.

Mrs. Chapman Fisk will give a dance at the Hartridge School auditorium Friday night for her daughter, Miss Dorothy Fisk. It will be a large affair, a great many invitations being issued. A party of more than fifty young people from out of town are expected.

Rattling Sound.

Biggs—What makes you think the man who plays the piano used to be a guard in the jail?

Wiggs—The way he rattles the keys.

He Knew.

Stranger—I just saw a funeral going down the street; can you tell me who is going to be buried?

Boy—Yes, sir; the gentleman in the first carriage.

HAHNE & CO.

NEWARK'S STORE BEAUTIFUL
BROAD, NEW AND HALSEY STREETS

IMPORTERS · RETAILERS

The Most Industrious Store in Newark---The City of Industry

Today We Begin Our Annual Sale Office Furniture at Reductions of No Less Than 10 Per Cent.

Roll Top Desks	Wood Seat Stools
Flat Top Desks	Factory Stools
Typewriter Desks	Telephone Stools
Standing Bookkeepers' Desks	Pigeonhole Cabinets
Revolving Chairs	Press Stands
Arm Chairs	Revolving Bookcases
Reception Chairs	Typewriter Chairs
Settees	Bookkeepers' Stools
Offices Directors Tables	Office Tables
Cane Seat Stools

ROLL TOP DESKS.

Made of quartered oak, 5-ply built up writing bed and top; all edges are square; solid oak raised panels; hardwood drawers with movable partitions; solid built drawer bottoms and backs; double drawer in the right-hand pedestal for books; centre drawer in the knee space with separate lock; conveniently arranged pigeon hole interiors; finisher golden oak color with a dull finish such as now used in all offices; not a cheap desk, but first-class in every respect; a guarantee back of it; regular price of 50-inch size $32; special selling price.....$27

Also may be had in 55 and 60-inch at special prices.

Other Desk price reductions are as follows:

Roll Top Desks; made of oak, 3 ft long; one row of drawers; pigeon-hole work interior; regular price $19; sale price.....$16.50

Roll Top Desks; 3 ft. 6 long, 30 inches deep; in the pedestal are 3 drawers and one larger one for book use; pigeon-hole work interior. This is a first-class desk in every detail; regular price $20; sale price.....$17

Roll Top Desks; 50 inches long, 2 pedestals, containing 2 deep drawers and 6 smaller drawers; nicely paneled back and sides; pigeon-hole work interior; drawers, pencil box, etc.; square edge writing bed and deck; regular price $25; sale..$22

Roll Top Desks; made of quartered oak, golden finish, dull; high roll, pedestal with 2 large book drawers and 6 smaller ones; all edges are square; a very fine desk in every detail. Regular price of 50-inch size $35; sale price.....$32

Also may be had in 55 and 60 inches at special prices.

Sanitary Roll Top Desks; 50 inches long; 32 inches deep; have a deep book drawer and 4 other drawers; inside are pigeon hole baxes, drawers and private compartment; made of quartered oak, nicely finished; edges are square; regular price $30; sale price.....$26.50

Other Desks as high as $183, and they are reduced in price for this sale.

TYPEWRITER DESKS.

Typewriter Desk, made of quartered oak, golden finish; has one pedestal containing 4 drawers, neatly paneled sides, and top has square edges; it has the best kind of lowering and raising device for holding typewriting machine; machine when not in use is lowered and desk can be used as a flat top desk; size 37 inches long. Regular price $22; sale price.....$19.50

Sanitary Typewriter Desk, flat top, drawers in each pedestal; it is 50 inches long; made of quartered oak, golden finish; disappearing arrangement for typewriter machine which lowers when iot in use, making the to pof desk flat and can be used for other purposes. Regular price $27; sale price.....$24

Roll Top Typewriter Desk, 37 inches long; one row of drawers; made of quartered oak, nicely finished, and has pigeon-hole interiors equipped with fixtures; regular price $36; sale...$32

Other Typewriter Desks up to $51 all reduced in price.

FLAT TOP DESKS.

Made of solid oak and has a 5-ply built up writing bed of quartered oak; raised panels; square edge top and nicely finished. All drawer work is made of hardwood with built up drawer bottoms and movable partitions; centre drawer has a separate lock; a first-class article, made in three sizes. Regular price 50-inch $20; special price for one week.....$17.50

Regular price 55-inch $21.75; special price for 1 week $19.

Regular price 60-inch $24; special price for 1 week $21.

Other reductions are as follows:

Desks, 36 inches long, containing a centre drawer and side pedestal with two drawers, and deep book drawer; made of oak, golden finish; regular price $10.50; sale price.....$9

42-inch size, same construction, regular price $12.50; sale price.....$10.50

Sanitary Flat Top Desks, made of golden oak, dull finish; has three drawers and one deep book drawer; drawer in the centre with separate lock; basework does not set close to the floor—there is a space of 6 inches undreneath which permits of easy cleaning; legs are equipped with brass rings.

50-inch size, regular price $21; sale price $18.75.

Also may be had in 55 and 60-inch sizes at liberal reduction.

Flat Top Desks, made of quartered oak, golden finish; writing bed and all edges are square; in the pedestal is a deep book drawer and above it is a double book drawer; in the opposite pedestal are 4 drawers; has a combination lock and separate lock on center drawer. Regular price of 50-inch $26, sale price.....$23

Double Sanitary Flat Top Writing Desks, 60 inches long and 48 inches deep; book drawers on each opposite side and 4 other drawers; centre drawer in each knee space with lock, and is intended for the use of two people opposite each other; all edges are square and basework sets up from the floor so it can be easily dusted. Regular price $43; sale price.....$38

STOOLS.

These stools suitable for factory, office and store use; strongly put together, well made in every respect.

18-inch size, regular price 75c; special price 65c.

24-inch size, regular price 90c; special price 80c.

30-inch size, regular price $1; special price 90c.

36-inch size, regular price $1.15; special price $1.

18-inch size, cane seat; reg. price $1.30; special price $1.15.

24-inch size, cane seat, reg. price $1.45; special price $1.25.

30-inch size, cane seat; reg. price $1.70; special price $1.50

BOOKKEEPERS' DESK

A first-class Desk in every detail of construction; could not be better; made of nicely selected oak with a dull finish; it is 33 inches wide, 42 inches high; has brass spring lock; square legs and all edges are square; book rack at top; made in three sizes.

Lenth 5 feet, regular price $23.00; sale price.....$20

Lenth 6 feet, regular price $24.00; sale price.....$22

Lenth 8 feet, regular price $28.50; sale price.....$25

Other Standing Desks prices are as follows:

5 ft. length, regular price $15; sale price $13.50.

6 ft. length, regular price $18.75; sale price $16.50.

8 ft. length, regular price $22.50; sale price $20.

Bookkeepers' Standing Desks, 6 ft. long, 58 inches wide; has 3 drawers in each side and in the centre is a book rack; all edges are square; it is made of oak; foot rail at the bottom, and may be sued for either 2, 3 or 4 people; regular price $35; sale price.....$31

Bookkeepers' Standing Desks, 6 ft. long; pedestal underneath on 2 ends, containing large deep drawers in the top with compartment for cash; book rack on the top, made of oak, flat finish; regular price $41; sale price.....$36

STANDING DESK.

Elegant standing Desks—8 feet long and 32 inches wide, height of bras screen 50½ inches, built of white quartered oak, golden finish, ample drawer space, sliding doors; cash till; may also be had with plate glass instead of bras grille Regular price $102; special price.....$88

FAMOUS "MACEY" FILING CABINETS.

We are Agents for This Grand Rapids Office Furniture.

The Macey System of Sectional Filing Cabinets embraces practically every combination an office man could desire. Various filing devices are made in small units so that they can be fitted together and changed at will. All business and professional men will find them immensely useful in keeping their papers and memoranda properly classified.

Office Cabinets, made of quartered oak in golden finish; panel sides and back, with solid cast brass trimmings, with interior filing units of hard wood, nicely finished; the set consisting of the following.

1 Outside Cabinet; 3 Document Files; 6 Legal Index Drawers; 4 Card Index Drawers, 1 Vertical Filing Drawer, for $31.

Other combinations $22 and upward.

BOOKKEEPERS' STOOLS.

Revolving stool, made of oak, 36 inches high; can be adjusted to different heights, from 30 to 36 inches.

Regular price of wood seat is $3.50; special $3.00.

Regular price of cane sat it $3.60; special $3.25.

INTERCHANGEABLE CABINETS.

It should be borne in mind that all the various book cases and filing drawers of the Macey manufacture are interchangeable, and one section can be added to another with the greatest ease. Part of it may be a bookcase; part of it drawers for filing letters; part of it files for legal documents, and so on, just as you wish it, and these may be arranged and rearranged over again as your business may require.

Filing Cabinets, Legal Blank Drawers, Document Files, Cloth Boxes, Report File Drawers, Vertical File Drawers, Check File Drawers, Universal Filers, Invoice Drawers, Roller Book Shelves, Storage Drawers, Door's, Insurance Policy Drawers, Multiple Cabinets, Card Index Trays, with or without covers; Card Index Drawers, Closets or Cupboards, with or without door; Transfer Boxes, Transfer Cases.

OFFICE CHAIRS.

Made of nicely quartered oak; the best that can be found on the market; it is finished in either golden or weathered oak; has a fancy bent arm; flat spindles in the back; saddle shape seat strongly constructed and is on a revolving base; tilts back and forward; regular price $10.50; sale price.....$8.75

A Holiday Week Sale Full

INVOLVING $30,000 WORTH OF FINEST FURS AND COATS AT ABOUT MAKER'S COST.

Goodness knows we've been selling fur coats and other furs for little enough—but along comes a manufacturer glorying in our success this big season offering us as a sort of compliment, and as an appreciation of our patronage, first call on a big lot of furs he decided to dispose of before the end of the year.

So now, see what we are going to do—see how we are going to sell fur coats, fur scarfs and fur muffs to those who got cash for Christmas.

Let these three lots of coats stand as examples of the pricings:

Women's and Misses' 52-inch Caracul Coats; lined with rich brocade, two-toned silk or Skinner satin; with shawl collar and deep cuffs and jeweled buttons; regular value $49.50; to go at.....$33

Scarfs and Muffs most generously priced for this big event. Come full of expectation.

Women's and Misses' 52-inch Russian Pony Coats; of beautiful selected skins; lined with Skinner Satin; with shawl collar; deep cuff and crochet and Pony Buttons, regular value $59.50; to be sold at.....$37.50

Women's and Misses' 52-inch Near Seal Coats; made from selected skins; lined with rich Brocade Silk; shawl collar and deep cuffs; regular value $79.50; sale price.....$59.50

SALE OF CLOTH COATS, TOO.

Coats of Broadcloth, Plush, Caracul Cloth, English Mixtures and Kerseys; beautifully made; strictly tailored or handsomely trimmed with braids or velvets; to be sold at exceptionally low prices, as follows:

$10.50 Coats, $5.00; $15 Coats, $7.50; $18.50 Coats, $10.50; $25 Coats, $12.50; $35 Coats, $18.50; $45 Coats, $22.50.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Charles Guthmiller, complainant, and Jesse L. Smith, defendant. Fi fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's office, in the Courthouse, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all tracts or parcels of lands and premises situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey.

WEDNESDAY, THE FOURTH DAY OF JANUARY, A. D. 1911,

First Tract—Beginning at a point in the southwesterly side line of Summer avenue, distant 250.38 feet in intersection of the said side line of Summer avenue with the southeasterly side line of Midway; thence in a southwesterly direction and at right angles to Summer avenue a distance of 125 feet to a point and corner; thence in a southeasterly direction and parallel with Summer avenue a distance of 100 feet to a point and corner; thence in a northeasterly direction and at right angles to Summer avenue a distance of 125 feet to a point in said side line of Summer avenue; thence to a northwesterly direction and along the said side line of Summer avenue a distance of 100 feet to the point and place of beginning.

Being known and designated as lots numbered 11, 12, 13 and 14, in block "24," as shown on a certain map entitled "Map of Highland Park, Plainfield, N. J., April 24, 1906. H. C. Van Emburgh, C. E."

Second Tract—Beginning at a point in the northeasterly side line of Emerson avenue distant 292.48 feet from the point of intersection of the said side line of Emerson avenue with the northeasterly side line of Midway; thence in a northeasterly direction and at right angles to Emerson avenue a distance of 125 feet to a point and corner; thence in a southeasterly direction and parallel with Emerson avenue a distance of 150 feet to a point and corner; thence in a southwesterly direction and at right angles to Emerson avenue a distance of 125 feet to a point in said side line of Emerson avenue in a northwesterly direction and along the said side line of Emerson avenue a distance of 150 feet to the point and place of beginning.

Being known and designated as lots numbered 72, 74, 75, 76, 77 and 78, in block "24," as shown on the aforesaid map.

ROBERT J. KIRKLAND, Sheriff.
CHAS. TRIMBLE, Sol'r.
12 5 6m. EDJ&DP. Adv. Fees—$26.04.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Ida M. Wyckoff, complainant, and Lillian M. Codington and James E. Codington et al., defendants. Fi fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's office, in the Courthouse, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon, of said day, all that certain tract or parcel of land and premises situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey.

WEDNESDAY, THE FOURTH DAY OF JANUARY, A. D. 1911

Beginning at a point in the centre line of Spruce street, distant in a northwesterly direction along said centre of Spruce street one hundred and seventy-five feet and one one-hundredths of a foot from its intersection with the centre line of Seventh avenue (now Essex street); thence running south seventeen degrees one hundred and seventy-five feet and twenty-four one hundredths of a foot; thence north forty-three degrees and thirty-six minutes west thirty-three and one-tenth feet; thence north forty-eight degrees and seventeen minutes east one hundred and seventy-five feet and one hundredth and two hundredths of a foot to the centre line of Spruce street; thence along the centre of Spruce street thirty-three and one-third feet to the place of beginning.

This mortgage is intended to cover thirty-three and one-third feet of land with the house thereon erected, the land being that part of a plot or tract of land one hundred and forty by one hundred and seventy-five and twenty-four one hundredths feet, conveyed to the party of the first part hereto by deed of Abram W. Voorhees and wife, dated May fourth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-six, nearest Essex street.

ROBERT J. KIRKLAND, Sheriff.
ALVAH A. CLARK, Sol'r.
12 6 6m. EDJ&DP. Adv. Fees—$19.74.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Phebe M. Sprague et al., executrices, etc., complainants, and Isabella Scott et al., executrix, etc., et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's office, in the Courthouse, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcel of lands and premises situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey.

WEDNESDAY, THE TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY OF DECEMBER, A. D., 1910,

Beginning at a point in the centre of Plainfield avenue, said point being distant one hundred and twenty-five and seventy-five one-hundredths (225.75) feet and in a magnetic course of south forty-five degrees east from the intersection of the centre lines of Plainfield avenue and Seventh street; thence running along the centre of said Plainfield avenue south forty-five degrees and fifty (50) feet to a point and Cornelius Roes' corner; thence north forty-four degrees and one minutes east along said Roes' line two hundred and forty-one and sixty-one one-hundredths (295.32) feet to a point and Brockway's corner; thence along said Brockway's line north forty-three degrees and twelve minutes west forty-nine and one-hundredth one hundredths (49.98) feet to a point; thence south forty-eight degrees and fifty minutes west and parallel with the second line two hundred and seventy (270) feet to the point or centre of Plainfield avenue and place of beginning. Being the same premises conveyed to the said party of Hall by deed of Carmon Parse and wife, dated February 5, 1897, and recorded in Book 377 of deeds for Union county on pages 164, etc.

ROBERT J. KIRKLAND, Sheriff.
NELSON & WM. N. RUNTON, Sol'rs.
pages 8 6m FJ&DP. Adv. Fees—$18.90

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Ida M. Wyckoff, complainant, and Lillian M. Codington and James E. Codington et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's office, in the Courthouse, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE FOURTH DAY OF JANUARY, A. D., 1911,

at two o'clock in the afternoon, of said day, all that certain tract or parcel of land and premises situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey.

Being known and designated as lot number eleven, (11) in block "24," as shown on map entitled "Revised map of plots owned by Jesse French, Plainfield, N. J., October, 1895," said map being filed in the office of the Clerk of Union County, N. J., on October 1, 1895.

The said premises are conveyed subject to the same terms and conditions relating to streets and avenues as shown on said map, and to the clauses relating to nuisances as contained in the deed from the executors of the Estate of Jane E. Hoover, deceased, including said premises.

Being the same premises conveyed to the said James E. Codington by deed of John C. Smith and wife and Elmina L. French, bearing date June 23, 1902, and recorded in Union County Clerk's office in book 413 of deeds for said county, on pages, etc.

ROBERT J. KIRKLAND, Sheriff.
ALVAH A. CLARK, Sol'r.
12 6 6m. EDJ&DP. Adv. Fees—$15.96.

Hoagland's Express

Careful Furniture Moving
Experienced and Competent Men.
Office 205 Park Av. Tel. 833-w
Home Tel. 648-L.

COAL DEALERS.

JOS. HARRIGAN

OLD COMPANY'S LEHIGH COAL
929 South Avenue
Telephone 478.

TenEyck & Harris,

Dealers in
LEHIGH VALLEY COAL
Office: Rowley's Drug Store, 213 West Front Street. Telephone 543-W.

GEORGE O. STEVENS

747 West Front St.

R. L. CLINE

(Successor to C. H. Rugge & Co.)
Best Quality Lehigh Coal
Yard and office 436 West Third St. Tel 82

TenEyck & Kelley

Successors to Manley Co.

COAL

741 SOUTH AVE. Tel. 1155

WALTER TEMPLE

SUCCESSOR TO RHEAUME.
COAL and WOOD
Office, 140 E. 4th St. Tel. 80-W
Yard, 674 bo. 2d St. Tel. 251

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

Take a Look in our Window and you will be convinced that the latest in interior work—Aorochrome Washable Wall Decoration—is very handsome and effective.

Woolston & Buckle

Painters and Decorators
143 NORTH AVENUE.

THE REASON

I have the confidence of the public is because I never take a contract at a figure too low to enable me to do the work properly and give permanent satisfaction to the customer. It may cost you a little more in the beginning, but a great deal less in the end.

James C. Hansen

Decorator, Paper Hanger & Painter
Dealer in Wall Paper, Paints, Oils, Glass, &c., &c.
141 East Front St Tel. Call 846

M. WARREN

PAINTER, DECORATOR and PAPERHANGER
85 SOMERSET ST.,
opposite Sanzerbund Hall.

HOTELS.

HOTEL WALDORF

EAST FRONT STREET.
HENRY WINDHAM, Prop.
Gottfried Kruger's Extra Beer on draught. Imported Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Hotel accommodations and private Dining-Room.

G. J. WEINMAN

CAFE
213 Park Ave., Tel. 1527

HOTEL KENSINGTON

NORTH AVENUE
UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT
HOUSE THOROUGHLY RENOVATED
SUNDAY DINNER From 12:30 to 2 P.M. 50c

THE Hotel IROQUOIS

Conducted on the European Plan
Park Ave. and Second St.

SMALLEY BROS.

147 North Avenue.
BUTCHERS
CHOICE MEATS.
GAME IN SEASON.
ROASTING AND BROILING CHICKENS A SPECIALTY.
Berkshire Pork and Sausage
None better sold
Orders called for and delivered.
Telephone 88-A.

PARQUET & HARDWOOD FLOORS

Old Floors Refinished
GEO. E. WATT
150 North Ave. Tel. 333-w

PLUM FOR SWACKHAMER?

He May be Appointed Circuit Court Judge by Woodrow Wilson.

The term of Hon. Wilbur A. Heisley, of the Circuit Court, expires next February and this fact has given rise to much speculation as to who will be his successor. Two names, prominent Democrats and well known throughout the State as staunch supporters of Dr. Woodrow Wilson, Governor-elect, have been mentioned as possible nominees for the judgship the most prominent hereabouts being former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer. It is believed that Mr. Swackhammer's appointment to this office would give general satisfaction as he is considered eminently qualified to discharge the duties and is very popular.

While representing Somerset county in the Legislature, Mr. Swackhammer made a remarkable record for honesty and ability and won the esteem of Republicans and Democrats alike for his straightforward business-like work. Although he desired the nomination for Congress in the Fourth district last fall and his friends confidently expected that he would be the nominee, he withdrew his name in favor of Professor William Libby in the interest of harmony and made a speech seconding Mr. Libby's nomination.

At the State convention Mr. Swackhamer was a delegate from Somerset county and threw his influence in favor of the nomination of Woodrow Wilson and during the campaign he made every effort to aid his election. He is a strong supporter of the Governor-elect in his present effort to secure the carrying out of the wishes of the people as expressed at the primaries concerning the United States Senatorship.

It is thought that Mr. Swackhamer's uniform efforts in favor of clean politics and popular government and his strenuous opposition to all political trickery and corruption will appeal strongly to Governor Wilson and that he will receive some appointment by which the State will secure his services. His appointment to the Circuit Court is regarded as especially desirable as Mr. Swackhamer is a lawyer who has had an extensive practice in the higher courts and has the full confidence of the bench and bar. Judge Heisley's circuit embraces Essex, Monmouth and Ocean counties.

When seen this morning by a Daily Press reporter Mr. Swackhamer declined to be quoted as to his aspirations re'tive to his possible appointment, but there is no doubt that he would be pleased to be recognized in this way by Dr. Wilson.

The other possibility mentioned for the appointment is Col. Nelson Y. Dunan, of Somerville. Col. Dunan has a record as prosecutor of Somerset county and is popular as the commander of the Second Regiment of the New Jersey National Guard.

MILLIONS OF SEALS SOLD BY RED CROSS

Reports from headquarters of the American Red Cross given out Tuesday indicate that at the beginning of the last week of the sale of Xmas Seals, nearly 35,000,000 have been sold and that the prospects are bright for a sale of more than 50,000,000.

The actual number of Seals sold to date is nearly 15,000,000 in excess of the entire number sold in 1909 and is already nearly three times the sale of 1908. If the sale this week keeps up at the rate as since December 1st, the national authorities estimate that over $500,000 will be added to the tuberculosis funds in all parts of the country. This will be double the amount realized last year.

Engaged in this campaign for selling Red Cross Seals is an army of over 100,000 including men, women and children of every rank and station. Agents have been appointed in one or more places in every state, except Idaho and Montana. Among the grops and institutions which are assisting in the movement are the Anti-Tuberculosis Societies, Red Cross Chapters, Women's Clubs, Labor Unions, Lodges Schools Banks, Theatres, Department Stores, Hospitals, and innumerable other agencies. Thousands of dollars worth of advertising is being donated to the campaign and many millions of circulars are being distributed to remind people ti buy Red Cross Seals.

A Transportation Problem.

Reindeer's mighty skiddish now
Dey don' look nothin' like a o' limb.
For's travelin' 'cross de winter land
Out in de starlight dim,
No matter what's de freight you draws,
'Co' slow's de safest rule;
If I was Mistuh Santy Claus
I'd git myself a mule.

'Course, he could have a motor car—
But s'pose she shatt to skid?
Dem aeroplane doy travels far;
But s'pose de storm comes undid
An'draps de outfit?—if he'd pause
An' figger calm an' cool,
I bet ol' Mistuh Santy Claus
Would get hisse'f a mule.

Washington Evening Star.

JONAS LIE PAINTING IS BOUGHT FOR $1,000.

The Carnegie Institute at Pittsburg has added to its permanent collection Jonas Lie's painting "Fishing Boats at Sunrise." The picture which was recently exhibited at the 106th annual exhibition of the Pennsylvania Academy, is now at the Contemporary American Art Exhibition at the Corcoran gallery in Washington, D. C. It was there that the director for Carnegie Institue saw it and purchased it for $1,000.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

THREE KILLED IN WRECK

And Scores are Injured in Accident on Pennsylania at Millstone.

Three men were killed and a score or more of people injured in a railroad wreck at Millstone Junction on the Pennsylvania Railroad at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when three trains were involved. It was not until 9 o'clock that the road was partially reopened to traffic and it will be late this afternoon before all the debris is taken away.

The killed are J. B. Minehan, a flagman, on a freight train, who lived in Wilmington, Del.; John Lowenberg, of Jersey City, engineer of the second freight train, and Frank Knox, aged 24 years, of 536 Greer avenue, Elizabeth fireman on the passenger train which ran into the wrecked freight. Minehan is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Frank J. Shattle of West Fourth street.

Prior to the accident there was a freight standing in a block near Millstone Junction, when a second freight came along and crashed into the rear of the first freight. Minehan was caught in the caboose of his train. The collision threw a freight car over on the main westbound track and a few minutes later the "Owl" train crashed into the obstruction. Engineer Lowenberg was killed in the first collision, while Fireman Knox of the passenger train lost his life in the second collision. The latter's father was killed ten years ago in a railroad accident.

The official report of the road place the blame for the accident between Engineer Lowenberg and Flagman Minehan, the former for passing danger signals and going into a block while another train was there, and the latter for not going back with a danger signal to warn the engineer of the "Owl" train. When the passenger train ran into the wrecked freight car, the passengers were severely shaken up and many were more, or less bruised and cut with broken glass, but there was a real panic among the passengers in the forward cars of the "Owl" train and it was some minutes before they were quieted. Mrs. Dora Roberless, of Philadelphia, was among the injured reported to the hospital in New Brunswick.

Mr. Knox, one of the killed, leaves a wife and one child seven months old. He is well-known here, where he visited Mr. and Mrs. Shattle.

CITY FATHERS DISPOSE OF UNFINISHED BUSINESS

Principally for the purpose of passing the bills for the month, an adjourned meeting of the Common Council was held Wednesday. There was just a quorum present, Messrs. Yolles, Taylor, Gloak, Buxton, Mygatt, Clay and C. C. Randolph, while Messrs. Holt, W. W. Wilson and Frank Randolph were the absentees.

The various heads of committees referred petitions on hand to the 1911 council, and it was arranged to hold the final meeting of the year on Wednesday night, December 28. The new body will hold its first meeting Monday night, January 2 for organization purposes, when President H. I. Yolles will be re-elected and committees will be announced.

A resolution offered by Mr. Gloak and adopted, authorized the appropriation of $500 for street work for the remainder of the year. Jacob Shafer's bill for protecting the city from damages in the removal of one of his buildings was filed.

Overseer-of-the-Poor A. D. Ayers reported outside expenses for the past month to be $1,881.97, and alms house expenses at $262.59. The report was filed. On motion of Mr. Buxton the last report of the late corporation counsel, C. A. Marsh, and a number of petitions were referred to the incoming body. Mr. Mygatt offered a resolution which was adopted, passing the bills.

The janitor of the building banked his fire at 6 o'clock last night and when the members of the council got ready for their meeting the rooms were so cold that overcoats were comfortable. The condition so exasperated the members that Mr. Buxton offered a motion, which was adopted, instructing the city clerk to write the owner of the building with a view to having the building properly heated. City Clerk MacMurray also complained about the lack of heat in the clerk's office almost every evening.

AGAINST THE NEW RULE

Plainfield Country Club Instructs U. S. Golf Association Delegate.

The question as to how the Plainfield Country Club, as a voting member of the United States Golf Association, should vote at the coming annual meeting of the national organization on the question of adopting the recent English rule prohibiting the use of any golf club in which the shaft does not enter the head at the heel, was discussed at a meeting of the trustees of the local club on Tuesday night.

Leighton Calkins president of the club, addressed the trustees at length advocating instructions to the delegate from the local club requiring him to vote against the adoption of the rule, because vicious in principle and because standardization of clubs and balls is foreign to the spirit of the game of golf. The trustees unanimously voted to instruct the club delegate to vote against the adoption of the rule by the United States Golf Association.

Another important matter discussed was that of offering the use of the club course to the Metropolitan Golf Association for its tournament for boys in accordance with the plan submitted by Mr. Calkins at the recent annual meeting of the Metropolitan Golf Association. It was unanimously voted to offer the course for that purpose if it is decided to hold it in Plainfield next spring, it will be a great incentive to the boys connected with the local club. The event will probably be limited to boys of about eighteen years and under, with several divisions and many prizes. The entire expense will be borne by the Metropolitn Golf Association.

One other matter of great concern considered was the enlargement of the water plant at the club house. It is now absolutely insufficient for the clubhouse and grounds. The contemplated improvement must be met in some way and plans must be considered before another season. One suggestion was to meet part of the expense by an increase of the dues of house members from $6 a year to $10.

It was pointed out that the enlargement of the clubhouse two years ago, the employment of an expert superintendent and other improvements, had greatly increased the advantages given to members who enjoy the social privileges of the club, and that a similar increase in the dues of that class would not be unreasonable. It is proposed to have 9 new class, called house members, at $10 a year; and require all golf and tennis juniors to become associate members at $12 a year, leaving the active dues at $20 as at present. If these changes seem advisable the matter will come up for decision at the annual meeting of the club in February.

HERE AND THERE.

"I was much interested," said a man from up the State, "in a point raised by a witness the other day as to which was better, a young man's impulse, or what is called sober judgment. I have a case in mind.

"Two brothers who grew up in my home town and in different ways. One, whom I will call Eph, was of a saving, thrifty nature. He burned the midnight oil, was sober and industrious and everybody said Eph would be one of the greatest financiers of his age. Eph came down to New York and went in business and everybody thought he was a millionaire when the crash of 1907 came. It left Eph a broken man, actually unable to make a decent living.

"The other brother, whom I may name Eli, discovered early in life he had a big crop of oats to sow. He went in for striped shirts and loud neckties and for coloring the town when he made one farewell swoop on New York. There he fell in with a man from the West who was looking for somebody to grubstake him. He was down and out and Eli's heart went out to him. He gave him all the money he had except $100, devoted that to a farewell to Broadway and then went back home and got a small job.

"He worked away for several years incidentally serving as an illustration for local moralizers, and then suddenly one day came a telegram. The man he had grubstaked several years before had struck a good mine and out of gratitude had counted Eli in as a partner. Eli is now living in luxury and taking care of Eph."

Valuable Help.

"I understand that your wife collaborates with you?"

"Yes, he work aids me immensely."

"I don't believe I have ever seen any of her writings."

"She doesn't write; she prepares my meals."—Houston Post.

Your Comb.

Combs should not be washed with water. This is apt to split the teeth. A stiff nailbrush is a good thing to keep for cleaning them. After using the brush take a damp cloth and wipe between each tooth with this.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 1, 1911.

Topic.—Untrodden ways.—Josh. iii. 1-17. (A New Year's consecration service.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

In the Scriptural lesson we have the story of Joshua and the children of Israel crossing the Jordan river. Early in the morning of this eventful day Joshua and the people came to the Jordan and lodged there before passing over. Arrangements were made for the crossing. The ark of the covenant went first, carried by the priests and Levites. The people were to follow it, but to keep back a certain distance so that all could see it and be guided by it. "for ye have not passed this way hitherto." The people were commanded by Joshua to sanctify themselves and be prepared for the wonders God would do. At the proper time God heaped up the waters, and the Israelites passed over into Canaan. Then God fulfilled the promises to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and gave their descendants the promised land.

The journey of Israel typifies the journey of the Christian through this life to the heavenly home. The part of it contained in this period is especially worthy of consideration in connection with the starting upon a new year, which began today. Nineteen hundred and ten is a closed book. Nineteen hundred and eleven has just opened its account. The old year has passed out, and the new year has been ushered in. "We have not passed this way hitherto." Therefore we do well to start the new year well and to keep as we have never kept. The crossing of the Jordan is a splendid illustration of how to begin and to continue the year that if spared to its end we may look back upon it with pleasure and not regret or remorse.

God should be our guide and leader for the new year. The ark of the covenant, which typified God, went before the Israelites, and they followed it as their guide. "God first" should be our motto, not only for today, but for every day throughout the year. We have no time to waste, and we do not know what a day or an hour may bring forth.

That we may follow God more closely and may be prepared for His wonderful blessings we must sanctify ourselves. To the Israelites Joshua said, "Sanctify yourselves." Sanctification here means consecration, not sanctity or holiness of character, though this will result from absolute consecration or surrender of ourselves to God. Let us sanctify ourselves to God and by His grace keep them as never before.

The people strictly obeyed every word of God and Joshua. Obedience to God and spiritual leaders is absolutely a renewed, consecrated life. The supreme thing that God requires of us as Christians is obedience. "Obedience is better than sacrifice."

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xii, 41, 42; xiv, 19; Ps. cxix, 105; Prov. iv, 25-27; Neh. ix, 19; Isa. xl, 25-31; lvii, 11, 12; Matt. xxvii, 19-20; Luke i, 76-79; Josh. xiv, 1-7.

The Greatest Christian Movement of Modern Times.

The Rev. Hugh Spencer Williams, D. D., pastor of the Court Avenue Presbyterian church, Memphis, Tenn., says that the Christian Endeavor movement has served the church of Christ for twenty-five years, as the tree is known by its fruit, we are ready now to pass clear judgment on the service this great movement has rendered to the church.

One of its beneficent effects that every observer of its operation is sure to observe is the splendid manner in which it has brought the young people of Christendom into harmonious interdenominational co-operation, and this in turn has brought the various denominations much closer together than they were a quarter of a century ago. The society has possibly been one of the most efficient indirect causes of the reunion of the Cumberland Presbyterian church with the Presbyterian church.

But this is not all that it has accomplished. It has quickened the spiritual life of the church and has been a splendid co-worker with the pastors that have understood how to use it. In my own church, for instance, it has been the very life of our midweek prayer meeting in the old downtown city church, in which it had long become a problem, owing to the scattered condition of the congregation in the suburbs of the city, how to maintain this great service of the church, as the older members had long since found it impracticable to leave their homes and attend the midweek prayer meeting.

Two Oft Asked Questions.

These two questions and answers are clipped from a recent issue of the Christian Endeavor World:

Who invented the first Christian Endeavor pin? NEW HAVEN READER.

The design was made by the Rev. Howard B. Grose, D. D., who is now the vice president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor and a trustee from the Baptists.

When, where and by whom was the first Christian Endeavor society started?

NEW HAVEN READER.

It was started on Feb. 2, 1881, in the parsonage of Williston church, Portland, Me., by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D.

WAS ONLY STEALING KISS

Samuel Alamilla Becomes Target for Revolver Bullets.

RUMPUS IN ITALIAN COLONY.

Antonio Bandano and Guiseppe Gimboresco Accused of Shooting—Case Dismissed by Judge Runyon.

Hill street and its immediate vicinity was thrown into hysterics yesterday afternoon when a row at the home of Merlino Santa culminated in the attempted shooting of Samuel Alamilla, a boarder in the Santa home. Alamilla and his alleged assailants, Giuseppe Gimbrosco, and Antonio Bandano, together with Mr. and Mrs. Santa were in court Saturday, the three principals having been arrested by Patrolman Kelley and Detective Sergeant Flynn charged with shooting firearms within the city limits. Judge Runyon discharged the whole crowd as nothing of a criminal nature could be proved against the prisoners.

However, behind the shooting there is a story. According to Santa his daughter was playing the part of emmanuensis to Alamilla and the latter tried to kiss her. The letter she was writing was conveying the information to Alamilla's folks in Italy that he was engaged to marry the girl and asking for the parental blessing. The letter finished Alamilla attempted to exert the prerogative of an accepted lover by kissing his bride-elect. He was caught in the act and a wrong interpretation being put on Alamilla's act the shooting followed.

Miss Merlina Santa declared that the only thing her would-be lover did was to attempt to steal a kiss and that none of the others had cause to raise such a row. The cause of the shooting came out in her testimony. Some one saw Alamilla attempt to steal the kiss and yelled out something in Italian which brought the whole household clamoring around the room where the pair were reading the letter. Alamilla was grabbed and hustled down stairs to the kitchen, where he was surrounded by the irate father and mother of the girl, and the rest of the boarders.

Santa telephoned to the police and while awaiting the wagon attempted to hold the prisoner who escaped through the kitchen window and as he was running up along the railroad bank two shots were fired at him neither taking effect. It was impossible to identify the shooter and those who were searched carried no arms.

Alamilla was advised to change his boarding place, but it looked this morning as if he were reluctant to leave his lady love who is a petite brunette about seventeen years old and evidently very much in love.

HIGH HONOR COMES TO REV. MR. MAGUIRE

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, has been invited to deliver the annual address before the nurses of St. Barnabas' Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest in New York on Sunday, January 8. The address last year was delivered by the late Bishop Potter. This is a singularly high honor for Mr. Maguire as it seldom falls to the lot of a minister of any other denomination than that such a function in an Episcopal church.

St. Barnabas' guild is a society in the Episcopal Church in America composed of trained nurses who are communicants of the church. The New York branch includes more than 300 members all of whom are pledged to attend this annual service.

LITERARY

Price Collier recently returned to New York after a long absence, having spent about a year in India and the Far East, and then made a journey to South America. Mr. Collier's book, "England and the English from an American Point of View," opened to him the doors of the ruling class in India, and he has written for Scribner's Magazine a striking series of articles beginning in January on "The West in the East," particularly England's rule in India, and with special reference to America's own problems as a power in Eastern affairs.

Woman's Love of Dress.

The real defense for women in their growing love for dress seems to us to be this, that dress is a recreation, and one natural recreations which grow out of necessity and out of everlasting emotions. It is nothing against a recreation that the frivolous rich suffer from overindulgence in it, or the frivolous poor from the craving for it which has its roots in privation. The love of dress among women—especially, we think, in its modern manifestations, which emphasizes variety—makes, we believe, for social balance.—London Spectator.

PLAINFIELD WAS ONLY GAIN 33 PER CENT

Plainfield's Growth Greater in Proportion Than North Plainfield.

MANY ARE DISAPPOINTED.

Some Believe the Real Total Here is Near 25,000—Somerville Makes a Poor Showing—Westfield's Remarkable Gain.

According to the official figures, as announced yesterday, Plainfield's population is 20,550, which means that the increase in the last ten years has been over thirty-three per cent. The advance was greater during the first five years for since 1905 the advance made in inhabitants is a trifle over eleven per cent.

Plainfield's gain has been much larger than North Plainfield, the percentage of gain during the decade in the borough being twenty-two. During the last five years, the comparison is also greatly in the city's favor, for since 1905 North Plainfield's increase has been only seven per cent., 317 more people in that borough than there were ten years ago. Then the population was 4,843 and now it is 5,060. This means a gain of but four per cent.

Rahway, in Union county, has gained approximately nineteen per cent., a remarkable showing. In 1900 it had 7,935 and now it has 9,337.

In 1900, Westfield township had a population of 4,328. Now the town of Westfield has 5,420 inhabitants. This indicates an increase of forty-eight per cent., the record for the county at least.

The gain in the last five years has been greater than that of Plainfield proportionately, for in five years ago Westfield had 5,265 inhabitants. Its gain since then has been approximately twenty-two per cent.

The announcement for Plainfield caused great disappointment here. It was generally expected that the city contained at least 25,00 inhabitants, and many cannot be convinced that the census bureau at Washington, D. C., has not made a serious mistake in its tabulations. Postmaster Elias H. Bird, who is in a position to get a definate line on population figures, said today that he was positive that an error had been made somewhere. He feels certain that the population is over 25,000.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane shared the postmaster's views but he says that even his figures are far low. He estimates that the population here is nearer 30.000 than 20,000 and is surely over 25,000. Another man who is in a position to make some good guesses is William R. Causebrook, manager of the P. S. C.'s local electric light and gas department. He considers that there must be some mistake in the statistics given out at Washington and is strongly inclined to believe that the city contains nearly 25,000 inhabitants. At the Board of Health office, is was said that they had considered that Plainfield had over 23,00 population at the last census.

Miss Jeanne Montgomery Sites received the five dollar gold piece this morning for making the nearest guess.

	1910.	1900.
Asbury Park	19,150	4,148
Bridgeton	14,209	13,913
Burlington	9,736	6,253
Garfield	19,213	3,504
Gloucester	9,462	6,449
Hackensack	14,050	9,443
Irvington	11,877	6,255
Kearny	14,853	10,596
Long Branch	13,298	8,872
Millville	12,451	10,543
Montclair	21,550	13,962
Morristown	12,267	11,267
Phillipsburg	13,902	10,052
Plainfield	20,550	15,369
Rahway	9,337	7,935
Union	21,023	15,187
West New York	15,560	9,267
West Orange	10,880	6,889
Burlington	9,736	7,253
Vineland	9,466	6,955
Guttenburg	5,647	2,325
Hammonton	5,656	3,451
Nutley	6,009	3,682
Princeton	6,396	6,399
Redbank	7,398	5,428
Ridgewood	5,418	2,685
Roosevelt	1,784
Salem	6,814	5,811
Somerville	5,060	4,843
South Amboy	7,067	6,249
South Orange	6,498	4,691
Summit	7,560	5,302
Vineland	5,282	4,870
Westfield	6,420

A Straining Bag.

A flannel straining bag is a necessity in any kitchen where jellies are prepared. Instead of investing in an expensive strainer, an excellent substitute may be made of ordinary flannel, which should first of all be hemmed neatly and then soaked and wrung out in boiling water. When it is ready to use hold inside a large bowl and the fruit or liquid jelly poured into it. The four ends of the flannel should then be tied together and a string passed through the knots. The bag can then be suspended over a bowl by means of a couple of chains and left to drain slowly until all the liquid has passed through. A blanket should be thrown over the top in cold weather, so as to prevent the jelly from setting too soon.

WILSON WHIRLWIND TOUR

Governor - Elect to Dash Through State in the Interest of James E. Martine.

Dr. Woodrow Wilson will start out on January 4 as the Governor of New Jersey on a whirlwind dash through nearly all the counties of the State in an effort to crush every chance of the election of James Smith, Jr., of Newark, to be United States Senator. At the same time he will with all the force and eloquence at his command, attempt to convince the newly elected legislators that James E Martine, of this city, having received the majority of votes in the primary election should be given the people a chance to express their choice of a man for the Senatorship, is the person who ought to be sent to the national capital.

Dr. Wilson's tactics will be practically the same as those used by Governor Foss of Massachusetts, to bring about the defeat of Senator Lodge, and all of his preparations presage a battle that will attract national attention, his friends said last night.

Although it has been known since Dr. Wilson was elected Governor that he would make a fight against Mr. Smith who aims to succeed John Kean, the extent of the campaign to be waged by the Governor was not known until last night, when in a letter he had written to Assemblyman Joseph P. Tumulty, of Jersey City, he announced his program.

From now until the first of the year, the Governor-elect announced, he will grant interviews to all men who wish to see him with reference to his determination, and he will hear both sides. Then, no matter what sentiment he finds, he will make himself heard and felt on the subject from Bergen to Cape May.

It will be learned the Governor-elect states in plain terms that he is irrevocably committed to the cause of Mr. Martine as against Mr. Smith, and he declares he will exhaust every honorable means to keep Mr. Smith from succeeding Senator John Kean's successor.

Indications are that many of the Democratic Assemblymen-elect in New Jersey are in sympathy with Dr. Wilson and that he will have a substantial following. Mr. Smith, however, is not without support in important localities. Robert Davis, the Democratic leader of Hudson county, came out in his favor in an open letter. Hudson county has thirteen representatives in the Legislature, and it is believed by some Democrats that these, with support from the Essex county delegation, a large part of which is already pledged to Mr. Smith can select Mr. Martine's opponent.

Dr. Wilson last night had five Assemblymen of Essex county at his home in Princeton for a three hour conference. The Essex county men were the ones who invited Mr. Smith to run for the Senate, and last night's conference was for the purpose of attempting to win them over to Mr. Martine. Dr. Wilson would say nothing as to whether they had changed their views. The Assemblymen let it be understood that they had not done so.

The legislators were James P. Mylaod, Charles W. Brown, Frank A. Boettner, William P. Macksey and Edward D. Ballantine. Dr. Wilson, it is known, is a strong friend of party fidelity to a party policy. The five men are regarded as being the most likely of the eleven Essex Assemblymen to turn to Mr. Martine, according to the primary election.

Other delegations to visit Dr. Wilson at the Hotel Collingwood, Newark, today.

Dr. Wilson's next and probably the most important step in his campaign will be the issuance of a statement of the direct primary law. It will be made public tomorrow afternoon. It is understood it will be an answer to the criticism that has been directed against the Governor-elect since he came out against Mr. Smith, and that will engage the attention of some Republicans, such as John W. Griggs, who attacked him in a letter recently and Joseph G. Cannon, Speaker, who made fun of Dr. Wilson at a banquet an Saturday night last.

Dr. Wilson last night made emphatic denial to a report in Mr. Smith's Newark newspaper to the effect that he had suggested Mr. Smith as a compromise candidate.

Singificance was attached to the announcement yesterday that Assemblyman Edward A. Keasny, of Hudson county, the leading candidate for election as Speaker, is for Mr. Martine. He says that he was for the primary expresion of choice for United States Senator before the campaign and that he is still of the same mind.

According to the poll of the Democratic members of the incoming Legislature, Senators and Assemblymen, made by a Newark newspaper, seventeen have announced themselves as for the direct primary principle and Mr. Martine's eleven, the Essex county delegation to the Assembly, have publicly declared for Mr. Smith.

Protecting Hubby.

Litti Hubby—It's only fools that get married.

Big Wife—That's how Providence looks after them.

Little Hubby—How?

Big Wife—By giving them wives to care for them.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF THE NATIVITY IN THE CHURCHES AND SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Christain Flocks in the City and Borough Observe the Feast of Christmas, Superb Music and Stirring Sermons Being Heard by Worshippers.

Plainfield congregations have probably never listened to better or more varied music than that which the various choirs of the city presented to them Sunday morning and evening. The programs were replete with standard works and without exception the selections were beautifully sung.

The handsomely decorated interior of Holy Cross church was a fine setting for the three services which were given on Sunday morning and the excellent program of Christmas music prepared by Organist and Choirmaster Will O'Brien was finely sung, the solo work in the anthems being remarkably well done. The same may be said of the music at Grace P. E. church, where Organist and Choirmaster S. Frederick Smith maintained the usual high standard of excellence for which his choir is noted. William and Bert Tallamy and Master Carlyle Wright were the soloists.

At the Church of the Heavenly Rest an unusually difficult program was rendered by the vested choir under the direction of Alan Babcock, choirmaster, and Miss Laura Long, organist. The services in this pretty little church were well attended, both morning and evening. The children's services, which were held at 9:45 o'clock in the morning, were especially well attended and showed a remarkable increase in membership over last year.

St. Stephen's church in the Netherwood district turned out a large congregation to greet the new pastor, Rev. Elroy G. Bowers, whose first sermon was preached in this church on the previous Sunday morning. Mrs. R. L. Hecht sang the offertory solo with much feeling and expression.

At the Crescent Avenue.

At the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church an elaborate program of music pleased immense audiences both morning and evening, the feature of the music being the rendition of numbers from Saint-Saen's Christmas oratorio, under the direction of Alexander Russell, organist and choirmaster. Mr. Russell is in charge of the music department of John Wanamaker's in New York and his selections are invariably of a high order and made with intelligence. This quartet has always exulted in singing and evening success and Sunday was no exception to the rule. Assisted by an additional singer, Miss Kitty Bammion, mezzo-soprano, of New York, the evening music was everything that could be desired.

First Presbyterian Church.

At the First Presbyterian church the feature of the morning service was the singing of a Christmas cantata by Harker. This is written in nine parts from the prophesy of the coming of Christ until the birth of the Saviour. This cantata was admirably rendered and invoked warm approval from the large congregation present. In the evening the program consisted of four anthems in which Miss Elizabeth P. DeCant, soprano, had the greater part of the work to do. That she did it well goes without saying. Miss DeCant has a beautiful flexible voice of great range and power and it may be said that none of the power is obtained at the expense of its sweetness. Particularly was this noticed in the recitative in Shelley's Star of the Orient, which Miss DeCant rendered with admirable taste and expression. Charles P. Titsworth's rendition of Neidlinger's The Birthday of the King was pleasing and true. Mrs. Mason and Mr. MacGowan were splendid in their parts.

At 10 o'clock in the morning the Sunday school took part in a simple program. There was a song by the school, prayer by LeRoy H. Gates, superintendent. The beginners' department in charge of Mrs. George A. Ballentyne, gave recitations and songs and the primary department in charge of Miss Ella Lounsbury, as well as members of the Sunday school classes taught by Allen E. Beals gave recitations and songs. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor, gave a short talk on Palestine and Miss Elizabeth DeCant sang a solo.

Presbyterian Sunday-schools.

A union service, including the Sunday-schools of Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Hope chapel, Warren and Bethel chapels, completely filled the main auditorium and galleries of the Crescent Avenue edifice Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at which the pastors of the various congregations were present and Superintendent G. H. Condict, of Hope chapel, in charge of that large school. A program of responsive readings, music, carols and recitations was given, as follows: Organ prelude, hymn, A Day of Days; responsive reading, led by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie; prayer, by Rev. F. D. Tilden, pastor of Bethel chapel; hymn, Welcome to the Happy Morning; responsive reading, led by G. H. Condict, superintendent of Hope chapel; hymn, Wonderful Night; singing by the pupils of Bethel chapel, Tidings of Comfort and Joy; hymn, Shine Bethlehem Star; exercises by children of Warren chapel, consisting of recitations and songs; hymn, In Judea's Field Abiding; offertory solo, Martin A. Korff, followed by prayer by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel.

Exercises by the children of Hope chapel followed the offering; consisting of several interesting recitations and an exercise by eight little girls; hymn, Beautiful Starlight of Heaven; exercises by Crescent Avenue Sunday-school pupils, consisting of the four seasons represented by thirteen little girls and their queen to which the seasons brought their tributes and products. The exercise came to a close with the singing of the hymn, Christ's Coming, by the entire congregation. Rev. J. O. McKelvey pronounced the benediction. Alexander Russell, the church organist, was assisted by the regular Sunday-school orchestra in accompanying the singing.

First Baptist Church.

The Christmas service at the First Baptist church, Sunday morning, was unusually pleasing, the chorus choir being assisted by the Schill String Quartet, of Newark, and added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion. Howard M. Case, organist and choirmaster, was in charge of the musical program. The Sunday school occupied seats in the gallery and sang Christmas carols. The work of the chorus choir was especially good, while the solo work of Miss Ruth Harris, soprano; Miss Hazel Hatfield, contralto; William Holmes, baritone, and George Smith, tenor, was up to the usual high standard. The program comprised several anthems by the choir and special numbers by the string quartet, accompanied by the organ. The entire program will be repeated next Sunday night, with the assistance of the Schill quartet. There was no evening service at this church.

Trinity Reformed.

At Trinity Reformed church on Christmas morning special music was finely rendered by the choir under the leadership of the organist and choirmaster, A. L. Titsworth. An excellent Christmas sermon on the conception, birth and life of the Saviour was preached by Rev. J. T. Shock. The pulpit platform and font were tastefully and handsomely decorated with Xmas greens, while a beautiful vase of flowers decorated the communion table.

The evening service, in charge of the Sunday-school, included exercises by the beginners, and primary and primary departments, in charge of Mrs. J. M. Tier. An orchestra composed of D. D. Dougherty, flute; Fred Borrup, violin; Edward Guest and E. D. Young, cornets, and Miss May Randolph, piano, furnished the music. The children sang well, but the absence of the pipe organ was noticeable. Horace J. Martin acted as precentor. Rev. Mr. Shock made a short address in which he made plain to the children in their simple way how blessed it is to give than to receive. Superintendent F. E. Smith read the Scripture lesson.

In the beginners department "Little Christmas Candles" was recited by Edna Schlief, Harry Mesler, Evelyn Krymer, Earl Wyman, Edward Kellogg and Dorothy Giles, while Charles Hurst gave greetings. The junior department program was: Song, "Twas Christmas Day;" violin solo, Charles Todd, of Dunellen; exercise, "Our Kings;" twenty-four boys and girls as follows: Edna Smith, Esther Kellogg, Marjorie Storr, Margaret Smith, Helen McAfee, Helen Hand, Ellen Shyrback, Hazel McCrady, Russel Sears, Howard Willett, Harry Schlief, Arthur Laurie, Laura Smith, Marion Blair, Harriet Higgins, Helen Thompson, Theodore Vail, Grace Sowden, Vera McCrady, Helen Wooley, Charles Todd, Alfred Willett, Roy MacIntyre and Elmer Seams. They concluded with the singing of "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

The primary department program consisted of: Exercise, "Once," Robert Blair, Edward Andrews, Arthur Miles, John Mehlenbeck, Arthur Krymer and John Sutton. Recitation, "Christmas Is Here," Helen Lake; recitation, "What to Tell the Children," Dorothy VanWinkle; recitation, "My King," Mabel Bodine; recitation, "My Christmas Gifts," Gertrude Rittenhouse; cornet solo, Dorothy Stedeker; song, "Don't You Tell," Dorothy Ross; recitation, "Auntie Brown's Shopping Advice," Alma Allegar; song, "The Chiming Bells;" exercise, "Winter Time," Dennis Harrison, Sylvia Smith, Helen Willett, Dorothy Ross; song, "If You Don't Know the Password, Smile," Earle Cook, Alfred Townley, Warren Kellogg, Carl Schlief, Cecil McAfee, Benjamin Denise and Alfred Denise.

Greetings were sent by the pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek, who is at the bedside of his mother at Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Park Avenue Baptist.

Sunday was a particularly interesting day for the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school. The morning was marked by several features which combined to make the occasion one of unusual interest. It was a day of giving to the Plainfield day nursery, and in response to the appeal of the superintendent, George E. Hall, a large supply of provisions, toys, games, etc., were brought in by the school for that institution. The offering received amounted to over $35. It was also given to the nursery.

Following the study of the lesson, the school took up the rehearsal of their Christmas carols, after which Mr. Hall spoke of the work of their blackboard artist, Charles Van Winkle, whose talent adds so much attractiveness to the weekly session.

The entire elementary department marched in unison and into the main school, the fifty or more children seating themselves about the platform, and before Mr. Hall could recover from his surprise, Deacon Theodore I. Runyon, expressed the appreciation and love which the entire school feel for their superintendent. He referred to the unceasing efforts of Mr. Hall to increase the efficiency of the school; to his generous expenditure of time, energy and money, all so freely given for the advancement of the work. Mr. Runyon on behalf of the officers and teachers, presented to Mr. Hall a handsome automobile clock. After Mr. Hall had expressed his appreciation, the school sang one verse of "Tiles Be Like That Binds."

Arthur Mosher, leader of the Sunday-school orchestra, and in remarks suited to the occasion, presented to the superintendent a picture of the orchestra, handsomely framed. Once more the entire audience arose, and sang about the tie that binds us our Christian love, and it did seem as though officers, teachers and pupils were members of one big family, sharing each other's joys and sorrows. Mr. Hall presented to every officer and teacher a calendar for the new year; and to every member of the school an attractive card containing interesting printed matter regarding the work of the several departments.

The Christmas program was given in the church auditorium in the evening at 7:30, before an audience that more than filled the auditorium, it being necessary to seat a large number of people in the Sunday-school room. The exercises were as published in The Daily Press of Saturday. Music was a feature of the program, and the carols were sung with a spirit rarely equaled by this school. An orchestra of twelve pieces, under the leadership of Arthur S. Mosher, and including Miss Mary Clark at the piano, and Robert Humpston at the cornet, rendered a number of selections of their own, in addition to accompanying all the singing by the school. Another feature of the program was the talk by the pastor, Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire. In his own pleasing way, he told the children the Christmas story; he has visited the town of Bethlehem, so that what he said about the inn, the manger, the shepherds, the wise men, and the star—certainly had particular interest and to be found in books. He showed the audience how the ordinary shepherd dresses over in the Holy Land; he gave the peculiar cry of the shepherd calling his sheep—and then he told how, when he visited the shepherds, he had put on their dress, and taking their staff in hand, had attempted to give their cry to the sheep, expecting of course the entire flock would follow him. Imagine his surprise, therefore, when not a single sheep raised his head because they did not recognize in his cry the voice of their shepherd.

First M. E. Church.

In addition to the elaborate Christmas programs at the First M. E. church, Sunday morning and evening, the Sunday school held interesting exercises in the afternoon in Vincent chapel. James R. Joy, superintendent of the school, was in charge of the program, assisted by the teachers. Mrs. Thomas MacDonald had charge of the program for the primary department, it being as follows:

Christmas Greeting, Ellsworth Runyon; exercise, Ralph Williamson, Margaret Evans, Haywood Webster, Gertrude Joy; recitations, Margaret Dunavan and Howard Fisher; song, primary choir, Thora Vail, Ella Vail, Warren Moyer Helen Western, Carry Creager, Janet Marchant, Russell Huff, Thelma Dawson, Arthur McVoy, Genedia Longcor, Bessie Randall, Roswell Ewart, Myrtle Harrell, Joseph Glover, Russell Lyne; recitations, Mildred Dunn, Thelma Dawson, Roswell Ewart.

The beginners' department in charge of Miss Edna French, teacher, and the cradle roll also had simple exercises and Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor, made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion.

Temple Baptist Church.

The Sunday school of the Temple Baptist church held its special Christmas exercises Sunday night, when under the direction of Superintendent Rudolph Kuehnle, the program was followed: Opening selection, choir; carol, school; greetings, Christmas Greeting, Harold Wilson; A Christmas Wish, Freddie Berg; song, intermediate department chorus; solo, Hazel Todd; recitation, Well Rose; solo, Beautiful Starlight, Alice Huff; recitation, A Gift, Helen Waidron; solo If I Could Be a Christmas Tree, Richard Mellick; recitation, A Glad Little Girl, Jessie Campbell; recitation, On Christmas Day, Eva Cartwright; recitation, Come Sing a Song for Christmas, Harry Winn, Willie Cartwright, John Mason and Roscoe Campbell; recitation, A Christmas Gift, Gussie Montrose, Mabel Montrose; recitation, Great Expectation, Isabel Campbell; A Song of Christmas, Catherine Harper; carol, school; recitations, God Bless us All, Elizabeth Harper; My Christmas Gift Lillian Hop, Flossy Boughton and Kenneth Boughton; duet, Tell the Glad Song, Grace Blake, Alice Huff; selection, choir; remarks, Rev J. W. Musson; carol, school; benediction, Rev. J. W. Musson.

The service in the morning was of a special character and the pastor, Mr. Musson, preached a strong sermon. The church was attractively decorated for the occasion.

Grace M. E. Church.

The members of Grace M. E. Sunday-school held their Christmas exercises Sunday afternoon. The program was in charge of Superintendent W. J. Conroy and comprised recitations, dialogues and carols by the different departments. A short address was made by Rev. Ora Jerome Shoop. The carols were trained by Miss Mary Steiner.

Netherwood Reformed Church.

The Netherwood Reformed church was filled at both services on Sunday and an attractive program of music was rendered by a quartet choir under the direction of Miss Lillian Sage. The singers were Miss Maude Berry, soprano; Mrs. S. O. Rice, contralto; George Stout, tenor, and Mr. Stevenson, bass.

Rev. Royal A. Stout, the pastor, preached morning and evening on topics relating to the Christmas season. Sunday-school exercises will be held tomorrow night at the church. The handsome decorations which festooned the interior of the edifice on Sunday will be retained for these exercises.

Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church.

Large congregations attended the Christmas services at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, Sunday. The music was excellent and the pastor, Rev. J. T. Diggs, preached a good sermon from Matt. 2:10. The electric star he used in the decorations was designed by Alfred P. White. It was also used at the Sunday school exercises last night. Mrs. E. D. Grobes and T. B. Dyett rendered great assistance to Superintendent E. B. Maynard in training the children. The tree was pleasing to the children and Santa Claus afforded much amusement. The pastor was not forgotten by his Bible class, as well as the church Alfred P. White played the organ at each service.

DR. SAMUEL AYERS' BURIAL HILLSIDE TUESDAY.

Dr. Samuel Ayers, aged about 65 years, a well-known former Plainfielder, and for a great many years principal of one of the grammar schools in New York city, will be buried in Hillside cemetery today, his death having occurred at his late home in New York city on Friday last.

Dr. Ayers was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William C. Ayers, of Central West Second, who were among the early residents of the city. He spent his early life here and then prepared for his life work of teacher, in which he was successful. He was considered an authority on certain subjects and was honored and respected by all who knew him. He was a man of strong character and exceptional ability, which was recognized by some of the foremost educators of this part of the country. He is survived by his wife and a sister, Mrs. S. A. Robinson, of Sandford avenue.

SALVATION ARMY XMAS FREE FOR CHILDREN.

The Salvation Army wants all boys and girls who were slighted or overlooked by Santa Claus to call at the local barracks today or tomorrow and receive a ticket for the Christmas tree entertainment which will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The affair promises to be one of the best affairs ever given by the local corps. The children of the army Sunday school will give an entertainment for the poor children, while Martin A. Korff with several musicians will furnish a fine program. Santa Claus will be there with heaps of good things for the boys and girls

MAYOR-ELECT'S BROTHER JOHN L. MOY, IS DEAD.

John L. Moy, brother of Mayor-elect George W. V. Moy, died at his home, 277 Garside street, Newark, on Sunday, aged forty-seven years. The cause of death was a muscular atrophy. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Carrie A. Moy, and his father, Fred A. Moy.

The funeral services will be held at the house tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. Interment will be made at Fairview cemetery, Red Bank.

Play By Hebrew Pupils.

Pupils of the Y. M. H. A. Hebrew school will give a play and entertainment at the Y. M. H. A. auditorium, Sunday evening, January 1. At that time prizes will be presented to the pupils by members of the school board for excellence in studies.

SILK BLOUSES.

Taffeta Has Given Way to Better Fitting Materials.

Buttons, Braids and Lace Used In Profusion Tend to Bring Out Very Decided Effects.

How different are the silk blouses of today from those of a few seasons ago! The stiff taffeta has been replaced by an attractive, good fitting style that shows silk in its most attractive colors, trimmed in clever ways and so designed that a tailored suit is instantly changed into a three piece gown. There are no straight silk collars to absorb the oil from the skin; there are no lines at the shoulder seams that verily hide the graceful figure under unnecessary folds.

Simplicity, attractive ornamentation of braid and buttons and the popular chemisettes of lace to insure freshness at the yoke and sleeves are the main factors that contribute to the importance that blouses have attained in the field of woman's dress.

Let us take, for instance, a blouse of plain dark blue satin. It is trimmed with a shallow yoke of lighter blue satin—nattier blue—covered in easily stitched lines of soutache. Cuffs of this trimming edge the three-quarter length sleeves and the flaring collar extends over the bodice. Collars and subcuffs are of lace. These are most satisfactory if made on a linen or batiste lining, making a change of guimpes possible and lessening the wear on lace collars.

The is a great vogue for white satin in Paris. For women to whom colors are not becoming the soft white silk is suggested for afternoon wear. A white silk blouse with a military touch of dull silver braid and buttons is another valuable idea. These outline the shoulder seam and form a shield at the front. A tiny bow of black is caught at the collar line, the long ends reappearing at buttonholes below the yoke. Braid and buttons are used on the cuffs.

Dull crepe de chine in a soft gray in combination with silver lace and braid makes a beautiful blouse. The sleeves should be made bell shaped and buttons trimmed. This calls for white muslin to form the collar and yoke. A touch of silver lace is used to outline the rounded top edge.

In our fourth idea black and white are given one more opportunity to join hands for the season's modish alliance. Here a white crepe de chine blouse is to be worn with a black velvet suit. A square yoke and straight bands for the sleeves are of tucked black chiffon or mousseline. A collar and cuffs of lisle lace are added, while six dull jet buttons are used on the front. If you wish a touch of color you may use the shaded enamel buttons that cost much, but can be worn over and over again.

If you have just a little piece of material left after the coat and jacket are made you may use it for a blouse over a foundation of all over lace, cream or dyed to match the fabric. A shield shaped front should be stitched and applied. The sides are curved almost like the lines of a bolero and the coat sleeves pieced out with lace. Here is the chance to use an old lace waist.

Dark green liberty silk is used in the model which is here illustrated. Velvet outlines the yoke that is cut in a modified line at the front over ecru lace. The buttons are of dull silver, placed on each side of the front and on the outer edge of each sleeve.

A silk waist from a little remnant is quite possible, and its becomingness is undeniable.

Filling Sachets.

Fill the tiny bags with a mixed powder of iris and heliotrope and add a few peppercorns, which will both preserve the perfumed powder and bring out its sweet scent

THE SAILOR COLLAR.

Embroidered Linen is Mostly Seen In Connection With This Popular Adornment.

The popularity of the satin sailor collar on the jackets of this winter has started girls to making lingerie collars in the same shape for their one piece frocks and blouses.

Lace, especially Irish crochet, is not as first class as it was. We are rather tired of it in the form of endless collars. The embroidered linen ones are considered newer, and when well done they are exceedingly pretty.

If a girl wants something dainty for Christmas she will find them acceptable gifts. The new sailor collar differs from the old one in that it does not reach the armhole. It is longer than it is wide, and many reach halfway to the waist line.

The linen that has a faint tint of age, as though it had yellowed in a cedar chest, is the best kind to use for these collars. The deep ivory tone is considered better than dead white. The embroidery is dainty, even if done in the Chinese fashion.

The edges are not scalloped, but overcast with a heavy buttonhole stitch. Some are bound with black satin. These have square fronts and when worn are finished with a cravat of satin or velvet ribbon.

It will remain the fashion to go without the stock, and these wide collars are a graceful adjunct to a dark gown.

KNITTED GOODS.

Three Piece Costumes, Consisting of Cap, Gloves and Sweater Coat, Are the Latest Vogue.

There is at present a vogue of knitted goods. The latest fancy is the three piece costume, consisting of cap, gloves and sweater coat. This is intended primarily for skating etc., but will be worn this winter even on the street. The coats are very long, with deep pockets and with leather revers and turnback cuffs.

Among caps there are the tam-o'-shanter and the capuchin types, the latter buttoning in front and having a warm little cape that fits about the neck and shoulders.

Even knitted skirts are not unknown and are a joy forever to the happy autumn golfer. All these garments are made to fit rather snugly and do not require belts or any other form of extra fastening. Gray, white, brown and green are the favorite colors.

If you know how to knit or can learn how here is the way to make yourself a pretty and fashionable set for winter that will be warmth itself when warmth is most desired.

Ruffles on Skirts.

The prevalence of the tunic and the overskirt has given rise to a modification of these in the shape of circular ruffles extending from waist to ankles. This is quite in the old style of several years back, but somehow combines fluffiness with simplicity and maintains the tight and narrow skirt announced for this fall and winter. Usually five ruffles are used on a skirt. Sometimes these are plain; again they are edged or veiled with chiffon or tulle. This style is becoming to every one but the short, stout woman, who should beware of it.

To Try the Iron.

Keep on your ironing board a large folded piece of unbleached muslin on which to try the hot iron. If the muslin scorches it does not matter, and it is easy to supply a new piece when the old is burnt through. You will rejoice in the saving on the cover of your ironing board.

TRIMMED WITH WIDE RIBBON

The extreme simplicity of this little dinner frock does not give even an idea of the rich colors used in the model, for the material is gold satin charmeuse with a glint of olive green. The embroidered bands are in a green gold tone, and the velvet ribbon used in bretelle and sash effects is a shade darker than the satin of the frock.

In the square decolletage gold colored chiffon is set; this is laid over flesh colored chiffon to produce the effect of a deep decolletage, though as a matter of fact such a deep yoke could scarcely be worn without a lining of some sort.

HUNGARIANS IN BRAWL

Christmas Celebration Culminates in Serious Altercation.

TWO MEN ARE INJURED.

Chief Kiely and Three Patrolmen Have Hands Full in Making Arrest—Injured Man In Hospital.

Five Hungarians are being held at police headquarters and one other is at Muhlenberg Hospital badly cut up and in a serious condition as a result of a Christmas brawl at 951 St. Mary's avenue on Sunday night. The five are John Chabak, 847 North avenue; Andrew Chabak, a cousin of the first named, 847 North avenue; Andrew Chabak, another cousin; John Dino, 535 East Third street; George Harker, 951 St. Mary's avenue; Michael Dino, 915 St. Mary's avenue. The man in the hospital is Joseph Kotschic. Dino was arrested in North Plainfield yesterday afternoon, the others having been taken to headquarters at 1 o'clock on Monday morning after a fight with Chief of Police Kiely and four patrolmen.

Chief Kiely was aroused from his bed by the noise of screaming people running past his house on East Fifth street. Donning his clothes, Chief Kiely made his way to the street, where he was joined by Patrolman Messler and together they followed up the noise makers.

Arriving at the St. Mary's avenue house they found two men locked in a death grip and fighting all over the lot. Upstairs in the house Kotschic was found lying in a pool of blood unconscious and with his head and face beaten almost to a pulp. At this time Patrolmen McGinley and McCarthy joined the chief and Messler and between the four, after a prolonged struggle, the four men were arrested. All were brought to headquarters where an inquiry was begun to discover if possible who had wounded Kotschic. Up to this morning nothing in the way of information had been elicited from any of the prisoners as no one will tell who wielded the weapons with which the two men were injured.

Dino, who was arrested yesterday afternoon, has four severe stab wounds, one in the head and the others on the shoulder and right arm. He was attended by City Physician Lufburrow in a cell immediately after the arrest was made. Dr. Pittis had already attended the wounds of Kotschic and the latter had been removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, where it was said this morning that he was suffering severely from shock but would be unable to go to the hospital today. Winfield S. Anglemman has been retained by the five men to look after their interests.

DR. HERZL CLUB CELEBRATES JEWISH HISTORICAL VICTORY

About forty members and guests of the Dr. Herzl Zion Club assembled Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in Y. M. H. A. auditorium to celebrate Hannuch, which commemorates the victory of the Maccabeans over the Syrian king, Antiochus Epiphanes, 160 before the Christian era. This festival is characterized by lighting the candles beginning with one on the first evening and increasing the number by one each evening until eight have been lighted.

Papers on the subject were read by some of the members and short addresses given by Dr. Kopelowitz, D. G. Zeidel and Henry Rosenbaum. A banquet followed the speeches. The officers of the club are: President, L. Kunzman; vice president, A. Paradise; secretary, H. Friedman, and treasurer, M. Siegel.

COLORED MAN IS FINED FOR BEATING HIS WIFE.

Hill Condict and his wife, Amelia, both colored, were arraigned Monday morning before Judge William N. Kunyon in the city court on charges of disturbing the peace. Amelia was discharged and her husband was fined ten dollars with the privilege of becoming a guest of the county in default of payment.

The couple live in the rear of 520 West Third street and last evening shortly before 7 o'clock the neighborhood was aroused by screams, emanating from the yard of that dwelling, pitched in a treble key. Detective Sergeant P. Flynn investigated the disturbance and found the woman trying to stop a flow of blood from her nose which was caused, so she alleged, from a blow given her by her spouse. The reason he struck her she could not give and as Condict refused to enlighten the court the fine was imposed. Mrs. Condict declared that her husband was insanely jealous of her and that during their ten years of married life had been constantly abusing her.

Weather Comparison.

A year ago the street cleaning department was having the time of its life trying to clean the streets of this city from a fall of snow that had been of blizzard proportions. To be exact twelve inches of snow covered the ground the fall beginning on Christmas Day and continuing for twenty-four hours.